Every operator using a double lantern knows the trouble he has to get the lower lines of the two fields parallel to each other. In the top lantern at bottom of the slide carrier is a thumb screw by means of which the slide carrier can be tilted so as to bring the lines of the top picture parallel with those of the lower lantern. Only those who have used a double lantern can appreciate the value of this device.

The material used in the construction of the Leader lantern, the high grade workmanship, the style, the finish, convenience of operating and the many points of superiority all combine to make it "The Leader."

FOR CALCIUM LIGHT.

Price: Leader double dissolving lantern, two improved slide carriers, two No. 3 inner tube calcium jets, low pressure dissolving key, 18 feet rubber tubing, two ½ size best Bausch and Lomb large barrel objective lenses with No. 1 carrying case, $120.00.

This is known as Double Leader No. 1.

If a high pressure key is desired in place of the low pressure key, add $20.00 to above price.

FOR ELECTRIC LIGHT.

Price: Leader double dissolving lantern, two improved slide carriers, two Monarch electric burners, electric dissolver, two ½ size best Bausch and Lomb large barrel objective lenses, two No. 1 Wonder rheostats, two switches, one fuse block, 20 ft., flexible No. 12 lamp cord, and No. 1 carrying case, $140.00.

This is known as Double Leader No. 2.

If a lantern is purchased for use on the road, 50 to 75 feet of lead wire should be ordered with the outfit. (See index under "Lead Wire.")

The ½ size objective lens, and the No. 1 Wonder rheostats are the most popular for general use, and for this reason we select them in quoting the above prices. But any size or focus objective lens, or any rheostat can be used in place of those quoted by paying the difference in price.

LEADER LANTERN SPECIAL.

This is without question the best, most artistic and beautiful lantern made. The finest material and best workmanship is used in its construction.

The entire lamp house is made of aluminum and hand engraved. The main part or body has soft satin finish, while the engraving is highly polished. Gold and aluminum are the only metals that will not tarnish, therefore this lantern will always retain its brilliancy. The body of lantern is set with the finest imported cut glass jewels, sapphires, rubies, emeralds and opals. When there is a light in the lantern, the brilliancy of these jewels gives a most pleasing effect. The "Leader Special" is not only the most beautiful lantern made but will give the best results that is possible to obtain with any lantern. Everybody will admire it and everybody will praise the high class work it does.

If you want something that will be the envy of your competitor, something that will ever be a source of satisfaction and something that will be a profitable investment, then buy a "Leader Special."

"Judicious advertising means success" and the "Leader Special" will be found a constant, faithful, living advertisement.

PRICE, Leader Special Single Lantern with $\frac{1}{2}$ size large mounting best grade Bausch & Lomb objective lens, $4\frac{1}{2}$ inch condensing lenses, double slide carrier, either monarch electric lamp or No. 3 calcium light burner and No. 1 carrying case \$ 95.00

When ordering specify Leader Special otherwise the regular Leader will be sent. When ordering electric lamp or burner, rheostat or resistance coil is not included. To complete the outfit would require rheostat, fuse block, switch and 10 feet of flexible cable. For general description of Leader Lantern see previous pages.

DUPLEX DISSOLVING LANTERN

PATENT PENDING

This lantern is constructed on a new principle and is an improvement on the regular dissolving electric lantern. The body is wider than the regular lamp house and has two sets of condensing lenses, two bellows, two objective lenses and one burner. By a reflecting mirror and by swinging the burner from one set of condensing lenses to the other, the most perfect electric dissolving is obtained.

The "Duplex" lantern is specially valuable for use with electric light as only one rheostat and one burner is used, and the dissolving effect is superior to what can be obtained with the old style double electric lantern. No dark shadows appear on the screen when the dissolving is done, for as the burner is turned, the light gradually passes from one lens to the other. From the "off" lens, there is some reflected light sufficient to show an outline of the other picture. To cut this off a metal cap is used which is attached to the objective lens. This metal cap is not used for dissolving but simply to cut off the reflected light or image that comes from the other picture. Placing the ordinary cap on the objective lens would serve the same purpose, but we use the metal cap, as it is more convenient and is more serviceable.

DUPLEX WITH CALCIUM LIGHT

Although the lantern is specially adapted for use with electricity, still it can be used with calcium light, but will not give as good results as can be obtained with a double lantern and two tanks of gas. The regular form of dissolving with calcium light is done by turning the gas through the dissolving key from one burner to the other. Since the "Ozo-Carbi" calcium light (described elsewhere in catalog) cannot be used with a regular dissolving key, the "Duplex" lantern can be used for dissolving with this light. For the regular calcium light we would advise the usual form of double lantern, one above the other, using two burners and a dissolving key.

DUPLEX LANTERN WITH ELECTRIC LIGHT

When a regular double dissolving lantern is used with electricity it is necessary to use two arc lights, and to keep them both burning all the time. The dissolving is done by a mechanical device in front of the objective lenses. The majority of electricity used is in the form of alternating current and an arc light with this current is noisy.

When two arc lights are used, the noise often seriously interferes with an entertainment, especially if the lantern is placed down in the audience.

As it requires twice as much current for two arc lights as it does for one, a traveling exhibitor frequently finds the line is not heavy enough or the meter is not large enough to supply the required amount of current for two arc lights.

DUPLEX LANTERN NO. 1

In "Duplex" lantern No. 1, thin or long focused condensing lenses are used. This to some extent reduces the illumination on the screen, but gives a soft light and a clear field, free from any "carbon shadows" or dark spots.

This lantern is specially adapted for churches, lodges, schools or any place where it is not intended to combine the lantern with a moving picture machine. Better results will be obtained by not placing the lantern too far from the curtain. We would not advise more than 40 or 50 feet, especially if alternating current is used.

DUPLEX LANTERN NO. 2

"Duplex" lantern No. 2 is intended to be used only in combination with a moving picture machine and is sold only for that purpose. See index, front part of catalog, "Duplex Lantern and Moving Picture Machine." Should you have a moving picture machine and wish to combine it with the "Duplex" lantern, write us for price, stating name and make of your machine, and if permanently located, distance machine is from curtain, and size of picture wanted.

POINTS OF ADVANTAGE

The "Duplex" lantern, when used with electric light, has the following points of advantage over the old style double dissolving electric lantern:

- 1st. Better dissolving effect on the curtain.
- 2nd. Uses only one arc light.
- 3rd. Consumes less current and less carbons.
- 4th. More simple to operate, inasmuch as there is only one switch, one rheostat and one arc burner.

5th. In combination with the moving picture machine you can dissolve from still to moving and from moving to still pictures.

Price, "Duplex" Dissolving lantern with $\frac{1}{2}$ size best grade large barrel Bausch and Lomb objective lenses, choice of duplex or wonder No. 2, rheostat, electric burner, switch, wire to connect lamp, rheostat and switch, two slide carriers and a carrying case.....\$125.00

This is known as "Duplex Lantern No. 1."

If calcium burner for the "Ozo-Carbi" light is wanted in place of the electric attachments, deduct $8.00 from above price.

REMARKS

We have quoted lantern with $\frac{1}{2}$ size objective lenses simply as an illustration; any other size can be used. For churches, lodges, schools or anyone permanently located, we would advise using the "duplex" rheostat, but if traveling, the wonder No. 2.

When ordering condensing lenses kindly state if they are for "Duplex" No. 1 (lantern only), or "Duplex" No. 2 (lantern combined with moving picture machine). Also state which lens is wanted. If a lodge or church will advise us whether current is alternating or direct, the voltage, distance machine is to be placed from curtain and size of picture wanted, we can not only quote prices, but can furnish an outfit better adapted to meet their requirements. Such is our confidence in the "Duplex" that, for the benefit of those who are in doubt about purchasing a new thing, we make the following proposition: Should anyone order our "Duplex" lantern and, after trying it ten days, think they would prefer one of our regular double lanterns, we will gladly exchange it. Complete instructions sent with each outfit.

DUPLEX LANTERN AND EDISON UNIVERSAL MOVING PICTURE MACHINE

For description of the "Duplex" lantern see index front part of catalog.

This cut shows the "Duplex" dissolving lantern combined with the Edison universal moving picture machine. For the traveling lecturer or exhibitor this will be found the most practical machine on the market. It is the same moving picture machine as is used with the Leader lantern, and has the same improvements. For description of these improvements and points of superiority see "Edison Moving Picture Machine and Leader Lantern."

With this outfit you can dissolve from still to moving and from moving to still pictures. The dissolving is as perfect as though two still pictures were used in a regular dissolving lantern.

To dissolve from still to moving and from moving to still pictures, it is necessary that the lamp house remain permanent, that is, not to slide over. The Edison universal moving picture mechanism always slides over and the lamp house remains permanent.

For a still picture to melt or dissolve into a moving picture, and this moving picture again to dissolve back into a still picture, is something new. The effect is novel, interesting and beautiful. Since slides form an important part of the entertainment, an exhibitor with this style of an outfit will certainly have an advantage over the exhibitor who has the regular single lantern outfit. We would specially recommend this combined outfit to exhibitors who expect to stay more than one night in a place or to play return dates.

Price, Duplex Lantern and Edison Universal Moving Picture Machine, 1,000 ft. reels, best grade large barrel Bausch and Lomb objective lenses, right angle electric burner, choice of Edison or Wonder No. 2, rheostat, electric switch, 10 ft. No. 12 flexible wire to connect lamp, rheostat and switch, and all improvements mentioned on page 38 and 39 except automatic film protector	$179.00
Automatic Film Protector	15.00
Top magazine for reel	10.00
Fire proof box	15.00
Instructions sent with each outfit.

It is not necessary to use the film protector, top magazine and fireproof box, however, in some cities the fire ordinance requires them.

If the film protector is used there is practically no need of either magazine or fire box. The Duplex lantern will probably be made to combine with the Edison Exhibition moving picture mechanism, also with the Power's. If interested, write us for descriptive circular and price.

EDISON MOVING PICTURE MACHINE AND LEADER LANTERN.

IN POSITION FOR STILL PICTURES.

The above cut shows the Edison moving picture machine combined with the Leader lantern. For description of the Leader lantern and its many points of advantage over other lanterns, see index under "Leader Lantern."

The moving picture part of machine with the objective lens for lantern, is on sliding base. The change from still to moving or from moving to still pictures, requires only one movement and can be easily and quickly done. For general use of both moving and still pictures, the "Edison and Leader" is the most practical machine on the market. It has a number of improvements added to the regular Edison moving picture machine, besides the many improvements for still pictures found only in the Leader lantern.

SPECIAL BASE BOARD.

A special baseboard is used for the lantern and moving picture mechanism. This board is longer and wider than the regular board furnished with the Edison machine and gives more room for adjusting the bellows of stereopticon. The board is hinged in the middle for convenience in packing, and has two brass eyelets for the front posts of lantern.

LIGHT SHIELD OR CONE.

This is made of aluminum, funnel shape and is attached to front end of lantern. The object of the light shield is to concentrate the light on the moving picture film and prevent any "side or stray" light from escaping in the room, or from reaching the curtain. This cone is automatic in action and requires no attention of the operator. Sliding the machine over and back raises the cone out of the way for still pictures and allows it to come in position for the moving pictures. This light shield will be found a most valuable improvement, especially when calcium light is used.

IMPROVED CRANK OR HANDLE.

The regular crank or handle furnished with the Edison machine is provided with a slot that fits loosely over a projection on the shaft. While turning the machine the handle frequently slips off this projection, which permits the crank to turn but not the machine. If the machine is provided with our automatic light "cut off," the film cannot be injured, no matter how often the machine stops.

We furnish with the Edison machine a crank provided with a snap spring catch so that it is impossible for the crank to slip off. With this crank the machine is always under perfect control of the operator and an accident of this kind is impossible.

So many serious accidents have occurred by the machine stopping while the light is on the film that many cities have passed a law requiring the crank or handle on all moving picture machines to be securely attached to the shaft so it is impossible for it to slip or become detached while turning the machine.

FRAMING PLATE.

After films have been made for some time they shrink and have both an "up and down" movement as well as a side movement. This vibration or movement is magnified on the curtain and makes the picture unsteady. The appearance is not only bad, but it is also very trying on the eyes. Some films shrink more than others, depending on how well the stock is seasoned before the picture is made.

Every exhibitor has among his list of films some that have shrunk considerably and are very "shaky." This Framing plate largely overcomes this defect and prevents the shaky appearance on the curtain. All films become more or less unsteady from wear and the framing plate will greatly improve appearance of picture on the curtain.

AUTOMATIC LIGHT CUT OFF, OR FILM PROTECTOR.

The above cut shows position of the light cut off when the machine is at rest, or falls below half-speed. The dotted lines show position of the cut-off when the picture is being shown, or when the machine is above half-speed. C. C. are two lock nuts that serve as levers and can be adjusted to make the cut-off act more slowly or quickly as desired.

This is a most important improvement or attachment to a moving picture machine. The serious objection to the use of moving pictures is the danger of their taking fire from heat of the light used in projecting them. When the machine is in motion the film moves so rapidly that there is no danger of its burning; but, should the machine stop, leaving the film exposed to the concentrated light and heat, it will take fire almost instantly. The automatic "cut-off" is between the light and the film and its position is controlled entirely by the crank of the machine. When the machine is at rest the light is cut off from the film, but when the machine reaches about half the required speed the "cut-off" is lifted out of the way, so the full strength of the light falls on the moving film. Should the machine stop or drop to half speed, the "cut-off" falls back in place, cutting off the light and heat from the picture. The action is automatic and reliable and requires no attention of the operator. The "cut-off" is simple in construction and will last as long as any part of the machine.

It is attached to the door and swings out of the way when the door is open—the only safe and reliable method that will prevent the film from taking fire. This automatic light cut-off and film protector is endorsed by the highest authority, by both insurance companies and fire inspectors.

Price, Automatic Light Cut-off and Film Protector, as shown in cut, each.....$15.00

NEW SHUTTER.

The shutter is a flat piece, about one-third of a circle, that revolves in the machine, between the picture and projecting lens. The object of this shutter is to cut off the light while the intermittent (stop and start) sprocket pulls the film down one picture. It is the shutter cutting off the light that causes the flicker. In place of the regular shutter furnished with the machine, we use a wire gauze or perforated metal shutter, which greatly reduces the flicker and is more durable than the mica shutter furnished with the machine.

The revolving shutter cuts a circle, half the time the shutter being inside the machine head and half the time outside

PROTECTION FOR SHUTTER.

When shipping the machine, the shutter should be kept inside the head, so it can not get bent or broken. With the regular machine no provision is made for locking the wheel in order to keep the shutter inside. We have, however, made provision to protect the shutter so an accident can not occur. By means of a thumb-screw the wheel and gear is locked, so it is not possible for the shutter to be broken in shipment. Many an operator, when unpacking his machine, has found the shutter broken.

SUPPORT FOR OBJECTIVE LENS.

The rod or support for holding the objective lens of the lantern has a swivel friction joint. With it the lens can be tilted at any angle desired and the picture can be thrown up or down on the curtain. This will be found a great convenience for bringing the still and moving pictures both in the same place on the screen.

To obtain the best result, the objective lens should be at right angles with the picture. With a regular lantern (without moving picture machine), this is accomplished by attaching the lens to the lantern. But with the Edison and all other moving picture machines no provision is made to keep the lens of the still picture at right angles with the slide.

By means of the swivel joint the lens can always be at the proper angle and is one reason why the "Edison and Leader" give the highest grade picture possible to obtain.

LENS FOR STILL PICTURES.

The objective lens for the still picture is the genuine, large barrel, one-half size Bausch and Lomb lens, bearing their name and serial number. With all lenses, size of picture can be regulated by distance between the machine and curtain; but with this lens two different size pictures can be made without changing position of the machine. It is practically equal to two lenses and will be found a great convenience for use in rooms of different size. This lens is much higher grade and larger barrel than the one that comes with the regular Edison machine. It will give a picture equal to the highest grade imported lens.

LENS FOR MOVING PICTURES.

A special high-grade moving picture lens is made that has a larger barrel or mounting than the regular lens furnished with the Edison machine. It gives a white, flat field, a bright picture sharp and clear to the edge, and we take pleasure in recommending it to professional exhibitors.

REEL HANGERS OR SUPPORTS.

The arms or hangers are for the large reels, holding from 1,000 to 1,200 feet of film. There are short arms and small reels holding five or six hundred feet which, if desired, we will furnish in place of the long arms and large reels at reduction of $2.50. We would always advise using the large reels, as majority of the feature films are over 600 feet long. Unless otherwise requested, the long arms and large reels will always be sent.

EDISON-LEADER, IN POSITION FOR MOVING PICTURES.

DOUBLE DISSOLVING LANTERN.

Another advantage of using the Leader lantern with the Edison machine is that a top lantern can be added at any time, thus making a double dissolving lantern. Our double Leader with "slide-over-top" lantern is specially constructed to combine with a moving picture machine. With it you can dissolve from still into moving pictures and from moving into still. This can not be done with any other double lantern. (See cut and description.)

BELLWS OR METALLIC FRONT.

The bellows of Leader lantern are dipped in fire-proof solution so they will not blaze should you accidentally drop a lighted match on them or permit the concentrated rays of the light to strike them.

By some it is claimed there is danger of fire from using a bellows' front. Bellows have been used for many years and are still used on the best lanterns and stereopticons. Occasionally one hears of an operator burning a hole in the bellows, but aside from this, no harm is done. We do not consider it dangerous to use a bellows. However, when desired, we will furnish a metallic front in place of the bellows, or furnish them both at an additional cost of $2.50. With a screw-driver the change can be made in a few minutes. The bellows front will always be sent unless the metallic one is specified.

CARRYING CASE.

The carrying case is the same style and finish as the No. 1 described elsewhere in the catalogue. This case holds the machine complete, except the baseboard and rheostat. There is also a trunk made holding the machine complete, including No. 2 Wonder rheostat and 15-foot curtain. This will be found very convenient as the outfit can be checked as baggage. For description of carrying case and trunk, see index.

BOTH PICTURES CENTERED.

With a majority of machines for still and moving pictures, the lamp-house slides over behind the lens when a change is made from one kind of picture to the other. With the "Edison and Leader" the lamp-house remains stationary and the moving picture part with objective lens for still picture slides over in front of the lamp-house. When the lamp-house remains in one position, both the moving and still pictures come on center of curtain. But if the lamp-house slides over, the moving pictures will come on one side of the curtain and the still pictures on the other side. To keep the pictures in center of curtain, it is necessary to swing one end of the machine around, every time a change is made. Unless the burner is made very tight on the support, the electric wires or rubber tubing, will pull the light out of center, every time the lamp-house slides over. None of this trouble is experienced with the "Edison and Leader." The lamp-house is stationary, the burner remains in position and both pictures are always in center of curtain.

POINTS OF SUPERIORITY.

The "Edison and Leader" has many improvements and points of advantage over other moving picture machines.

- 1st. Framing plate, which makes the picture more steady on the curtain.

2d. Improved crank or handle that greatly reduces the danger of burning the films.

3d. Swivel joint for support of the still picture lens.

4th. Perforated shutter that reduces the flicker, yet gives plain pictures.

5th. Special high-grade lenses both for still and moving pictures.

6th. Light shield or cone that concentrates the light on the picture.

7th. Special baseboard, giving more room for convenient adjustment of the machine.

8th. Thumb-screw for locking the shutter inside machine while shipping.

9th. Automatic light cut-off, that prevents burning of film.

10th. In addition to the above, there are the many points of superiority found in the Leader lantern (see index for Leader lantern).

Price. "Edison and Leader" for calcium light, consisting of Edison moving picture machine with two large reels and all improvements as described, except the automatic light cut-off or film protector. Leader lantern with large barrel best grade Bausch and Lomb objective lens; inner-tube calcium jet No. 3; eight feet best rubber hose to connect tank to jet, and No. 1 carrying case. $115.00

This is known as "Edison and Leader for calcium light."

Price. "Edison and Leader" for electric light. Edison moving picture machine with two large reels and all improvements as described, except the automatic light cut-off or film protector. Leader lantern with large barrel best grade Bausch and Lomb objective lens and choice of bellows or metallic front; monarch electric lamp; wonder rheostat No. 2 or the duplex rheostat; electric switch; ten feet No. 12 lamp cord to connect lamp; rheostat and switch and No. 1 carrying case. $122.00

This is known as "Edison and Leader for electric light."

If automatic light cut-off or film protector is wanted, add $15.00 to the above prices.

ADDITIONS FOR CALCIUM LIGHT.

If "Edison and Leader for calcium light" is ordered, it will be necessary to purchase a gas-making outfit or to buy the gas in tanks. If gas-making outfit is ordered, add to the order, can $\frac{7}{8}$ limes, pair gas pliers and chemicals for making the gas. If gas is purchased in tanks, add to the order a can of $\frac{7}{8}$ limes, pair gas pliers, gauge and a cylinder wrench. A pair of regulating valves would also be found convenient, but is not necessary.

ADDITIONS FOR ELECTRIC LIGHT.

If "Edison and Leader for electric light" is ordered, you should have carbons, gas pliers, fuse plugs, fuse wire, electric tape, screw-driver and, if traveling, about 75 feet of No. 10 or 12 "lead wire." Cost of these supplies outside of lead wire and screw-driver would be about $2.50. For description and price of lead wire, see index front part of catalogue. If the Wonder Special rheostat is preferred to the Wonder No. 2, add $15.00 to the price of outfit and order No. 10 in place of No. 12 wire.

REMARKS.

The Edison moving picture machine combined with the Leader lantern, has more practical and scientific points than any other machine on the market. The attractive appearance, the light weight and the convenience of operating make it the best machine made for general road use. If machine is permanently located, using strong electric light and running ten or twelve hours a day, we would advise using the "Jumbo" Leader lamp house and large electric lamp, which is described elsewhere in the catalogue. If Leader "Fireproof" lamp house is preferred to the regular Leader lamp house as shown in cut, add $10.00 to the price of complete machine.

With "Edison and Leader for electric light" is given a choice of two rheostats. The "Duplex" will give more current and we would advise using it, where bulk and weight are not a serious objection.

EDISON MOVING PICTURE MACHINE AND DOUBLE LEADER LANTERN

The only double lantern with which still pictures can be dissolved into moving pictures and moving pictures into still pictures

This cut shows a double dissolving Leader lantern with the Edison moving picture machine. There is a growing demand for a combined double dissolving lantern and a moving picture machine. This combination is being adopted by the most successful exhibitors and lecturers. The serious objection, however, has been, that the top reel of the moving picture machine obstructed the light from the top lantern so it could not be used when the moving picture machine was in position. Therefore, there was always a wait or delay in changing from the still to the moving and from the moving to the still pictures. In order to avoid this delay, exhibitors and lecturers have been compelled to carry double dissolving lantern and a separate moving picture outfit. To successfully operate these machines requires an extra man, and even then you could not dissolve a still picture into a moving and a moving into a still picture.

This double Leader lantern is so constructed that the top lantern slides to one side and remains in that position during the entertainment. The top reel of the moving picture machine therefore cannot interfere with the light from the top lantern. The fields from the two lanterns can be as quickly and accurately registered with this style of Leader as with the regular double Leader—it is just as simple to operate, just as quickly set up and requires no larger carrying case than the regular double lantern. Connections between the two lanterns are so constructed that the top lantern is firmly bound to the lower lantern and the lower lantern is rigidly secured to the hardwood baseboard by means of four turn-buckle hooks. The combination is therefore firm and rigid—no shake or vibration while operating.

The Leader lantern is the only practical double lantern to combine with a moving picture machine and is the only lantern made with which you can dissolve from still to moving pictures and from moving to still pictures. The dissolving is as perfect as though two still pictures were used in a regular dissolving lantern.

For a still picture to melt or dissolve into a moving picture, and this moving picture again to dissolve back into a still picture, is something new. The effect is novel, interesting and beautiful. Since slides form an important part of the entertainment, an exhibitor with this style of an outfit will certainly have an advantage over the exhibitor who has the regular single lantern outfit. We would specially recommend this dissolving outfit to those who remain more than one night in a place or who expect to play return dates. If you do not care to purchase a double Leader lantern to begin with, buy a single Leader and later on you can add the top lantern.

EDISON'S MOVING PICTURE MACHINES

THE UNDERWRITER'S MODEL.

The fire ordinance of some cities requires a moving picture machine to be constructed so as to obtain the best possible protection against fire. The Underwriter's Model is supposed to meet all these requirements. It is provided with automatic film protector, fire magazines for the reels of film, enclosed switch, asbestos covered wire, spark proof lamp house, etc.

The moving picture part of the Underwriter's and Exhibition Model is the same. The "head" (moving picture part) is enclosed in an oak case, and has a handle by which it can be carried. Choice is given of the No. 2 or No. 3 moving picture lens.

THE EXHIBITION MODEL.

THE UNIVERSAL MODEL.

The Universal Model is somewhat smaller and lighter than either the Underwriter's or Exhibition Models. The electric burner, lamp house and rheostat is the same as the Exhibition Model. The moving picture part is little different, however, the general construction and principle is the same. In the Underwriter's and Exhibition Models, the moving picture part remains stationary and the lamp house slide over when the change is made from still to moving pictures. In the Universal Model, the moving picture part slides over and the lamp house remains stationary. Each have points of advantage over the other, however, when permanently located, we would advise the heavier machine.

TRUNK AND FIREPROOF BOX.

FOR THE EDISON AND LEADER.

This outfit trunk is specially made for the Edison moving picture machine and the Leader lantern with fireproof "box-table."

The fireproof box-table is made of galvanized iron, riveted together, and will pass fire inspection. It is provided with four adjustable legs so it can be raised or lowered or tilted at any angle desired. The film should be run in the fireproof box in place of rewinding on a reel as it runs through the machine.

Top of the box is removable, and the entire box is made to fit inside the trunk. Padded trays are made with apartments for each part of the machine, and the trays fit inside the galvanized box. This galvanized box greatly strengthens the trunk and adds but little weight. It is also a fireproof box for the film, and the best adjustable table on the market.

The legs are in a close-fitting metal case inside the box, extending nearly to the top, thereby making a firm, rigid support. Each leg has an adjustment of 12 inches, and for shipping, packs inside the box.

The trunk is large enough to hold the Edison and leader machine complete, No. 4 wonder rheostat, 15 or 18-foot curtain, and has one large extra tray with cover in which can be packed clothing or anything desired. The corners and edges are protected by heavy malleable iron castings, and the trunk being re-inforced with the galvanized box inside, makes it a most serviceable trunk for the road.

Dimensions of trunk, 40 in. long, 20 in. wide and 28 in. high. This trunk is larger than majority of outfit trunks, which gives room for extra things you always have to carry.

TRUNK AND TRAY

This cut shows trunk, with one of the trays, and fireproof box inside trunk.

OBJECTIVE OR PROJECTING LENS.

USE, CONSTRUCTION, TESTING AND CARE OF LENS.

The above cut shows the objective lens and path of light from arc to curtain. "A" is the carbon or source of light; "B" and "C," condensing lenses; "D," opening where slide is placed; "E," back combination of objective lens; "F," thumb-screw of rack and pinion for accurate focusing; "G," front combination of objective; "H," on both sides of barrel, the diaphragm; "I," the image upon the curtain.

The light rays cross as they pass through the objective lens, inverting the image upon the screen, as shown in the cut. For this reason slides must be placed in the carrier with the top of the picture downward.

HOW A PICTURE IS PROJECTED.

The objective lens does not form the image nor invert the picture on the screen as many suppose.

Rays of light passing through the slide form a countless number of faint images of the picture or object, and the objective lens bends these image rays so they all fall exactly on the same spot on the curtain. Moving the lens forward and back to find the point where the lens will combine all these image rays is called focusing the lens.

CORRECTING A LENS.

The quality of an objective lens depends upon how perfectly the image rays are combined in one spot on the curtain. If this could be accomplished with one glass, better illumination and a brighter picture would be obtained. Unfortunately this cannot be accurately done with one lens made from a single piece of glass.

All light, whether natural or artificial, is composed of rays of different colors and these colors are not refracted alike—for example, the blue rays are shorter focus than the red rays. This difference in focus of the various colored rays is called "chromatic aberration." The rays passing through the edge of the lens come to a focus sooner than those passing the center of the lens—also rays from the extreme points of the image tend to shorter focus than those coming from center of the object. This difference in focus is called "spherical aberration." When accuracy is required, these defects must be corrected and in order to do this, a compound lens is used. This lens is composed of different kinds of glass having different refractive power and ground in different shapes.

TESTING A LENS.

See that the condensing lens, slide and objective lens are perpendicular to each other and that the light is perfectly centered. The entire field should be clear white and evenly illuminated. Use a slide covered all over with reading matter photographed sharp and black, or, better still, a slide ruled in perfect squares and all the same size. Every line on the curtain should be straight and in focus and none of the squares distorted. A wire screen or gauze is sometimes used, but is not always a reliable test. Should it be dented or bent only a little, it would show a defect on the curtain and lens might be condemned when it was not at fault.

ARRANGEMENT OF GLASSES.

Sometimes it is necessary to remove the lenses to clean them and when this is done care should be used to see that they are replaced in their proper order.

In the modern objective lens there are two glasses in front end of tube or barrel and two at the back end. Each pair consists of two kinds of glass (crown and flint) and is mounted in a cell known as the front and back combination. In the back combination "E" the glass next to the light is a double convex with one side more convex than the other. The side with the greater curvature should go towards the front. The next is a flint glass, concavo-convex, which is also placed in the cell, so the convex side also points towards the front. The two glasses or lenses in the back combination are separated by a narrow ring. The front combination "G" consists of two glasses cemented together as is indicated by a line shown in the diagram. In the regular objective lens all the glasses, like an arrow, point towards the front.

CARE OF OBJECTIVE LENS.

To clean the lenses, use a silk handkerchief or a soft cotton cloth. Never touch the glass with the fingers as it will leave a greasy spot that is difficult to wipe off. Seldom will it be necessary to clean the glass on the inside, as the tube is practically dust proof. However, in course of time more or less moisture will condense and dry on the inside, forming a coating on the glass. This will greatly retard passage of light and reduce brilliancy of the picture.

Should this occur, remove the glasses, carefully clean them with alcohol, polish with a perfectly clean piece of silk or soft cotton cloth and be sure to put them back in their proper order. This should be done at a place or time when there is as little dust in the air as possible. Even under the most favorable circumstances more or less dust laden air will be shut up in the lens barrel and settle on the glasses.

DIAMETER OF STANDARD OBJECTIVE LENS.

size Projecting Lens, diameter of glass $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches.
$\frac{1}{4}$	"	"	"	"	"	"	"	"	$2\frac{1}{4}$
$\frac{1}{2}$	"	"	"	"	"	"	"	"	$2\frac{1}{2}$
$\frac{3}{4}$	"	"	"	"	"	"	"	"	3
$\frac{4}{4}$	"	"	"	"	"	"	"	"

The diameter given is size of lens glass and not the tube or mounting. By measuring the glasses of any lens and comparing with above table, you can tell whether or not the tube or barrel of your lens is standard size.

The size of a picture made by a lens, does not depend on the size of the tube or mounting, but upon the focus of the lens; and the focus of the lens is governed by the curve or shape the lens glass is ground.

To obtain the best results, the longer the focus, the larger the glass and mounting should be. With a long focus lens in a small tube, it is not possible to obtain a clear field or a sharp picture.

OBJECTIVE LENS.

The price of objective lenses vary greatly, depending on the grade of material used and the labor spent in their construction. Every lens manufacturer makes two grades of lenses, putting their name and serial number only on the better grade. So when ordering a lens of a certain make, to be sure of getting the best grade, see that the name, address and number is stamped on the lens.

The two popular manufacturers of high-grade objective lenses are Bausch and Lomb of this country, and Darlot of Europe. Scientific and practical tests have proven that the B. & L. lenses are fully equal to the imported, while the brass work is better.

Quality being equal, we believe in giving home industry the preference and advise using Bausch and Lomb lenses. However, we will furnish the Darlot lens when preference is made.

SPECIAL OBJECTIVE LENS.

To meet the demand of those who do not require the highest grade projection, we carry in stock a "special" objective lens in 1/4 size barrel or mounting. For the price these lenses are well made and finished. They have flange for attaching lens to the machine, dust proof cap and rack and pinion for accurate focusing. For those who wish to economize in purchasing their outfit, the "special" objective will be found a great convenience. Up to and including the 1/2 size excellent results will be obtained and we can recommend them where the highest grade work is not required. We could not, however, recommend the 2/3 and 4/4 in so small a barrel. Much better results will be obtained by taking them in the 1/2 size barrel or mounting. The 1/2 size is the most popular objective for general use. Should a 1/2 size "special" be ordered and the customer later want to exchange it for a Bausch and Lomb best grade, we will take it as part payment in the exchange.

Extra Long Focus Objective Lens, in half size tubes, each. 18.00

No. 3, giving a picture in size about one-sixth, one-seventh or one-eighth the distance between the machine and curtain.

With all lenses, the size of the picture will vary according to the distance the machine is from the curtain. It is sometimes desirable to place the lantern near the curtain and still obtain a good size picture. To meet this requirement a special wide angle lens is made that will give about a 10-inch picture for every foot the lantern is from the curtain.

6 feet from curtain, will give 5 foot picture.

20	“	“	“	“	“	17	“	“

When using this lens the lantern must be elevated so the lens will be on a line with center of the curtain. If tilted either front or back one side of the picture will be out of focus.

Sometimes it is more convenient to set the lantern behind the curtain and throw the picture through the screen. In this case this lens will be found very convenient.

The size of a picture made by a lens does not depend upon the size of the tube or mounting, but upon the focal length, and the focus is governed by the curve or shape the lens glass is ground. The size of picture and the focal length will vary somewhat in lenses of different makes, however, the following table gives the approximate length of focus for the standard sizes of all makes:

Wide angle, objective.....	4 in. focal length.
Quarter size, " " " " " "	6 in. " " " "
One-third size, " " " " " "	7½ in. " " " "
One-half size, " " " " " "	10 in. " " " "
Two-thirds size, " " " " " "	12 in. " " " "
Four-four size, " " " " " "	15 in. " " " "
Special long size, objective.....	18 in. " " " "

It should be remembered that with all lenses the size of the picture will increase or decrease according to the distance from the lens to the screen. Name and law governing size of the picture of lenses, having different focal length, is approximately as follows:

A "one-fourth" size projecting lens will give picture or disk, in diameter, one-half the distance from the machine to the curtain; a "one-third" lens, two-fifths; a "one-half" lens, one-third less 10 per cent; a "two-thirds" lens, one-fourth; and a "four-four" lens, one-fifth the distance.

The following table will illustrate the above rules:

SIZES OF LENSES.	10 ft.	20 ft.	30 ft.	40 ft.	50 ft.	60 ft.	70 ft.	80 ft.	90 ft.	100 ft.	110 ft.	130 ft.

Size, in feet, of picture on the screen.

By unscrewing and removing the back lens from the tube, a smaller picture can be made, and as the focal distance is lengthened the lens, (to focus the picture), must be moved farther from the light. Although this detracts a little from the sharpness of the picture, still, in case of an emergency, it will be found a great convenience.

THE NEW POLYOPSE LENS FOR STEREOPTICONS AND MAGIC LANTERNS

Adjustable Focus. Gives any standard size picture at any distance from the screen.

The Polyopse Lens is a wonderful triumph in Lens making. It accomplished that seemingly impossible feat of giving a picture of almost any desired size at any regular distance from the screen. That is, with the lantern say 30 feet from the screen, the size of the picture may be varied as desired from about 15 feet square to about 6 feet square, any size between these being also obtainable. In short, it combines all the properties of the $\frac{1}{4}$, $\frac{1}{2}$, 2-3 and 4-4 size Lenses. It may be used at any distance from 5 to 100 feet from the screen. The method of use is simple.

When used as shown on left of cut it is practically a $\frac{1}{4}$ size Lens, by slipping the cell shown at right of cut over the rear of the Lens, any picture within the range of a $\frac{1}{2}$, 2-3, or 4-4 size Lense may be had by drawing the bellows in or out until the desired size is obtained and then focusing the Lense with the rack and pinion.

Moving Picture Lens.

The projecting lens is one of the most important parts of a machine, for with a poor lens, a good picture cannot be obtained, no matter how good the other parts of the outfit may be.

The size of each photograph on a moving picture film is about $\frac{3}{4}$ of a square inch while a lantern slide picture is about 9 square inches, it will therefore require a lens with much greater power (wider angle) for a moving picture than for a lantern slide.

A moving picture film is made of celluloid, which is translucent, while the lantern slide is made of glass and is transparent.

One moves rapidly before the light, while the other is stationary.

And again the shutter on a moving picture machine shuts the light off the curtain about one-third of the time.

Therefore the moving pictures require a much stronger light and upon the screen never appear so bright as the slide. The larger the picture the less brilliant—the larger the space covered by the light, the dimmer the field. Where the same light is used it is always advisable to make the moving picture about one-third smaller than the stereopticon pictures.

MOTION PICTURE LENS TUBES AND JACKETS.

A jacket with interchangeable lens tubes is a very convenient form of a moving picture lens. The jacket with lens barrel screws in the machine and is provided with rack and pinion for accurate focusing. The lens tube slips in the jacket and can be quickly removed when desired. It can be slipped forward or back, as the case may require, to obtain an approximate focus, and for accurate focusing use rack and pinion. There are three of these tubes, No. 1, 2 and 3.

The No. 1 lens tube projects about a three (3) foot picture for every ten (10) feet of distance the machine is from the curtain.

The No. 2 lens tube projects about a three (3) foot picture for every fourteen (14) feet of distance the machine is from the curtain.

The No. 3 lens tube projects about a three (3) foot picture for every twenty (20) feet of distance the machine is from the curtain.

The jacket and tubes are sold separately or the jacket and three (3) lens tubes complete in a case.

The Allen Moving Picture Lens.

This lens will make a picture from one-third to one-fifth of the distance between the machine and curtain and all sizes between these extremes. These different sizes are made by simply revolving the front ring as indicated by the hand. The picture will gradually grow larger or smaller as desired and keep in focus during the change. This will be found a great convenience for the traveling exhibitor. In appearance the Allen lens resembles the ordinary projecting lens. The following table shows the largest and smallest picture the lens will project at a given distance:

DISTANCE FROM SCREEN	MOVING PICTURE
	SMALLEST	LARGEST
At 20 feet any size picture desired between	4 feet	7 feet.
At 30 feet any size picture desired between	6 feet	10 feet.

At 60 feet any size picture desired between	12 feet	20 feet.
At 80 feet any size picture desired between	16 feet	26 feet.

OIL BURNER.

For many years oil was the only illuminant used for the so-called "Magic Lantern." The oil lantern is comparatively little used since brighter and better artificial lights have come into general use. Owing to their simplicity and safety oil is used as the illuminant in toy lanterns. Missionaries use the oil lantern because of convenient transportation and the fact that oil of some kind can be obtained almost everywhere. Almost any kind of oil can be used—even solid paraffin or tallow will give a very good light, if melted and kept hot. When using kerosene, get the best grade and dissolve in it some camphor gum.

A tall chimney is used in order to create a draft, which is necessary to obtain a good light. Front end of the flame chamber has a removable glass and the rear end a metal reflector. Each wick is controlled by a milled head thumbscrew. This burner can be used with the Monarch lantern.

Price, Oil Burner $4.00 each.

Inverted Mantle Light

The mantle gas light will be found very convenient to use in a lantern where a strong light is not desired. It can be used with ordinary illuminating gas or from vaporized gasoline or alcohol. Kerosene oil can also be used, but is more difficult to convert into a vapor and consequently is not used for this purpose as much as gasoline. There are several different styles of apparatus on the market for using a gas mantle, but as each one of these is provided with a mantle attachment, the above burner is principally used where the ordinary illuminating gas is in the house. By using a rubber hose it can be connected with any gas jet.

The amount of illumination obtained on the screen by using a mantle with a lantern is usually disappointing. Judging from the amount of illumination a good mantle light will make in a room, the general impression is that a picture almost equal to calcium light should be obtained. Such would be the case if all the light could be collected and utilized; but unfortunately only a portion of light from front of the mantle can be collected. The condensing lenses can condense into the objective lens only the light from place about large as a silver half dollar. The balance of the light from the sides, back and front of the mantle is lost. With the inverted mantle, the light is concentrated and being small, less heat is generated.

One serious objection to using a mantle light is the large amount of heat generated and the danger of breaking condensing lenses. When using this style of light the lamp house should be well ventilated, and lantern set within twenty feet of the curtain. No mantle light is strong enough to make a satisfactory moving picture, and a stereopticon picture should not be made over eight feet in diameter. The stand or support shown in cut is not included in price of burner.

ALCOHOL VAPOR MANTLE LIGHT

The above cut shows a new style of alcohol mantle light for use in a lantern. The alcohol is converted into a vapor, which burns at the mantle. The outfit is small, light and easily carried about. A special mantle is used and it is well to include a few extra when ordering the outfit. Either the wood or grain (ordinary) alcohol can be used, but we would advise using the grain alcohol. Alcohol containing any sediment or foreign substance should not be used, as there is danger of clogging up one of the small openings.

Special Incandescent Electric Lamp.

This is a special incandescent electric lamp for use with a stereopticon. The carbon-filament is made spiral shape so as to concentrate the light. It is better and more convenient than acetylene or gas mantle and will give a very good stereopticon picture 10 feet square. The light, however, is not strong enough for moving pictures, which require either electric-arc, or lime (oxy-hydrogen) light. With the special incandescent lamp is furnished a connecting plug, twenty feet of electric lamp cord, base and support with set screw for attaching to the post in lamp house. The sliding saddle and post shown in cut is not included as part of the outfit. No rheostat is required, except where two lanterns are used and dissolving effect is desired (see dissolving rheostat). With the 50 candle power lamp the light is turned on and off with the socket key, same as an ordinary incandescent bulb; but with the 100 candle power lamp it should be turned on and off by a small switch at the machine. For home use, secret societies and small halls, this light will be found very convenient. We would advise using the 100 candle power lamp.

There is a small bulb for 100 candle-power, same size as 50 candle-power. It is cheaper, but soon burns out. We handle only the best grade large bulb. When ordering state voltage, and if Edison, Thompson-Houston, or Westinghouse attaching plug is wanted. For best light, set globe so filament is little "edgeways" to the lens. No allowance made for damage during shipment. For current 104 to 110 volts.

The King Acetylene Burner.

This is without question the best acetylene burner on the market. It consists of four tips, each having two jets of light, which unite in one blaze. These four brilliant flames, fed by eight air chambers, give perfect combustion and a powerful light. We have abandoned the old fashioned shape burner, because the tips are not durable. They are small, fragile and so exposed that they are easily broken. The tips used with a "King" burner are made from a solid block with heavy walls around the holes, so they will stand the rough usage of shipping. If the tips should become clogged, use a fine soft wire to clean them, being careful not to nick or chip the edge of small hole. A little defect in the tip will cause it to smoke.

Acetylene, when burning, generates great deal of heat and unless the lamphouse is well ventilated there is danger of breaking the condensing lenses. Oil lanterns are usually well ventilated and can therefore be used with acetylene light. It is estimated that acetylene gives from five to seven times as strong a light as oil and from one-fourth to one-third as strong as calcium.

Judging from the bright white flame of acetylene, many are disappointed at the result when using it in a lantern. The reason of this is that only a portion of the light can be brought to a focus on the curtain. One reason calcium and electric light is so well adapted for the lantern is because the light all radiates from one small spot. Where the light is scattered, as in a Welsbach mantle or acetylene burner, the condensing lens can collect or condense only a portion of the light, so it will pass through the projecting lens to the curtain. As a rule those using acetylene push the burner in too near the condensing lens. This not only gives less illumination on the curtain, but there is more danger of breaking the condensing lenses. When using acetylene have the room dark as possible and do not try to make too large a picture or get too far from the curtain.

Acetylene Burner Cleaner.

The importance of frequently cleaning an acetylene burner can not be overestimated. The opening in the tip through which the acetylene gas passes is very small and is easily clogged. This opening is too small for a pin and if an effort is made to force anything in it there is danger of chipping off a small piece from the opening which will ruin the burner. With the acetylene burner cleaner the gas as well as air holes can be quickly cleaned without danger of injuring the tip. The cleaner is small, can be carried in the vest pocket and is always ready for use. No one using an acetylene burner can afford to be without one of these cleaners.

Hand Feed Electric Lamp

Standard Electric Lamp

Electricity is the strongest light used for projection work and should always be used when connection can be conveniently obtained.

Automatic or self-feeding electric lamps are heavy, complicated and always getting out of order. Experience has proven that for traveling the hand feed electric lamp is much more satisfactory.

The Standard electric lamp has quick feed, is light and strong, all parts nickel plated and thoroughly insulated.

The dotted lines show single carbons can be tilted for alternating current. This is the best lamp on the market for the money. Cheap in price, but not in quality.

PRICE—Standard Electric Lamp$ 4.00

Right Angle Electric Lamp.

This cut shows a convenient form of electric lamp for use in stereopicons with a small lamp house. It can be used on either alternating or direct current and by some is preferred to the regular style of lamp. When thumb screw C is tightly set, turning either A or B will operate both carbons together. If thumb screw C is loosely set, either carbon can be operated separately. In other words both carbons can be operated together or each one separately as desired. A moves the top carbon and B the lower one. The carbon holders can be adjusted so as to give the carbons any angle desired and will accommodate either large or small carbon. The lamp is made of the best quality of tempered brass, nickel plated and polished.

Price,$8.50
Stand for electric lamp show in cut not included in the price.

MONARCH ELECTRIC LAMP.

With this lamp the carbons can be operated either from the rear or side by levers A or B. Carbon hood or light shield C serves as a reflector, catches any sparks or refuse from the burning carbons and prevents flood of light coming from rear of lamp house. The dotted lines show how the carbons can be tilted for alternating current.

By a special friction swivel-joint the lamp can be tilted at any angle and will remain rigid on the post. The carbon holders are held in position by lock screws so they will not work loose. The lamp has a quick feed and takes carbons long enough to last from 2 to 2½ hours. The upright supports to which the carbon holders are attached stand directly in front of each other, so the carbons are in alignment.

PRICE. Monarch Electric Lamp$8.50

LEADER ELECTRIC LAMP.

The Leader electric lamp is specially adapted for use with a moving picture machine, having every adjustment to keep the circle of light properly centered on the square hole in the moving picture machine.

Lever A operates the carbons, B raises and lowers the arc, C is set screw that holds the lamp on the post, and lever D moves the lamp from one side to the other. If used in a lamp house with closed back, the lever: A, B and D will be made long to extend through so they can be operated at any angle.

This lamp has more convenient adjustments than any other lamp on the market except the "Jumbo," which must be used in a specially constructed lamp house. The Leader burner is made of the best tempered brass, nickel plated, and heavy enough for strong current.

The dotted lines show how the carbons can be tilted at any angle desired when used on alternating current.

JUMBO LAMP—CUT NO. 1.

JUMBO ELECTRIC BURNER AND LAMP HOUSE

Cut No. 1 shows the electric lamp when it is swung out of the lamp house in position for putting in new carbons. A, is knob used to swing the lamp in and out of the lamp house. B, moves the top carbon forward and back. C, raises and lowers the lamp on the standard. D, turns the lamp to the right or left. E, separates the carbons and brings them together. F, moves the lamp forward and back. H, is folding arm or support that prevents the lamp from swinging back too far. J, is part of the switch that closes the circuit when the lamp is in position. K K are asbestos wires that connect the carbon with two outside binding posts. The dotted lines or white outline of the carbons shows the angle the carbons can be tilted for alternating current.

SUITABLE FOR A STRONG LIGHT

For moving picture machines or lanterns where a strong electric light is used, there is demand for a heavy, substantial burner and a large lamp house. To meet this demand we have constructed the Jumbo Burner and Lamp-house, which can be attached to any moving picture machine.

The Jumbo Lamp is intended to use where hard service is required and large amount of current is consumed. It is especially adapted for moving picture theatres, or any place where the lamp is in constant use.

The regular electric lamp, while it is entirely satisfactory for general use, is too light for this heavy work.

EVERY ADJUSTMENT NECESSARY.

The Jumbo Lamp, in addition to its size, strength and durability, has every adjustment that it is possible to use, and this adjustment is all done outside of the lamp house. With the different screw-feed adjustments you can move the lamp forward and back—raise or lower it on the standard—turn it to the right or left—operate or feed the carbons and move the top carbon in front of or behind the lower carbon. By these adjustments the light can always be kept centered on the square hole, or opening, for the moving picture film and the carbons or light adjusted to obtain the best possible results.

WILL NEVER SLIP ON SUPPORT.

The lamp being raised and lowered on the post by a screw-feed, it is impossible for it to ever slip or "drop" as is frequently the case with other lamps using a gear-feed. With a gear-feed you must depend on friction to support the lamp, and when the lamp gets hot and expands the friction is reduced. The little jar or vibration from the moving picture machine has a tendency to cause the lamp to drop, if there is any opportunity for it to do so. The Jumbo Lamp can not slip or drop under any circumstances.

QUICK FEED AND LONG CARBONS.

The carbons have a rapid feed and a large, substantial lever to operate them. The carbon-holders have an adjustment of 16 inches and will hold carbons long enough to burn from $3\frac{1}{2}$ to 5 hours, depending on the number of amperes of current consumed. If the carbons are burned too short there is danger of melting or injuring the carbon-holder. Every time the carbons are changed there is a piece left about $2\frac{1}{2}$ inches long, which is thrown away. With the ordinary electric burner it is necessary to change the carbons three times as often as with the Jumbo Burner, and you will, therefore, waste three times as much carbon. With a burner using long carbons there is a saving both in time and money.

MOVING TOP CARBON.

To obtain full benefit of the light, points of the carbons should be kept in such a position as to keep the crater on side of the carbons next to the condensing lens. For direct current, center of the lower carbon should be from one-eighth to a quarter of an inch ahead of the center of top carbon—for alternating current the points of both carbons should be perfectly centered. By being able to move the top carbon forward and back, points of both carbons can be kept in proper position to obtain full benefit of the light. In other lamps when using direct current, one carbon is tilted more than the other in order to bring point of one ahead of the other. This gives, in a measure, the desired result only for the time being, for one carbon having more angle than the other, the relative position of the points as they burn is constantly changing. With the Jumbo Burner the carbon is not tilted, but the entire carbon is moved forward or back as desired. To obtain the best results, points of the carbons should be adjusted while the light is burning. This can be done with the Jumbo Burner, and the points always kept in the proper position to obtain the best light.

TILTING THE CARBONS.

When using alternating current, better results will be obtained by tilting the carbons as is indicated in the cut by the dotted lines. With alternating current, the crater does not remain in same place, but moves around on end of carbon. By tilting the points out towards condensing lens the light on the curtain will not vary so much, caused by the crater changing position. With the Jumbo Lamp the carbons can be tilted at any angle desired and the relative position of the points is always under perfect control of the operator.

JUMBO LEADER LAMP HOUSE.

The back end of the Lamp House with the electric burner is on a hinge that swings out as shown in Cut No. 1. The Lamp House is specially constructed for use of electric light and will pass insurance and fire inspection. The wire guard on top of Lamp House is not an essential part of the construction, but is required by the fire ordinance in many of the large cities, its use being simply to prevent anything from burning should it come in contact with the hot part of the Lamp House.

NO BROKEN CONDENSING LENSES.

Breaking condensing lens is not only an expense, but is also a source of much annoyance. In constructing the Jumbo Leader Lamp House, special attention was given to this so it is extremely rare that a condensing lens is broken even though 50 amperes of current might be used. The Lamp House is constructed on a new principle, whereby a most thorough ventilation is secured, still there is no light escapes around the machine.

SLIDING BASE FOR LAMP HOUSE.

When using a machine in which the moving picture part does not slide over, it is necessary to slide the lamp house. We have a special base board and a special sliding base for the Jumbo Lamp House. The sliding base of other machines can be used, but they are not so well adapted for the Jumbo as the one specially made for it. The sliding base made by us never binds and works much smoother and easier.

THE STANDARD RHEOSTAT.

When using an arc lamp with an incandescent electric current it is necessary to use a rheostat, sometimes called a resistance coil. The standard rheostat has an improved sliding adjustment or "cut out" that is reliable and always makes a good contact. It also has inside a returning rod for the current which greatly reduces the liability of the rheostat burning out. Other low priced rheostats do not have these improvements and the standard rheostat will last longer than any other two rheostats similar in appearance now on the market.

Standard rheostat No. 1 will give from 12 to 15 amp., and is suitable for current of 110 volts or less.

Standard rheostat No. 2 will give from 12 to 15 amp. of current and is suitable for current of 220 volts or less. This rheostat is larger and heavier than the standard No. 1, and therefore, is not as well adapted for use on the road as the wonder special. The standard rheostats can be used on either alternating or direct current.

PRICE. Standard Rheostat No. 1, for 110 volts or less $ 4.00
Standard Rheostat No. 2, for 220 volts or less 9.00

DUPLEX RHEOSTAT.

A is sliding contact or cut-out. BB are binding posts for attaching wire. This rheostat is wound with two wires in multiples which doubles or multiplies the amount of current used. As a moving picture requires more current than a still picture, this rheostat is better adapted for moving pictures than the ordinary rheostat wound with a single wire.

Although the two wires are wound together, still they do not touch, so there is no danger of "arcing." Each coil of wire is separated by asbestos string wound between the wires. It is therefore impossible for the coils of wire to touch each other. In all other rheostats where two wires are wound in multiples, the wires lie side-by-side against each other. Where perfect contact is not made, the current jumps from one to the other, thereby overheating the wire.

This trouble cannot occur with the Duplex Rheostat. This rheostat will give twenty-five amperes of current without overheating.

Price, Duplex Rheostat, for 110 volts or less$9.00

WONDER RHEOSTAT NO. 1.

A is cut-out, B binding post, C fuse wire. The Wonder Rheostats are provided with a fuse. This dispenses entirely with the trouble and expense of carrying a fuse block, which is both inconvenient to use and easily broken.

Composition of the resistance wire used in construction of this rheostat is a valuable discovery. It has EIGHT TIMES the resistance of iron wire (such as is generally used in rheostats) and TWICE the resistance of German silver wire. The latter was formerly considered to have more resistance than any other wire. This new wire does not absorb so much heat as other wire, and constant heating and cooling does not make it "brittle," as is the case with German silver wire.

With other rheostats the wire is either in form of a spiral spring or is wound on a drum and depends on tension to hold it in place. In either case the heat will cause it to stretch and "touch," so there is danger of short circuit and burning the wire in two.

The Wonder Rheostat is constructed on a principle entirely different from any other rheostat. The wire is NOT on a tension and will not stretch and then short circuit.

WONDER RHEOSTAT NO. 2.

Owing to the high resistance of the wire, only a small amount is required, therefore the rheostat can be made small and light.

By means of the improved sliding adjustment, not only is perfect control of the light obtained, but the rheostat can be used on currents of different voltage. Many electric plants now being installed are for 125 volts and this rheostat can be used on current of this voltage or anything below 125. The ordinary rheostat is made for 110 volts and is not safe to use it on current of higher voltage.

An arc using a direct current should burn quietly, but with an alternating current there is always a humming or buzzing noise. Part of this is in the arc light and part is due to vibration in the rheostat.

The Wonder Rheostat is so constructed that there is no vibration or noise in the rheostat, but the original noise in the arc still remains. No rheostat can control that any more than to control the amount of current consumed—the more current the more light and the more noise. Some alternating currents make more noise than others, depending on the number of alternations or cycles per second.

WONDER RHEOSTAT NO. 3, WITH WIRE GUARD.

This cut shows style of the wonder rheostat with WIRE GUARD AND ENCLOSED METAL FUSE BOX.

A is the thumb screw that holds the metal cover (D) on the fuse box. C-C are fuse links or fuse wire. B-B are the binding posts, and E is the handle of sliding contact or cut-out.

In many cities the fire ordinance requires a wire guard to be placed around the rheostat, and also requires that all fuse connections be enclosed in a metal case. The bottom of the rheostat has, in addition to the wire guard, a piece of sheet metal covered with asbestos. The object of the wide guard is to prevent anything from coming in contact with the hot wire.

The cover of fuse box on end of rheostat is held in position by a thumb screw, so it can be quickly removed when necessary to replace or examine the fuse.

The rheostat is light, compact and strong. It weighs about 5½ pounds, is 10½ in. long, 7 in. high and 4¾ in. wide.

WONDER RHEOSTAT, "SPECIAL."

This rheostat is truly a "Wonder," for by the different combinations the equivalent of six rheostats can be made, and it can be used on current of 220 volts and ALL currents of less voltage.

The current most generally met with has 106 to 110 volts. From a current of this voltage you can obtain all the light you want—from four amperes to fifty amperes. The Wonder "Special" is like a reliable bank account—you can draw on it for any amount you need.

The rheostat consists of four coils or apartments, each of which has a separate fuse. These coils can be used in series or multiples, on one light or on two lights. If in series, less current and less light; if in multiples, more current and more light will be obtained. For double dissolving lantern using two arc lights, one coil on each light can be used, or two coils in multiples on each light.

The following combinations can be quickly made without the rheostat overheating:

1	arc light,	12 to 15 amperes,	on current of 220 volts or less.
1	"	4 to 50 "	" 110 " "
1	"	12 to 15 "	" 110 " "
1	"	25 to 50 "	" 110 " "
2	"	lights, 12 to 15 amperes each,	on current of 110 volts or less.
2	"	25 amperes each,	on current of 110 volts or less.

The greater the number of amperes, the more light will be obtained. All these combinations are made WITHOUT cutting out anything—the full resistance is in all the coils, and there is no danger of burning out or overheating the rheostat. By using the two sliding “cut-outs,” the rheostat can be adjusted to suit the voltage of different currents.

With all other rheostats, in order to obtain more amperes of light, it is necessary to cut out part of the resistance. This will increase the light, but will make the rheostat hotter. If too much resistance is cut out, the wire will become red hot and the rheostat will soon burn out.

With the Wonder “Special,” if you need a bright light, it is not necessary to cut out resistance, simply CUT IN another coil IN MULTIPLES. This will give the desired results and keep the rheostat cool.

In many places the electric plant is small, the wire is “overloaded” and the operator is not able to obtain sufficient light for his machine. In this case all the coils can be used in multiples, and if there is any current on the line, the rheostat will give it to you, providing you have large enough lead wire. It will pull the current from other lights, which will grow dimmer as yours grows brighter. It is the moving picture operator who can best appreciate the convenience and value of the Wonder “Special.”

Price of this rheostat may seem high, but, considering what it will do, it is the cheapest rheostat on the market, and will be a most profitable investment. It is specially adapted for high-class work, and no one who has used a Wonder “Special” would be without it. Instructions are sent with each rheostat, showing how to make the various combinations.

REMARKS.

For moving pictures, when the Wonder “Special” is not ordered, the No. 2 or No. 4 should be used. There is no cut of the No. 4 rheostat. However, it is same style as No. 3.

SPECIAL ALTERNATING RHEOSTAT.

In the above cut the rheostat is inside a galvanized iron case. The case or box is filled with oil and for this reason it is often called “The Oil Rheostat.” When using the regular rheostat and alternating current, it is necessary to use about twice as much electricity as it is when using direct current. The “Special Alternating Rheostat” checks the waste of electricity and therefore the amount of current consumed is much less. The oil used in the case is not necessary for operating the rheostat, but helps to keep it cool.

The induction coil used in construction of the rheostat adds considerable to the cost and weight. This Special Alternating rheostat is not suitable for the traveling exhibitor for it can not be used on direct current, and also is not convenient for transportation.

The buzzing noise, so objectionable with alternating current, is somewhat reduced when using this rheostat. If the machine is permanently located and alternating current is used, the “Induction Coil Rheostat” will be found a very profitable investment.

Points in favor of the “Special Alternating Rheostat” are, consumes about half the amount of current, reduces the noise, does not get hot and is endorsed by fire inspection.

Price, Special Alternating Rheostat. $50.00

THE HALLBERG RHEOSTAT OR THE HALLBERG AUTOMATIC ELECTRIC ECONOMIZER

(Patented.)

This is without doubt the most economical rheostat on the market. Two different kinds are made, one for direct and one for alternating current.

The rheostat never gets hot and it is not necessary to place it in oil to keep it cool as is the case with similar devices. As there is no vibration and no heat, the rheostat does not wear out. It is guaranteed to meet the approval of the board of fire underwriters, city electric inspection and fire department.

On a current of 110 volts, with with a 20 ampere fuse on the main or lead wire, 35 to 40 amperes of current can be had at the lamp. The meter, lead wire and fuses can be half the size required when using a regular rheostat.

As comparatively little heat is generated there is little danger of breaking the condensing lenses. It reduces the noise at the arc 50 per cent, and prevents all sputtering when carbons are held closely together for a short arc. This rheostat is too heavy for road work, weighing about 70 pounds.

When ordering state whether it is for direct or alternating current.

CALCIUM OR OXY-HYDROGEN JETS.

This illuminant is known by various names as Calcium Jet, Calcium Burner, Oxy-Hydrogen Jet, Lime Light Burner, etc.

INNER TUBE CALCIUM JET NO. 3.

A is thumb screw of "lime turner" by means of which the lime can be revolved and raised or lowered; B is thumb screw of "lime adjuster" by means of which the lime can, while the light is burning, be moved nearer or farther from the tip; C is thumb screw that holds the jet firmly on the post; D is thumb screw of "adjustable support" by which the jet can be used on post right, left or center of lantern; E is thumb screw that permits the jet to slide forward or back in the support; F F are the thumb screws of the needle-pointed regulating valves, which are an improvement on the old-style stop cocks; H is one of the two nipples to which the rubber tubes are attached for conveying the gas to jet.

The Inner-tube Calcium Jets are constructed on a scientific principle and are a decided improvement on other styles of calcium jets.

THE INNER TUBE.

The inner tube, as its name indicates, is a tube within a tube. The hydrogen gas flows through the inner tube, which ends at or near the bend of jet. The oxygen gas flows in the large tube around the inner tube. This gives a thin layer or ribbon of gas on the outside, with a solid stream of gas on the inside. One important point in obtaining a good calcium light is to have the

GASES THOROUGHLY MIXED.

The inner tube being smaller the force and expanding pressure of the hydrogen in this tube exceeds that of the oxygen in the larger outside tube. The result is that when the hydrogen comes to end of inner tube it expands, penetrating and diffusing through the thin outside layer of oxygen. This makes a most complete and perfect mixing of the two gases. We are the originators of the "Inner-tube" calcium jet and it is the only jet having a scientific method of mixing the two gases. Thorough mixing of the gas is an important point to consider in purchasing a calcium jet. The Inner-tube jet does this and also gives a continuous, steady flow of mixed gas.

THE TIP.

The tip is made from a special composition metal prepared exclusively for this purpose. It is a hard, "close-grained" metal that will admit of a smooth polish. The bore or hole in the tip should be polished smooth as possible, for a rough tip means a noisy jet and a poor light. The tip, or goose neck, of some jets is made of ordinary brass or copper and soon becomes noisy. Tips for the Inner-tube jets are furnished in three different sized openings, small, medium and large bore. A choice is given with each burner, but when size is not specified, the medium size will be sent. We would recommend the large bore for moving pictures, or even for slides if the machine is a long distance from the curtain. A long tip or goose neck is easily clogged and difficult to clean. Tips of the Inner-tube jets are short, tapering bore, seldom clog and are easily cleaned.

LIME CUP OR HOLDER.

The lime cup or holder of the Inner-tube jet is made of spring metal, so it can be used for limes of different size. The lime holder of some calcium jets is made of cast metal and is therefore suitable for limes of only one size. With the Inner-tube jets the lime holder is adjustable to fit all sized limes on the market. Care should be taken not to raise the lime cup too high, lest the flame melt off end of one of the prongs that holds the lime.

LIME TURNER.

The mechanical lime turner is an important attachment to a calcium jet. Inner-tube jets Nos. 2 and 3 are provided with a mechanical lime turner, by means of which the lime can be turned, raised or lowered from outside of the lamp house.

If the blaze is allowed to remain too long in one place on the lime, it will burn or bore a hole in the lime and should therefore be turned occasionally to prevent this "pitting." A tip with a small hole will usually "pit" the lime quicker than a tip with a large hole. Forcing the gas will also have the same effect, in which case the lime should be turned more frequently.

LIME ADJUSTER.

This is a mechanical device for adjusting (while the light is burning) the distance between the lime and tip. With all calcium jets the lime can be adjusted or set before the gas is turned on, but not after the light is burning. An accurate adjustment of this distance can be made only while the light is burning. If the lime is the proper distance from the tip, the light will not only be bright, but will also burn with less noise.

When more gas is turned on for a moving picture or dark slide the lime should be moved a little farther from the tip and when some of the gas is turned off, the lime should be moved a little nearer the tip. The distance the lime should be from tip will also vary according to the angle the gas strikes the lime and the size of opening in the tip.

ADJUSTABLE SUPPORT.

Jets Nos. 2 and 3 are supplied with an adjustable holder or support that can be set to suit post in any lantern. All lanterns are furnished with a post to which the jet or burner is attached by means of a set screw. The post is either in the center or to the right or left of center. In order to bring the light in direct line with the center of condensing lens, it is usually necessary to change position of the post. This requires drilling a hole, cutting a thread, etc. None of this delay, expense and trouble will be had with the Inner-tube jet. By means of a thumb screw the support that fits on the post can be instantly adjusted for any position. No other jet is furnished with this adjustment.

STOP COCKS.

Stop cocks are used to regulate flow of gas to the tip when using double lantern and low pressure key. For single lantern or high pressure key they are of no special value. A stop cock is not practical for this purpose, because it has no fine regulation. In place of the stop cocks, with the Inner-tube jet, is furnished needle point regulating valves. This gives fine adjustment, perfect control of the gas, and is a great improvement on the stop cocks. The regulating valve on the hydrogen side of jet will also be found convenient to use when a saturator is used in place of a hydrogen tank.

MIXING CHAMBER.

The two gases should be thoroughly mixed before reaching the tip, and the smaller the chamber in which this mixing can be properly done the better. A jet with a large mixing chamber does not work well with a double dissolving lantern. The large amount of mixed gas in the chamber will cause the light to "snap out" unless the dissolving key is turned very slowly. This is necessary in order to give the mixing chamber time to be entirely cleared of oxygen. There are several calcium jets on the market claiming to give light of large candle power, owing to the fact that they have large mixing chambers, by means of which the gases are thoroughly mixed. The Inner-tube jet being constructed on an entirely different principle from other jets, accomplishes this thorough mixing and does it in a small mixing chamber.

LESS NOISE.

As the gases both mix flowing in the same direction, with no sharp turns to make, the light burns more quickly. There is always more or less noise when two gases come together flowing in opposite directions, which is the case with most jets. In the Inner-tube jets both gases mix flowing in the same direction. From cut of jets Nos. 2 and 3, one might think there were two main gas tubes leading to the tip. The gas, however, passes through only one side of the jet, the other side serving simply as a means of support for the lime holder and turner.

POINTS OF SUPERIORITY.

The Inner-tube calcium jet has many improvements and points of advantage over other calcium jets.

1. Better method of mixing the gases.
2. Consumes less gas for a given amount of light.
3. Gives a brighter and more steady light with less noise and sputtering.
4. Has mechanical device to adjust distance of lime from tip.
5. A mixing chamber specially adapted for dissolving lantern.
6. Regulating valves in place of stop cocks.
7. Adjustable support for jet so it can be used on any lantern.
8. More convenient to operate.

REMARKS.

A calcium jet is one of the most important things to consider when using oxy-hydrogen light. The lenses, pictures and everything else may be of the best, but if the calcium jet is poor, it is impossible to make a good picture on the curtain. The inner-tube jets cost no more than other burners and have many points of advantage. We would suggest reading carefully "Calcium Light" as applied to projection, see index.

THREE DIFFERENT STYLES.

Jet No. 1—(see cut). Inner-tube calcium jet No. 1 has neither lime turner nor lime adjuster; however, excellent results will be obtained with it and for a low-priced jet, it has no equal.

Jet No. 2—(see cut). Inner-tube calcium jet No. 2 has mechanical lime turner and lime adjuster. It is the same as No. 3 except there are no regulating valves (in place of stop cocks). This is the calcium jet we specially recommend for single lantern. With it the lime can be revolved, raised or lowered and moved forward or backward as desired—it gives absolute and perfect control of the lime.

Jet No. 3—(see cut). Inner-tube calcium jet No. 3 has mechanical lime turner, for revolving, raising and lowering the lime; mechanical lime adjuster for adjusting the distance between the lime and tip, and two needle regulating valves in place of stop cocks. This jet is specially adapted for dissolving lantern when using a low pressure key.

NOTICE.

There are several calcium jets on the market similar in appearance to the "Inner-tube" jet, however they do not have an "Inner" tube, that is, a tube within a tube. Beware of these imitations. See that the name "Inner-tube" is stamped on the jet.

Acetylene Gas.

Acetylene gas for many years was known only as a laboratory curiosity, but in 1893 a method was discovered of manufacturing the carbide in quantities for commercial use. The gas is made by simply immersing calcic carbide in water. This chemical (usually called "carbide") is produced by fusing together in an electric furnace about 40 per cent finely ground coke and 60 per cent unslacked lime. This requires an intense heat, which can only be obtained by an electric furnace. In appearance it resembles lime stone and is just as safe to handle. The same caution applies to its care as does to unslacked lime, that is keep it dry. If a piece of calcic carbide be heated till it is red hot, it will not give off its gas or do it any injury; but place it in water and it immediately begins to liberate acetylene gas. In liberating gas it also liberates great deal of heat. Carbide as found on the market is usually in small pieces and the size used with both the Ideal and Perfection Generator is $\frac{1}{4} \times 1-12$. Each pound of carbide will produce from $4\frac{1}{2}$ to 5 cubic feet of acetylene gas. Two pounds of carbide will give sufficient gas for two hours use with the best quadruple burner. All acetylene tips are constructed on principle of a Bunson burner, that is, air is mixed with the gas before reaching the point of combustion. Every tip has two or more holes to admit air, which is mixed with the gas before burning. When used with a good tip, acetylene burns with a pure white light and without smoke or odor. In brilliancy it is about twelve times that of ordinary illuminating gas. Although it will not compare with calcium or electric light it will give a good ten foot stereopticon picture.

Explosions reported from acetylene gas are usually from using liquid acetylene or where the gas is confined under extremely high pressure. There is no more danger in the use of acetylene for stereopticon, than there is in using the ordinary illuminating gas. All accidents that have occurred with acetylene would have occurred with ordinary illuminating gas under the same circumstances.

We always have on hand a stock of second-hand goods, and point with pride to the fact that they are goods of other makes - have been received in exchange from experienced exhibitors who recognize and appreciate the superior quality of our own make.

The Ideal Acetylene Generator.

All authorities on the manufacture and use of acetylene agree that the best and scientific method of obtaining the gas is to drop small quantities of carbide in a comparatively large volume of water. The Ideal Acetylene Generator is constructed on this principle and automatically drops the carbide in the water as required.

IMPROVED METHOD

This method of dropping the carbide in water, possesses many advantages over the old method of immersing the carbide in water while contained in a wire basket. Generating acetylene gas develops great heat and it is desirable to keep the carbide and water cool as possible. When the carbide is dropped in the water it falls to the bottom, so the gas as liberated, bubbles up through all the water. But when the carbide is used with a wire basket only the surface

With this generator the unused carbide is kept perfectly dry, and the charged generator will stand for days without making or losing any gas. Sufficient carbide can be put in the hopper to run a four jet burner two and a half or three hours. As the carbide in the hopper is always dry and clean, whatever is left can be poured back in the can with the rest of the carbide. Cost of gas is about ten cents per hour.

With the Ideal Generator carbide is fed automatically from the hopper into the water. The gas produced raises the inside tank until the plunger closes the supply tube. As gas is used out the inside tank gradually drops until plunger rod touches bottom of reservoir, when more carbide is released, and more gas formed.

MAKING ACETYLENE GAS

This acetylene outfit is constructed on an entirely new principle and is by far superior to any acetylene outfit made for the stereopticon or magic lantern. "P" is generator and wash bottle and "B" is the storage tank. No heat is required for making the gas. The carbide is gradually brought in contact with the water, liberating the acetylene gas, which is stored by its own pressure in the tank. The process is simple and in a few minutes sufficient gas can be made for several entertainments. The gas is made before the entertainment begins, so all you have to do is to turn on the gas and light it.

THE PERFECTION ACETYLENE GENERATOR ATTACHED TO STEREOPTICON.

IS IT DANGEROUS?

Some people have an idea that the use of carbide gas is dangerous. On this question we refer you to the Scientific American, Acetylene Journal, or any other work of authority. They will all tell you there is no more danger in using carbide gas than there is in ordinary house or illuminating gas, and some even claim, for general use, there is less danger. The generator is so constructed and the amount of carbide is so small that, practically, there is no danger whatever in making the gas. As a safeguard against danger from an accident while making gas, a safety valve is provided. It is very seldom an excessive pressure is obtained or an accident occurs; but in case of an emergency the safety valve will relieve the excessive pressure and no harm will be done.

OBJECTIONS TO THE OLD STYLE ACETYLENE OUTFITS.

In all other acetylene outfits the gas is made as it is used and is kept in the tank by what is termed a "water seal." When full pressure is obtained (or the tank stands unused for awhile) the gas will bubble out through the water, escaping in the air. This is not only disagreeable but unhealthy and dangerous. All the gas or carbide left in the generator after the entertainment cannot be saved for future use and is therefore a loss. Another serious objection is that water frequently gathers in the tube causing the light to constantly flicker.

ADVANTAGES OF THE PERFECTION GENERATOR.

In the "Perfection" acetylene gas generator there is no loss of carbide or gas. The gas stored in the tank can be shipped and used at any future time. There is no danger of gas escaping in the air. There being no water in the tank it is perfectly clean and can be used on a carpeted floor. The gas being free from steam or moisture, no water can accumulate in the tubes. The gas in the tank is always dry and under constant pressure; the flow of which is regulated by a needle valve. This gas gives a steady, bright light and for dissolving with a double lantern, it is far superior to any other acetylene gas making outfit made. Those who purchase the "Perfection" acetylene generator, can any time in the future, add the "Ozo" gas making part of the "Ozo-Carbi" outfit (described on page 86 of our catalogue). This will make the "Ozo-Carbi" outfit complete, which gives a light brighter than calcium and more simple than electricity. Expense of the "ozo" part of the outfit will be $40.00. Only few minutes is required to make the gas and the process will be found very simple. Full directions sent with each outfit.

CALCIUM LIGHT AS APPLIED TO PROJECTION.

This illuminant is known by various names, as calcium or lime light, oxy-hydrogen or gas tank light. The name, however, most generally used in this country is "calcium light."

For many years this was the most popular light used for high class work, but electricity is now rapidly replacing it. Electric light is cheaper, stronger and more convenient to use. Calcium light is made by simply heating a piece of lime to a white heat. This is accomplished by burning against the lime, a mixture of the two gases, oxygen and hydrogen.

THE OXYGEN GAS.

Oxygen occurs in a free state in the air, mixed with about four times its volume of nitrogen. Oxygen is not a combustible gas, but a supporter of combustion. A gas jet would not burn if there was no oxygen in the air. It is the oxygen supporting combustion of the hydrogen, that produces an intense heat by which the lime is made white hot. Oxygen is a colorless gas, having no taste or smell. For this reason care should be taken to see that all connections are tight when making or using it. Frequently an operator will lose quite a percentage of his oxygen by being careless about tight connections or a loose stuffing box. A leak from the gas used for hydrogen will soon be detected by the odor, but not so with oxygen. A convenient test is to light a match, blow out the flame, and hold the glowing ember to a joint where oxygen is escaping. The spark will glow more brightly and frequently relight the match. The better way, however, to test a connection, is to rub on the joint thick soap-suds or lather. The slightest leak will be detected by the gas bubbling through the soapsuds. There are a number of methods used to make oxygen for commercial use, but the one in general use for calcium light is by heating chlorate of potash and black oxide of manganese. No oxygen is obtained from the manganese—it serves simply as a medium for gradual liberation of the gas. Without a medium of this kind the chlorate of potash would melt and then liberate the oxygen with explosive violence. The chlorate of potash should be in small pieces or crystals. If necessary to use the powdered chlorate of potash add to the mixture of potash and manganese, about twenty per cent common table salt. The gas will then be liberated quietly. Oxygen made from chlorate of potash should be washed (allowed to bubble through water) in order to remove the chlorine, some of which is liberated with the oxygen.

One pound of chlorate of potash will make about 4 cu. ft. of oxygen. This is sufficient to last about an hour, when using a tip with a medium bore. One cubic foot of oxygen weighs 1.43 oz. or 1 oz. equals 7-10 of a cubic foot of gas. A 50-ft. tank of oxygen will therefore weigh about 4½ pounds more when full, than it does when empty. Should you weigh a tank before and after an entertainment, finding the difference to be 10 oz., multiply this by 7-10 and it would show you had used 7 cubic feet of oxygen.

THE HYDROGEN GAS.

Hydrogen, often called inflammable air, exists in a free state on the surface of the earth, only in small quantities. It is evolved in large quantities from active volcanoes and petroleum wells. When gas bags were in general use, both hydrogen and oxygen were made by the lantern operator and stored in the bags. The usual method employed for making this hydrogen was by the action of dilute sulphuric acid on scrap zinc or iron nails. The hydrogen obtained by using zinc is purer than that obtained from iron. Pure hydrogen is a colorless gas and has neither taste nor smell. It is the lightest known substance, being about 14½ times lighter than air. Although hydrogen is not poisonous, it is incapable of supporting animal life, owing simply to the exclusion of oxygen. Pure hydrogen at the present time is seldom used for making calcium light. The hydrogen in general use for this light is in form of illuminating gas or vaporized 88 gasoline or ether. The gas sold in tanks for hydrogen is just the ordinary house or illuminating gas pumped into tanks. It has been claimed that with pure hydrogen a stronger light could be obtained. Careful tests have not only proven that this is not true, but have also proven that more oxygen will be required to produce an equal amount of light. The result of burning hydrogen and oxygen together forms an oxide of hydrogen (H₂O)—the common name of which is water. If hydrogen and air, or oxygen, be mixed in certain proportion, and a flame applied to the mixture, they will instantly combine with a violent explosion. A tank that has been used for hydrogen should never be used for oxygen. The gas seems to saturate the metal, so it is almost impossible to remove it.

BUY OR MAKE THE GAS.

To obtain the necessary gases for making calcium light the exhibitor must either buy the gas in tanks or purchase a gas making outfit and make his own gas. To purchase the gas in tanks will cost more than to make the gas, when the oxygen is made from chlorate of potash. Buying gas in tanks or using a gas-making outfit, each has points of advantage, not possessed by the other.

CALCIUM GAS-MAKING OUTFITS.

Of the portable gas making outfits on the market, there are several different styles and prices, description of which will be found elsewhere in the catalogue. All these outfits except the "ozo-carbi" obtain their hydrogen by passing a little oxygen through 88 gasoline or ether. The oxygen passing through the liquid converts it into vapor. This vapor mixed with some oxygen takes place of the hydrogen or black tank.

THE SATURATOR.

Also See Index, "No. 3 Saturator."

The saturator is that part of a portable gas making outfit that produces the hydrogen, and takes place of the hydrogen or black tank. It is filled with cotton or some other porous material, saturated with 88 gasoline or ether. Ordinary gasoline cannot be used, as it is too heavy and will not evaporate rapidly enough. The lightest gasoline in commercial use is the 88, and when ordered for use with a saturator be sure to specify the "88." If ether is used, order the stronger or concentrated. This contains only about 4 per cent alcohol, while the ordinary commercial ether contains about 25 per cent of alcohol. It not only gives better results, but will last longer. The alcohol in a poor quality of ether does not evaporate readily and accumulates in the saturator. The commercial term "ether" always means sulphuric ether unless otherwise stated. Squibb's ether is found in every drug store and is the ether generally used for anasthetical purposes. It is a high priced concentrated ether, but no better for use in a saturator than any other concentrated or stronger ether.

For more information regarding construction and use of saturator, see index, "improved saturator."

GAS TANKS.

In many of the large cities are calcium light companies who furnish the gases in tanks or cylinders. These tanks are made in various sizes. The most popular for use on the road is the largest size, 50-ft. Scaff tank.

It is 12x48 inches, weighs 95 pounds and is tested to 600 pounds hydraulic pressure. The oxygen tank is painted red and the hydrogen tank black. To contain 50 cubic feet, they should be charged to 225 pounds. As a little more hydrogen is used than oxygen, the black tank is usually charged to 240 pounds. A pair of these cylinders (50 cubic feet) will last from 6 to 9 hours, depending on how much the light is "crowded," and size of bore in the tip. The calcium light companies who sell gas make no charge for use of the tanks, unless the tanks are kept over certain length of time, when a small weekly rental is made. In another part of the catalogue will be found list of firms who sell calcium light gas. When speaking of the price of gas, it is always understood to be a tank of each gas. In Chicago the cost of this gas is 12½ cents per cubic foot—that is, a 50-ft. tank of oxygen and a 50-ft. tank of hydrogen will cost $6.25.

CALCIUM JET.

Care should be used in selecting a jet, for on it largely depends success of the light. Among the points to be considered in purchasing a jet are: Adjustment of the lime (revolving, raising and lowering, and moving the lime nearer or farther from tip)—thorough mixing of the gas—a good tip with a smooth bore, and if low pressure dissolving key is used see that the jet has stop cocks or regulating valves.

For information covering these points see index, "inner-tube jet." When shipping, care should be taken that the tip is not injured. A noisy jet, when small amount of gas is used, is due to a drop of gas high spot in the hole, or to some foreign substance in the tip. To remove a hard instrument to clean the tip, lest you make it rougher, use a bamboo pipe cleaner of wool or cotton. If a wire is used, rub it first with fine wire and then used with care. Never allow the tip to melt, for as there is danger of melting it off or making it soft and flimsy it will be rough and noisy. If a jet has a large mixing chamber it will not work well with low pressure dissolving key. When purchasing the jet, (strong pressure of gas) the lime should be turned more frequently than when using small pressure of gas. A jet with small bore will "pit" the lime quicker than one with a large bore, and when using the small bore, the lime should be turned oftener. When using a tip with a large bore, a fair pressure of gas must be maintained, otherwise the light might "snap back" in the jet and burn where the two gases come together. If a jet with a small bore is used this is not so liable to occur. To obtain the best results, as you increase the pressure at the tip (by turning on more gas), you should also increase the distance between the tip and lime. For further information read description of "inner-tube" calcium jet.

TO OPERATE THE LIGHT.

See that the rubber tubes and pipes of the jet are free from obstruction. See that the piece of lime when placed in the holder and revolved is equal distance from the tip. The proper distance the lime should be from the tip will be governed by the size of bore in tip, amount of gas consumed, etc. However, to start with, set the lime from $\frac{1}{8}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ inch from tip. Turn on the hydrogen first and light at the tip. When the blaze is three or four inches above the lime, slowly turn on the oxygen, until the blaze is nearly all consumed. There should always be a slight excess of hydrogen which will be indicated by a tinge of yellow blaze around the light. Turn on more hydrogen and then more oxygen until the light will slightly hiss or roar, then turn off a little oxygen and a little hydrogen until the light burns quietly. If the jet is provided with a mechanical lime adjustment, move the lime a little nearer or farther from the tip, until you find the hottest part of the blaze. This you can tell by the amount of light on the screen. Never look directly at front part of the lime, lest it "dazzle" or "blind" the eyes. When the eyes are not in normal condition, you cannot see to obtain a good focus. A little experience will soon enable one to judge the quality of light by appearance of field on the curtain. It is well to occasionally glance at the lime from the rear to see if there is a slight fringe of yellow flame around the light.

Care should be taken to adjust the burner so the brightest spot on the lime will be strictly in center of condensing lens. Look at the curtain while you raise and lower the burner a little, move it forward and back, from one side to the other, until you find the place where the best illumination on the curtain is obtained. If the lime is proper distance from the tip, it will also make the light brighter (see "lime adjuster" under calcium jet).

Many operators are careless about adjusting the burner and regulating the gas to obtain a mixture that will produce the best light. Some operators will obtain, with same amount of gas, from 10 to 25 per cent more light on the curtain than others. This difference is due to careful adjustment of the burner, the lime and the gases.

We always have on hand a stock of second-hand goods, and point with pride to the fact that they are goods of other makes—have been received in exchange from experienced exhibitors who recognize and appreciate the superior quality of our own make.

Portable Gas Outfits.

Compare the Different Kinds.

There are a number of different styles of portable calcium gas making outfits on the market and they all have the same object in view—namely that of saving the exhibitor money.

Gas Bags.

This was the first and original portable outfit. The oxygen and hydrogen were both made and stored in the gas bags before the entertainment began. The bags being made of rubber are not durable and this style of outfit at present is not in general use.

Cost per hour for this light is about 35 cents.

Tank and Saturator.

This style of outfit has become very popular during the last few years. The oxygen is made and stored in the tank before the entertainment begins. The hydrogen is automatically made as used from gasoline or ether, by what is termed a "saturator." Beware of a small saturator.

The saturator that will cause the least trouble is the improved No. 3 described in this catalogue.

It is constructed on scientific principles and protected by patents. Compare it with any other saturator on the market and you will readily see its many points of advantage.

When the oxygen is stored in a tank, there is no waste of chemicals or gas—a free steady flow of gas is always obtained and by means of the gauge, you tell at all times just the amount of gas in the tank.

Cost per hour with this light is about 25 cents.

Oxygen Made by Heat as Used.

In this style of outfit no bags or tank are used; but both gases are made automatically as required. The oxygen is made by application of small alcohol lamps to a tube or series of cups filled with oxygen chemicals. This heats the chemicals sufficient to liberate the oxygen gas as required for use. The hydrogen is made by using a saturator. The outfit is light, weighing about 35 pounds and the expense of running is small. Owing to the trouble of making during the entertainment, both the oxygen and hydrogen gases, this style of an outfit has never been very popular.

Cost per hour of light with this outfit is about 30 cents.

Oxylithe and Water.

In this outfit like the preceeding one, neither tank nor gas bags are used, both gases being made while using the light. The oxygen is obtained by bringing in contact with water a chemical called Oxylithe. The hydrogen is made by using a saturator.

Although very good results can be obtained with this outfit, still it is not as convenient to operate as where the oxygen is made and stored in a tank. One of the serious objections is the expense of the chemicals (Oxylithe) for making the oxygen.

Cost of light with this outfit is about $1.00 per hour.

Ozo-Carbi Outfit.

THE KING OF PORTABLE LIGHTS.

This outfit requires two tanks. No saturator is used; but both gases are made and stored in the tanks. No gas is made while using the light. Everyone familiar with calcium light admits that two tanks of gas is the most reliable, convenient and best method of making calcium light. It is the method used by all the theaters, all the large companies on the road and all the best lecturers and exhibitors. The only way to obtain a constant, reliable, even flow of gas and a steady light is by using two tanks. Cost of light per hour with this outfit is about 20 cents.

Comparison of Gas Outfits.

By comparing the cost and quality of the different portable gas outfits, it will be readily seen that the "ozo-carbi" outfit is much superior to all other outfits. It costs less to run it; it gives a stronger and more steady light and is much more convenient to operate. As moving pictures require a very strong light, the "ozo-carbi" light will be found specially valuable to everyone using a moving picture machine. The one to appreciate this light most is the one who has tried some other gas making outfit.

Experience has taught every successful circus, show or theatrical manager to do everything that is possible before the entertainment or performance begins, "If you wish to be successful profit by the experience of those who have made a success."

Not only make your own gas but attend to every detail before time for the entertainment and you will succeed while others fail.

CALCIUM LIGHT GAS COMPANIES.

For the convenience of those who wish to purchase gas we submit the following list of calcium light companies, where oxygen and hydrogen can be purchased in cylinders and tanks. Gas is sold in several different size cylinders; but the one in general use is the large size, 12x48 inches. When charged to 225 pounds, this size cylinder holds 50 cubic feet of gas, sufficient to run about seven hours. All cylinders, large or small, are charged to the same pressure, 225 pounds. Two cylinders are required, one of hydrogen and one of oxygen. A pair of the large size cylinders (12x48) weighs about 200 pounds. The price of gas will vary somewhat with different companies, but is usually about 12½ cents per foot.

The Chicago Calcium Light Company charge $6.25 for two large cylinders of gas (one of oxygen and one of hydrogen), each holding 50 feet. No charge is made for use of the tanks, if returned within thirty days.

ARNOLD'S

IMPROVED CALCIUM LIGHT OUTFIT.

THE ONLY PORTABLE CALCIUM LIGHT OUTFIT CONSTRUCTED ON PRACTICAL AND SCIENTIFIC PRINCIPLES

CALCIUM LIGHT.

HOW MADE.

Calcium or lime light is made by heating a piece of lime to white heat by burning the two gases, oxygen and hydrogen. These must be kept in separate cylinders or tanks and mixed in the burner when used.

Making your gas with this outfit the expense for each entertainment will be about 35 cents. To buy gas and pay express charges both ways the expense will be from $1.50 to $2.00 for each entertainment. The saving in express charges alone will pay cost of an outfit in a very short time. Besides it avoids serious losses often accruing from delay in filling orders, misconnections and delays in transit. This is a very important item and one that is liable to occur at any time.

You can always make your own gas anywhere. In half an hour you can make enough to last you for an evening performance of two hours or more.

Where electricity cannot be obtained, where they insist on charging exorbitant pay for same, or where current fails (which is very often the case) the change can be made and you are always ready and independent.

GAS BAGS. From a stand point of convenience and economy, various methods and devices have been tried to obtain a Portable Calcium Gas Making Outfit. Among the most popular of these has been the "Gas Bag" Outfit.

The gas seems to rot the bags, and they soon get to leaking and are rendered useless. You can place no dependence on a gas bag. It is likely to get punctured or spring a leak at any time, and this unfortunate circumstance frequently occurs just before or during an entertainment. As gas cannot be shipped in a bag, what is left after an entertainment is a total loss.

A TANK can always be depended upon. Enough gas can be made at one time for several entertainments. There is no waste of gas, and all this expense and annoyance is avoided.

Oxygen Gas Making Outfit.

A, is plumber's heater; C, retort for chemicals; D, wash bottle; E, connecting tube or hose; F, is stem of tank valve; N, pressure gauge; I, supporter for retort; R, hood for retort.

The most popular method of heating the retort is to put it in a stove or furnace and use wood or soft coal for fuel. The gas can also be made by building fire out on the ground. The above cut shows making gas by heating retort with a plumber's furnace.

Any other method may be used to heat the retort; but if the plumber's furnace is used, much better results will be obtained by covering the retort with a sheet iron hood (R) to confine the heat. Price of furnace with hood is $5.00 and is not included in the price of the outfit.

The tank is 12x36 inches, and tested with hydraulic pressure to 450 pounds. It is made from drawn steel, galvanized inside and out, and has no seams or rivet heads. The tank will hold sufficient gas for two and a half to three hours' constant use.

The oxygen gas is made from a mixture of four parts by weight of Chlorate of Potash in small crystals and one part of powdered Black Oxide of Manganese. These chemicals can be purchased in any retail drug store. The oxygen gas is very easily made. The mixed chemicals are placed in retort C, heat is applied and as the oxygen is liberated, it is stored in the tank. No pump is required—the gas being forced into the tank by direct expansion. There is no waste of gas, for all gas left in tank after an entertainment can be used the next time or more gas added at any time convenient.

The oxygen gas making outfit when packed ready for shipment consists of one box and one tank and can be checked as baggage; weight of complete outfit about 150 pounds.

Price, Oxygen Gas Making Outfit.....$35.00

Plumber's Furnace and Hood.....$5.00 extra

The above outfit does not include saturator and connections, which is necessary to complete an outfit for use with a lantern.

Oxygen Chemicals.

The chemicals generally used for making Oxygen are Black Oxide of Manganese, 1 part, and Chlorate of Potash, 4 parts. The Manganese is a black powder, and the Potash is in small white pieces or crystals.

These should be of good quality, well mixed, free from dirt, scraps of paper, pieces of wood, etc. Should any carbonaceous matter (substance that will burn) be mixed with the chemicals it might take fire and cause a deal of trouble.

Black Oxide of Manganese is frequently adulterated with charcoal, which cannot be detected by the eye. For ordinary use, this would do no harm; but should never be used for making oxygen. You cannot afford to take chances of using poor chemicals. Our chemicals are the best quality, mixed ready for use, and are sold at a low price. When sent by freight in lots less than 100 pounds 50 cents should be added for drayage. This charge also applies to ozo chemicals and carbide.

As we handle them for convenience of the trade, all orders for chemicals should be accompanied by the cash. Each charge will require about 2½ lbs. Oxygen chemicals should always be ordered with the outfit.

Price, per pound, mixed, ready for use.....20 cents
In lots of 100 pounds or more, 10 per cent. discount.

IMPROVED No. 3 SATURATOR.

The only safe, reliable, and scientific saturator made.

The above cut shows the latest improved saturator, with glass gauge, regulating valve and reserve supply tank. The glass gauge not only shows at all times when the proper amount of liquid is in the saturator, but it also serves as a "by-pass", mixer and agitator whereby the evaporation is greatly increased. The gravity supply tank with regulating valve, automatically replaces the liquid as fast as the evaporation takes place.

YOU CAN BANK ON IT.

Test the saturator before your entertainment begins, and if it works "O. K." the gravity supply tank and regulating valve will keep it "O. K." during the entire performance.

It is simple, safe and reliable; requires no attention; is automatic in action and will insure an even flow of gas and a bright, steady light.

THE ONLY SATURATOR CONSTRUCTED ON SCIENTIFIC AND PRACTICAL PRINCIPLES.

The usual cause of all trouble with a saturator is lack of sufficient gasoline or ether. Everyone using a saturator, has experienced more or less trouble by the snapping or popping noise, when the light is turned off. This usually occurs at the close of an entertainment, when the saturator is nearly empty. By not having sufficient Hydrogen, the gases form an explosive mixture.

If this explosion occurs at the tip a snapping report will be made: but no harm done. Should the explosion occur in the rubber tubes they will burst or be blown off at the jet. Should the explosion take place in the saturator it will burst the saturator.

A saturator should not be made of cast iron or any other strong material, for should it ever explode, serious results might follow.

If too much gasoline or ether is put in the tank at one time, there is danger of carrying the liquid over into the jet.

A very large saturator is not practical, as the elasticity of the gas (that is constantly being made) is such that an even flow to the jet cannot be obtained.

A saturator constructed on scientific principles should be made the right size to obtain free flow of hydrogen and have it under perfect control. When this result is obtained, then means should be provided to keep this free and even flow of gas constant.

The glass gauge, the gravity tank and regulating valve will do this. By this device the saturator will automatically be supplied with liquid to replace that which is evaporated and always gives an even flow of gas and a bright steady light.

A fire will soon cease to furnish heat if fresh fuel is not supplied. A steam boiler will explode if means are not provided for renewing the supply of water as it evaporates. A saturator will soon cease to do good work and frequently explode if means are not provided for renewing the supply of liquid as it evaporates.

No saturator can be used with satisfaction and safety more than one hour without putting in a fresh supply of gasoline or ether. So if your entertainment exceeds one hour in length you should use the improved No. 3 saturator.

The improved No. 3 saturator is practical and scientific, is simple and reliable and is the only perfect saturator made.

This saturator can be used with any portable outfit and connections for this purpose will be furnished on receipt of cap or nut to show size and thread of connection with Oxygen tank. If not convenient to send cap or nut, send a plaster paris cast made to fit half way around the connection. To insure a perfect cast first slightly oil the connection, mix the plaster paris with water to the consistency of thick paste and after placing it in proper position around the connection and while it is yet comparatively soft, cut the cast with a sharp knife, dividing it in the center. When the plaster paris cast is set, it can be easily removed without breaking. It is also advisable to always give name of the manufacturer of your calcium light outfit.

Printed directions for using are sent with each saturator which will be found very simple and easy to operate.

OXYGEN TANK AND SATURATOR.

Consists of the oxygen tank with an improved No. 3 saturator ready to attach to the lantern. There is a regulating valve between the tank and saturator. One of the rubber tubes leads from this valve to the burner and the other from the saturator to the burner. To one side of the tank valve is attached the gauge and to the other side the saturator. By means of the gauge at all times during the entertainment you can see just how much gas there is in the tank. The box shown in cut holds the retort and connections for making the oxygen gas, the saturator and a can for oxygen chemicals.

The Arnold's calcium light outfit consists of the oxygen gas making outfit, saturator and connections and can for oxygen chemicals. The outfit when packed ready for shipment comprises one tank and one box.

COMBINED CHECK AND SAFETY VALVE.

FOR THE SATURATOR.

This is a combination of a check valve and a safety valve, and will be found a most valuable improvement in the Calcium Light Outfit. One part of this combination is a ball valve that permits free flow of gas in one direction; but when there is a dangerous back pressure the ball automatically closes the opening leading to the saturator.

If the valve is closed absolutely tight, neither fire from the jet nor mixed gas from back pressure can enter the saturator. However, this might not always be the case and to prevent fire from coming back, (should there be no back pressure) one chamber of the valve is constructed on the principle of the Davy Safety Lamp (see Encyclopedia). In place of the wire gauze, formerly used, we fill this chamber with a fine wire that serves the purpose better and will not be injured by high pressure. The valve is small, made of brass, nickel plated and is attached to the saturator.

With this combined check and safety valve, neither fire from the jet nor back pressure from the mixed gases can possibly enter the saturator.

All our portable calcium light outfits are provided with these valves and are the only safe, reliable, and scientific portable outfits on the market.

GASKETS FOR TIGHT JOINT.

A very important item in the success of making and using gas, is to keep all the joints tight, so there will be no waste from leakage. Special attention should be paid to this when making an odorless gas like oxygen. As the leakage cannot be detected by the odor, half the gas might be wasted during the process of making.

A gasket for this purpose, should be one that will not be injured by heat or water; that is durable and will make a perfectly tight joint without screwing the coupling so tight to endanger it breaking.

After much experimenting we have succeeded in obtaining a composition for gaskets that meets all the requirements and can always be depended upon. So called ground joints are not reliable for road use. Should a grain of sand or a little dirt get in them, or should they get scratched or bruised in shipping, the joints will always leak and in vain effort to stop the leak the coupling is frequently screwed so tightly that it is broken.

Gasoline for Saturator.

The gasoline used in saturators for making calcium light, is much more volatile than the ordinary gasoline. To prevent evaporation in warm weather it is necessary to glue or seal the cork in the can every time it is used. This is not only inconvenient, but requires a new cork each time. The can shown in above cut has wood jacket or cover, bound with hoop iron and wire bands and has a ribbed top, thus making a strong, serviceable can. In place of the opening for a cork, there is a brass casting with a screw top, by which the can is securely closed. There is no danger of leakage and no loss by evaporation.

Everyone using gasoline on the road will appreciate this can. It holds one gallon or sufficient for ten days or two weeks use. Remember that ordinary gasoline does not burn well in a saturator, it should be the 88 test, one gallon of which is sent free with each outfit.

OXYLIGHT GAS MAKING OUTFIT

The above cut shows the outfit set up ready for use. Rubber tubes A and B convey the oxygen and hydrogen gas to the burner or jet. The hydrogen is made from 88 gasoline or ether by using a saturator. The oxygen is made by action of water on "oxylithe" same way as acetylene gas is made from carbide. Oxylithe is a preparation of per-oxide of sodium pressed or moulded in small cakes. It spoils when exposed to the air and is therefore put up in sealed tin boxes. Owing to its caustic properties, it should not be touched with the hands, but handled only with pair of tongs or rubber gloves. Oxylithe parts with its oxygen so readily that it is liable to set fire to anything that will burn, and should therefore not be brought in contact with wood, paper, cotton, wool or any combustible substance. Care should also be taken not to bring in contact with the hands or clothing any of the solution left in the generator after making the gas. Oxylithe is an imported preparation made in France.

Oxone is an American product similar to oxylithe. It is better, however, in that it gives off more oxygen, is less bulky, not so readily decomposed by air, does not spoil so quickly in generator, crumbles less in shipping, is less injurious to hands or clothing, and gives about 10 per cent more oxygen.

Oxone can be used in any generator where oxylithe is used, and in the same way. A box of oxylithe and a box of oxone each weigh about three pounds.

We carry both oxylithe and oxone in stock, and will furnish either as ordered, at the same price.

As it is impossible to accurately gauge the amount of oxygen chemicals for each entertainment, there will always be some loss from chemicals and gas left in the generator.

Expense of running the Oxylight Gas Outfit when sufficient gas is used to obtain good moving picture light is not less than one dollar per hour.

The oxylight outfit is light and compact, weighing only about thirty pounds. Although not as convenient to operate the light as when oxygen is stored in a tank, still it works very nicely and we can recommend it where an outfit of light weight is specially desired.

A deposit must be sent with all orders. When the full amount is sent with order, return money charges will be saved and a discount of 2 per cent. will be allowed. When telegraphing, deposit money with express company and have the agent wire us the order, stating amount of deposit.

THE OZO-CARBI LIGHT.

(Manufactured under Patents No. 393,737 and 724416.)

WHAT IS IT?

The "Ozo-Carbi" Light is the exhibitor's best friend—a light that will revolutionize the exhibition business—a new and wonderful discovery, and a rival of electricity.

It gives more light and costs less money than the best calcium (oxy-hydrogen or lime) light. No saturator or vaporizer, no gasoline or ether, no trouble or danger. It is always ready and can be used with any calcium jet or burner, but better results will be obtained with our "Inner Tube" jet. (See cut and description.) A jet with large mixing chamber is not desirable.

HOW IS IT MADE?

This wonderful light is made by burning carbide or acetylene gas with a compound (or modified form of oxygen) gas called "ozo." The gases are used in the same jet as oxygen and hydrogen are used in making the regular calcium or lime light.

Two tanks are used, one for the carbide and one for the "ozo" gas.

Ever since carbide or acetylene gas became a commercial article, many attempts have been made to utilize it for calcium light; but previous to this discovery, all efforts to accomplish this have proved fruitless.

The burning of oxygen and hydrogen gas through a blow pipe to heat a piece of lime to white heat (for making a light), has been in use for many years, and until the present discovery, no improvement on the original method has been made.

Calcium light is an incandescent light and the intensity of the light depends upon the degree of heat to which the lime can be heated. The hotter the lime, the brighter the light. Acetylene or carbide gas has a greater number of heat units and produces a brighter light than any other known single gas. Oxygen and acetylene cannot be burned together in a calcium jet; but the "ozo" gas and carbide gas burn in a calcium jet the same as hydrogen and oxygen.

The new mixed gases being so much richer and possessing so many more heat units than the oxy-hydrogen gas, less is consumed and a much brighter light is obtained.

THE "OZO" GAS CHEMICALS.

This gas is made by heating the mixed chemicals in a retort, and as the gas is made it passes through an "electro-galvanic modifier." The chemicals used will not explode, burn or decrease in value by handling and shipping. In appearance they are dark red coarse powder, and upon application of heat gradually liberate the several different gases. The "ozo" gas is colorless, has but little odor, is not combustible and is no more dangerous to use than compressed air.

The method of making the gas is similar to the one generally used in making oxygen, and in a short time sufficient gas (of both kinds) can be made for several hours' use.

BETTER THAN ELECTRIC LIGHT.

For general use on the road, the "ozo-carbi" light is far superior to electric light. The best electric light for stereopticon is obtained from direct current of 110 voltage, but unfortunately for the exhibitor, this current is seldom found. We do not claim this light to be stronger than an arc light that can be obtained from a direct current of this voltage; but we do claim the light to be superior to that obtained from low voltage alternating currents, such as are usually met with on the road.

An arc light from an alternating current is very noisy and unsteady and requires much time and attention to keep it burning. The "ozo carbi" light requires very little time or attention to keep a bright, even light.

If you depend on electricity you will frequently be obliged to hire an electrician and occasionally will be charged an exorbitant price for the current used. Figuratively speaking, with the "ozo carbi" light, you furnish your own electricity and are your own electrician. With this new light you will succeed where others fail.

A GOOD LIGHT MEANS SUCCESS.

A good light to the exhibitor means success and a poor light means failure. A moving picture requires much stronger light than a lantern slide. The latter is made of glass and remains stationary, while the former is made of celluloid and moves rapidly before the light. A picture should be sharp and distinct, and unless a bright, strong light is used, a moving picture will be dim.

The public are quick to appreciate a good picture and are as quick to condemn a poor picture. A bright, steady light means a good picture—a pleased audience—a full house and a fat purse.

The purchase of an "ozo carbi" light will be the most profitable investment you ever made.

MAKING THE "OZO" GAS.

The above outfit shows the tank connected with the retort when making the "ozo" gas.

THE TANK.

The tank is 12x36 inches and tested to 450 pounds hydraulic pressure. It is drawn from a solid piece of steel and has no seams or rivet heads, which is the usual place where a tank begins to leak. After the tank is made it is galvanized inside and out, thus preventing the tank from rusting. The tank will hold sufficient gas for three hours' use. All brass fittings, valves and connections are polished and nickel plated.

DOUBLE WASH BOTTLE.

The gas passes through a double wash bottle, D, D, so it is clean and pure when it enters the tank. With the double wash bottle there is no danger of carrying over with the gas any of the chemicals which frequently clog the small openings in the valve or cut the valve seat so it will leak. Another advantage of the double wash bottle is, that the gas being much cooler, there will be no steam carried into the tank. Steam or moisture will corrode the valves and cause water to accumulate in the tank.

The gas is very easily made. The mixed chemicals are placed in the retort "C," heat is applied, and as the "ozo" gas is liberated it is stored by its own pressure in the tank. The cut shows the retort heated by a plumber's furnace. The retort may be heated by placing it in a stove, by building a fire on the ground, or any other method of heating may be used. The furnace and hood "R" to cover retort, is not included in price of outfit.

MAKING THE CARBIDE GAS.

This cut shows the outfit as connected when making the carbide or acetylene gas. The carbide generator is also provided with a safety valve, that renders the manufacture of the gas perfectly safe.

No heat is required to make the carbide gas and by its own expansion it is stored in the tank. The generator is a combined generator and wash bottle. The process is very simple and in a few minutes sufficient gas for several entertainments can be made.

The carbide tank is made of drawn steel, same as "Ozo" tank, and holds sufficient gas for three hours' use.

Before an entertainment a connection with a support three feet high and acetylene jet can be attached to the tank so that the operator at the close of the entertainment can light the room temporarily if desired. This attachment will frequently prove very serviceable, enabling the operator to instantly control the lighting of the room, or any other place where illumination is wanted. The jet and standard will be furnished at the slight additional cost of $2.50.

"OZO-CARBI" LIGHT IN USE.

This cut shows the "ozo-carbi" gas outfit as it appears when connected with a stereopticon.

A is stem of tank valve that is operated by a cylinder wrench furnished with the outfit. B is a regulating valve that is operated by the hand and is to be removed when the tank is packed for shipping. Each tank is provided with a gauge as well as a regulating valve. The gauges indicate at all times the amount of gas in each tank, and the regulating valves give the operator perfect control of the gas and insures an even, steady flow to the burner.

IS IT DANGEROUS?

There is no more danger in using a tank of carbide gas and a tank of "ozo" gas, than there is in using a tank of hydrogen and oxygen.

Some people have an idea that the use of carbide gas is dangerous. On this question we refer you to the Scientific American, Acetylene Journal, or any other work of authority. They will all tell you there is no more danger in using carbide gas than there is in ordinary house or illuminating gas, and some even claim, for general use, there is less danger. The generator is so constructed and the amount of carbide is so small that, practically, there is no danger whatever in making the gas. As a safeguard against danger from an accident while making gas, a safety valve is provided. It is very seldom an excessive pressure is obtained or an accident occurs; but in case of an emergency the safety valve will relieve the excessive pressure and no harm will be done. The generator for making the carbide gas and the retort for making the "ozo" gas are both provided with a safety valve.

WHEN PACKED FOR SHIPPING.

The outfit when ready for shipping consists of two tanks and one shipping case. The shipping case contains the carbide generator, the "ozo" gas making outfit and two cans for chemicals and carbide.

The outfit can be checked as baggage. With each outfit is sent complete printed instructions, which will be found very simple.

It is always advisable to order some chemicals shipped with outfit. For every hour's use it will require about $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. carbide for the acetylene gas and 1 lb. chemicals for the "ozo" gas. The price of chemicals for making the "ozo" gas is so low that no discount is made for larger quantity. The carbide for making the acetylene gas can be purchased in almost any city or town.

GUARANTEE.

This light is something entirely new and we guarantee it to be just as represented—superior to anything on the market—more simple to operate, brighter and stronger—more safe to use than any gas making tank outfit ever made. We will forfeit $100 to anyone who can prove that this is not the safest portable calcium tank outfit on the market. We will also forfeit $100 to anyone who can explode one of these outfits when directions are followed. The most enthusiastic advocate of the "ozo-carbi" light will be the exhibitor who has had experience with calcium and electric light. It is such a relief after using an unreliable, dim, or "wheezy" light, that a trial of the "ozo-carbi" light will always gain for it a most enthusiastic friend and advocate.

To introduce this light to the exhibitor, we will take your outfit in exchange as part payment on a new one.

TESTIMONIALS.

En Route, N. Y. City, December 26, 1903.

W. B. MOORE, Esq., Manager,
108 Franklin street, Chicago.

Dear Sir:—We have used your Ozo Carbi Light the past year almost every night in 16 different states and we cannot endorse it too strongly, it is so much more reliable than electricity and at least 25% brighter than calcium using oxygen and hydrogen, and costs us 30 cents a night. Mr. Booth will not use anything else now, though you know before he got it he was prejudiced against it.

Yours truly, run each evening between four and five thousand feet of film, giving an exclusive moving picture show. Have been using electricity and calcium light, buying the gas in tanks. W. B. MOORE,

Mgr. Stereopt. and Film Ex.

Dear Sir:—The Ozo Carbi Outfit arrived in good order and opened up to my entire satisfaction, and works perfectly. As this is the 2nd outfit that I have bought of this kind, I feel that I am in a position to speak of its merits. The 1st outfit is in constant use, and has been for the past year and two months; the results are simply perfection in the quality of light, ease of operation and economy in expense, having given my former partner and myself a reputation for the quality of our moving pictures throughout Nebraska that is the envy of every other moving picture outfit that comes through this part of Uncle Sam's domain.

I can't recommend Ozo Carbi too highly,
Very truly,

W. B. MOORE, Mgr.,

Dear Sir:—We are more than pleased with the Ozo Carbi light. It is much brighter than any except electric, and we have showed audiences that preferred the Ozo Carbi light on account of absence of flicker. It is very easy and quick to make. We have timed ourselves making it, and in 30 minutes have made enough to last three hours, or for two nights' run. This is our tenth season, and we certainly have had experience with all kinds. We prefer this to all others, electric included. Can't say too much for the Ozo Carbi light.

SAFETY VALVE OR VENT.

FOR RETORT OR GENERATOR.

As a safeguard against danger of an accident while making gas it is deemed advisable to use a safety valve.

There are several kinds of so-called safety valves among which may be mentioned the diaphragm valve or vent, the "pop" valve and the alarm valve or whistle. They all possess points of merit; but each one is adopted for a certain class or special work.

After a series of careful experiments lasting several months, we find the diaphragm valve or vent is best adapted for use with a calcium gas making outfit.

The "pop" valve is held in position by a spring or lever which, at a certain pressure allows the valve to open. This valve works very nicely when new and free from rust and corrosion; but to insure safety, the valve should be carefully examined and tested every time gas is made. Great deal of trouble will also be experienced trying to keep this valve from leaking. "Ozo" being an odorless gas, unless great care is taken one-third of the gas might escape and you would not know it. The alarm valve is similar in construction; but is even more faulty than the "pop" valve, in as much as the whistle is easily clogged by dirt or some of the chemicals. An alarm valve or whistle is all right in a boiler to inform the attendant when the water is getting low; but to put a whistle on a calcium gas making outfit will be like blowing a whistle just before a train dashes through a broken bridge.

Very seldom an excessive pressure is obtained or an accident occurs while making gas, and you may never have occasion to use a safety valve. It is like an accident insurance policy, you may never need it; but should an accident ever occur, you want something that is reliable and can be depended upon.

The diaphragm vent valve requires neither time or attention to keep it in order and is simple, safe and reliable. As this valve does not depend on a spring or lever to keep it in position, there is no danger of it leaking. Extra diaphragms are sent with each outfit and it requires only a few minutes to replace a damaged one.

A safety valve should be placed on the retort or generator where the passage is large so it can not be closed either by a defective gasket or by the gas forcing some of the chemicals in the small opening.

LIMES.

The Limes used for calcium light are made from a specially selected grade of white, unslacked lime. The serious objection to the regular limes is the difficulty in keeping them, as they slack when exposed to the air. Many attempts have been made to obtain a substitute for the regular lime pencil, but up to the present time nothing practical has been found. A white, chalky lime will give a whiter, brighter light, but will not last long as the pressure of the flame soon bores or burns a hole in it. A white, smooth, close-grained hard lime will give the best satisfaction for general use.

We handle the celebrated Bird Lime, put up in a specially constructed screw-top can. This can has two covers which offers a double protection for excluding the air and greatly increases the life of the Limes.

The lime dust in the can helps to exclude the air and prevent slacking. Some exhibitors make a mistake by throwing the lime dust away, thinking its object is simply to prevent the limes from breaking when shipping. If a lime is put back in the can when too hot, there is danger of cracking the lime.

For moving pictures, a jet with a large bore should be used. This will consume more gas, and with it should be used a 1 in. or 1 1/4 in. Lime. The difference in amount of light obtained between a 1 in. and 1 1/4 in. lime is small, and for practical use would recommend the 1 in.

PRICE.	Limes, 3/8 in., 12 in can.....	$1.00 per can.
	Limes, 1 in., 12 in can.....	1.10 per can.
	Limes, 1 1/4 in., 12 in can.....	1.80 per can.
	Limes, 1 1/4 in., 6 in can.....	1.00 per can.

The 1 1/4 in. limes have one end turned down to fit the lime cup.

LIMES IN GLASS TUBES.

Limes are put up in glass tubes to exclude the air so they will keep better. When a can of Limes is opened, unless used within a reasonable length of time, it will absorb sufficient moisture to become soft. When put up in glass tubes, each Lime is wrapped in tin foil, placed in the glass tube and the tube is sealed air tight. This will be found a great convenience for those who use only a few Limes. The larger Limes, however, are not put up in this style.

Even when put up in glass tubes Limes will spoil in time, so it is better to buy only a few at a time.

Pressure Gauge

To anyone using gas a pressure gauge is a great convenience and almost a necessity. Without it the operator is at a loss to know the amount of gas in the tank or the amount used at each entertainment. The usual size cylinder used on the road, in which gas is sold and shipped, is 12x48 inches. The amount of gas in this size tank when fully charged is 50 feet and should show pressure of about 225 lbs. This gauge will not only show at all times the pounds pressure in the tank but also the number of cubic feet. BEWARE OF CHEAP GAUGES!

Quality the Best.

This gauge is made of the best quality of brass (no iron), fully nickel plated and polished—the face is the best French plate glass, with bevel edges—the interior mechanism is the finest skilled labor can make—the dial is made by a new process on a composition metal that will always remain bright and distinct.

Each gauge has a box or case with sliding cover which protects the gauge when shipping.

This quality and finish of gauge is usually sold for seven dollars.

Gas Pliers and Lime Tongs.

The best kind of lime tongs is pair of gas pliers. They not only take the place of lime tongs, but can also be used for light hammer, screw driver, wrench, pinchers, etc. A good pair of gas pliers will be found the most convenient tool an operator can have. These pliers are made of drop forged steel and will last a life time.

REGULATING VALVE.

The main part of this valve is made from one solid piece of brass and the needle pointed stem of the best steel. The valve is nickel plated and polished and provided with fine adjustment for regulating the flow of gas.

A regulating valve will not only save the consumption of gas; but will also give a more steady and brighter light.

By using a regulating valve the light can be "set" before the entertainment begins and thereby save the delay and annoyance of adjusting the light after the audience is assembled.

To "set the light" open tank valve freely and adjust the flow of gas by the regulating valve. To turn off the light, close the tank valve and leave the regulating valve set.

Hydrogen Pump Outfit.

A, is tank valve; B, is connection for high pressure hose to tank; C, is the high pressure hose connecting pump and tank; D, is back pressure valve; E, is connection for supply tube; F, is the supply tube, connecting gas jet and pump, and H, is pump handle.

Hydrogen under pressure in a tank is more convenient to use than a saturator and many would use it if they had a cheap way to obtain it. Several methods have been used by traveling exhibitors for making hydrogen, but none of them have proved practicable.

When hydrogen gas is used it is generally purchased in tanks from some calcium light company. The gas sold by these companies for hydrogen is not pure hydrogen, but is the ordinary artificial illuminating gas pumped in the tank. With the hydrogen pump outfit anyone can connect to a gas jet and in a few minutes pump in the tank sufficient gas for an entertainment. For those who buy gas one of these pumps will be found a most valuable investment. It will not only save price of the hydrogen, but will also save transportation charges on the tank both ways. Those who have their own tanks, will find it a profitable investment to purchase an oxygen gas making outfit and make their own oxygen.

The hydrogen gas can be taken from any gas jet. If the tip in the pillar is removed the gas will flow more freely and it will not require so long to fill the tank.

The tank shown in cut is made of drawn steel without seams or rivets (see description under Calcium Light Outfit).

Caution.—Keep the oxygen tank painted red and the hydrogen tank painted black, so no mistake will be made in filling the wrong tank. If a tank has ever had in it either hydrogen or acetylene gas, do not, under any circumstances, use it for oxygen or "ozo" gas (see Ozo-Carbi Light). The gas seems to penetrate the metal to such an extent that it is almost impossible to remove it. Acetylene or hydrogen gas, when mixed with oxygen or air, and confined in a tank, explode with violence when brought in contact with fire. The blaze from the calcium burner or lighted match would run back in the tank, causing the explosion.

HIGH PRESSURE HAND PUMP.

This is one of the best high pressure hand pumps on the market. It has double cylinder, forcing air or gas in the tank by both movements of the handle.

Hydrogen is the thinnest and lightest of all gases and special care is therefore necessary to prevent the gas from leaking. The pump is provided with two back-pressure ball valves, which should be kept clean. If dirt is allowed to accumulate in the valve seat it will prevent the ball valve from closing tightly.

SCREEN OR CURTAIN.

Many exhibitors, we regret to say, do not realize the importance of having a good screen, and are therefore careless about this part of the entertainment. A screen well put up, clean and white and free from wrinkles, is not only a source of satisfaction to the exhibitor, but conveys a good impression to the audience and inspires confidence in the entertainment. If the screen, however, is spotted and dirty, full of folds and wrinkles, it will give a poor impression to everyone on entering the room.

HOW MADE.

Our "improved" screens or curtains are made on improved principles and are the best screens on the market. The strain, wear and tear of a screen is on the edge and corners, and these are the parts to "give out" first. To make these parts the strongest, all of our screens are bound with a strong wide linen tape or webbing and the corners are made double thickness. The loops are made of the same webbing, and body of the curtain is made of the best quality of bleached muslin.

LOOPS.

Loops sewed onto a curtain are much superior to the iron rings that are sometimes used. Rings make the screen heavy and more difficult to handle. If the screen gets damp or wet they rust or rot the cloth and must be removed before the curtain is washed. The loops accomplish all the rings do without these objectionable features.

The loops are about 24 inches apart and on all four sides of the screen. To each side of the corner loops is attached a ring with a piece of rope about six inches long. Loops on sides of the curtain vary in length, so that, when a heavy, strong cord is run through these loops and rings, every loop will pull on the curtain, making it smooth and tight. If the loops were all the same length this result could not be obtained.

POINTS OF SUPERIORITY.

Our screens or curtains have a number of points of advantage over others.

First. Bound all around with heavy linen tape or webbing so they will not tear.

Second. Double corners, where the greatest strain is on the curtain.

Third. Reversible, and loops on all four sides—either side can be used for the picture, and any of the four sides used for the top.

Fourth. So constructed that by means of a strong cord running through the rings and loops the curtain can be stretched four ways at once, making it tight and smooth.

Fifth. Being bound with heavy linen webbing, double cloth on each corner and seams double stitched, the curtain is more durable.

CURTAIN ATTACHMENTS.

These attachments include four rings and a foot of rope attached to each corner—a large strong cord running through the rings and loops, as shown in the cut—four curtain pulleys—half dozen screw hooks—50 feet curtain rope, and printed directions for putting up curtain under different circumstances, and how to take care of a curtain or screen.

REMARKS.

We would under all circumstances advise purchasing the "Improved" Screen. The material is heavier, the workmanship better, and it will outlast two of the ordinary screens. The difference in price will be a most profitable investment. Unless the "ordinary" screen is specified we will always send the "improved."

SCREEN FILLER.

A picture thrown on a screen consists of lights and shadows white and black and the varying shades between these extremes. To obtain the best results it is not only important to have a white curtain; but the curtain should not permit the light to pass through it.

This "filler" is not a whitewash, calomine or a paint; but a metallic mixture, that whitens the curtain and fills the pores, rendering the curtain more impervious to light. Treating your curtain with this preparation will increase the quality of your picture twenty-five per cent, making it sharper and brighter and more distinct.

It is easily and quickly applied. This preparation is put up in five-pound packages, with full instructions for using.

One package will keep your curtain in good shape for a year.

Screen or Curtain on Spring Roller.

These curtains are on spring roller like a window shade and are rolled up out of the way when not in use. These curtains are opaque and as they will not permit any light to pass through them, are much better than the ordinary screen. If once a year they are given a light coating of curtain filler, they will always be white and clean and give the best results. They cannot be folded and are therefore not convenient for a traveling exhibitor; but are specially adapted for lodges, schools or any place where the curtain can be a permanent fixture. We carry the six, eight and ten foot in stock, but the largest size must be made to order.

CUT A.

CUT B.

CURTAIN PULLEYS

A curtain is usually hung by a rope drawn tightly over a screw hook. Frequently it is not possible to make the screw hook firm, and then much trouble is experienced in drawing the curtain tight. If the rope is run over a pulley the curtain can be drawn tighter and with much less strain on the screw hook. As the expense of these pulleys is so small no one using a curtain can afford to be without them.

Cut A represents the style in most general use. Style B gives opportunity for attaching extra rope and adjusting curtain in various positions.

PRICE. Either style, each10c

How to Get a Good Light on the Curtain.

The light must be in the right position in order to have the curtain properly illuminated ("clear field," as it is generally termed). When the disk has a dark shadow on the edge, as shown in figure No. 1, the light should be moved to the left; figure 2, it should be moved to the right; figure 3, the light is too high; figure 4, the light is too low; figure 5, the light is too near the condensers. Should there be an orange red fringe around the edge, the light is too far from the condensers. When light is in right position the curtain will be white, as shown in figure 6. To obtain a correct field it is necessary to have the objective lens in the proper position. A convenient way, is to first put a slide in the carrier, move the projecting lens forward or back till an approximate focus is obtained; then remove the slide and adjust the light for a "clear field."

IMPROVED CURTAIN POLES.

Can be used either with or without guy ropes.

Use of curtain poles or frame is a great convenience and sometimes almost a necessity.

They can all be adjusted to suit different size curtains and are generally sold in sections about three feet long.

With the usual form of curtain poles, to hold them in position, it is necessary to always use guy ropes; but with the Improved curtain poles this is necessary only in cases where the ceiling is more than 18 or 20 feet high.

HOW MADE.

In the cut is an enlarged view of a portion of the lower section. One end of this section has a brass tube that telescopes over the hard wood into which are a number of holes about $1\frac{1}{2}$ inch apart. By means of this brass tubing and pin "A" extension can be made to bring the pole against the ceiling.

Near the bottom of this section is brass casting, containing an extension screw operated by wheel B. Both these adjustments are used to make the pole rigid against the ceiling when guy ropes are not used. At the extreme lower end is a short strong point that sticks in the floor and prevents the pole from slipping. Top end of the pole has a pulley set in the wood for the rope, with which the screen is pulled up in position. It also has three screw eyes in which guy ropes can be attached when it is necessary to use them. Each section is about three feet long and the ends are provided with telescope seamless brass tube fittings, which makes a rigid strong joint.

HOW USED.

When the ceiling is not over 18 feet high, put a number of sections together until the approximate length is obtained and put curtain rope through pulley at top end. Stand the pole upright—adjust the telescope part of the lower section at pin A and make the pole tight against the ceiling by turning wheel B. (See right hand pole of cut). Where the ceiling is too high or where there is nothing against which to brace the top end of pole, it will be necessary to use guy ropes as shown in left hand pole of cut. One end of each rope is fastened to a screw eye in top end of pole and other end to screw eye in the floor. When the poles are in position fasten one end of rope from each pole to corner of curtain, pull it up in position and fasten the other end of rope around pin A. Pull the cord tightly that runs through the loops and rings so as to remove any folds or wrinkles that might be in the curtain.

PROTECT FLOOR AND CEILING.

When using the Improved curtain poles, braced between the floor and ceiling, if desired, a small block of wood can be used on each end of the pole. This will prevent any possibility of marring the floor or ceiling and will be found convenient where there is a specially fine finished ceiling and a marble or polished wood floor. The larger the block the less danger of slipping, and if covered with felt or rubber so much the better. We have rubber padded blocks for this purpose, 4 inches square, to which is provided convenient means of attaching to ends of the poles. By using these blocks the finest polished floor and the most delicately finished ceiling cannot be injured. For private residences, lodge rooms, etc., these poles will be found a great convenience. If poles are a little too short, put lower end on blocks or on chair.

ORDINARY CURTAIN POLES.

The ordinary or regular curtain poles on the market do not have the lower sections with telescopic adjustment and extension screw. The sections are all alike, except the lower one, which has a brad in one end to stick in the floor to prevent slipping and the top section has pulley for curtain rope. Guy ropes must be used to hold the poles in position.

EUREKA SINGLE DISSOLVER.

(Manufactured under Patent No. 724452.)

This cut shows the Eureka Single Dissolver attached to lantern ready for use. It may be attached in either horizontal or perpendicular position; but the latter will be found most convenient and desirable.

MAKE YOUR SINGLE LANTERN A DISSOLVING ONE.

Ever since the double lantern has been in use, efforts have been made to devise some means whereby dissolving effects could be obtained with a single lantern. To accomplish this might seem an easy task; however, until this invention was perfected, all such efforts proved a failure.

HOW USED.

With adjustable thumb screw A, dissolver is attached to front of objective lens. By moving lever B controlling the dissolving shutters, one picture will gradually disappear and another gradually replace it. The dissolving can be done slowly or quickly as desired and with either electric or calcium light.

The dissolving effect is not quite as perfect when using electric light. This is due to the electric light being stronger, and the rays not so much diffused as calcium light.

When dissolving slowly, the picture gradually fades away, while the other picture gradually grows brighter until the full illumination is obtained. C and C are dissolving tinters, by means of which a scene may be dissolved from daylight to sun set, and from sun set to night scene. Beautiful effects can be obtained by using these dissolving tinters.

HOW MADE.

The dissolver is made of aluminum, satin finished and beautifully engraved. It can be attached to any lens, is simple in construction, light and strong, and will prove an ornament to any lantern. No one using a single lantern can afford to be without this dissolver. It will double the value of your lantern and will be the most profitable investment you ever made. We guarantee this dissolver to be just as represented and upon receipt of $2.00 as proof of good faith will ship the dissolver C. O. D. $8.00, subject to examination in the express office.

Instructions for use will be sent with each dissolver.

No. 1 Dissolver is adjusted to fit any lens the diameter of rim of front end of objective not exceeding $3\frac{3}{4}$ inches. The No. 1 dissolver will fit $\frac{1}{4}$, 1-3, or $\frac{1}{2}$ size Darlot or Bausch & Lomb lens.

No. 2 Dissolver will fit objective lens, diameter of whose front ring exceeds $3\frac{3}{4}$ inches. This will include 2-3 and 4-4 size Darlot or Bausch & Lomb lens. Unless specified the No. 1 Dissolver will always be sent.

Perfection Acetylene Dissolver.

Acetylene gas can be used for dissolving with a double lantern by using an acetylene key. The key shown in cut is one of the best made and is an improvement over the small acetylene dissolving keys now on the market.

The Perfection Acetylene Outfit described in this catalogue, (see index) is much superior to any other acetylene outfit for dissolving. It gives an even, steady flow of gas and a constant pressure.

Directions for Using the Perfection Acetylene Dissolver.

Connect the tank or generator with the middle nipple and each burner with nipple on either side. Turn handle of dissolver half way around until it stands directly over middle nipple—light both burners—then turn handle of dissolver clear around and adjust set screw, in post of dissolver, so the light can not be entirely cut off. This is called the "off flow" for more information of which, see Instructions for using Low Pressure Dissolving Key.

PRICE, Perfection Acetylene Dissolver.....$4.75

Low Pressure Dissolving Key.

The most popular method of dissolving with oxy-hydrogen or calcium light is by means of the low pressure key. This is not because the low pressure key is better than the high pressure, but because it is cheaper and can be used with a saturator or gas bags.

BEST MATERIAL AND WORKMANSHIP

The important thing in a dissolving key is to keep the "plug" or valve from leaking. Many dissolving keys are made of ordinary soft brass and leak after having been in use a short time.

Our dissolving keys are made from a special composition metal, that will last for years with proper care, without wearing sufficiently to cause leaking.

TWO TANKS OR SATURATOR

Many low-pressure dissolving keys work nicely with two tanks, but do not work well when used with a saturator. By our improved method of cutting the grooves, our low pressure key works perfectly with either two tanks or a saturator in place of hydrogen tank. Many exhibitors have stated that they could never use their dissolving key with a saturator until we had re-cut the grooves in the valve plug of their dissolver. The cost of this re-cutting is about $2.50.

There is nothing more annoying than a dissolving key that will not work properly and you can save this annoyance (and expense) by purchasing one of our keys.

When using a saturator in place of a hydrogen tank, care should be taken to see that there is plenty of gasoline or ether in the saturator and that in cold weather the saturator is kept sufficiently warm so a free flow of hydrogen gas will be obtained.

GUARANTEE

We guarantee our low pressure dissolving key to work perfectly with two tanks or with saturator in place of the hydrogen tank. We also guarantee them (with proper care) to wear for years without leaking. Before leaving our factory every key is thoroughly tested both with tank and saturator.

CLAMP

SMALL BRASS NICKEL PLATED CLAMP
TO HOLD DISSOLVING KEY ON PLATE.

Dissolving Key Attachment.

This is a device for attaching a low pressure dissolving key to a calcium light tank.

A is connection for the tank, B is regulating valve, C is nipple for connecting the hose and D is plate for attaching the dissolver. A low pressure dissolving key is sometimes attached to the lantern, but is usually secured to the table or stand on which the lantern is placed. For general use, however, neither of these methods is practical.

There are very few lanterns to which the dissolving key can be attached. The lantern is usually so hot that it will destroy the rubber tubing and then turning the lever will usually shake the lantern. Every little jar of the lantern is greatly magnified on the curtain and gives a bad effect to the picture.

The usual method of using a low pressure dissolving key is to screw it to the top of the table. This will seriously damage and practically ruin the appearance of any stand or table. Attaching the dissolver to the tank overcomes all these objections and holds the dissolver firm and rigid. Everyone using a low pressure key can appreciate the convenience of this attachment.

Instructions for Using.

Connect attachment to tank by means of coupling A (see cut) and fasten dissolver to plate D. See that regulating valve B is closed and then open the tank valve. With a short piece of hose connect nipple C with nipple of dissolving key and with a longer piece of rubber tubing, connect the other tank with the dissolving key. Regulate flow of one gas by valve at tank and the other gas by valve B.

Be sure there is a good leather washer or gasket in coupling A, and that the joint is sufficiently tight to prevent leaking.

PRICE, Dissolving Key Attachment.....$3.50

Cut A

The Leader High Pressure Key.

A high pressure key is used only with two tanks and cannot be used with a saturator or gas bags. Two separate regulating valves are provided for each burner and there is no darkening of the curtain when changing from one picture to the other. The illumination on the curtain is the same whether the light is on the top or bottom or equally divided on both. The Leader dissolving key shown in this cut is a great improvement on any high pressure key on the market.

THREE BURNERS.

Three calcium light burners can be run from the dissolving key at the same time. For each burner there are two separate regulating valves, so the gas for each burner is under perfect control of the operator. It will often be found very convenient when a double dissolving lantern and a moving picture machine is used.

LIGHT STANDARD.

When three calcium burners are not needed, the hydrogen regulating valve of the third burner can be connected to the light standard (as shown in cut A) and used as a gas light. It can be turned on or off at any time by the operator and gives him a good light at the machine. This will not only be found a great convenience when setting up and testing the machine; but can also be used to light up the room at close of the entertainment. The light standard extends about 3 feet above the tank and is attached by set screws to the dissolving key. Nipple N is connected to H-3 by rubber tubing.

NO LOSS OF GAS.

The gas used for the third or extra burner does not pass through the dissolving plug, and with this burner every pound of gas in the tanks can be consumed. With all other high pressure keys there is sufficient gas left in the tank to burn about half an hour. When making your own gas this is of no great importance, but when buying gas in tanks it is a loss and is quite an item.

IMPROVED DISSOLVING PLUG.

The most particular part of a high pressure key is the dissolving plug. As the plug is subject to high gas pressure, a most accurate fit is necessary to prevent leaking. The dissolving plug of the Leader key is made of the best tool steel while the body of the key is a composition metal special made for the purpose. A spring is the only device known to take up wear. The dissolving plug of the Leader key is provided with a spring which not only takes up any little wear that may occur, but keeps an even tension on the plug and makes the dissolver work smoothly and easily. With this spring the dissolving plug never binds or moves with a jerky unsteady motion when the gas is turned from one burner to the other.

IMPROVEMENT IN DISSOLVING GROOVES.

The objection to the usual high pressure dissolving key is they do not give a perfect dissolving effect, the picture seems to "jump" into place. This is due to the way the dissolving grooves are cut. The improved method of cutting these grooves in the dissolving plug of the Leader high pressure key has overcome this objectional feature. When the gas is turned from one burner to the other, there is a soft blending or dissolving of one picture into the other, an effect very pleasing to the eye. If you want the best high pressure key on the market order a "Leader."

Dissolving Rheostat.

For Single or Double Lantern, Direct or Alternating Current.

This is something new and strictly speaking the only scientific method of dissolving by electricity. The dissolving effect is perfect, as good if not better than can be obtained by calcium light.

The rheostat is intended for use with a lantern where the "Special Incandescent Globe" is used, description of which will be found in another part of this catalogue (see index front part of catalogue).

The 50 or 100 candle power globe can be used and connection made with any incandescent socket. This light is not intended to compete with the arc light or with calcium light, and is not strong enough for moving pictures. An excellent stereopticon picture 7 or 8 feet in diameter can be obtained and with the most beautiful dissolving effects.

BETTER THAN ACETYLENE OR MANTLE LIGHT.

The light in the special incandescent globe is so concentrated that it will give a much better picture than can be obtained with either acetylene or mantle light. Only about one-fourth the light from a four tip acetylene burner or from a gas mantle can be collected and used in a stereopticon. Both these lights give off great deal of heat and frequently break the condensing lenses. The Special Incandescent Globe gives off comparatively little heat, and with it there is no danger of breaking a lens.

SINGLE LANTERN DISSOLVING.

This rheostat can be used with either single or double lantern. With a single lantern the picture can be made to gradually disappear and when the light has reached the darkest point the slide is quickly changed and the new picture gradually comes into view. This change can be slowly or quickly made as desired. The effect with single lantern is not equal to that of double lantern. It is however a great improvement on the usual single lantern, as the audience does not see the picture change, and there is the gradual disappearing and re-appearing of the picture. The rheostat for the single lantern is little larger than the one for the double lantern.

DOUBLE LANTERN DISSOLVING.

With the double lantern there is a time when both pictures are on the screen and the gradual blending or dissolving of one into the other gives a most pleasing effect. The dissolving is done by simply moving the sliding contact from one end of the rheostat to the other. One light gradually grows brighter as the other grows dimmer. The light is quickly attached and the operating very simple. Complete instructions sent with each outfit.

Dissolving Rheostat No. 2 (110 volts or less) for single lantern.....	12.00

The above prices are for rheostats to be used on either alternating or direct currents of 110 volts or less. For currents of greater voltage, write for special price.

GEM ELECTRIC DISSOLVER.

Cut "A" shows the Gem dissolver attached to a stereopticon where one lantern sets directly above the other. Cut "B" shows the Gem "Special" dissolver attached to a stereopticon when the top lantern sets to one side of the lower one. This style of Gem dissolver is especially adapted for double lantern and moving picture machines. (See cut under moving picture machines.)

The Gem dissolver is attached to the objective lens so it can be used with any lantern. The dissolving shutters are made of aluminum and are therefore very light and will never tarnish. The V-shaped ends of perforated metal is a great improvement, giving a blending or dissolving effect superior to that obtained with any other electric dissolver. The shutter is divided in two parts and can be adjusted to suit the distance between the objective lenses of any lantern.

Price, Gem Electric Dissolver, $8.00 each.

CUT "A."

CUT "B."

LEADER ELECTRIC DISSOLVER.

Cut "A" shows the "Leader" dissolver in position for use, with portion of shutter cut away to show mechanical construction.

Cut "B" shows dissolver when not in use, also its position when both lights are on the curtain for registering the fields.

An electric dissolver is a mechanical device placed in front of the objective lenses, and as the end of one lens is gradually covered the end of the other is uncovered. In dissolving by electricity one light cannot be gradually shut off and the other turned on, as with calcium. But both lights are burning all the time and the dissolver merely covers one while the other is projecting a picture.

When dissolving the lanterns should be so adjusted that the "fields" from both lenses fall in exactly the same place. To accomplish this the top lantern is provided with regulating screws or other device by which the two fields may be registered accurately on the curtain.

For information as to setting up and operating double lantern with electricity, see index, under heading "Instructions for Double Lantern," also "Electricity as Applied to the Stereopticon."

The electric dissolver shown herewith is especially adapted for use with the "Leader" lantern described in this catalog. A support for holding dissolver is fastened to the lantern. This holds the dissolver firm and rigid and prevents any movement of the picture on the screen when moving the dissolver.

The shutter "D," as shown in the cut, is made of aluminum. By moving the lever "B" the end of one lens is gradually covered by the shutter, while end of other lens is uncovered. As the picture on the curtain fades away another gradually takes its place, producing a very pleasing effect.

"G" shows the perforated metal on the V-shaped ends of the shutter. These give a dissolving and blending effect superior to that obtained by any other style of electric dissolver.

When dissolver is in position, shown in cut "B," the shutter is held firmly by thumbscrew "C." While so fixed the dissolver may be moved down between the two lenses, leaving light from both lenses on curtain at the same time. This will be found very convenient, for to register or match the fields both lights must show on screen at the same time.

CARRYING CASES.

This cut shows "Style A" of the No. 1 Carrying Case. It has two apartments, top one for the lantern, $8\frac{1}{4} \times 11 \times 17\frac{3}{4}$ inches, and lower one for slides, etc., $8\frac{1}{4} \times 6 \times 17\frac{3}{4}$ inches. Outside measure of entire case is 9 inches deep, 18 inches high and $18\frac{1}{2}$ inches long. The frame work of the No. 1 Case is stiff and rigid, with a leather finish, nickel plated trimmings, lock and key, and is lined with dark colored cotton flannel. It is not only a fine looking case, but the workmanship and material are of the best. Majority of cases for a lantern are made of canvas, which not only looks cheap, but not being stiff and rigid, affords only small protection to the lantern. Style B for double lantern has only one apartment.

ELECTRIC SWITCH AND FUSE.

This cut shows a fuse and switch combined ("fused switch") with the connecting wire attached. Wires "a" are the supply wires that lead from the switch board to the machine. Wires "b" are the wires that lead to the rheostat and electric lamp. "c" are the fuse links or wire that connects the supply wires with those leading to the machine. "D" is an enlarged view of fuse links with copper terminal. If more current is consumed than the fuse is intended to carry, the fuse will be melted in two and your light will go out. Ordinary fuse wire can be used in place of fuse links. When ordering fuse links or fuse wire, always state the amperes wanted. This "fused switch" is much more convenient to use than a separate switch and fuse block. It has a slate base and is one of the best made.

Electric Stage Connection.

For traveling exhibitor as well as where the lantern is permanently located, this will be found a most convenient way of making a quick connection. The part of the connector with the holes or sockets should be attached to the supply wire, and the part with the posts or plugs to the wire leading to the machine. When using this connector should the lamp be burning "up-side-down", the current at the lamp can be instantly changed by pulling out the plug and turning it half over. The connector will carry from 35 to 45 amperes and has split posts or plugs that always fit tightly and make a good contact.

PRICE, $1.00

FLEXIBLE ELECTRIC WIRE.

The current for lantern or moving picture machine should not be taken from an ordinary electric lamp socket. The wire and socket are not heavy enough to carry the amount of current required.

Every exhibitor using electricity on the road, should have from 50 to 100 feet of flexible electric wire to convey the current from the main cutout or switch board to the machine. Ordinary line wire of sufficient size can be used, but is not nearly so convenient. Of this flexible wire there are two kinds in general use, namely, lamp cord and flexible cable.

LAMP CORD.

Lamp cord consists of many strands of fine copper wire insulated with rubber or okonite and then covered with a green cotton braid. After this, the two conductors are twisted together and sold in this manner by the foot or yard. The price quoted on lamp cord always means for two conductors.

If you purchase fifty feet of lamp cord you get two pieces each fifty feet long, twisted together. The ordinary electric light drop cord used with an incandescent bulb is too small to convey the required amount of current for a regular stereopticon light. There is danger of over heating it, burning off the insulation and causing a fire by short circuit. To use a wire so small, violates the fire insurance law and might cause serious trouble. For single lantern do not use lamp cord smaller than No. 12—for double lantern use No. 8 or 10. There is a cheap lamp cord on the market in which the insulation is only half thickness. We handle only the best, with heavy rubber insulation.

The longer and the smaller the lead wire, the greater the resistance; that is, there is more resistance in a wire 100 feet long than there is in a wire 10 feet long, and a No. 12 wire will resist flow of current more than a No. 10 wire. If the lead wire gets warm, it shows it is too small for the amount of current carried, and a larger wire should be used.

If the wire gets hot, there is danger of melting or burning off the insulation and causing a fire.

FLEXIBLE LAMP CORD OR WIRE AND STAGE CABLE.

Remember the smaller the number the larger the wire, that is, No. 10 wire is larger than No. 12.

Price—No. 12 Lamp Cord..... 9c per foot
No. 10 Lamp Cord..... 12c per foot

This consists of two insulated conductors bound together with other non-conducting material. Each conductor consists of many fine, copper wires, same as is found in lamp cord. The heavy insulation that binds the conductors together, makes this cable very serviceable. Although not so flexible, light or convenient to handle as lamp cord, it will stand the rough use on the road much longer. Flexible cable is frequently called "stage cable" because it is generally used in theaters for stage settings and all temporary arc lights. Stage cable No. 12 has same size wire and will carry same amount of current as lamp cord No. 12.

This cable is the best quality and will pass fire inspection.

ELECTRIC WIRE TIPS.

FUSE BLOCK

All fuse blocks are made of some non-conducting material, usually porcelain, and are constructed on the principle, that when more current is used than the fuse is intended to carry, the fuse will melt in two and the light will go out. There are a number of different kinds of fuse blocks, but the two shown in the above cuts are the most popular styles in use.

The fuse block shown in cut No. 1 uses the ordinary fuse wire, while the one in cut No. 2 uses an enclosed fuse, called a fuse plug.

Cut No. 1 shows two wires extending from either end of fuse block. To attach the wire, it is necessary to remove the porcelain cover by unscrewing the small thumb nut on top.

When ordering fuse plugs for No. 2 fuse block specify "for Edison socket" so they will be sure to fit. The largest fuse plug made is for 30 amperes.

FUSE PLUGS

The largest regular fuse plug made is 30 ampere, but we can furnish a special 40 ampere "fusable" plug, for Edison socket. With this plug, should the fuse burn out, any one with a screw driver can put in another fuse. Any size fuse wire can be used of 40 amperes or less. When the regular fuse plug "burns out" the fuse can not be replaced, and the plug must be thrown away. As there are not many places the regular 30 ampere fuse plugs can be purchased, the traveling exhibitor should have a few of the "fusable" plugs. These plugs are intended for only 30 ampere fuse, but we make them so they will take 40 ampere fuse wire.

Electric Signal

It is necessary for the lecturer to have some method of communicating with the operator and of all devices used the Electric Signal has proven the most satisfactory. It consists of two dry batteries or cells, flexible covered wire, a push button and what is known as an electric "buzzer." The lecturer holds the push button in his hand, while box containing buzzer and batteries is placed at the machine with the operator. Sound of buzzer can be so regulated as to be heard only by the operator, and will therefore not interrupt the lecturer by attracting the attention of the audience.

The most serviceable electric light invented. Can be flashed, or will burn continuously as desired. As the room is usually dark during an entertainment, this light will be found a great convenience to an exhibitor. In case the light should accidentally go out, or it be necessary to replace a carbon or lime, the advantage of a quick and ever ready light will be appreciated.

ELECTRIC CARBONS.

All electric carbons are made of finely divided or powdered carbon with sufficient sticky substance to hold the powder together. The best carbons are imported and are made of the purest refined lamp black and tar. Most of the American carbons are made of petroleum coke, 80%, and pitch, 20%. The former is a by-product of oil stills and the latter is made from coal tar.

In the manufacture of carbon a pressure of five or six thousand pounds to the square inch is used. Some carbons are pressed in moulds, but most of them are squirted or forced out of a hole in a disc by hydraulic pressure. After being formed the carbons are baked several days in an oven until they are dry and hard.

When a carbon is burned, the heat is so great that it is practically volatilized before it is burned. Carbons are divided into two classes, cored and solid. A cored carbon has hole in center filled with some material more soft and volatile than the rest of the carbon—usually a mixture of carbon and some metallic salt. Object of the core is to increase length of the arc using a given voltage—to maintain a stable condition of the arc by affording plentiful supply of carbon vapor—to help keep the arc in one place and prevent it from wandering around.

The ordinary carbons used for street arc lamps are not satisfactory, and in fact should never be used for projecting purposes. The carbons generally considered the best are the imported "Electra." There are several grades of these carbons, but on the best grade is stamped or moulded in each carbon the word "Electra." Therefore, when purchasing these carbons see that this word is "stamped in" on every carbon.

All carbons should be pointed before using, and this can be conveniently done with a coarse file or wood rasp. Carbons are made and sold in various lengths, but the most economical length to buy is 12 inches. As a rule the carbon should be broken near the center, using the shorter piece for the lower carbon. To be sure of breaking a carbon at a certain point, make a deep crease with a file. For ALTERNATING current use two carbons same size and both cored. For DIRECT current use top carbon cored and lower carbon little smaller and SOLID.

Size of carbon should be governed by amount of current used. For rheostat giving 12 to 15 amperes on alternating current, use both $\frac{1}{2}$ -in.

cored—for 20 or more amperes use both $\frac{5}{8}$ -in. cored. On direct current 12 to 15 amperes use top $\frac{1}{4}$ -in. cored and lower $\frac{3}{8}$ -in. solid—for 20 or more amperes, top $\frac{5}{8}$ -in. cored and lower $\frac{1}{2}$ -in. solid.

INSULATING TAPE.

Every exhibitor using electricity should carry with him a good quality of insulating or, as it is often called, "splicing" tape. When "splicing" or connecting two electric wires, the insulation should be removed and the bare wire tightly twisted together, and then securely wrapped with electric tape.

The tape not only serves as an insulation, but holds the wires together and makes a stronger connection. The usual width of tape is $\frac{3}{4}$ of an inch and is wound in a flat roll.

ELECTRICITY.

AS APPLIED TO PROJECTION

Electric arc light is the best artificial light for the lantern and moving picture machine. This is not only due to its brilliancy, but the light radiating from a small point the condensing lens can gather most of it, so there is very little loss of light. An arc light cannot be made from a battery, but must be taken from a current where a dynamo is used.

Electric light is rapidly coming into general use and every operator should become familiar with its use for projection. Most of the electricity used now is low voltage current (110 or less) for incandescent lights. In a current of this voltage there is practically no danger from a shock, as the voltage is too low.

Electric currents are of two kinds, direct and alternating.

DIRECT CURRENT.

The direct or continuous current is better for projecting purposes than the alternating. This is because direct current gives a more steady light and burns more quietly. In fact, if the right carbons and rheostat are used, it should be perfectly steady and without any noise. When using an arc light for projection, the carbon should be tilted so as to throw the light FORWARD as much as possible, towards the condensing lenses.

POSITION OF CARBONS FOR DIRECT CURRENT.

The above cut shows position the carbons should be to obtain the best results when using direct current. Both carbons should stand at an angle of about 25 degrees, and point of the lower carbon should be about one-quarter of an inch farther forward than the point of the top carbon. If the carbon is not far enough forward, the LOWER part of field will be a shade darker, and if too far forward the TOP part of field will be a shade darker. Accurate adjustment can usually be made by tilting one of the carbons with a pair of pliers while the light is burning.

The top carbon (when both carbons feed alike) should be little larger than the lower carbon. Best results will be obtained by using a CORED carbon on top, and a SOLID carbon on the bottom, one-sixteenth or one-eighth of an inch smaller.

With direct current the positive wire should be connected to the top carbon, otherwise the light will burn, as it is termed, "up-side-down." When burning in this manner a great deal of the light is lost, for the crater is on the LOWER carbon and it should be on the top carbon.

TESTING LIGHT AND CURRENT.

The only way you can tell which is the positive wire is to test the light or test the current.

TO TEST THE LIGHT, let it burn a few minutes, then open the switch and look at the carbons while they are still red. The carbon that is the redder and remains hot the longer is connected to the positive wire.

TO TEST THE CURRENT, close the switch, take ends of both wires attached to the lamp, and hold them near each other in a glass of water. Care should be used not to let the two ends of the wires touch each other or touch any piece of metal that would connect them. As the ends of the wires are brought near each other, bubbles will form freely at the NEGATIVE, and few if any at the positive wire.

Many are careless about reading the instructions and have the impression it is the positive wire that bubbles. Do not make this mistake—remember "N. B."—negative bubbles.

Testing the current with water is always reliable. Sometimes it is difficult to tell which is positive wire by looking at the carbons, as they both seem to be equally red. If in doubt, make the "water test."

ALTERNATING CURRENT.

In alternating current the positive and negative poles alternate back and forth, that is, each wire is positive half the time and negative half the time. Owing to the reversal of the current, there is no decided crater, both carbons remaining pointed and burning equally. The top carbon, however, will consume a little faster, due to the ascending heat from the arc.

Both wires in alternating current being the same, you cannot connect the lamp up wrong or burn the light "up-side-down." With the same carbons and same amount of electricity, the alternating current will give only about half as much light as the direct. Therefore, when using alternating current, especially with moving pictures, provision should be made for using plenty of electricity in order to obtain a good picture. The Wonder Rheostat "Special" will be found very convenient for this purpose.

POSITION OF CARBONS FOR ALTERNATING CURRENT.

The above cut shows position carbons should be when used with alternating current. The carbons should both be cored, and as they burn equally, the rule is, both should be the same size. Theoretically this is correct, but from a practical standpoint, better results will be obtained for projecting purposes, by using the top carbon a sixteenth to an eighth of an inch larger than the bottom one.

When consuming 12 to 15 amperes of alternating current, use $\frac{1}{2}$ in. cored top and 7-16 cored bottom. For 20 or more amperes use $\frac{3}{4}$ in. cored top and $\frac{1}{2}$ in. cored bottom. When using alternating current special care should be taken in selecting only the best imported carbons.

THE HUMMING NOISE.

The serious objection to use of an alternating current is the HUMMING noise and the unsteady light. When an arc is fed by an alternating current, the arc is lighted and extinguished at every alternation. The humming noise is therefore caused by the contraction and expansion of the arc stream of current, that produce corresponding vibration in the surrounding air.

The longer the arc, that is, the farther apart the carbons are, the greater the humming. For this reason the carbons should be kept close together as possible without hissing. With some alternating currents there is much more humming than with others, depending upon the number of alternations per minute. The higher the frequency the less the noise.

UNSTEADY LIGHT.

The unsteady light or uneven light from an alternating current is due to the arc traveling around the carbons. When the arc is on front side of carbons, next to the condensing lens, the light is brightest, but when the arc is on side or rear of carbons the light is dimmer.

The less amount of current used the more the arc will travel; and also, if the carbons are too large for the amount of current consumed, it will give the same trouble. This trouble can be greatly reduced by using plenty of current—carbons proper size and larger carbon on top, as previously described.

HISSING, FLAMING AND SPUTTERING.

Hissing is usually caused by too short an arc, that is, points of the carbons are too close together. Flaming is usually caused by too long an arc, that is, points of the carbons are too far apart. If the current is too strong for size of carbons, it will also cause both hissing and flaming. Sputtering is due to coarse grained and impure carbons.

What has been said of hissing, flaming and sputtering applies equally to direct and alternating currents.

DISSOLVING BY ELECTRICITY.

In dissolving by electric light, you cannot gradually turn one light off and the other on, as can be done with calcium light. Both electric lights must be kept burning all the time, and it requires two electric lamps and two rheostats. The dissolver is a mechanical device placed in front of the projecting lenses. The shutter is worked by a lever, and as the end of one lens is covered, the end of the other lens is uncovered. By this means the curtain is never dark. As the picture in one lantern gradually disappears the picture in the other lantern gradually takes its place.

TO CONNECT ELECTRIC LAMPS AND RHEOSTATS.

There are several methods of connecting a Double Dissolving Electric Lantern; but the above method is considered one of the most convenient. Each light being controlled by a separate switch, the two lanterns are operated independent of each other. The fuse block controls the current for both lanterns.

FUSE BLOCK.

The fuse block should be placed near the machine, and provided with a smaller fuse than the one controlling the current supplying the lights of the house. The fuse at the machine is used to protect the lights in the house, for in case of a short circuit or any other accident at the machine, the smaller fuse will "blow" first.

There are several kinds and styles of fuse blocks, and as they are made of porcelain, care should be used in packing them lest they be broken in shipping.

For general use with a single lantern a 25-ampere fuse will be large enough; but for a moving picture machine 30- or 35-ampere fuse should be used. For a double lantern use a fuse that will carry 40 or 50 amperes. With the "Wonder" Rheostat it is not necessary to carry a fuse block because each rheostat is provided with a fuse.

FUSE WIRE.

Fuse wire is a composition metal, of a low melting point, similar in appearance to lead. If more current passes through the wire than it is made to carry, the fuse will melt and the light will go out.

The size (diameter) of fuse wire does not necessarily indicate the number of amperes it will carry, for that depends upon its composition. A fuse wire that is hard will have a higher melting point and carry more current than one of same size that is soft and has a lower melting point.

Fuse wire is sold by the pound and wound on a spool, on which is stamped the number of amperes it will carry. Fuse plugs are made to carry not more than 30 amperes. All fuse plugs and fuse links are stamped with the number of amperes they will carry.

TO MAKE ELECTRIC CONNECTION.

Connect the lamp, rheostat, and switch as shown in diagram for single lanterns; put the proper carbons in the lamp, adjust them to suit the current (alternating or direct), attach the lead wire (supply wire) to the fuse block or switch at the machine,—see that points of the carbons are separated, that the switch is open, and then connect other end of the lead, or supply, wire to the "cut-out" box or main switch of the building.

Connections with the house wire should be so made, that current to the machine can be supplied when the house is in darkness. The flexible lead or supply wire should be drawn tightly and tied with a string at either end, so it cannot be pulled out of place or jerked loose from its connections.

TO START THE LIGHT.

When all the connections are properly made, close the switch and screw the carbons close enough together to start the light. Soon as you see a spark separate the carbons far enough to obtain a bright light. If the carbons are separated too much it will "break the current" and the light will go out. If the carbons are too near together, the arc will be so small that full power of the light will not be obtained. The points of the carbons should be far enough apart to show a little blaze.

By the "arc" is meant the light, which is the distance between the points of the two carbons. As the carbons are consumed they must be screwed closer together, otherwise the distance between the carbons will be so great that the current cannot, figuratively speaking, jump from one carbon to the other, and the light will go out.

THE RHEOSTAT.

A rheostat, or resistance coil, is used to convert an incandescent current into an arc light. Many rheostats on the market are made for currents of 110 volts. Some are adjustable for any voltage below 110, while others have set connections and can be used only on current of 52 or 110 voltage. All our rheostats are adjustable, and can be used on current of 110 voltage or less.

The more resistance you cut out, the brighter will be the light and the hotter the rheostat. If the rheostat becomes red hot, it shows there is not enough resistance for the amount of current being consumed.

"Burning out" a rheostat means that the wire has been burned or melted in two, by getting too hot. The larger the wire, the greater is its carrying capacity, and two wires or two rheostats in multiples will give double the amount of current.

TWO RHEOSTATS IN MULTIPLES.

There are two ways of coupling up two rheostats, either in multiples or in series. The above cut shows two rheostats coupled in multiples.

When connected in this manner you multiply or increase the amount of current consumed, without increasing heat of the rheostat.

At the letters A. A. the bare wire is twisted together and wrapped with tape. At letter B the wires are not fastened together, but simply cross each other.

When connected in multiples, half the current goes through one rheostat and half through the other, thereby giving the lamp double the amount of current. If, when using a single rheostat, you cut out resistance to obtain more current and a brighter light, you do so at expense of the rheostat, and the more resistance you cut out, the hotter will become the rheostat.

Moving pictures require much stronger light than still pictures, and coupling two rheostats together in multiples will be found a great convenience.

The Wonder Rheostat "special" consists of four parts, and is so constructed that any or all of these parts can be used in multiples or in series. With it you can obtain anywhere from five to fifty amperes of current without cutting out any resistance.

For cut and description of this rheostat, see index, front part of catalogue.

TWO RHEOSTATS IN SERIES.

The above cut shows two rheostats coupled in series. When connected in this manner, all the current goes through both rheostats, thus increasing the resistance and permitting less current to pass. If the current is too strong for one rheostat, by connecting several together in series, the current can be reduced to the desired voltage.

The two rheostats are connected together with a short wire. It makes no difference which poles or sides of the rheostat are connected.

COMBINATION SWITCH BOARD.

This cut shows how two rheostats can be used separately on two arc lamps, or thrown in multiples on one lamp. Since moving pictures require about twice as much light as lantern slides, this switch board will be found a great convenience when using a double dissolving lantern and a moving picture machine. By means of the double-throw switch, rheostat No. 1 can be used either on the top lantern alone or in multiples with the other rheostat on the lower lantern for the moving picture machine. Care should be taken when making this switchboard to get connections right, otherwise a short circuit will be made when the two rheostats are thrown in multiples.

The main or lead wires are connected to a double fuse block, with two fuse plugs for each lamp. The letter A shows where two wires are "taped together," and at letter B where the wires simply cross each other. With the proper material and by carefully following the diagram the switchboard can be easily made. However, we furnish it complete with a tag on end of each wire telling where it is to be connected.

Even for single lantern and moving picture machine, this combination switchboard will be found very convenient. When a moving picture is run, by simply closing a switch, two rheostats can be thrown in multiples, thereby making the light stronger and brighter just at the time you need all the light you can get.

Price, Combination Switch Board, complete with wire. .$.650

VOLTS CONSUMED.

The number of volts consumed in making an arc will vary, but for a good light is usually about 50 volts. The use of a rheostat is to take care of the balance of the voltage, which in a rheostat for 110 volts would be the difference between 50 and 110, or 60 volts.

If you want to use current of 220 volts, the lamp (or arc) will take about 50 volts, leaving 170 volts which must be taken care of by the rheostat. Since there is 60 volts resistance in one rheostat (for 110 volt current), it will require three rheostats, connected in series for current of 220 volts. Current of this voltage is frequently met with on the road, and many exhibitors have the idea that two rheostats of 110 volts each will give sufficient resistance for a 220 volt current. If two automatic arc lamps were used in series, only two rheostats would be necessary.

WATER RHEOSTAT.

Water can be used as a substitute for a regular rheostat, and in case of an emergency will be found a great convenience. It will also be found convenient for reducing a current of large voltage. A regular rheostat that would reduce a 500-volt street car current would be an expensive investment as well as cumbersome and heavy.

HOW MADE AND USED.

Take a tub that does not leak and fill it nearly full of water, being careful not to spill any on the ground or floor around the tub. If the operator stands on wet ground there is a possibility of getting a shock, especially if a strong current is used. Dissolve in pail of hot water one-half pound each of washing soda and salt, and add this solution to the water in the tub.

From the two ends of the wire that attach to the rheostat, cut off the insulation two or three inches back, and securely fasten each end of the wire to a different piece of metal. A car link, coupling pin, piece of lead pipe, or any other piece of metal will serve the purpose so long as a good contact can be obtained between the metal and bare copper wire.

Place both of these pieces of metal attached to the wires in the water—close the switch—bring the two pieces of metal close enough together to start the light when the carbons are brought together. As the distance between these two pieces of metal in the water increases or decreases, so will the amount of current and strength of the light be increased or decreased. The distance the pieces of metal should be separated will vary according to the voltage of current and amount of light desired.

When using direct current the metal in the water will be gradually dissolved, and if the copper wire attached to the metal is allowed to remain in the water, it will soon be eaten off. Therefore when using direct current, provision should be made to keep the connection between the copper wire and piece of metal out of the water.

This can be done conveniently by using two pieces of lead pipe bent at right angles at one end, and the other end bent to hook over the edge of the tub. Keep the ends of the right angles towards each other and slide the lead pipe around edge of the tub to bring them nearer each other. The resistance is the water between the two points, and the closer they are to each other, there will be less resistance, more current, and a brighter light.

With alternating current there is practically no action on the metal and the copper wire can be immersed in the water.

The serious objection to a water rheostat is that the water becomes steaming, boiling hot. A pail of water could be used equally as well as a tub, only it would become boiling hot in a few minutes.

Even when using a tub of water it is advisable to have a pail of cold water near to add in case the water begins to boil. No harm can come from the water boiling, more than that the steam might be mistaken for smoke and someone raise the alarm of fire. If the room should be filled with steam, the picture will be dim, as it will be difficult for the light to penetrate it.

After making a water rheostat a few times it will be found very simple. However, to begin with, it might be well to experiment with a current not exceeding 125 volts. Great care should be taken in using a 500-volt current, and an electrician should always be consulted. The ordinary street car current is 500 to 560 volts.

THREE WIRE SYSTEM.

The exhibitor will frequently find a current with three wires. A three wire system has for its object the saving of wire distribution. The extra conductor (the middle wire), is called the neutral wire, as it is positive to one wire and negative to the other.

If the system is exactly balanced it carries no current; but when the amounts of current on the two outside wires are not the same, the middle or neutral wire supplies the difference. As the neutral wire carries only half the current it is frequently (especially in feeders) much smaller.

A three wire system requires two dynamos, or a single dynamo specially constructed for this system. Majority of the three wire systems are for 220 volts; that is, 220 volts on the two outside wires, and 110 volts on either one of the outside wires and the inside, or neutral, wire. Therefore, when connecting on a 220-volt three wire system, take your current from one of the outside wires and the middle of neutral wire.

GENERAL INFORMATION ON ELECTRICITY.

No electric outfit is complete without 75 to 100 feet of flexible wire to convey the current from the main supply wire to the machine. No. 12 wire is usually large enough for single lantern, but No. 8 or 10 should be used for double lantern.

For a moving picture machine, when over 30 amperes of current are used, the No. 10 wire should be used. If the wire is too small it not only checks the supply of current, but there is danger of over heating the wire and burning off the insulation.

Should you wish to adjust or change the wires or carbons in the electric lamp, first throw the current off the lamp by opening the switch. A shock from a current of 110 volts is not sufficient to cause any alarm and it is customary to place the thumb and finger on switch or some connection of the two wires, to see if the current is on. The shock from alternating current is greater than from direct current of the same voltage.

If the thumb and finger are wet when applied to the wires, you will get the current stronger.

Place your fuse block and switch on the end of the operating table or in some convenient place near the machine. There are holes in the porcelain base for screws to hold it firmly in place. Never allow the ends of the two "live" wires to touch each other, or to touch the same piece of metal. If any conductor of electricity should touch both sides of the metal part of the switch at the same time, there will be a flash of light from the arc made at the switch. So if the switch should be placed on top of the operating table, see that there are no carbons, tools, or metal near it.

It is well to look the line over and locate the fuses supplying the house wire so that should one "blow out" during the entertainment, you can quickly replace it. Should your light go out, first examine the fuse at the machine, and if this is all right then examine the fuse supplying the circuit you are using.

Unless you know the fuse at the supply wires of the building is large, do not throw on your light when all the lights in the room are on. Wait until all or part of the lights are off. The line is often fused out on the pole, before the wire enters the house. This fuse, however, should be larger than the one in the house.

Never look directly at an arc light unless wearing dark colored glasses. There is not only danger of injuring the eyes; but the light will (for the time being) "blind you" so you will not be able to tell when the picture is in sharp focus.

If insulation burns off wire in lamp house, use asbestos covered wire. If rheostat "burns out" twist ends of wire together to bridge over the break. You can get no shock from the rheostat or one wire unless standing on wet ground or on some good conductor that is connected to the wet ground. It is well to remember this when working in a tent if not standing on dry wood.

Do not try to pull thirty amperes of current through a 10 ampere meter. Better to connect behind the meter than to take the chances of burning the meter out.

If you have rheostat for 110 volts and the current is 220 volts, connect your rheostat in series with a "water rheostat." Keep in all resistance in your rheostat and do what "cutting out" is necessary with the water rheostat. By doing this the water will not get hot so quickly. When making a water rheostat, the more salt you put in the water the brighter the light will be. The salt makes the water a better conductor of electricity.

When using alternating current special care should be taken to see that all connections are tight and that the best imported carbons are used. A loose connection or a poor carbon will increase the noise and cause the light to be more unsteady.

To obtain a picture of equal quality, it will require about twice as much electricity when alternating current is used as it would if direct current is used. In other words, 25 amperes of direct current will give a picture equally as bright as 40 or 50 amperes of alternating current.

VOLTS, AMPERES AND OHMS

The most popular terms applied to electric currents are volts, amperes and ohms. They are practical units of measures of electricity and relate to both alternating and direct currents.

A volt is the practical unit of electro-motive force. It is the power or force that causes the current to move or flow. It means the same as "pounds" when we speak of gas, air, steam, etc., having certain number pounds pressure. A current of 220 volts has twice as much pressure or power as has a current of 110 volts.

Ampere is the practical unit of electric current strength or intensity. It is the unit measure of the flow of a current. When we speak of a rheostat "110 volts and 25 amperes," we mean at a pressure of 110 volts the rheostat will permit a current of 25 amperes intensity to flow through it. The larger the wire or the less the resistance, the greater the flow or amperes of current.

The ohm is the practical unit of resistance. Everything has more or less electrical resistance. Some things have comparatively little resistance and are called conductors, such as copper, iron, etc. Other things have comparatively no resistance and are called insulators, such as mica, asbestos, etc. The ohm is the unit by which this resistance is measured. As for example, if a tank was filled with water and a hole made in the bottom containing a tube six inches long, the weight or pressure of the water would correspond to the volts, the resistance of the tube to the flow of the water to the ohms and flow of the water to the amperes.

The size and length of the wire in a rheostat corresponds to size and length of the tube in the tank of water. As you increase the size or decrease length of either you increase the flow. When you cut out resistance in the rheostat you simply shorten the wire and thereby increase the flow or amperes.

When two rheostats are connected in multiples, it increases or multiplies the flow of electricity same as adding another tube to the tank would increase the flow of water.

Reading Lamp.

A reading lamp for a stereopticon or moving picture entertainment is almost a necessity, especially if any manuscript is to be read. As the room should be kept dark, it is necessary to have a lamp that will concentrate the rays upon the manuscript without diffusing them through the room. A reading lamp using a candle is much preferable to one using oil. There is no danger of leaking when packed with other goods, and it is much cleaner to handle. The light is supplied by a special candle, held in position by a spring, that keeps the flame burning in the same place. The ordinary candle is not generally used in this reading lamp, but a large size, called "Coach" candle. We have special candle made to order that is little harder than the regular coach candle and gives better satisfaction for this purpose. A reading lamp should be set level so the melted candle will not run down side of the holder. When a new candle is put in, see that the holder is clean inside around the spring, and let the new wick burn a few minutes to get in good working order. Each candle will burn about 2½ hours.

Geometrical Chromatope.

On two glasses are transparent geometrical designs in brilliant colors which revolve in opposite directions. By turning the crank at different speeds, forward and backwards, the lines weave into each other, making a large variety of artistic designs. These designs blend, dissolve into each other, disappear and appear again in a manner most pleasing.

We carry only the best quality of imported chromatopes.

Good Night Chromatope.

This consists of three glasses. On one is the words "Good Night" which remains stationary, on the other two are brilliantly colored designs which revolving in opposite directions, produce a most pleasing effect. Is the best imported make and will fit any lantern.

PRICE, EACH $3.50.

Tinters.

Tinters are usually made of colored gelatine or glass, and a few bright colors will be found a valuable addition to an outfit.

For throwing colored lights on a tableau, the tinters should be used in a slide carrier or color wheel; but when used to tint a picture, they should be held in front of the projecting lens. They will be found useful for throwing tinted background on statuary and for giving to scenery a sunset or moonlight effect. With a little practice, a pleasing effect can be obtained by blending or dissolving one color into another.

We have two kinds of tinters; both are the same size as an ordinary stereopticon slide. One is made of colored gelatine between two cover glasses, and the other is colored glass. Gelatine is more easily affected by heat, and is therefore not so durable.

Price, Gelatine slide.....	15 cents.
Colored glass.....	25 cents.

The above cut shows a box for keeping stock slides. One end is provided with a slot or pocket for name card and also a thumb strap at the bottom for pulling box out on the shelf. The cover is divided in two parts so it is not necessary to remove the box from the shelf to open it. Size of box, outside measure, is $12\frac{1}{2}$ in. long, 4 in. wide and $4\frac{1}{2}$ in. high, and holds 100 slides. This box is intended for stock slides and not for road use.

Leader Slide Box.

For convenience and practical use, for strength and finish, this slide box excels anything on the market. The box is made of wood covered with leather, has metal corners, leather drop handle, metal clasps, lock and key, four compartments separated by card board partitions, a separable top and holds 120 slides. If desired, to carry more than 120 slides, the cardboard partitions can be quickly removed and 60 more slides added to the box.

One of the important features of this box is the removable top or cover which is a great convenience to the operator. As a rule the room on a table by the machine is limited and a box with a hinge cover when open, requires twice as much room as though the cover could be removed. The metal corners not only strengthen and protect the box from injury, but also greatly improves its appearance.

As special protection to the slides, this box is padded top and bottom. Each side is firmly held in position by cushion so it cannot shake or rattle, and will not break.

Slides are usually carried in the hand and if there is any one thing about an outfit that should be first class it is the slide box.

PRICE, $5.00.

Standard Slide Box.

A slide box for unmounted slides will be found not only a great convenience for carrying slides, but almost indispensable to the operator as a means of keeping his slides in proper rotation. The slide box shown in above cut is covered with cloth, has nickel plated clasp, and card board partitions. It is light and strong, and a decided improvement on the wood box.

This box is made in two sizes holding 60 and 100 slides. The box holding 100 slides is provided with straps and handle for carrying.

Price, Standard Slide Box No. 1, for 60 slides $1.00 each.

Standard Slide Box No. 2, for 100 slides 1.75 "

Jumbo Slide Box.

As there is danger of breaking slides when checked as baggage, it is advisable to always carry them. To accommodate those who have a large number of slides, we have a box holding 240 slides.

This box or carrying case is 25 inches long, 9 inches high and 5 inches deep—has removable cover—card board partitions—metal corners—lock and key and a drop handle similar to the one shown in cut of Leader Slide Box.

Price, Jumbo Slide Box, for 240 slides..... $4.00 each Business Advertising Slides.

PRICE, 50 CENTS EACH.

See List Page 579.

Every business man realizes the importance of advertising. The value of an advertisement depends on the attractive manner in which it is displayed and there is no method more attractive than an artistic and beautifully colored lantern slide. An advertisement of this character will not only arrest one's attention, but will be carefully read by every body who sees it. This can not be said of any other class of advertising and for this reason little trouble will be experienced in soliciting ads.

These are the most striking slides of this character ever shown and were gotten up by one of the leading advertising artists of this country.

Some are comic cartoons, some fancy lettering, some appropriate pictures relating to the subject and some are beautiful scenery.

Name of Advertiser.

On all these slides is left a blank space for name of the advertiser. The usual method of "filling in" the name of the exhibitor is to write or print it on the slide with a pen and India ink. India ink on glass, even when used by an expert, will flow or spread more or less and when magnified on the curtain gives a very bad appearance.

We have entirely overcome this objection, by devising or discovering a method of printing opaque letters on glass. With it any one can fill in the name, and then the entire slide will have the appearance of being specially made for the advertiser. Not only that, but special ads or announcements can be printed on a plain slide glass and thrown on the curtain. This outfit for printing on glass is put up complete in small box and by using it you can double the value of your advertising slides.

Price, Opaque Printing Outfit on Glass,.....$1.50

A Clear Profit.

It is easy to get ads when you have fine slides to show and what you get in this way is a clear profit. Quoting from one exhibitor he says: "Since receiving your advertising slides I have made enough from my ads to pay all my rail road fare and hotel bills. It is just like finding that much money every day."

Advertising customers will create local interest in your entertainment which means large audience and increase in the profits.

On receipt of 25 cents we will send print of the complete list of Advertising Slides. Of some lines there are a number of different styles and new ones are constantly being added.

Special slides made to order.

BILL DATING OUTFIT.

The name and date of an entertainment should be plainly printed or stamped on show bills and all advertising matter. A show bill dating or rubber stamping outfit for this purpose will be found convenient and economical.

Each outfit contains an improved type-holder, ink pad and type-setter, and the type is made of the best grade of rubber. Outfit No. 1 is 3-a font, and each letter is $\frac{3}{8}$ in. high. In addition to the single letters and figures, the outfit has the following words: Hall, Opera House, School House, Music, Court, Church, Cong., Presb., Bap., M. E., Rink, Evening, etc.; also abbreviations for every day of the week and month of the year.

Outfit No. 2 is 5-a font, and each letter is $\frac{5}{8}$ in. high. This outfit has no words or abbreviations as in outfit No. 1.

We always have on hand a stock of second-hand goods, and point with pride to the fact that they are goods of other makes—have been received in exchange from experienced exhibitors who recognize and appreciate the superior quality of our own make.

Curtain Slide Carrier.

This is a novelty in a slide carrier and is for use with a single lantern. By pulling cord A or B the curtain is lowered, the slide is changed and the curtain is raised on a new picture. The change can be made slowly or quickly as desired.

This carrier will use either the American or English size slide. To center the smaller (English) slide, pull out lever C. The two set screws are to hold the carrier rigidly in the opening of lantern.

PRICE, Curtain Slide Carrier.....$4.75

Double Slide Carrier.

For general use this is the simplest and best carrier on the market. Being made of wood it is light, and when in position need not be removed during the entertainment. While one slide is showing another is put in the other compartment. The change is quick, accurate and self-centering. No springs or levers to get out of order. Can be used equally as well for dissolving as for single lanterns.

Price, Double Slide Carrier, each50 cents.

IMPROVED DISSOLVING SLIDE CARRIER.

For dissolving stereopticon this is without question the best slide carrier on the market. It is not only suitable for double lantern, but equally as good for single lantern. To obtain the best dissolving effects every slide should occupy exactly the same place in the slide carrier and all the mats should be of the same size. "A" is a spring that automatically centers each slide, holds it rigid and always in the same place. "B" is a metal mat or aluminum frame that makes the picture of all full size slides the same size. The paper mat on a slide is not reliable. In putting the mat in place it is frequently pulled a little to either one side or the other, and again mats cut by the same form or die will vary in the size. A large number are cut at the same time, so that the pile of paper will "squash" or stretch. A very little difference in the size or shape of the mat when magnified is sufficient to give bad appearance on the curtain. The metal mat not only prevents this, but also serves as a most valuable guide in matching the fields of a dissolving lantern. Another feature of this slide carrier is that it can be used for both American and English size of slides.

SLIDES OF DIFFERENT SIZE.

The American slide is $3\frac{1}{4} \times 4$ inches while the English is square $3\frac{1}{4} \times 3\frac{1}{4}$. The picture however on both slides is the same size and the metal mat will therefore fit the picture of either slide. To center an English slide all that is necessary is to place in the slot of slide carrier opposite the spring, a small piece of wood about $\frac{3}{8}$ of an inch wide. For double lantern, the slides are used only in one side of the carrier, therefore the other side can be used for the English size. This will be found very convenient where the operator has both the American and English size.

A BRIGHTER PICTURE.

When using a double lantern with calcium light, a dissolving key is used to turn the gas from one burner to the other. This leaves the lime luminous in the "off" lantern, which always shows light on the curtain and dims the picture. This objectionable light is often termed a "ghost" and is sometimes prevented by holding the hand over the objective lens or capping it with the lens cap. As previously stated, with a double lantern, slides are used in only one side of the double carrier. By keeping a "blind" (piece of cardboard or other opaque substance) in opposite side of carrier this "ghost" is instantly and completely destroyed, soon as the carrier is pulled over to change the slide. This "blind" will also be found convenient to keep the light off the curtain when lighting up the machine or until ready for the first picture. When using a double lantern, should an accident occur to one of the lanterns, the Improved Double Slide Carrier will be found a great convenience.

SPECIAL MADE CARRIER.

This carrier is not the ordinary double slide carrier made of cheap material and put together with iron nails. The Improved Carrier is made heavier and stronger, of the best cherry and special provision is made in the construction to accommodate the metal mat. All joints are glued and the small nails used are polished brass. The spring used in each side of the carrier is of polished brass and so simple in construction it will not get out of order. Each carrier is packed in separate box with directions for using.

METAL SLIDE CARRIER.

This carrier is made of thin pressed steel. All parts are riveted together and it is strong and durable. Fire underwriters in some places require moving picture machines to use a metal carrier, and this meets all requirements.

INGENTO SLIDE CARRIER

This carrier is specially designed for use with a single lantern. Its operation is simple and rapid. The slide is dropped in the slot at top of the carrier and pushed into place by means of a lever. Then the next slide is to be inserted, while the former slide is still projected on the screen, the same operation of the lever carries the second slide into place in front of the other slide. The lever is pulled back, which immediately withdraws the first slide, and the second slide is pushed into optical position by means of the springs. The complete operation of changing the slides is quickly done, and a dissolving effect is produced on the screen.

This carrier is made in two styles, style No. 1 being made entirely of brass and handsomely nickel plated, while style No. 2 is made of hardwood, mahogany finish, polished, with nickel trimmings. They measure $11\frac{1}{2} \times 4$ inches.

EXHIBITION OUTFITS.

So many combinations and different priced outfits can be made, even with the same style lantern, that we do not consider it practical to make a large list of complete outfits. In the list given here will be found a few of the most popular, but should none of these meet with your approval, they will serve as a guide in selecting other outfits. If any one will select from the catalogue the style of lantern and light they prefer, we will take this as a basis and quote a price on a complete exhibition outfit; with itemized list.

MOVING PICTURES.

We would recommend the addition of a moving picture machine to all lecture outfits. Although a full entertainment can be given with only a stereopticon and slides, still the addition of moving pictures will greatly increase the attendance and yield better returns.

When used as part of an entertainment there should be about 1,000 feet of moving picture films. It is better to have one long special film (seven or eight hundred feet), that you can feature on your advertising matter. In addition to this, one or two good comic subjects will give variety and add much to the interest. If not convenient to purchase this amount to start with, less can be used and more added from the profits of the first few entertainments.

ILLUSTRATED SONGS.

One of the most popular additions to an entertainment is illustrated songs. While the song is being sung, slides illustrating the principal scenes, as described by the words, are thrown on the curtain. If the entertainment is given for a church or society, local talent can usually be found who will donate their services. By interesting home talent you increase the popularity of your entertainment.

TALKING MACHINE.

When playing small places, a good talking machine to sing the illustrated songs will be found a great convenience.

Combining a talking machine with the pictures thrown on the curtain is somewhat of a novelty, and an excellent substitute for a singer and piano. In fact, a good talking machine with the late improved concert reproducer or speaker, and a first-class record, will give better satisfaction than a poor singer and an old piano out of tune, which you usually find in halls. Another advantage is saving salary and expenses of a singer.

A few special high-grade instrumental records would also be found convenient to fill in any delay that might occur. For use on the road we would recommend the flat disc, hard rubber record. Advantage of these records is that they are not easily broken and can be conveniently packed for shipping.

RENTED GAS TANKS.

In place of buying a calcium light outfit to start with, rented tanks can be used. In nearly all large cities there are firms who sell gas in tanks ready for use. It is necessary to have two tanks, one for hydrogen and one for oxygen. Approximate weight of the large tanks is 200 pounds, and they contain sufficient gas to burn six or eight hours. Cost of the gas is about $6.25, to which must be added transportation charges.

LANTERN OUTFIT A, Price $39.50.

Monarch lantern—special $\frac{1}{4}$ size objective lens—double slide carrier—acetylene burner—No. 2 carrying case—acetylene generator—5 lbs. of carbide (to make acetylene gas)—10x10 ft. screen—dating outfit, and 1,000 admission tickets.

LANTERN OUTFIT B, Price $98.75.

Monarch lantern with special $\frac{1}{2}$ size objective lens—double slide carrier—No. 2 inner tube calcium burner—8 ft. rubber tubing—No. 2 carrying case—Arnold's calcium light outfit—can of $\frac{7}{8}$ limes—25 lbs. of oxygen chemicals—improved screen 15x15 ft.—40 plain and 12 colored slides (list 25c and 50c each), your selection from any of our lecture sets, with lecture—two illustrated songs—1,000 advertising posters, and 500 admission tickets.

If double dissolving Monarch lantern with dissolving key is wanted add $30.00 to the above price.

LANTERN OUTFIT C, Price $60.00.

Same as Outfit B, except that in place of gas-making outfit and calcium light attachments, are electric light attachments are substituted. These include Monarch electric lamp—No. 2 Wonder rheostat—electric switch—1 doz. $\frac{1}{2}$ in. cored "electra" carbons, and 10 ft. of No. 12 lamp cord to connect rheostat, lamp and switch.

For double dissolving Monarch lantern with electric attachments, and electric dissolver in place of single lantern, add $36.00 to above price.

MOVING PICTURE OUTFIT D, Price $165.00.

Edison universal moving picture machine—electric lamp—standard rheostat—1 doz. $\frac{1}{2}$ in. cored "electra" carbons—double slide carrier—15x15 ft. improved screen or curtain—ten 50 ft. moving picture films, or their equivalent in longer films—40 plain and 10 colored slides, with lecture—two sets illustrated song slides, colored—"good-night" slide, colored—1,000 advertising posters, and 500 admission tickets.

The slides and films can be of your own selection:—slides at the regular list price of 25 cents each plain, and 50 cents each colored; and the films at the usual price of 12 cents per foot.

If, with Outfit D, calcium light is preferred in place of electric attachments the following will be sent:—No. 2 inner tube calcium jet—8 ft. rubber tubing, and can of $\frac{7}{8}$ in. limes.

MOVING PICTURE OUTFIT E, Price $207.00.

Same as Outfit D, except that in place of the regular Edison moving picture machine is substituted the moving picture part combined with the Leader lantern. This is known as "Edison and Leader," and its high-grade lenses, automatic film protector, and many other improvements, make it much superior to the regular Edison machine. The difference in price will be found a most profitable investment.

MOVING PICTURE OUTFIT F, Price $283.00.

Edison Moving Picture Machine combined with the Leader Lantern (see cut and description); Monarch Electric Lamp; No. 2 Wonder Rheostat; 1 doz. "electro" carbons; electric switch; 10 feet No. 12 lamp cord, to connect rheostat, lamp and switch; 75 feet No. 10 lead wire; double slide carrier; 15x15-foot improved screen or curtain; 1,000 feet moving picture film; bottle film cement; film mender; 10 feet blank film; 40 plain and 12 colored slides with lecture; two sets illustrated song slides, colored; "Welcome" and "Good Night" slides, colored; 1,000 advertising posters; 500 admission tickets; rubber type bill dating outfit, and No. 1 carrying case.

The slides and films can be of your own selection, slides to be at the regular list price of 25 cents plain and 50 cents colored; and moving picture films at the usual price of 12 cents per foot.

If with Outfit F, calcium light is preferred, in place of electric light attachments, the following will be sent: No. 2 inner tube calcium jet, 8 feet rubber tubing, and can $\frac{7}{8}$ -in. limes. With calcium light in place of electric, the outfit will cost \$6.00 less, or \$277.00.

This outfit, with its special high grade lenses, automatic film protector and other improvements will produce the best still and moving pictures that is possible to obtain. This is the style of outfit the most successful exhibitors are using.

Moving Picture Outfit G. Price.....$335.00

Same as outfit "F," with electric connections, except in place of "Leader" lantern is the "Duplex" dissolving lantern.

Moving Picture Outfit H. Price.....$205.00

Same as outfit "D," except in place of the Edison Universal moving picture machine is the Edison Exhibition machine with electric connections.

Black tents, made to exclude the light, are used by exhibitors who wish to project moving pictures and stereopticon views during the warm weather. If a tent is used during the day time, much better results will be obtained by having a lined tent, which is specially important when moving pictures are shown.

Tents, up to and including 30x50, can be made either gable ends, both ends alike, or round end in front and gable end in the back. Tents above this size must be round ends like an ordinary show tent. All these tents are made up and roped in regular showman's style and are first-class in material and workmanship.

As we do not carry these tents in stock, time must be allowed for making them, and full payment should accompany the order. Time usually required after receiving order before shipment can be made is 10 days to two weeks.

LANTERN SLIDES OR VIEWS.

The making of good lantern slides is a special branch of photography and the coloring of slides a special branch of art. A photographer or an artist, as the term is usually applied, cannot make good lantern slides, nor successfully color them.

Our slide department is the largest and most complete of any in this country. We have four dark rooms, with a capacity of eight hundred slides per day.

In our show room are over two thousand slides under electric display. We have our own power and electric light plant and buy all material used in making slides direct from the manufacturers in Europe and America. The size of our plant and the plan on which it is conducted enables us to make a high grade slide at a low price.

SONG SLIDES.

We are large manufacturers of song slides, and with few exceptions all song slides made by us are from life posings. We do not use painted background for scenery; but send our photographers to California, Florida, Canada or wherever it is necessary to obtain the actual scenes for the song. For instance, if a song called for scenes of the Swanee River, we send a photographer to the Swanee River to get them. Our song slides are therefore true to life and correctly represent the sentiment of the song.

There are many cheap song slides on the market. They are usually copied from other slides and are poorly colored. "A good slide will help a poor song and a poor slide will kill a good song."

COLORING SLIDES.

Beware of cheap colored slides—they are dear at any price. There is as much difference in artists who color slides as there is difference in artists who paint pictures. In both classes you will find "daubs."

Good coloring increases the value of a slide, poor coloring decreases the value. Better to have a good plain slide than a poorly colored one.

SPECIAL SLIDES TO ORDER.

We will make slides from negatives or pictures furnished us, providing they are not copyrighted. No slide will be made from anything copyrighted unless permission in writing is furnished us by the party holding the copyright.

The usual price of plain slide from a black and white picture is 50 cents each, and plain slide from negative is 40 cents each. Additional price will be charged for any special work that might be required, like lettering a slide or building up a weak part of the picture to "bring it out."

The usual price for coloring a slide is 40 cents. When sending a colored picture from which a slide is to be made, remember that red, green and yellow photograph black, and that black is not transparent. The slide must be transparent to show the color on the curtain.

A colored slide can be made from a picture having strong colors, but the negative and positive must be retouched and worked over so the dark places will be transparent enough to show the color. This adds to the expense, and it would be necessary to see the picture before cost of a colored slide could be given.

A good slide can not be made from a picture taken from a newspaper or from a book printed on cheap paper. However, such a picture often conveys an idea and is therefore valuable to the lecturer. A slide made from a picture printed on poor paper, when magnified on the curtain, shows the grain of the paper, and gives the picture a coarse, rough appearance.

When it is possible, select a picture that is smooth, full of detail and is printed on a close grained paper. A good slide, as a rule, can be made from a steel engraving, but the best slides, like the best pictures, are from life posings. When sending pictures from which slides are to be made, do not fold or crease them, but send them flat or rolled and protected so they cannot be crushed in transportation.

The rapid growth of this department is largely due to tourists, missionaries and lecturers. They recognize and appreciate our high-class work, for with them it is important that they have the best slide it is possible to obtain from their negatives and photographs. We do more special slide work than any three firms in this country.

The above prices are for regular work. For any special work an additional charge will be made.

SLIDES BETWEEN MOVING PICTURES.

A most valuable investment will be a few choice slides to use between moving pictures. They will be found restful to the eye and will please the audience; they will lengthen your entertainment and give variety to your program.

We have ten of these slides, and every one is a work of art. They are made by reduction from large negatives, and are full of detail, sharp, clear, and brilliant. All are from life posings except the Raging Storm, which is from a special drawing. The coloring is done by the best color artists, and no better slides were ever made at any price.

No. 1. SUNSET IN MID-OCEAN. This is a difficult picture to obtain, owing to the movement of the vessel and the fact that the photograph must be made against the sun. It is a sublime sight to see the sun, like a ball of fire, sink to rest 'neath the dancing waves, shedding its golden rays as far as the eye can reach.

No. 2. MOONLIGHT ON THE OCEAN. The full moon, the fleecy clouds, the great expanse of water and the path of the moon all combine to make this a beautiful slide.

No. 3. A RAGING STORM. This picture was made from a high-class drawing and shows dark clouds, flash of lightning and the dashing rain. The blowing of a fierce gale is indicated by a broken tree, the bending grass and trees, and the slanting rain.

No. 4. THE RAINBOW. This is a scene after a storm, when the clouds have broken away and a beautiful rainbow appears. A good picture to follow No. 3.

No. 5. SEASHORE AND WAVES. After a high wind the waves come rolling in to shore and in the distance are seen breaking over a large rock. A typical scene on the seashore when the waves are high.

No. 6. A SUNBURST THROUGH THE CLOUDS. This is one of those beautiful views where a bank of dark clouds has parted and the sun bursts through in long, golden streaks, extending out like the points of a star.

No. 7. A WESTERN PRIZE. This is a prize picture of the Golden West. It shows the fertile valley, group of farmhouses, foothills in the distance, and fifteen miles away from the snow-capped mountains. From a photographic standpoint it is a masterpiece.

No. 8. NIAGARA FALLS IN WINTER.

No. 9. NIAGARA FALLS IN SUMMER.

These are companion pictures and need no description.

No. 10. A COTTAGE COVERED WITH ROSES. A Southern California scene in which "all nature smiles her sweetest smile."

Price, Colored only, each.....$1.00

An investment in these slides will be found more profitable than three times the amount in moving pictures.

The following views have been secured since the above list was published, and are of the same high grade quality, both in the scenes selected, and the perfection with which they are presented on the slides.

Mark Your Slides.

To prevent error of putting a slide in up-side down or wrong-side-te, a star or mark of some kind on one corner of the slide will be found a great convenience. We have them, same size and shape as cut, gummed ready to stick on.

Poses Plastique

FOR LIST OF SLIDES SEE INDEX

This is a screen specialty in which the picture is thrown on the individual in place of on the screen. The picture usually covers the entire slide with a V or U shape piece cut out of the picture for the head.

The individual who is posing stands before a black curtain dressed in white costume (white dress or tights) and wears a cloak that is white inside and black outside. With extended arms the inside of the cloak and the white costume, take the place of the curtain on which the picture is thrown. When the picture is changed the cloak is closed by bringing the arms together. While the cloak is closed the picture is changed, so when the cloak opens a new picture is shown. A single or double lantern can be used; but as a rule a single lantern with a double slide carrier is preferred. When this is used the operator should cap the projecting lens, while the next slide is being "pushed" in place. As the cloak opens and closes, the picture should appear and disappear.

When closing the cloak, some think the effect much better to bring the arms together high enough to conceal the head. The object of standing in front of a black curtain, is, so that only the part of the picture falling on the cloak will show. The curtain should be made of some rough material that will absorb light, like black velvet or black cotton flannel. Better results will be obtained by placing the black curtain about ten feet back of the party posing.

THE CLOAK.

The cloak is usually square or oblong, fastened at the shoulders and should have a loop near the edge for the hand to hold the cloak when the arms are extended. The cloak is very easily made as there are no sleeves or armholes to be made or any fitting to be done. The objection to buying a cloak ready made is the difficulty of getting one the proper length. Spread of the cloak can be increased by using a short stick held in the hand between the cloth and lining. The best cloak is made of black velvet outside and white satin inside. Cheaper material, however, can be used with good results. If not convenient for the party posing, to wear a white costume, the cloak can be placed in front of the individual and fastened at the shoulders, and waist. The cloak should extend from the shoulders to the floor. One of the advantages gained by placing the cloak in front is that the party posing can stand on a box or some elevation which will give appearance of being much taller. This will enable a person of short stature to make a good size picture and for ancient and fashion costumes this is specially desirable.

Many prefer these slides without cut outs but if any desire to have them made with cut out, kindly state so when ordering.

Poses Costumes and Ancient Costumes

Black Curtain Not Necessary with these Slides

Slides of Ancient Costumes will be furnished as requested with head "cut out" for poses or when not used for posing will be furnished complete with the head and head-gear. These costumes are authentic in both style and color and were secured at expenditure of much time and money. They date back over two thousand years and are the only set of slides of the kind ever made. They are sharp and clear, brilliantly colored, (true to life), and will be found not only instructive, but novel and interesting.

Black Curtain not necessary. In slides of Ancient Costumes the back ground is "black out," so only the costumes will show on the curtain. Therefore it is not necessary for the party posing to stand in front of a black curtain. The cloak and method of using the slides is the same as described under head of "Poses Plastique."

On the black back ground of each slide, cut in white letters, is the name of the nation and date the costume was worn.

Selections can be made all from one nationality, showing the different style of dress or costumes worn by a certain country at the different centuries. In this selection you can include Kings, Queens, Men and Women of rank, Warriors, Bishops, Priests, Musicians, Citizens, Servants, etc. Another interesting set can be made by selecting from each country one or more individuals of similar rank, by which a comparison of their odd and interesting costumes can be made. If this selection is left to us, we will send only those that are strikingly odd and interesting.

FOR LIST OF SLIDES SEE INDEX.

Poses Facion and Fashion Costumes

Like the slides of ancient costumes, these slides will be furnished with or without "cut out" for the head. The slides are made from the latest Paris fashion plates, artistic in design and beautifully colored. There is nothing more interesting to a lady than a fashionable gown and whatever interests the ladies, will secure patronage of the gentlemen.

There is set of twenty-five of these slides consisting of different styles of ladies' evening dress, street costumes, etc. They will be sold separately or in sets as desired.

A Profitable Investment.

Some of the ancient court costumes are gorgeously brilliant in precious stones and rich colors. One of the expenses incurred in the manufacture of Costume Slides, is the time required to obtain accurate registration, that is, the neck of the picture should exactly fit neck of the individual who is posing. These slides can be shown with equal interest in theaters, churches or schools and will prove a most profitable investment.

If not convenient to use them with a cloak for posing, order them complete with the head. They will give variety to your entertainment and prove a most valuable addition to your program.

Slides of Tissot's Life of Christ.

Tissot's paintings of the Life of Christ are universally considered to be the finest production ever made of this great subject.

They are not only valuable as a work of art; but cover nearly every incident in the Life of Christ as well as the Gospel stories. The McClure-Tissot Company are owners of the copyright and control all publications and reproductions of Tissot's paintings. These slides are therefore sold at higher price than other slides and each slide is marked copyright. For churches and Sunday evening services these slides will be found very popular. They are sold both plain and colored. The colored slides are an exact reproduction of the original paintings.

These slides should be used only colored, for without coloring it is not possible to conceive this great artist's idea of the scenes. We usually keep sets of these on hand for rental. See list on page 469.

PRICE, COLORED SLIDES $2.00 EACH. PLAIN SLIDES 75 CENTS EACH.
Rental, 5c each per day, 10c each per week, same price as for Song Slides.

Advertising Posters.

We have, at large, expense, provided a supply of advertising posters in two colors and by printing them in large quantities we can supply them to our customers at much lower prices than would be charged for similar bills if printed as they were required. These posters are attractively displayed and their proper use will be found very helpful in securing a good attendance at your entertainments. Order by number. Blank white Daters 50 cents per 1000.

In less quantities than 1000 the posters will be furnished at 60 cents per 100.
We have also bills advertising special lectures only, that we sell at the same price as above named. Samples sent free on application.

MOVING PICTURE FILMS.

We have separate catalogue of moving picture films, which will be furnished on application. When selecting moving picture films, care should be taken to not only select interesting subjects; but those that are sharp, clear and distinct. You cannot judge the value or quality of a film by the name or description. If you will leave selection of film to us, we will give you the benefit of our experience and send you only those that are sharp and clear and interesting to the public.

COLORED FILMS.

Beware of cheap colored films. Some firms advertise to color films for two or three dollars each. This so-called coloring is simply tinting the film, or perhaps only a small part of each picture has a little color daubed on it. Many a good plain film is ruined and rendered hideous by this kind of work.

There are between seven and eight hundred pictures on a fifty foot film and to color them artistically, requires an expert artist and great deal of time.

Films colored by us are colored in entire. Not only the faces; but the furniture; carpets, wall paper and draperies are artistically colored and blended in pleasing harmony.

We keep in stock the following colored films: The American Flag, Skirt Dance and the Fire Dance. These films are beautifully colored by a high class artist who makes a specialty of coloring films. The great advantage of these films is, that the picture on the screen is the same, whether it is run forward or backward. A film of this kind can therefore be kept on the curtain as long as desired and in value to the exhibitor, is equal to a 150 foot film.

As a closing picture, there is nothing that will receive applause equal to a beautifully colored film of the American Flag waving in the breeze. It can be shown in any church or theater and will be found the most profitable investment an exhibitor can make. Coloring greatly improves some films, while others the improvement is not sufficient to warrant the additional expense. The American Flag and the Fire Dance without color are of comparative little value; but when properly colored always win big applause.

Price, Skirt Dance, Fire Dance, or American Flag, Colored $10 each
This price includes both the film and the coloring.

Price for coloring other films will vary according to the subject.

CONDENSING LENS

A condensing lens is a circular piece of glass and in shape is called a "plano-convex," that is, flat or plain on one side and oval or convex on the other.

Two of these lenses are used with their convex sides toward each other. They are mounted in a cell or case and are placed next to the light. The purpose they serve is to gather or condense the light so it can pass through the projecting lens.

The thinner the lens, the longer the focus, and the thicker the lens the shorter the focus. The condensing lenses generally used in stereopticon are the $6\frac{1}{2}$ and $7\frac{1}{2}$ inch focus and $4\frac{1}{2}$ inch diameter. When using a $6\frac{1}{2}$ inch focus lens, the light is nearer the lens than when using a $7\frac{1}{2}$ inch focus.

With the long focus lenses there is less danger of breakage, but there is also some loss of light. When two lenses of different thickness or focus are used it is customary to place the thinner or longer focus one next to the light. From a practical standpoint this is correct, as the contraction and expansion of a thin (long focus) lens is more even than it is in a thick lens, and therefore less liable to break. From a scientific standpoint, however, a little better illumination would be obtained by placing the thicker or short focused lens next to the light.

A lens that has been properly annealed will stand the heat better, and although they originally cost more, still they are cheaper in the end.

CONDENSING LENS MOUNTING

The above cut shows a cross section of a lens cell or mounting. The cell, being cut in two, shows construction and arrangement of the condensing lenses.

The lenses should be placed with convex sides towards each other and slightly separated. They should be held firmly in position, still have room for expansion when hot. This lens mounting or cell is made of spun brass, nickel plated, highly polished and thoroughly ventilated.

Price, Lens Mounting or Cell, each.....$1.50

PRACTICAL TALK ON CONDENSING LENSES

Condensing lenses are usually made of Crown glass, which has a greenish color. Better illumination would be obtained if they were made of optical flint glass. They would not only absorb less light, but would be thinner for the same focus, and therefore less liable to break. The expense, however, would be so great that it would not be practical to use them. A lens ground to a thin edge will give little better illumination, and is less liable to crack than a lens with a thick edge.

TRIPLE CONDENSERS

Condenser mountings containing three and even four lenses have been used with a view of getting better illumination on the screen. Theoretically, the light should be better, but there is some loss of light due to the increased number of reflecting surfaces, so there is practically little gained when used with a regular lantern. With a projecting microscope, where it is necessary to condense the light to a very small surface, an increased number of condensing lenses is an advantage.

BREAKING CONDENSING LENSES

One of the most frequent troubles an operator has is breaking condensing lenses. When one is on the road and must set the machine where it is exposed to draughts this difficulty cannot be entirely eliminated. It can, however, be reduced to a minimum by proper precautions.

SMALL MOUNTING AND DRAFT

Breaking condensing lenses is due to two causes, namely: The glass fitting too tightly in the lens cell or a draft striking a lens when it is hot.

The glass and metal do not expand equally, and if a lens fits too tightly in the cell, there will not be sufficient room for expansion when it gets hot. The lenses should fit loose enough in the cell so they can be easily turned around with the fingers.

PRINCIPAL CAUSE IS A DRAFT

The principal cause of breaking condensing lenses is a draft of air. Keep the cold air from a condensing lens and you can heat it to redness without breaking. If lens cells and lamp houses were closed up so the cold air could not reach the lenses, there would be comparatively few condensing lenses broken.

AN OLD IDEA

An old idea is to thoroughly ventilate a lens cell so as to keep it cool, and the condensing lens will not break. It is true that if a lens can be kept cool enough it will not break, even if brought in contact with a draft. This, however, is not possible, especially when a strong electric light is used. With moving pictures it is necessary to use a much stronger light than for still pictures, and therefore the condensing lenses become very hot and are more liable to be broken. The lens that usually breaks is the one that gets the hotter, and that is the one next to the light.

AN OPEN LENS CELL

In experimenting we have placed the condensing lenses outside of the lamp house in an open lens cell in which the lenses were held in position by four very small spring clamps. There was nothing to bind them, there was no rim to the cell and nothing to prevent free circulation of air on all sides of both lenses. In this open cell condensing lenses will break sooner than they will in the usual form of cell that is partly ventilated. Sometimes a lens would break within ten minutes after being placed in the cell.

A CLOSED LENS CELL

We have also placed the lenses in a cell lined with asbestos so the glass could not touch the metal casing, wrapped around the cell several layers of asbestos. The condensers and cell were then placed inside a lamp house closed at the bottom so no draft could reach the lenses. For several hours 50 amperes of alternating current was used without breaking the condensing lens.

SWEATING OR STEAMING

If lenses are cold they will "sweat" or "steam up" unless some provision is made to ventilate them. There should be a hole in the lens cell so the air can circulate between the lenses. If no ventilation is provided, the moisture that collects on the lens will gradually dry on the glass. This will leave a coating that will "burn in the glass" so it is difficult to remove. The lens cell should be so constructed, that after the lenses are warm, the ventilating hole can be closed, so no draft can pass between the lenses.

HOW TO PROTECT CONDENSING LENSES

If the lens fits too tightly in the cell or mounting, with a saw cut several slits in the side, so as to give room for the glass to expand. Cut a piece of asbestos just a little wider than the condenser holder and long enough to go once or twice around it. With a wire or string bind this around the condensing cell or holder. If the lenses should "steam up" or sweat, wait until they are warm and dry before wrapping the asbestos around the cell. With other asbestos close up the rear of lamp house and in fact every place where a draft might reach the condensing lens next to the light. If the lens cell is outside of the lamp house, see that any opening between lamp house and cell is closed with asbestos.

This will be found a great convenience for re-winding films, also for examining the sprocket holes, repairing, taking out or putting in film in a roll.

THE UNIVERSAL PROJECTOR

THE UNIVERSAL PROJECTOSCOPE

To meet the special requirements of educational work we have introduced this apparatus.

By its aid all opaque material such as maps, photographs, lithographs, drawings, printed items and other desired objects, not exceeding five and one-half inches square, can be reproduced in their exact form and color. The space underneath is sufficient to permit the exposure of any part of a page from the thickest book with printed matter $10\frac{1}{4}$ inches long.

Designs in books can thus be easily reproduced without injury to the book or magazine and without any expense or preparation. It is readily apparent that such an apparatus is a part of the essential equipment of every up-to-date school seeking to teach in the most helpful and successful method such subjects as geography, physics, chemistry, biology, physiology, psychology, astronomy, art and literature.

The apparatus which we now offer represents the latest and best results in this line of projection, meeting the difficult requirements of educational work as does no other lantern now upon the market.

In order to obtain good results it is necessary to have the room dark, machine not too far from curtain and a good strong electric light.

Price, Universal Projectoscope, complete for lantern slides, opaque and vertical projection with electric radiant and including the following equipment: One optical bench; one hand-feed arc lamp with support and all fine adjustments for direct or alternating current; one lamp-house; three condensing lenses, $4\frac{1}{2}$ inches diameter; two condensing lens cells; one dark chamber with supports and reflectors; one vertical objective holder; one projection objective; one adjustable mirror for projective objective; one adjustable stage for opaque objects; one stage for slide holder; one double slide holder; one cooling tank; one single objective, or microscope holder, with flange, one projection objective, quarter plate; one rheostat, adjustable; fifteen feet flexible cord; one knife switch; one fuse block \$135.00

LECTURE ON THE YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK.

See List on Page 265.

No known area of equal extent in the whole world contains so great a number of natural wonders as the Yellowstone National Park. Globe travelers regard this marvelous wonderland as unrivaled.

The negatives for these slides were made by the celebrated landscape photographer, Moe Wineman. The coloring on the slides is true to nature and of the best quality. The lecture is written by J. L. Dunlap, whose descriptive ability as a writer is well known. We specially recommend this set of slides and lecture. To bring out the beauty of the slides, we would suggest that they all be colored.

NORTH DOME, WASHINGTON COLUMN, AND ROYAL ARCHES, YOSEMITE VALLEY.

Illustration from LECTURE ON THE YOSEMITE VALLEY.

See List on Page 267.

Travel, like charity, should commence at home. Many think that only abroad can the finest scenery be found. Such, however, is not the case; for in our own land are beauty and grandeur of mountain, vale and plain unsurpassed elsewhere in the world.

Among the beauty spots of America none presents greater attractions than the far-famed Yosemite Valley. The story of its discovery reads like romance.

Our lecture on this subject is comprehensive and instructive, and appreciated by audiences everywhere.

Being made from original negatives taken by our own photographer, and with the coloring true to nature, the slides are works of art.

Yellowstone Park scenery includes the greatest variety and most brilliant natural coloring in the world. Nature's colors have been faithfully reproduced by our special artist, at great expense, and this set of slides will be found vastly superior in all respects to any others on the market. We would recommend them in colors only, as otherwise much of the natural effect will be missing.

A TRIP FROM CHICAGO TO CALIFORNIA

150 Slides with Reading

The reading is arranged in parts, each part illustrated with fifteen slides. The reading for each part is so written that it can be used alone, taking fifteen or twenty minutes to read; or it can be used with any or all of the other parts, so that an entertainment of any desired length up to two hours can be given from this set.

The coloring of slides adds greatly to their beauty and attractiveness on the screen. It is therefore desirable, when purchasing, to have as many colored as possible.

PLANTING SUGAR CANE IN HAWAII.

Illustration from LECTURE, "A VISIT TO HAWAII."

See List on Page 332.

The Hawaiian, or Sandwich Islands, present a wonderful and interesting history. Redeemed from absolute heathenism within a generation, and now a part of Uncle Sam's possessions, these islands present many points of interest.

Their story is told in two lectures by Rev. W. D. Westervelt, for many years a resident missionary there. The slides are from original negatives, and present all phases of the life, manners, religion, architecture and material growth of the natives.

You will find these lectures a valuable addition to your list.

125 Slides with Reading

The reading is arranged in parts, each part illustrated with fifteen slides. The reading for each part is so written that it can be used alone, taking fifteen or twenty minutes to read; or it can be used with any or all of the other parts, so that an entertainment of any desired length up to two hours can be given from this set.

The coloring of slides adds greatly to their beauty and attractiveness on the screen. It is therefore desirable, when purchasing, to have as many colored as possible.

SAMOA.

Hon. Bartlett Tripp, United States Commissioner to Samoa, collected a very fine selection of views during his stay among the beautiful islands of the southern seas, and the series of slides given below is among the most attractive which we offer. Their value is increased by the interesting lecture which our commissioner has prepared to accompany them, giving in addition to the description of the scenes, a very complete and concise statement of the resources of the islands and the character of their inhabitants. Copyrighted.

A SUMMER TRIP THROUGH EUROPE.

The value of a series of slides illustrating travels is greatly enhanced by a lecture prepared by one who has himself visited the places shown, and is thus able to give a clearness of description and a vividness of detail which would be impossible to any but an eye-witness. Hon. Bartlett Tripp, United States Commissioner to Samoa, has selected the finest views that could be found in his summer trip through Europe, and has accompanied them with a graphic account of their present appearance and interesting facts regarding their past history which will render this series one of the most attractive and popular that we make.

AROUND THE WORLD—with Lecture

Recent historical events have directed the eyes of the world toward the far east as never before. The geography, customs and habits of the Orientals, so little known before this time, have now become of great and increasing interest to the general public.

The writer has taken advantage of this fact and in his trip around the world spent most of his time in China, Japan and Ceylon. Some of his photographs were made in the "Forbidden City," where never before had a camera been. This "Around the World Trip" differs from the usual ones in that it combines with the scenes of public buildings and panoramic views of large cities, beautiful views of waterfalls, tropical plants, trees and products, coffee and tea plantations, and illustrates the customs and habits of the people. Read the list of slides and notice the great variety of subjects treated.

SIEGE IN PEKIN—With Lecture

The uprising of the Boxers, the connivance of the Empress Dowager, the massacre of missionaries and native Christians, the murder of the German Ambassador, the siege and bombardment of the foreign legations, make a combination of events so startling and unexpected that the "Siege in Peking" will go down in history as one of the most remarkable series of events recorded on its pages.

These slides were made from photographs taken on the spot by missionaries and others who were in the besieged city. Many of the places here shown had never before been photographed; and the value of the set will increase with passing years.

Supplementary slides may be had by making selections from our sets on "The Noble Army of Martyrs," "Around the World Trip," or "China Against the World."

THE AGONY IN THE GARDEN.

Illustration from

LECTURE ON THE PASSION PLAY OF OBERAMMERGAU.

See List on Page 535.

As is well known, the solemn and religious Passion Play is given every ten years at Oberammergau. The slides illustrating it were made from official photographs of the last representation, and are clear and fine. The lecture was written by an eye-witness of the play, and is of unusual interest.

Our list of slides on biblical subjects and scenes in Bible lands is very large and complete, many being from original negatives.

The series of sermons on "How We Got the Bible" contains valuable material that can be obtained nowhere else. The same is true of many other lectures.

The general classification and plan of indexing our catalogue is simple and comprehensive, enabling one to find any subject very easily. Give it a thorough perusal.

Tower Falls, Yellowstone Park—Copyright 1907
by Mode Wineman.

Hidden like some beautiful flower in the wilderness, Tower Falls chants its everlasting song in a sequestered spot off the main road of travel in the Yellowstone Park. For this reason comparatively few persons see the most graceful waterfall in the Yellowstone. To photograph this waterfall is a problem. It not only requires the confidence of nature, but an enthusiasm that makes one un-mindful of danger. Furnished colored only $1.00.

Brady Glacier, Alaska—Copyright, 1907, by Mode Wineman.
Brady Glacier bears the name of the former governor of Alaska. Governor Brady is seen in the picture leading a party of travelers over the glacier on the twenty-fifth anniversary of its christening, which was quite recently. As no person is known to have visited this dead glacier (a glacier is said to be dead when it is not fed) within that quarter century, and as Mr. Wineman was the only member of the party who carried a camera on the recent visit, this picture is of unusual interest, especially when it is related that the adventurers nearly lost their lives on the occasion. The tide, suddenly going out, left the unhappy explorers exposed at night in a droning rain, on the wild shores of Alaska. Furnished colored only $1.00.

Mt. Moran, Teton Range, Jackson Hole Country
—Copyright 1907 by Mude Wineman.

The Teton Timber Preserve, adjoining the Yellowstone Park in the South, is a region of magnificent scenery and of big game, and a region destined to attract the world. Majestic Mt. Moran (named in honor of Thomas Moran, the artist, whose wonderful painting of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, and the Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone are in the National Capitol) wears a mantle of ermine, and on its breast, as a sparkling pendant, is a hanging glacier, upon which sunbeams dance, while big bears inhabit the black forest below. Furnished colored only $1.00.

Nevada Falls, Yosemite Valley—

Furnished colored only $1.00.

AFRICA—with Lecture

These slides were made from photographs brought from his field of labor by Rev. M. Fraser, who has worked for years at Elat, W. Africa, under the Presbyterian Board. The lecture was prepared by the Rev. J. T. Ladd, under the dictation of the missionary.

There is an interesting pictorial account of the Bulu Savages, their occupations, amusements, etc., of school and church work among them, and of the results. One series of illustrations widely presents the effects of witchcraft as it is believed in and practiced in Africa today.

We heartily commend this illustrated lecture to those who care to know what real missionary work is among savage heathen. It is a powerful missionary sermon.

GREAT THINGS OF THE GLOBE

The "Great Things of the Globe" is a magnificent lecture set of wide variety and exceptional quality. The lecture is the work of Mr. John L. Dunlap, author of our famous "Russo-Japanese War" series, the "St. Louis World's Fair," and other deservedly popular lantern lectures: It is written in such a brilliant and delightfully entertaining way as to be well worthy of attention even without the slides, while with the beautiful pictures in this collection, it commands absorbing interest from the start to the very close.

This charming picture story is arranged in the nature of a trip around the world, yet it depicts and describes many things that would require several trips around the world to see, and some which the globe tourist cannot now see. All the really great and most renowned things of the earth are included, from the snow-clad Jungfrau in the wonderful Colorado of Europe, to that great gash in Nature's face—the Grand Canyon of Arizona; and from where Pike's Peak rears aloft and kisses the clouds to the frowning Sphinx in the sands of the Sahara. The lecture is rich with the finest views and replete with the most graphic description, and in every respect this is one of the very best lecture sets ever offered. Motion pictures can be introduced and are suggested at appropriate intervals in the lecture.

The lecture is written so as to use either the entire 100 or only 50 slides, the numbers marked with a star showing the 50 views used in Set No. 1, which is complete in itself; or it can be conveniently divided into shorter talks at will, thus giving the lecturer something suitable for any and all occasions. It is a new and timely treatment of a subject that never grows old. It is a set that will not get out of date and can be shown with equal interest before any audience.

Never before has a lecture been written covering a field so broad or a subject so popular. There is so much on this to select from that the monotonous details ("dry part") usually found in all lectures, has been omitted and only the choice, crisp parts of each subject used.

Price—Set No. 1 in list of slides and lecture, is marked with a star,
 25 colored and 25 plain.....$18.75
 Additional slides, colored.....each, .65
 Additional slides, plain.....each, .35
 "Set No. 2," 50 colored and 50 plain..... 35.00

List of slides will be found on succeeding page.

| 6 While underneath the ground | 26 "What Aileth Thee, that still thou looketh to Earth?" |
| 7 And there were some, who in the shady place | 27 "Up," he exclaimed, "brother! upon thy feet arise" |
| 8 "Many," exclaimed the Bard, are these who throng around us | 28 With weary steps and slow we passed |
| 9 From my breast loosening the Cross | 29 "And who are those twain spirits?" |
| 10 I once was Pia. Sienna gave me life | 30 The Shadowy forms |

| 12 "Salve Regina," on the Grass and Flowers here Chanting | 32 Here the Rocky Precipice |
| 13 Hearing the Air Cut by their Verdant Plumes | 33 Then from the bosom of the burning mass |
| 14 Now the Fair Consort of Tithonus Old | 34 And when I saw Spirits along the flame proceeding |
| 15 There both, I thought, the Eagle and Myself did burn | 35 A lady, young and beautiful, I dreamed, was passing o'er a lea |
| 16 In Visage such, as past my power to bear | 36 Already had my steps |
| 17 The wretch appeared amid all these to say | 37 Beneath a Sky so beautiful |
| 18 With equal pace, as Oxen in the Yoke | 38 Three Nymphs at the right wheel |
| 19 O Fond Arachne! Thee I also saw | 39 Thus in a cloud of flowers |
| 20 E'en thus the Blind and Poor | 40 The beauteous dame, her arms expanding, clasped my temples |
| | 41 At her side as 'twere that none might bear her off |

DORE'S ILLUSTRATIONS OF DANTE'S PARADISE

| 1 Such saw I many a face | 10 Before my sight appeared, with open wings, the beauteous image |
| 2 So drew full more than thousand splendors toward us | 11 For that all those living lights |
| 3 The left bank | 12 Again mine eyes were fix'd on Beatrice |
| 4 About us thus | 13 Down whose steps |
| 5 And I beheld myself | 14 Say then, beginning to what point thy soul aspires |
| 6 Christ beam'd on that Cross | 15 Then "Glory to the Father, to the Son" |
| 7 But so was doom'd | 16 Not unlike to iron in the furnace |
| 8 So, within the lights, the saintly creatures flying sang | 17 In fashion as a snow white rose |
| 9 Ye hosts of Heaven, whose glory I survey | 18 Answering not, mine eyes I raised |

WHEN THE FROST IS ON THE PUMPKIN.

James Whitcomb Riley.

(Illustrated with fourteen beautiful Slides and title.)

- | | |
|--|--|
| 2 When the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock, And you hear the kyvack and gobble of the struttin' turkey cock. | 9 But the air's so appetizin' and the landscape through the haze Of a crisp and sunny morning of the early autumn days |
| 3 And the clackin' of the guineas and the cluckin' of the hens, And the rooster's hallylooyer as he tiptoes on the fence; | 10 Is a pictur' that no painter has the colorin' to mock— When the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock. |
| 4 Oh, it's then's the time a feller is a feelin' at his best, With the risin' sun to greet him from a night of peaceful rest; | 11 The husky, rusty rustle of the tassels of the corn, And the raspin' of the tangled leaves, as golden as the morn; |
| 5 As he leaves the house bareheaded and goes out to feed the stock, | 12 The stubble in the furrows, kind o' lonesome-like, but still A-preachin' sermons to us of the barns they grewed to fill; |
| 6 When the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock. | 13 The straw-stack in the medder, and the reaper in the shed; |
| 7 There's something kind o' hearty-like about the atmosphere When the heat of summer's over and the coolin' fall is here. | 14 The hoeses in their stalls below, the clover overhead; |
| 8 Of course we miss the flowers and the blossoms on the trees, And the mumble of the hummin' birds and buzzin' of the bees; | 15 Oh, it sets my heart a-clickin' like the tickin' of a clock When the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock. |

THE VILLAGE BLACKSMITH

- 8 Slides, including portraits of Longfellow and beautiful view of his home
- | | |
|--|--|
| Under the spreading chestnut tree,
The village smithy stands;
The smith, a mighty man is he,
With large and sinewy hands;
And the muscles of his brawny arms
Are strong as iron bands. | He goes on Sunday to the church,
And sits among his boys;
He hears the parson pray and preach,
He hears his daughter's voice,
Singing in the village choir,
And it makes his heart rejoice. |
| His hair is crisp, and black, and long,
His face is like the tan;
His brow is wet with honest sweat,
He earns whate'er he can,
And looks the whole world in the face,
For he owes not any man. | It sounds to him like her mother's voice,
Singing in Paradise!
He needs must think of her once more,
How in the grave she lies;
And with his hard, rough hand he wipes
A tear out of his eyes. |
| Week in, week out, from morn till night,
You can hear his bellows blow;
You can hear him swing his heavy sledge
With measured beat and slow,
Like the sexton ringing the village bell,
When the evening sun is low. | Toiling,—rejoicing,—sorrowing,
Onward through life he goes;
Each morning sees some task begun,
Each evening sees it close;
Something attempted, something done,
Has earned a night's repose. |
| And the children coming home from school
Look in at the open door;
They love to see the flaming forge,
And hear the bellows roar,
And catch the burning sparks that fly
Like chaff from a threshing-floor. | Thanks, thanks to thee, my worthy friend,
For the lesson thou hast taught!
Thus at the flaming forge of life
Our fortunes must be wrought;
Thus on its sounding anvil shaped
Each burning deed and thought. |

THE COUNTRY TOWN.

- | | |
|--|---|
| 2 It's common to sneer at the country town,
With its quiet streets and peaceful air | Where men know the names which their neighbors bear. |
| 3 Where the little river meanders down
To be lost in the broad, blue sea, somewhere. | 10 Where a man is missed if he's gone to lie
With the peaceful ones who have ceased to care. |
| 4 As we who think we are wise are lost
In the roaring city that, like the sea, | 11 There are joys out there in the country town
That we of the city may never learn |
| 5 Has its ebb and flow, with its millions tossed
As bubbles robbed of identity. | 12 In the rush for money and renown,
Confronting strangers where'er we turn! |
| 6 There's fellowship in the country town,
With its empty streets and its spreading trees, | 13 Oh, wasn't God's world serene and fair
In the country town ere we came away? |
| 8 Where the country song birds warble down
At maids as fair as man ever sees; | 14 And won't it be sweet to sleep out there,
Far from the city's roar, some day? |
| 9 Where the wind blows sweet from the fields nearby, | |

Moose Falls, Yellowstone Park—Copyright 1907 by Mode Wineman.

Off the tourist route, yet in the confines the Yellowstone Park, some 20 miles south of Yellowstone Lake on the road into the Jackson Hole Country, Moose Falls, in pristine freshness, makes the traveler realize what the day of Creation might symbolize. It seems that in the adjacent forests where the morning sun casts its slanting rays on bear, and deer, and bird, might have been the very spot where day first was and still is. Furnished colored only $1.00.

Great Falls of the Yellowstone, Yellowstone Park—
Copyright 1907 by Mado Wineman.
Down some 500 feet below the brink of the glorious Canyon of Oriental hue (more a thing of imagination than of earth) looking out through a vista of huary pines, the great Falls of the Yellowstone are seen in symphonic splendor. Furnished colored only $1.00.

Minerva Terrace, Yellowstone Park—Copyright 1907 by Mado Wineman.
Within a few rods of the Mammoth Hot Springs boiling water has built for itself a fairy abode from its own mineral deposits, and all the "Turners" of the National Gallery of London could not have outdone the extraordinary color-blending of nature. Below in the distance is Fort Yellowstone; beyond is Mount Everts. Furnished colored only $1.00.

Valley of Ten Peaks from Trail, Canadian National Park—Copyright 1907 by Mado Wineman.
From afar the Ten Peaks, like ten mammoth ghosts, beckon the traveler to the valley of strange sights, when lo! a thundering noise frightens the spectator as a white avalanche, somewhat in the manner of a comet with a tail of star-dust, shoots down through the frosty air to the white valley below. Furnished colored only $1.00.

THE OBEDIENT HUSBAND.

Comic Recitation, illustrated by 6 colored slides and title.

Life Posings, Colored Only, Price per Set, $4.50

To be obedient is a plan I've acted on through life,
And on this simple principle I always treat my wife.
The other day her cousins came, each one a charming miss,
And like a loving relative, I gave them all a kiss.

- 1 Four lovely girls. I kissed them all twice. Then my wife yelled at me,
"Why don't you kiss the cook and then the servant girl! Go on!"
I did it! I did it! It didn't take me long.

- 2 My wife kicked up a rumpus, and with me wiped the floor,
But I only did as I was bid, a fellow can't do more.

I like to lead a quiet life. At night I like to sleep,
But when the kid begins to yell, from bed I have to leap.

- 3 One night I held it in my arms when up there came a bawl,
And in my agitation there, I let the baby fall.

"Oh! you monster!" cried my wife, "Why don't you throw the poor baby out the window?"

I did it! I did it! It didn't take me long.

I did it! I did it! I didn't think it wrong.

- 4 My wife went in hysterics, and set up such a roar!
I only did as I was bid! A fellow can't do more.

One night I came home from the club, and feeling rather gay—

It's very seldom that I'm found in the hilarious way—

I tried hard not to wake my wife but creep in unawares,

- 5 But stumbled, as a fellow will, and tumbled down the stairs.

"That's all right! you drunken loafer!" yelled my beloved, "break your infernal neck!"

I did it! I did it! I didn't think it wrong.

I did it! I did it! and here I stop my song.

- 6 My neck is dislocated, I can't sing any more.

But I only did as I was bid. A fellow can't do more.

the "Cataract of Diamonds." For serene beauty nature seems to have gathered together in the

THE COUNTRY SCHOOL HOUSE.

Life Posing, Colored Only, Price each, 80c., per Set, $11.50.

- | | |
| 2 The little country school house—you
Remember it; of course you do.
Within the angle snugly set,
3 Where two long yellow highways met,
And saplings planted here and there
4 About the yard, and boxed with care,
As if to typify, in turn,
The youngsters caught and caged, to learn.
5 Around, the rolling pastures spread,
With woodland patches garlanded,
6 From which the breezes gladly bore,
Sly invitations to the 'door.
7 Across the sills the bees' soft hum,
And from their covert in the vale
8 In plaintive pleading pipe the quail.
9 With basket and with pail equipped,
Clear-eyed, tan-checked and berry-flipped,
Athwart the pastures, down the road,
10 They trudged to learning's poor abode;
The pink sunbonnet, broad-brimmed
straw, | 11 The bare brown feet that knew no law
Of fashion's last; the bundled forms
That laughed aloud at cold and storms.
12 What tales the scarred desks might relate
Of triumphs gained with book and slate!
13 What lore the clapboards loose possess,
Of feats at noontime and recess!
And doomed how oft the panes to see,
14 Back up the road and o'er the lea,
Haste boy and girl, new worlds to find,
The little schoolhouse left behind
15 O little country school! In vain
May critics hold you in disdain.
The greatest lessons that you taught 16 Were not by chalk and pencil wrought.
As op'd your door on fields and sky,
So likewise, just as wide and high.
17 You opened to the eyes of youth
The principles of love and truth. |

RARE OLD BIBLE PICTURES.

We have been fortunate in securing a copy of an ancient history of the "Holy Bible" in two volumes. "The whole illustration with one hundred and four useful and ornamental maps and sculptures, engraved by the best hands, from original paintings." These books were published in 1752 A. D. There are many choice pictures which do not appear in recent books and that are not common. Having been made from original paintings, many of them are very valuable. Read the list given below. You may find a picture that you have been looking for. We give in the first slide a reproduction of the title page showing the style of printing and spelling of the English of 1752.

THE DRESDEN GALLERY.

Some one has said that the Dresden Gallery is an "Assembly of Collections such as can scarcely be equaled in the world." We have succeeded, at great expense, in obtaining photographs of fifty of the finest examples of the old Masters of this famous Gallery. All lovers of art, engaged in Stereoscopic work, will be interested in seeing the collection which we have in our display rack under electric light. Come in and see them.

- 1 Titian's Daughter, by Titian 1477-1576. "This picture is one of the most celebrated portraits in the world. 'Titian-colored hair' excited the universal enthusiasm of the art-world." Her graceful poise, and magnificent jewels adorning her hair, neck, and arms, give the appearance of luxury. She holds a beautiful rose in her delicate hands.
- 2 The Virgin, Holy Child, and St. John, by Titian 1477-1576. This picture represents a young and beautiful woman timidly approaching the mother of God, who leans forward to graciously listen to her who is soon to know a kindred joy. At the side John the Baptist, is supporting the Holy Child who, standing in His Mother's lap, embraces her around the neck. St. Paul with a sword and Jerome with a crucifix, press forward to worship the Saviour.
- 3 The Madonna di San Sisto, by Raphael, 1483-1520. The beautiful mother with the Saviour in her arms is descending from the heavens, surrounded by innumerable heads of angels. St. Sixtus and St. Barbara kneel before her, while two charming little cherubs are in front. "It is the most finished, and perhaps the very best, work of its immortal author."
- 4 Michael the Archangel, by Penni, 1488-1528. The archangel Michael, dressed in a Knight's armour, hovers above the dragon, whom he has thrown from heaven to earth as narrated in the Apocalypse. The dragon represents Satan, and Michael's victory over him, the triumph of Christianity over Paganism.
- 5 Saint Sebastian, by Correggio, 1494-1534. It is one of the most beautiful of this wonderful artist's masterpieces. The Virgin and babe is descending from heaven surrounded by rays of light, and angels ministering to her. St. Germinio, St. Sebastian and St. Roche are in the foreground. Beneath is a little child, called "the little one of Modena," holding the model of a temple, supposed to indicate the church for which this painting was intended.
- 6 The Madonna (of the Meir Family) by Holbein, 1495-1543. The custom of presenting to a church a picture by those whose prayers had been answered gave the name votive-picture. This is such a picture. The Madonna stands in a vaulted niche of the wall, beautifully ornamented. She holds the little one whom she has saved in her arms, while the Meier family are kneeling in adoration before her.

- 7 Portrait of Hubert Morett, by Holbein, 1495-1543. The question as to the author of this fine portrait was only recently decided by the discovery of the magnificent drawing for it among Holbein's works.
- 8 The Adoration of the Magi, by Paul Veronese, 1530-1588. The Virgin with the babe surrounded by a halo of glory, sits on the steps of a fine building. An old king with a long, richly embroidered robe is kissing the Saviour's feet, while back of him stand the other kings magnificently dressed presenting their costly gifts. St. Joseph and a shepherd stand beside the holy mother. "The grandeur and freedom of the idea, the dignity and truth of the composition, the expression of the figures, and brilliancy of the coloring, place this among the principal masterpieces of Veronese."
- 9 The Marriage at Cana, by Paul Veronese, 1530-1588. "It is glowing in color, and claims attention, at once, by its magnificence. The grouping of the figures, the diversity of costumes and the grandeur of the architecture, all combine to attract and satisfy the eye."
- 10 The Dead Christ, by Salvati, 1535-1585. The Saviour is represented as being laid in the tomb by angels. It is a most impressive picture. One is lifting the dead body, another is kissing His pierced hand, while the third with clasped hands and upturned face, is imploring the aid of God the Father.
- 11 Soldiers Playing Cards in a Guard Room, by Caravaggio, 1569-1609. The soldiers are evidently men of distinction as is shown by their elegant uniforms, and the gold on the magnificent table.
- 12 The Lion Hunt, by Rubens, 1577-1640. The marvelous talent of this world-famed artist is shown in this picture. A lion has overmastered one of the hunters whom he is pulling from his horse. In the horrible scene of combat, midst the bloody struggle, a lioness is seen intent only on saving her little ones. This picture is proof of the almost universal skill of this "Prince of the Flemish School."
- 13 Satyrs and Nymphs, by Rubens. Four nymphs, with their dogs, are accosted by three satyrs laden with fruit. The contrast of these half-brutal, sensuous satyrs and the virgin modesty of the Nymphs is depicted with great skill.
- 14 The Boar Hunt, by Rubens. This is another master-piece by the same great author.
- 15 The Supplication of Esther by Strozzi, 1581-1644.
- 16 The Smokers, by Teniers, 1582-1649. "This picture is in Tenier's well-known manner and represents a subject which seems to have been almost the only one congenial to painters of his calibre and school."
- 17 A Village Festival, by Teniers. A joyous band are enjoying themselves before a Dutch village inn. They are dancing, playing musical instruments, drinking, chatting, and amusing themselves in various ways.
- 18 The Dentist, by Honthorst, 1594-1660. "The composition as well as the drawing and expression of this picture, is correct and full of life. The effect of the light in this painful scene is really admirable, and produces a shudder in looking at it."
- 19 Martin Engelbrecht, by Van Dyck, 1599-1641. "The piercing eye, the noble forehead, and the expressive mouth can only belong to a man of strong mind and character, and the conception and execution of the portrait are quite worthy the fame of the greatest of portrait painters."
- 20 Evening, by Albert Cuyp, 1606-1691. A small flock of cows and sheep are grazing on the high banks of a pond, while the shepherdess and herdsmen rest after the weary labors of the day, and the setting sun casts a reddish light over all. It is an exceedingly fine picture of repose in nature.
- 21 Rembrandt and His Wife, by Rembrandt, 1608-1674. Rembrandt, dressed in uniform, sits at a well spread table, embracing his wife with his left arm, and raising a glass of champagne with his right. His young, happy wife wears a dress of pearl colored satin, richly embroidered in gold.

- 22 Rembrandt's Daughter, by Rembrandt. "The picture represents a young girl, of graceful form and rosy complexion, whose dark eyes and red lips smile gaily at us."
- 23 A Lady in a Satin Gown, by Terburg, 1608-1681. The lady before the dressing table is viewing herself in a small mirror. All the accessories of the picture tend to heighten the effect of the lustre of the white satin dress. "As a composition of color, it is one of the most charming in the Dresden Gallery."
- 24 The Wild Boar Hunt, by Jacobson, 1610-1664. The agony of the wounded dogs, the fierceness and the fury of the attacking ones, and the helplessness of the struggling boar to escape, all render this a masterpiece of this artist who is especially gifted in painting hunting scenes and combats of wild beasts.
- 25 A Dutch Village Tavern, by A. Van Ostade, 1620-1685. A company of peasants are round a table in a Dutch village tavern. The man at the right is probably the painter himself. The hostess is pouring out brandy midst a little group in the rear, while overhead is the loft, scattered with household utensils and bits of straw and cob webs.
- 26 A Flemish Ale House, by Teniers the Younger, 1610-1694. The hostess is preparing apple fritters, midst a little group of peasants. Great interest is visible on the faces of some others, eagerly watching the accountant figuring their bill. The inn-keeper is unconcernedly chalking on the wall the number of glasses consumed.
- 27 A Hermit, by Ferdinand Bol, 1611-1681. A venerable, white-haired man is reading a large book in a solitary and tranquil place.
- 28 The Dentist, by Gerard Dou, 1613-1674. The dentist with pompous air and satisfied expression holds up as a trophy the tooth just extracted, while his victim, a distressed looking boy, well displays the feeling, of one obliged to go through such an operation.
- 29 Gerard Dou in His Studio, by Gerard Dou. The great artist looks up at us while he sketches on a leaf of a great album. His studio is filled with interesting objects, all of which are painted in the most careful manner, and with infinite pains.
- 30 The Hermit by Gerard Dou. In the court of an old monastery, the white-headed hermit is kneeling before a large book which he is intently and devoutly reading. "This picture shows, even in the smallest details, that indefatigable application and excessive delicacy which characterize the work of Dou."
- 31 The Woman Winding Silk, by Van Tol, died about 1680. An elderly woman sits by an open window surrounded by foliage. It is a charming portrait.
- 32 The Poultry Dealer, by Metz, 1615-1669. A poultry dealer, seated on a tub, is offering a cock for sale to a richly dressed young lady bargaining for it. Much truth and beauty are manifested in the animals around them. The whole is very picturesque.
- 33 The Poultry Woman, by Metz. An elderly woman, plucking a pigeon, is conversing with a young lady who is holding up a leveret in her hand which she wishes to buy. "The whole displays that fidelity to nature and vividness of imagination which distinguishes the principal works of Metz."
- 34 Gabriel Metz and His Wife, by Metz. Metz is embracing his wife with his left arm and holds a glass of champagne in his right hand.
- 35 A Dutch Winter Landscape, by I. van Ostade, 1617-1657. A number of peasants with their dogs are skating, or urging forward their sleds laden with wood, over the frozen canal, while a motherly face peers from the window of a thatched cottage at the side.
- 36 The Camp, by Wouverman, 1620-1668. Some soldiers of a cavalry regiment are assembled near a tent, and utterly heedless of the trumpeter, continue their rest and refreshment unconcerned, while the camp, extending far into the distance, is seen in the back ground.

THE DRESDEN GALLERY—Continued.

- 37 The Cavalry Engagement, by Wouverman. "The composition and execution as well as the characteristic details, obtain for this picture a place among the best productions of the celebrated artists. The design and the bearing of the men and horses are well conceived, and are in perfect harmony with the beauty and brilliancy of the colouring."
- 38 A Group of Oxen, by Paul Potter, 1625-1654. "The animals are painted with the most marvellous exactitude."
- 39 The Nativity, by Maratti, 1625-1713. "Maratti has been very successful in the design and coloring of this picture and in the harmony and grace of form. The Holy Mother and the radiant features of the angels express heavenly love and the highest form of happiness in the contemplation of the Divine Infant."
- 40 The Monastery, by Ruysdael, 1625-1681. An artist sits on the bank of a beautiful stream, into which a herdsman is driving his cattle, and two fishermen fishing. At the foot of some well-wooded mountains stands the monastery, partly in ruins. lit up by the sun's rays. The landscapes of Ruysdael are "eminently poetical and yet perfectly faithful."
- 41 The Avenue, by Ruysdael. "Whoever longs to fly from the constant turmoil of town life to the stillness of nature, will thank the great landscape painter, who has created for us in all his forests, groves and plains, a refuge from the troubles and cares of the world in the sanctuaries of nature."
- 42 The Traveling Tinker, by Mieris, 1635-1681. Before a Dutch tavern, a traveling tinker is holding up to the light an old caldron that a woman has brought to be mended. The living figures, the vine covered house, the old tree trunk, the remains of an old wagon, all are painted with great fidelity to nature, and make it a fine picture, a masterpiece of genius.
- 43 Mieris in His Studio, by Mieris. The artist, seated before his easel, has turned toward us to converse with his wife, whose portrait he is painting. The studio is very artistically furnished.
- 44 A Winter Scene, by A. Van de Velde, 1639-1672. Many peasants and townspeople are enjoying the skating, riding in the sleds, or conversing on the bank of the frozen stream. His landscapes are particularly distinguished by "an air of transparency and faithful rendering of nature."
- 45 A Lady at Her Toilet, by Netscher, 1639-1684. The lady, wearing a satin skirt and velvet tunic, is caressing a little spaniel in her lap, while her maid carefully arranges her hair. "The talent and minute care of the artist are seen equally well in the composition and drawing of the figures, and in the execution of the accessories."
- 46 The Seamstress, by Netscher. Her pleasant, womanly face, and neat, simple attire make a charming and attractive picture of a Dutch house-wife.
- 47 The Lace Maker, by Slingeland, 1640-1691. A beautiful young Dutch lady is interrupted by an old woman who offers her a cock for sale, and the little spaniel is barking violently at this intruder. "All that we see in this picture displays the great talent and indefatigable application of a great artist."
- 48 The Infant Saviour Sleeping, by Andrea Pozzo, 1642-1709. "The drawing, coloring, and composition of this picture render it one of the principal works of this painter."
- 49 A Young Girl Reading a Letter, by Peter de Horogh, 1643-1708. A happy young girl stands by a window earnestly reading a letter, and her beautiful profile is reflected in the glass panes. "The treatment is free and bold, the effect of the sun rays which glitter brilliantly on the window, is rendered with much truth and power."
- 50 The Dismissal of Hagar, by A. Van der Werff, 1659-1722. The poor, forsaken woman looks wistfully back at the home from which she is exiled, while Sarah watches her from the doorway. Abraham leans forward with outstretched hands to bless them, with piety and anxiety for their welfare, evident in his earnest face. Little Ishmael follows with lingering looks at his brother Isaac who is playfully hiding in his fathers robes.

Giant Geyser, View from Afar, Yellowstone Park
—Copyright 1907 by Mole Wineman.
Were it not a sight of regal splendor, one had thought hell had burst, so deafening was the roar. Furnished colored only $1.00.

Norris Geyser Basin, Yellowstone Park—Copyright 1907 by Mole Wineman.

This picture of Norris Geyser Basin was made one evening as the setting sun burst forth from great storm clouds, and spread a fiery glow on a region full of wonders. At the extreme right are the famed "Boiler" and the black "Growler" famed fuma, the setting sun burst forth from great storm clouds, and spread roles, forever boiling and growling. Furnished colored only $1.00.

Silver Serpent of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado—Copyright 1904 by Mode Wineman.
Mind cannot conceive the awfulness of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River. The "Silver Serpent of the Grand Canyon" was taken at Cyclorama Point, a spot of high interest overlooking the awful abyss. Could Dante have seen the Grand Canyon, the "Inferno" would have had its habitation there. Probably at no other place on earth does the limitation of the human mind come upon man with such force as when looking for the first time on what is probably the master work of nature. Furnished colored only $1.00.

Supai Falls in Supai Land, Cataract Canyon—Copyright 1907 by Mode Wineman.
So delicate is the beauty of these water falls they have hidden themselves in a dense mass of green foliage, where birds come to bathe and sing. Furnished colored only $1.00.

No. 31.—AGONY IN THE GARDEN, HOFFMAN.

THE PICTURE ROSARY

The Rosary is a form of prayer very common in the Catholic Church. It consists of the Lord's Prayer and the Angelical Salutation (or Hail Mary), repeated many times, while, at the same time, the person making the prayer is keeping his mind intent on certain events or mysteries in the lives of Our Lord and His Mother, Mary. It is a very simple method of outward invocation in inward meditation.

To help meditation, the Creed is first recited, and to gain the indulgences granted by the Church, a preliminary "Our Father" and "Three Hail Marys" are recited, followed by the Doxology, said or sung. Then the Rosary proper begins, during which a decade, or ten "Hail Marys" are said, preceded by the "Our Father" and followed by the Doxology, while the mind considers the first mystery as in accompanying scripture story. The other decades follow in like manner.

Our "Pictured Rosary" simplifies meditation by putting before the people the pictures of each event or mystery while the decade is said.

To penetrate the mind and heart more deeply with each distinct truth, the gospel story of the event may be read aloud before each decade, and, if advisable, a few pithy suggestions may be made.

The public use of this method in church, supposes a lantern in one corner of the organ loft and a screen hung at an angle before a side altar. For private use an illustrated booklet will be published.

The lantern slides need for the pictured "Rosary," "Memories of Judea and of the Nazarene," and "Memories of Galilee and of the Nazarene" are accompanied with readings prepared especially for use in Catholic Churches by a Reverend Father, who has had long experience in lantern work in the Catholic Churches of Chicago and vicinity.

The pages where these slides are listed will be found in the index under the above heading.

"IN HIS STEPS." Slide No. 67, in the Set of 150.

Copyrighted 1900 by G. W. BOND.

"In a few minutes the audience was beyond Maxwell's control. He turned to Rachel with a sad smile.

"Sing something, Miss Winslow. They will listen to you," he said, and then sat down and put his face in his hands.

"It was Rachel's opportunity, and she was fully equal to it. Virginia was at the organ and Rachel asked her to play a few notes of the hymn:

"Savior I follow on Guided by Thee,
Seeing not yet the land
That loadeth me;
Hushed be my heart and still Fear I no farther ill.
Only to meet Thy will,
My will shall be."

"Rachel had not sung the first line before the people in the tent were all turned toward her, hushed and reverent."

A letter to us from the author of "In His Steps" is given on next page.

Central Church
Topeka, Kansas, Feb. 26, 1902

Dear Sir

I was pleased with your lantern slides illustrating In His Steps, which I saw for the first time a short time ago and have referred different lecturers to them. I hope they may be used to do much good

Very cordially yours,
Charles M. Sheldon

"IN HIS STEPS."

Most conspicuous today among thinkers and workers, who are trying to promote the interest of humanity and religion, is Charles M. Sheldon. His unique and noble effort to edit The Topeka Capital, a daily paper, for one week, as he thought Christ would do, attracted the attention of the entire civilized world and aroused a keen discussion in the columns of every newspaper in the land. Prior to this, his book entitled "In His Steps" or "What Would Jesus Do," had become the most popular book of modern times.

In this country nearly four million copies of this book have been sold, and in Europe twelve different prominent publishing houses have issued large editions. At an expenditure of much time and money, a set of 150 slides have been made from life models, that completely illustrate this popular, thrilling and instructive story.

The extremes of society, the wide variety of religious work, from stately cathedral to the humble missions, afford a field true to life and character for illustrating this work. In these illustrations are shown palatial homes, fashionable equipages on the boulevards, elegant churches, aristocratic audiences, the preacher speaking, the cantatrice singing the tragedy of the tramp's appearance therein, the agitated after meetings, the stirring scenes following in parlors, libraries, business offices, factories and editorial sanctums, scenes on the boulevards, the avenues and the busy streets; scenes among the slums, with hordes of outcasts, the mission meetings in the tent, the election crowd, the drunken mob the tragedy in palace hall and in slum street and many scenes of sublime enthusiasm and daring heroism. All these scenes follow each other in rapid succession, and chain the attention by their variety and dramatic posings.

None of these illustrations are made from paintings, or "Gallery-make-ups", but all were taken from real characters and actual scenes. Every slide is full of life, sharp and clear, brilliant and sparkling.

Sold in sets only at 50 cents per slide colored, 150 slides covering the complete book for 3 night's exhibition with printed lecture, and 50 slides, covering the complete book for 1 night's exhibition with printed lecture.

A complete copy of the book sent free with every set. No plain slides sold of this illustration. Broken slides will be replaced at 65 cents each.

Figures in full face type indicate the slides in the set of 50, which are also shown by ordinary figures on the right.

The Coming Storm

Rum's Recruits

RAMS HORN CARTOONS

The publishers of the Home Herald have given us the exclusive right to reproduce for them the famous Cartoons which were first published in the Rams Horn.

These unique pictures have been a most potent force in the presentation of truth. They are particularly strong in their assaults upon intemperance, selfishness and sin in every form.

No lecture or description is needed to accompany these slides, as each is a sermon in itself, and is prepared with the special object of carrying conviction straight to the heart. They can not only be effectively used for an entire service, but singly, in connection with slides of other sets in rounding out or teaching a particular truth.

These slides are only furnished in colors at the price of 65c each.

These slides were formerly listed at $1.00 each, but have become so popular that we are now able to offer them at 65c each. While the price has thus been lowered the quality of these slides has been strictly maintained.

We advise those interested to consult the Special Catalogue, giving a perfect representation of each of the first 100 slides, and furnished on the receipt of ten cents.

THE BIBLE.

A SERIES OF TEN SERMONS BY REV. J. T. LADD.

FIRST.—WHY DO WE HAVE THE BIBLE. The sermons under this division portray vividly the need of a divine revelation, by showing that man is not able to get a correct idea of the character of God or of human duty from nature, or civilization, or the non-Christian faiths.

SECOND.—HOW WE GOT THE BIBLE. These sermons treat of the production, preservation, discovery and present places of deposit of important Hebrew and Greek manuscripts; of ancient versions and modern translations, and of their publication and circulation.

THIRD.—WHAT THE BIBLE IS FOR. The sermons under this last division illustrate the beneficial influences of the Bible. The opinions of famous men and women are considered, and there are shown a remarkable collection of striking contrasts between the conditions of people before they became Christians and after they became Christians. These are from many mission fields.

Each sermon is so far independent that it may be used separately, and yet in the series each is intimately related to all.

Several of the sermons are specially helpful in missionary work. The pictures present the needs and the benefits of the Gospel with tremendous power. All are fervently evangelical.

THE PASSION PLAY OF OBERAMMERGAU.

WITH LECTURE BY REV. FLAVIUS J. BROHST.

At the commencement of every decade the peasants of Oberammergau enact the drama of Christ's Passion in their own Mountain Village. The theatre in which these scenes are rendered is however one of the largest in the world. During the past summer of 1900 this play was again given. The interest in this play shown by the entire civilized world was greater than ever before. People from all parts of Europe and America went there and the throngs numbered many scores of thousands.

We herewith present a series of slides taken recently of the last rendition of the play which covers the drama. They will be found to be first class.

CHRISTMAS.

The rapid increase in the use of the Stereopticon by the Church and Sunday School, has created a demand for an appropriate series of slides for a Christmas entertainment. The list which follows has been selected by Rev. J. T. Ladd, an eminent Scholar and traveler, who has used the Stereopticon with telling effect in his own Sunday School and Church work, and has thus been fitted for the task which he has so well performed, of arranging the views which make up the series and writing the accompanying lecture.

RELIGIOUS SONG SLIDES.

THE HOLY CITY.

Life Posing, Colored Only, Price per Set, $8.50

The interest of the audience in such a lecture as "In His Steps" is increased by the proper introduction of sacred songs. "The Holy City" has been illustrated by seventeen beautiful slides and appropriate title, and is one of the most popular of the present day. The dreamer is represented by life posing, and as he lies asleep on his couch, the visions described in the song appear successively upon the screen, as the slides are projected in their proper order, and the audience are held in rapt attention from the beginning to the end.

- 1 Last night I lay a-sleeping, there came a dream so fair,
- 2 I stood in old Jerusalem, beside the Temple there;
- 3 I heard the children singing, and ever as they sang,
- 4 Methought the voice of Angels from Heaven in answer rang,
- 5 Jerusalem, Jerusalem, lift up your gates and sing;
- 6 Hosanna in the highest, Hosanna to your King!
- 7 And then methought my dream was changed, the streets no longer rang
- 8 Hush'd were the glad Hosannas, the little children sang.
- 9 The sun grew dark with mystery, the morn was cold and chill,
- 10 As the shadow of a cross arose upon a lonely hill.
- 11 Jerusalem, Jerusalem, Hark! how the Angels sing;
- 12 Hosanna in the highest! Hosanna to your King!
- 13 And once again the scene was changed, new earth there seemed to be;
- 14 I saw the Holy City beside the tideless sea;
- 15 The light of God was on its streets, the gates were open wide;
- 16 And all who would might enter, and no one was denied.
- 17 No need of moon or stars by night; nor sun to shine by day;
- 18 It was the new Jerusalem that would not pass away.
- 19 Jerusalem, Jerusalem, sing for the night is o'er,
- 20 Hosanna in the highest, Hosanna forevermore!

JESUS, SAVIOUR, PILOT ME.

Life Posing, Colored Only, Price per Set, $4.50

- 1 Title Slide,
- 2 Jesus, Savior, pilot me, Over life's tempestuous sea;
- 3 Unknown waves, before me roll, Hiding rock and treach'rous shoal;
- 4 Chart and compass come from Thee: Jesus, Savior, pilot me.
- 5 As a mother stills her child, Thou canst hush the ocean wild;
- 6 Boist'rous waves obey Thy will, When thou say'st to them, "Be still!"
- 7 Wondrous Sovereign of the sea, Jesus, Savior, pilot me.
- 8 When at last I near the shore, And the fearful breakers roar,
- 9 'Twixt me and the peaceful rest, Then, while leaning on Thy breast,
- 10 May I hear Thee say to me, "Fear not, I will pilot thee."

| 1 | Introductory | 9 | Naked, come to thee for dress. |
| 2 | Rock of Ages, cleft for me! | 10 | Helpless, look to thee for grace; |
| 3 | Let me hide myself in thee; | 11 | Vile, I to the fountain fly, |
| 4 | Let the water and the blood, | 12 | While I draw this fleeting breath, |
| 5 | From thy wounded side that flowed, | 13 | When my eyelids close in death, |
| 6 | Be of sin the double cure; | 14 | See thee on thy Judgment throne, |
| 7 | Nothing in my hand I bring, | 15 | Rock of Ages, cleft for me! |
| 8 | Simply to thy cross I cling; | | Let me hide myself in thee. |

"TELL MOTHER I'LL BE THERE."

Life Posing, Colored Only, Price per Set $8.00

- | | | | |
|---|--|----|---|
| 2 | When I was but a little child, how well I recollect, | 8 | When I became a prodigal, and left the old roof-tree, |
| 3 | How I would grieve my mother with my folly and neglect; | 9 | She almost broke her loving heart in mourning after me. |
| 4 | And now that she has gone to heav'n, I miss her tender care; | 10 | And day and night she prayed to God to keep me in his care: |
| | O Saviour, tell my mother I'll be there! | | O Saviour, tell my mother I'll be there! |
| 5 | Though I was often wayward, she was always kind and good, | 11 | One day a message came to me, it bade me quickly come |
| 6 | So patient, gentle, loving, when I acted rough and rude; | 12 | If I would see my mother ere the Saviour took her home; |
| 7 | My childhood griefs and trials she would gladly with me share; | 13 | I promised her before she died, for heaven to prepare; |
| | O Saviour, tell my mother I'll be there! | | O Saviour, tell my mother I'll be there! |

CHORUS.

- 14 Tell mother I'll be there, in answer to her prayer,
15 This message blessed Saviour to her bear;
16 Tell mother I'll be there, heaven's joys with her to share,
17 Yes, tell my darling mother I'll be there.

The above illustrated song will be found a most excellent companion to the song "Where is My Wandering Boy To-Night," found elsewhere in this catalogue. Where both songs are used, each will greatly increase the value of the other.

When man's work is done. | 8 Work, for the night is coming,
When man works no more. |

COME HOME, FATHER.

- | | |
| 1 Father, dear father, come home with me now.
The clock in the steeple strikes one. | 4 Indeed he is worse, Ma says he will die.
Perhaps ere the morning shall dawn. |
| 2 With poor brother Benny so sick in her arms,
And no one to help her but me. | 5 Father, dear father, come home with me now.
The clock in the steeple strikes three. |
| 3 Father, dear father, come home with me now,
The clock in the steeple strikes two. | 6 Yes, we are alone, poor Benny is dead,
And gone with the angels of light. |

1. WHERE IS MY BOY TONIGHT?

"Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?"

- | | |
|---|---|
| 2 Where is my wandering boy to-night,
The boy of my tenderest care;
3 The boy that was once my joy and light,
The child of my love and prayer? | 10 O could I see you now, my boy,
As fair as in olden time;
11 When prattle and smile made home a joy,
And life was a merry chime. |
| 4 O where is my boy to-night?
O where is my boy to-night?
5 My heart o'erflows, for I love him, he knows;
O where is my boy to-night? | 12 O where is my boy to-night?
O where is my boy to-night?
13 My heart o'erflows, for I love him, he knows;
O where is my boy to-night? |
| 6 Once he was pure as morning dew,
As he knelt at his mother's knee;
7 No face was so bright, no heart more true,
And none was so sweet as he | 14 Go for my wandering boy to-night,
Go search for him when you will,
15 But bring him to me with all his blight,
And tell him I love him still. |
| 8 O where is my boy to-night?
O where is my boy to-night?
9 My heart o'erflows, for I love him, he knows;
O where is my boy to-night? | 16 O where is my boy to-night?
O where is my boy to-night?
17 My heart o'erflows, for I love him, he knows;
O where is my boy to-night? |

THE OLD OAKEN BUCKET.

This old favorite poem has been illustrated with beautiful scenes from the Gulf Coast and other appropriate sections of our country, and the fifteen beautiful views as indicated below make one of the finest illustrations that have ever been brought before the public. Colored only. Price, 50 cents each.

- | | |
| 1 How dear to my heart are the scenes of my childhood,
When fond recollection presents them to view; | 10 The moss covered bucket I hail as a treasure,
For often at noon when returned from the field, |
| 3 The orchard, the meadow, the deep tangled wild wood, | 11 I found it a source of exquisite pleasure,
The sweetest and purest that nature can yield. |
| 4 And every loved spot which my infancy knew. | 12 And now far removed from the loved situation,
The tear of regret will intrusively swell, |
| 5 The wide spreading stream and the mill that stood by it, | 13 As fancy reverts to my father's plantation, |
| 6 The bridge and the rock where the cataract fell; | 14 And sighs for the bucket that hung in the well. |
| 7 The cot of my father, the dairy house by it, | 15 The old oaken bucket, the iron bound bucket,
The moss covered bucket that hung in the well. |
| 8 And e'en the rude bucket that hung in the well. | |

HOME, SWEET HOME

ILLUSTRATED WITH BEAUTIFUL SLIDES FROM LIFE POSING.

- | | |
|---|---|
| 2 Mid pleasures and palaces though we may roam, | 10 An exile from home, splendor dazzles in vain; |
| 3 Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home. | 11 Oh, give me my lowly thatched cottage again; |
| A charm from the skies seems to hallow us there. | The birds singing gaily, that come at my call, |
| 4 Which seek thro' the world is ne'er met with elsewhere. | 12 Give these and that peace of mind dearer than all. |

REFRAIN

- Home, home, sweet, sweet home,
There's no place like home, there's no place like home.

REFRAIN

- Home, home, sweet, sweet home,
There's no place like home, there's no place like home.

- | | |
|--|--|
| I gaze on the moon as I tread the drear wild, | 14 How sweet 'tis to sit 'neath a fond father's smile. |
| 6 And feel that my mother now thinks of her child; | The care of a mother to soothe and beguile |
| 7 As she looks on that moon from our dear cottage door. | 15 Let others delight 'mid new pleasures to roam |
| 8 Thro' the woodbine whose fragrance shall cheer me no more. | But give me, oh! give me the pleasure of home. |

REFRAIN

- Home, home, sweet, sweet home,
There's no place like home, there's no place like home.

REFRAIN

- Home, home, sweet, sweet home,
There's no place like home, there's no place like home.

- 17 To thee I'll return over-burdened with care.
The heart's dearest solace will smile on me there;
18 No more from that cottage again will I roam,
Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home.

REFRAIN

- 19 Home, home, sweet, sweet home,
There's no place like home, there's no place like home.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS SLIDES.

LIFE POSINGS FOR THE FIRST RANK WORK K. OF P.

These illustrations consist of thirty lantern slides photographed from actual life.

These posings were made under the personal supervision of Captain Morris G. Boas, of the famous First Rank team of Washington Lodge No. 32, Chicago. Brother Boas has given this subject years of thought and study and spent much time and money in perfecting the work. The costumes and stage settings are historically correct and the posings strong and impressive. The slides are copy-righted by M. G. Boas.

A demonstration was made before the Supreme Lodge at New Orleans and these slides received enthusiastic approval by that august body.

PRICE

Third Rank K. of P., Wood Mounted, set of 30 slides.....	$3.50
Third Rank K. of P., Unmounted, set of 30 slides.....	3.50

The slides are furnished mounted on a special carrier which is designed to hold the slide in place when it is being used. When a double dissolving slide is used, the carrier should be used with a double glass. If a single glass is used, the carrier should be used with a single glass. The carrier is only fifty cents, and every set of slides should have one of these carriers in case anything happens to the slides.

There is less danger of breaking a slide when it is held in place by the carrier than when it is held in place by the hand. It is not necessary to touch the glass when the slide is being used. Keep the slide clean.

The wood mountings we furnish are of a special design and are constructed that when desired the slide can be removed from the mounting without touching the glass.

To prove our confidence in the slides and to save you an unnecessary delay in seeing them before purchasing, we make the following offer:

SECRET SOCIETY SLIDES, KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS—(Continued.)

To any K. of P. lodge sending us a written order properly signed and bearing the seal of the lodge, we will send set of these slides subject to ten days' trial.

They are so arranged that each picture stands about the same length of time on the screen. In other sets the slides are not evenly distributed, some slides standing only a few seconds and others stand so long there is danger of breaking the slide from heat of the lantern.

An artist may know how to illustrate a book, but is not familiar with the requirements for lantern slides.

We not only manufacture lanterns and slides, but also illustrate songs, poems, recitations, etc. Being familiar with the requirements, our slides fit the story and the story fits the slides. This set is therefore superior to any other on the market.

To any K. of P. lodge sending an official order will be sent set of slides on 10 days' trial. When complete set of both first and third rank are ordered at same time a discount of 10 per cent is allowed from list price.

A special circular regarding these slides, containing commendatory letters from Supreme Lodge K. of P. Officers, will be sent on application.

ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR.

Our original set of O. E. S. slides illustrates the beautiful initiation ceremonies completely from start to finish—from the time the candidate enters at the preparation room door until the by-laws are signed. During this whole time, of over one hour, with the use of our slides, the lights need not be turned on. It will be evident to every member of the Order how much this adds to the solemnity and impressiveness of the work. These slides have nearly all been posed from life under direction of competent officers of the Order.

For the convenience of Chapters that cannot buy the full number, these are also listed in sets of 50, 32, 15 and 5 slides. While we would always recommend the full set of 70, the abridged sets are excellent, and the additional slides can be purchased at any time. Set No. 2, containing 50 slides, is indicated by all the dagger (†) and ‡ numbers; set No. 3, of 32 slides, includes all marked with the double dagger (‡); set No. 4, of 15 slides, is shown by the star (*), while the set of 5 comprises numbers 66 to 70 inclusive, and is particularly desirable for those having double lanterns. Every progressive Chapter should have a set of these slides; they will add interest to the work and greatly increase attendance at the meetings.

SLIDES FROM DR. GEO. L. ROBINSON'S ORIGINAL NEGATIVES ON THE SUDAN, THE DESERT OF SINAI, HEBRON AND NORTH SYRIA

Price: 40c Plain; 80c Colored.

We take great pleasure in announcing the presentation of rare and most valuable sets of slides from negatives of Dr. Geo. L. Robinson, of the McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago. Dr. Robinson, has not only taken a conspicuous place among the foremost scholars of the day, but has distinguished himself as an explorer and discoverer in regions long considered unsafe and difficult of access.

To Dr. Robinson's other accomplishments he has added that of unusual photographic skill, as these exquisite views attest.

In presenting these slides, we offer a medium which will give a new insight into Eastern life and customs, and throw valuable light on the Biblical Narrative itself. We feel that all interested in Bible lands and Eastern life are indebted to Dr. Robinson for this series.

These views include the Sudan, revealing conditions of life in the heart of Africa; The Sinai, or South Country, illustrating the Wilderness Wanderings; Petra, Beersheba and the Philistine plains, where Dr. Robinson has made such important discoveries; Northern Syria and interesting negatives on Egypt and the Holy Land.

These comprise without doubt the most helpful stereopticon illustrations presented by any author in reproducing Biblical and Oriental life and confirming Scriptural Truth.

CHURCH AND SUNDAY SCHOOL DEPARTMENT

Foreword.

Having received many requests from churches and Sunday School workers for slides to illustrate and unfold Biblical Truths, we have established a special department to meet this need and now offer the most complete and helpful material along these lines yet given to the public.

Pastors wishing to solve the Sunday evening problem, and secure a large attendance on the part of those who are not attracted by the ordinary service on Sunday night, as well as to strengthen their ministry by giving it freshness and variety, and bring both young and old to a "knowledge of the Truth," will find what they have long been seeking.

Sunday School Workers will appreciate a method that will make the Bible a new Book as light is thrown on its teachings from the Land, its life and customs, and from the works of our greatest artists. Setting the Truths of the current Sunday School lessons in this attractive frame work, the lessons taught will no longer be abstract, but be made vital and attractive. These beautiful sets cannot fail to arouse the enthusiasm of both teacher and scholar.

Evangelists will find these sets most helpful in leading the multitude into the better life. The accompanying lectures are not only intended to be suggestive, but have been made practical and winning in tone.

Missionary Societies will find in what we have to offer, the world with its darkness and need brought to our very doors. By looking upon our Mission Schools and Churches and seeing the faces of those who represent us in the field "White for the Harvest," the monthly concert is made instructive and appealing as never before.

Manager and Literary Editor. We have placed in charge of this practical department, one whose qualifications along these lines we consider most exceptional. Our Manager, Earl B. Hubbell, D. D., has not only gathered constantly for seventeen years in Chicago, one of the largest evening congregations in this city and secured an understanding of the needs of our church, but by personal visits to the Holy Land and to the leading places of interest in Europe, Asia and Africa, has prepared himself to be of the most practical assistance to all interested in these lines.

The Plan. These slides are not only offered for sale, but for rental, at such rates as will place them within easy reach. They are usually arranged in sets of fifty slides, accompanied by lectures. The slides are colored by expert artists, who have given our slides a name of high grade quality, wherever used. Engagements are arranged throughout the country as close together as possible to save time and expense in transportation, and we suggest neighboring pastors and workers forming a circuit which will insure more certain and economical service. If any organizations yet without this help will write us, we will offer suggestions making it possible to secure an outfit in the easiest method at the lowest cost. A lantern is an indispensable outfit in every church and school.

Material. The sets listed on the following pages form only the beginning of efforts along these lines. As rapidly as they can be prepared, other sets will be offered, and from the abundant resources which we now have on hand, we are in a position to supply whatever our workers may need.

Rent. For prices, terms, etc., see page 252.

THROUGH THE CAUCASUS TO ST. PETERSBURG.
With Lecture.

The beautiful Provinces of Trans Caucasia, with its grand mountain scenery, picturesque nationalities and classic associations, and Cis Caucasia with its mineral springs and fashionable resorts have been little explored by American tourists. While distance, added to the difficulties of traveling, continue to keep them comparatively unknown regions, a trip in imagination will be found intensely interesting, under the guidance of Mrs. L. C. Van Hook, who has traveled extensively in these delightful portions of Russia, and who furnishes pictures gathered on the spot.

THE NOBLE ARMY OF MARTYRS IN CHINA.

With Lecture by C. H. Case.

"Slain for the word of God and the testimony which they held."—Rev. 6:9.

The ferocious cruelty of the Boxers, inspired and encouraged by the wicked and deceitful Empress Dowager of China; and the splendid heroism and faithfulness of the missionaries and native Chinese Christians has never been surpassed in the history of the world. Over two hundred missionaries and many thousands of native Chinese Christians were murdered in the most cruel manner that fiendish minds could devise.

"They were tortured, not accepting deliverance, that they might obtain a better resurrection. They had trials of cruel mockings and scourgings, yea, moreover, of bonds and imprisonment; they were stoned, were slain with swords; they wandered about in sheep skins and goat skins; being destitute, afflicted, tormented; of whom the world was not worthy; they wandered in deserts, and in mountains, and in dens and caves of the earth."

Mr. Charles H. Case has had a long experience in promoting missionary work and a personal acquaintance with many of the martyrs. In order that he might bring their "great sacrifice" in a more real and vivid way before the public he has prepared a series of lantern slides with lecture. Many of the martyred ones had been in his home before they went to China, and some of the survivors of the siege have been at his table since their return to their own land. This has enabled Mr. Case to present many interesting facts and traits of character which would otherwise have been left out of a descriptive lecture.

Valley of Ten Peaks from Trail, Canadian National Park—Copyright 1907
by Mads Wineman.

From afar the Ten Peaks, like ten mammoth ghosts, beckon the traveler to the valley of strange sights, when lo! a thundering noise frightens the spectator as a white avalanche, somewhat in the manner of a comet with a tail of star-dust, shoots down through the frosty air to the white valley below. Furnished colored only $1.00.

OUR RELIABILITY.

As this catalogue may fall into the hands of some who are not acquainted with our reputation for fair and honorable dealing and do not know our financial standing, we would say that we are authorized and incorporated under the laws of the State of Illinois, with a cash capital and surplus of over $700,000.00, paid in full.

Those who have dealt with us know our methods; to those who have not, we refer to their friends and neighbors who have, and as we have nearly two million customers in the United States, there are quite a number in every town and community to whom we refer. We also refer by special permission to the Metropolitan National Bank, Chicago; Corn Exchange National Bank, Chicago; German Exchange Bank, New York; to any express company in Chicago, any old reliable business house or financial institution in this city; or, if you have any friends residing in this city, write them and ask them concerning our house.

We give you this privilege: If you have any doubt as to our reliability, you can send your order and money to either of the banks, or any express company in Chicago, with instructions not to turn it over to us unless they know us to be thoroughly reliable and a concern that will do exactly as we agree.

HOW TO SEND MONEY.

From by postoffice money order, express money order, bank draft or cash in registered letters. If you send your individual check on a local bank, your order will be delayed until we have made collection (unless you have it certified), and the expense of collecting will be deducted. Postage stamps will be accepted in any amount as an accommodation to our customers. We recommend sending an express or postoffice money order, as they are inexpensive, less trouble and perfectly safe. If they should get lost or be miscarried, your loss would be made good. Do not send money or stamps to the amount of more than $1.00 without registering your letter.

DEPARTMENT OF Public Entertainment Outfits

Our experience in the past has proven to us that public exhibition work is extremely profitable and with a comparatively small investment, affords to the exhibitor, an opportunity for realizing very large profits, and in addition, opens up to him a line of business that is pleasant as well as invaluable in the development and building up of a successful business man.

This catalogue has been prepared for the information and guidance of our friends, in response to numberless inquiries received from all parts of the country, and because it has been demonstrated to us that similar outfits which we have put out in the past have been so uniformly successful, as to warrant us in encouraging others to embark in the same line, and, while it is an undoubted fact, that until recently, there has been but a limited amount of energy and capital expended in this direction, we believe this to be largely due to insufficient information as to what is required to make up a suitable outfit for the purpose, how the work can be started profitably, how it can be carried on successfully, how it may be made a permanent livelihood, and with ability, energy and push, be the means of ENABLING THE EXHIBITOR TO ACCUMULATE A FORTUNE.

Having these conditions in view, we have made a special effort and shall endeavor to make everything connected with the various lines of an exhibition outfit, so plain and simple, as to be easily understood.

WHY THIS PUBLIC EXHIBITION WORK ...IS A PLEASANT AND... PROFITABLE BUSINESS.

First, our exhibition outfits are entirely new; they are founded on the newest kinds of intensely interesting, new and up-to-date subjects. The business is not controlled by the local conditions or poor crop results, for if the crop is poor in one part of the state, you leave for parts where the crops are good; if times are bad in one state, you go to an adjoining state where times are good; or, if labor strikes and other conditions make trouble in one locality, you go where there are no similar troubles and insure the success of your work. If flood or hail, rain-storm or fire, lay waste one section, you leave for a section that has not been visited by like conditions. You have a business proposition in one of our outfits which you can fit to the best local conditions to bring you the greatest possible success.

The business is pleasant because you are independent, you are not subject to any individual, company, corporation or community. You have no boss or bosses, you conduct the business to suit yourself. You travel in good style, stop in good hotels; everywhere you are respected and looked up to by the communities you visit and are placed in an assured position, commercially and socially, with the best people with whom you come in contact.

HAS THE BUSINESS BEEN SUCCESSFUL?

This is the first question for the would be exhibitor to determine and is one that can be answered in a highly satisfactory manner, and as we devote this catalogue to the considerations of several different styles of entertainment outfits, it will be convenient to take them up separately, in order to fully inform our friends regarding the advantages possessed by each, although a few additional remarks on the general subject may be of service. It would be impossible to particularize the names of all those, who, within our own knowledge, and using one of our outfits, have thus succeeded. A few sample letters from different parts of the country will prove interesting reading, as indicating what has been done by others in the past and will continue to be done in the future, more especially as it is a fact, that the wider field now accessible, and the more prosperous times existing, have enormously increased the demand for this class of entertainment and there has never before been a time at which such large audiences could so readily be obtained for an entertainment of a meritorious character.

Some of our most successful exhibitors have commenced this work by purchasing a graphophone alone and have not only succeeded with it, but in so short a time as to surprise themselves, have been able to add to it a Magic Lantern and Stereopticon, increasing not only the value of their entertainment, but enabling them to charge a higher rate of admission and attract larger audiences than ever.

The Talking Machine has been and will always be a most popular entertainer. The novelty and wonder of the natural reproduction of the human voice as well as band and instrumental music insures preliminary interest, and the performance itself is so wonderfully realistic, and the actual reproduction of speech and music of such a quality as could not otherwise be heard, making it a successful entertainer wherever exhibited. Its combination with a stereopticon or magic lantern, enables the exhibitor to vary the evening's amusement in an almost endless manner. One of the most successful of these being the productions of what are known as illustrated songs, which consists in throwing on the screen, slides or views descriptive of one of the popular songs of the day, while the song itself is being sung by the graphophone. This has for some months been the leading method of entertaining in the larger cities, where the singing has been done by some high priced artist, but with the assistance of the graphophone, the same results can be obtained at less than one-tenth of the expense.

The best and most successful exhibitors we have furnished outfits to, however, have not stopped short even at the graphophone and stereopticon, but have wisely taken advantage of the opportunity afforded of presenting what is known as the animated or moving pictures, which will be found described in more detail later on. We offer to our customers at a comparatively insignificant price, the most efficient and practically successful moving picture machine on the market. It is known as the Optigraph, and is especially intended to be used in connection or combination with the stereopticon which we handle, although it can be applied to any regular lantern for projecting stationary pictures, and we are not exceeding the bounds of actual fact, when we say that the opportunity afforded by an outfit consisting of the graphophone, stereopticon and moving picture machine, or even the two latter, without the graphophone, affords an almost unlimited opportunity of making, not only big money, but a lifetime competence, and the fact that theatrical companies and professional exhibitors have begun to make the most extensive use of this last class of outfit, is the strongest proof that it presents a profitable and remunerative field, such as has never been opened up before, and having fitted out several high class companies in this manner, we are assured by them that the moving picture and the stereopticon features form the most interesting and best drawing numbers on their programs.

It is more, however, for those who have not had any previous experience in this direction, and who are at the threshold, considering whether they are justified in embarking upon an enterprise such as we have recommended, that our catalogue has been gotten up. We address you with the greatest poor man's proposition, the firmest bottom round, and the surest immediate money-maker ever known. It is for the young man to consider whether he cannot now embrace the opportunity. It is for the man whose situation and position in life is not such as to reasonably satisfy him or the persons whose families or other proper requirements call for easier circumstances than his means permit; this class of people, endowed as they almost uniformly are, with energy and ability, need only an opportunity to become successful in what is recognized as one of the most successful lines now open in any direction, and no one should allow himself to be deterred from entering into this work by the fact, that, at this time, his capital is not adequate for the purpose. A young and ambitious man should properly seek advice and encouragement from his parents who are the best fitted to offer them, and who as well, are in a position to judge and discriminate against the various "catch penny" affairs which are offered for consideration, as well as to investigate the genuine nature of the opportunity to which this catalogue is intended to draw attention. The country is flooded with advertisements soliciting the reader to accept positions which never existed, to assume the control of armies of agents who are called into existence only by the fertile brain of the writer, and which will never bear the test of a close examination. In striking contrast to these unreal positions is the substantial business proposition awaiting them in the line of public entertainment; facts and figures in almost numberless array are at hand to prove what others have done, and what can be done under similar circumstances; and we urge upon the prospective customer, as well as upon friends and acquaintances who are interested with him, to investigate our proposition very thoroughly, subjecting it to the closest scrutiny, and bearing in mind the fact, that without a large investment of capital, it presents almost the only opportunity of embarking in your own business and reaping the harvest of your own efforts.

NO PREVIOUS EXPERIENCE IS NECESSARY.

No ability as a public speaker is required; some of the most successful lecturers to whom we have supplied outfits in times past, had never spoken in public before, and have made by diligence and attention to business, incomes three, four and five times as much as they did in their previous occupations.

WHAT IS NECESSARY TO SUCCEED.

A determination to succeed, a thorough confidence in your exhibition outfit, and keeping everlastingly at it, brings the best possible success. Rome was not built in a day, and the success of a lifetime was not built in a day, week or month. The idler and shifter who gives up despairingly after the first not altogether successful attempt, will never make a success of anything. The man who determines in spite of everything to handle what he has undertaken and who goes at the prosecution of his business, hammer and tongs, day in and day out, will carve undreamed of success out of our public exhibition business, for it has in itself everything and every merit to make a success. All that is necessary to attain to the highest point in this work is to study your business, study it at all times, read and re-read your lecture, so you will each time read it more entertainingly, you will finally commit it to memory and will never have to refer to your book at all. Study the mechanism of the outfit, learn to operate the stereopticon and the different accessories, quickly, smoothly and perfectly; have confidence in yourself and in your outfit. Determination is always very necessary at this work. When you go to a town do not go asking yourself if you will be able to make an arrangement with this church, that school house or the owner of the opera house, but go with a determination of making satisfactory arrangements, go feeling sure that you know what you want and that with energy you will get it. Let the only question of success be the measure of the success; let there always be a measure of self confidence that insures at least a certain measure of success in your every day work.

WHAT THE MOVING PICTURE MACHINE IS:

HOW IT CAN BE USED,
AND WHAT CAN BE MADE FROM IT.

As is well known, the moving picture machine is a comparatively recent invention, which projects apparently living and moving figures of exactly life-size upon a screen or canvas. It represents the highest branch in the art of photography and brings before the eye an exact life-size reproduction, with all its accompanying effects of light, shadow and expression.

To illustrate more plainly, a scene somewhat familiar in the recent war with Spain is shown: The street of a busy town appears in sight with work suspended; bystanders at the curbstone edge. Suddenly, a troop of infantry is seen to approach with mounted officers in front, followed by the regimental band and the soldiery, marching on their way to the front. Every detail of the march past is shown; the speedy action of the horses, the drum major as he twirls his baton and the boys keeping step to the tones of the regimental band. As the regiment passes, the spectators on the sidewalk wave their hands and handkerchiefs, and some of the ladies especially appear to take a great interest in the spectacle before them. Or it may be that the scene to be depicted is of a somewhat more comic character, such as a negro cake walk, in which the colored beaux and belles are putting forth their best efforts in walking for the cake. Another scene will depict apparently a fire brigade responding to a 4-11 call. The hook and ladder truck, with its wildly galloping horses in the van; the engines, just fired and emitting volumes of smoke, follow at breakneck speed, while the pedestrians and drivers of vehicles clear the way and seek safety at the side from the impetuous rush of the fire brigade.

Hundreds of interesting and realistic subjects are now being exhibited; these are but a few. Our list is practically unlimited and there is a range of subjects from the grave to the gay, from the sublime to the ridiculous. Charges of soldiery in actual engagement, naval battles, the war of the mighty leviathans of the deep, mounted cavalry charging at full speed, processions of automobiles, pictures of interesting phases and events in childhood life, acrobatic performances, military evolutions, and all kinds of locomotion, from the mule train to the limited express, and from the tiny canoe to the Atlantic liner, are reproduced.

Consider the wonderful possibilities of this invention. Through its magic windows we view the every-day life of far away countries which we may never hope to visit. Familiar bits of natural scenery are brought home to us. Comfortably seated in a theater, we watch the raging of a storm on land or sea. Small wonder, that this means of entertainment seems to be never-failing in its power of interesting, amusing and instructing an audience.

The moving picture outfits are as far superior in the ordinary line of pictorial representation as the Atlantic liner of the present day is to the slow sailing ships of our forefathers. It is a boon to the manager of a theatre and a powerful auxiliary to his stage effects. To the lecturer on foreign lands or travels, it is found of untold assistance in illustrating every subject; but as an exhibition feature it enjoys its greatest popularity, makes easy the task of securing a large and well-paying audience, and still easier the task of pleasing and delighting them when gathered together. No conception can be formed of the wonderful interest taken in entertainments of this description in localities which have not before had opportunities of witnessing these exhibitions; and in an inconceivably short space of time, the owner finds that it has returned to him not only the entire first cost, but more than a handsome profit on both the investment and his own time.

DESCRIPTION AND APPLICATION

... OF THE ...

OPTIGRAPH MOVING PICTURE MACHINE.

THE PRINCIPLE of the Optigraph Moving Picture Machine is the same as the magic lantern, only that the pictures appear on a transparent film and pass before the lenses in rapid succession.

THE FILM is a long celluloid tape (usually 50 feet), with a series of photographs which are taken in a different position, at the rate of about fifteen pictures per second, and in order to produce the animated movement, they pass rapidly before the projecting lens at the same rate of speed from the beginning to the end of the film. All the movements will be recorded that have been exhibited when the picture was taken. For each subject a separate film is necessary. On page 45 of this catalogue will be found a most complete list of films, and as we carry an immense stock of them, and subject to a severe scrutiny and actual test, every film, before we accept it from the manufacturers, our customers can at all times rely upon uniform excellence in this most essential requirement for the production of first class pictures.

THE LIGHT. In the projection of moving or animated pictures, a stronger and more powerfully condensed light is required than in the production of ordinary stationary pictures; either electric or calcium light should be used for the purpose, although other methods of lighting can be furnished for work in medium or small sized halls, and with which a very good picture can be obtained up to six feet in diameter. By action of the condensing lenses of the lantern, the light is condensed and reflected through the pictures to a set of strong magnifying lenses, which in turn project the picture onto any substance that is set up before the machine. For this purpose, it is preferable to make use of a screen of white muslin or similar surface. On page 86, we give a full list and description of the various lights that can be made use of in projecting motion pictures and also add lists of complete outfits with price, including light, so that our customers may be able to determine exactly what their outfit will cost.

THE MECHANISM.

The Optigraph Moving Picture Machine is fitted with a simple geared mechanism for conducting the film before the lens, and is operated by a crank which is turned by hand. The mechanism is exceedingly simple, and it is almost impossible for it to get out of order. The parts are very light and the cutting of the gear is perfect, rendering the operation of the machine almost noiseless, this fact constituting one of the strongest points in favor of the Optigraph, as the noise from other picture machines has in the past, proven a very objectionable feature; but by means of perfect workmanship and lightness, combined with strength of material, this has been almost entirely dispensed with in the Optigraph.

THE MATERIAL.

The best material is used. The shafting made of the best polished drill rod steel, the gears being machine cut, instead of rough cast as in other machines. The workmanship is the best, and "built like a clock" is a familiar quotation, strictly applicable to the machine we are describing.

The lenses are American make, ground to order especially for this machine, and made after the latest and most scientific calculations. They are perfectly achromatic and rectilinear, thus producing the best possible definition.

SIZE OF THE PICTURE.

The machine projects a picture as large as life, if desired, without distortion or indistinctness, and using only the standard or regular size films.

THE LENSES.

Wide angle lenses are furnished, if desired, which will throw a picture 10x13½ feet at a distance of from 40 to 50 feet from the screen. A proportionately larger or smaller picture can be made by increasing or decreasing the distance, or by the use of other lenses adapted for the purpose.

ATTRACTIVENESS OF THE MOVING PICTURE OUTFIT.

So life-like, so true to nature, so perfect in every detail, and with such life like motions are the pictures as projected from these machines, that the audience can scarcely realize that what is before them is merely a picture.

People do not tire of these exhibitions, a fact demonstrated by the almost continuous use of them as an auxiliary feature in the best theatres. By changing the views occasionally, they draw as well as they did when first exhibited, three years ago; and it is a fact that a set of moving pictures, descriptive of a recent event, were recently exhibited for eight weeks continuously at a large Chicago theatre, drawing more money each and every day than had ever been taken in the same theatre before, and this without the assistance of any other entertainment or amusement in connection with it.

WILL A MOVING PICTURE OUTFIT OF THIS DESCRIPTION PAY FROM THE START?

This is a question often asked of us, and times out of number, answered in the affirmative by our friends who have purchased outfits. These exhibitions have been used for the past three years, by the best theatres in the largest cities, and are uniformly successful. People who would not otherwise visit a theatre are attracted by them. Scenes and incidents which could not, in any other way be brought before an audience, are presented in the most novel and attractive manner. Moving pictures have now been long enough before the public to have established and gained a name for themselves; and it is not only in cities where they have been seen, but in smaller towns, where they have not, that people are interested in, and are talking about them. With a good outfit, therefore (and we furnish no other), and with proper skill in handling, which is imparted by our very ample instruction book, the beginner in the field of exhibition work of this description, can commence operations with the assured knowledge, that he has something to show the people, which the people want to see and will pay for seeing. There is, therefore, no reason why the first entertainment should not be as productive and profitable as those which follow it, and to all who are interested in an honorable and easy method of livelihood, we say that these outfits afford an unusual opportunity to earn a large income from the very beginning.

There is nothing we know of at present which affords so extraordinary an opportunity for making big money from a small investment, as the moving picture machine, with a good outfit of films.

Another and most profitable source of income to the owner of a moving picture machine, is that of public advertising work. For street advertising at night, the moving picture exhibition will attract crowds when nothing else will do so, and this branch of the business alone presents to the enterprising and ambitious man a field so full of possibilities as to almost defy description.

We furnish at a merely nominal price, an outfit and instructions for making up magic lantern slides, so that original advertising slides, with portraits, etc., for which the advertiser will gladly pay well, can be made up and shown most effectively to the crowd, which the moving picture exhibition has gathered together.

WHAT A FEW OF OUR CUSTOMERS HAVE TO SAY ABOUT THE MOVING PICTURE EXHIBITION.

PROF. THOS. WILLS, STEREOPTICON LECTURER.

Calumet, Mich.,

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sirs: The Optigraph came to hand in good order, and while I have been somewhat skeptical, I must confess I am quite surprised in the operation of the machine. It works to perfection; have given two public exhibitions to nearly two thousand people and they are simply delighted. Words of compliment reached me from all sides. The machine is all you claim for it and is a little wonder.

Yours truly, PROF. THOS. WILLS.

GAVE A GOOD ENTERTAINMENT.

"Prof. Thos. Wills showed twice at the Italian hall yesterday, a matinee in the afternoon and another entertainment in the evening. Both were given to crowded houses. The entertainments were for the benefit of the Football Association of the high school, which netted a neat sum from the proceeds. The entertainments were, like all of the professor's, first class in every way, and away ahead of the best traveling companies that have ever shown in Calumet."—Calumet Evening News, Calumet, Mich.

Observe the statement that Prof. Wills had an attendance of nearly 2,000 people at the two entertainments. Figuring the average price of admission at 25 cents, his receipts would amount to $500.00 for the two entertainments. Testimonials from most of the more successful exhibitors we cannot get, as they advertise the machine under another name, believing it best to give the people the impression that they have something which no one else has, and for this reason they do not wish to make a contradictory statement in a letter. Most of the prominent exhibitors use the Optigraph, while the audience believe it to be some other machine.

MESSRS. BECKER BROS. OF KALAMAZOO, MICHIGAN, FIND NO DIFFICULTY IN SECURING A VERY PLAIN AND DISTINCT MOVING PICTURE, ALTHOUGH THEY HAVE HAD NO PREVIOUS EXPERIENCE.

815 Woodward Ave., Kalamazoo, Mich.

Messrs. Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago.

Dear Sirs: We purchased from you some time ago a moving picture machine and gas making outfit from which we have had first-class results. We have no difficulty in securing a plain, distinct picture with the moving effects although we have not had previous experience along that line. We have received many flattering compliments and frequently been told that our outfit was the best yet seen.

Yours truly, BECKER BROS., Stereoptigraph Co.

REV. MR. THOMPSON OF CHATTANOOGA, TENN., HAD A FIRST AUDIENCE OF OVER 800 PEOPLE.

817 Chestnut St., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago.

Dear Sirs: I am glad to advise you that I have had fine success with the outfit sent, and that there is nothing not even the standard moving picture machine which will excel your Optigraph and I have seen some display of both it and the stereopticons of your house, and it gives complete satisfaction. At my first entertainment I had an audience of over 800 people.

Yours truly, W. F. THOMPSON.

MESSRS. O'BRIEN & ALLMON OF EUTAW, ALA., CLEARED $230.00 THE FIRST MONTH AND $20.00 PER EVENING THEREAFTER.

Eutaw, Ala.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen: Answering yours of recent date, will say that we have been very successful with our Illustrated Entertainment Outfit. Starting out on the A. G. S. R. R. three months since, we stopped at all stations. The first month we cleared $230.00 and during the last two months averaged $20.00 per night, as we did not exhibit in any town of less than three hundred population. Our price of admission is 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children, and it is not often that we have an audience of less than one hundred.

Very truly yours, O'BRIEN & ALLMON.

Permanent address: Olney, A'a.

SURPRISING AND GRATIFYING SUCCESS WITH OVERFLOWING AUDIENCES, GIVING EIGHT ENTERTAINMENTS PER DAY.

Terre Haute, Indiana.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen: We purchased a moving picture and Graphophone Grand outfit from you over six weeks ago, and have since been giving ten entertainments at fairs through Indiana and Illinois. We are glad to tell you that we have had a most surprising and gratifying success, wherever the attendance at the fair was reasonably good we have had overflowing audiences, showing as many as eight times per day. The moving pictures and the Graphophone Grand were the whole thing, and people who witnessed our entertainments advised their friends to patronize us, which, of course, was the secret of our success. The outfit has paid for itself many times over, and as you served us well, gave us good goods, up to your representations and full value for our money, we are pleased to express our satisfaction with them.

Yours truly, WM. F. RAY & SON.

THE OPTIGRAPH CANNOT BE BEAT.

Guthrie Center, Iowa.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen: I purchased a moving picture machine outfit complete of you a little over a year ago, and am well satisfied with it. It is all O. K., the Optigraph cannot be beat. I now want to purchase a good loud talking machine.

Yours truly, J. E. McCANN.

WOULD NOT TRADE THE MACHINE FOR ANY OTHER.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill. Newton, Kan.

WORKS TO PERFECTION, COULD NOT GET A HALL LARGE ENOUGH TO SUIT ALL WHO WANTED TO COME.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill. Kenner, La.
Dear Sirs: The moving picture outfit, chosen by my friend and which you sent to me, works to perfection, and the improved gas-making machines give me no trouble whatever. I have had to give three exhibitions in my own town as I could not get a hall large enough to seat all who wanted to come. The Optigraph is, to my mind, the best moving picture machine I have ever seen. Yours truly, S. M. COWEN.

CAPTAIN HAMERSLY OF THE 19TH PENNSYLVANIA NATIONAL GUARDS MAY BE REFERRED TO WITH REGARD TO THE SATISFACTORY WORK DONE AND RESULTS OBTAINED.

Philadelphia, Pa.
Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Gentlemen: I have one of your last year's Optigraphs bought by a friend of mine. It is a first-class machine and capable of doing all and more than you claim for it. I have had no trouble with it. You can refer to me at any time and I will answer any inquiries I may receive. Keep me posted in regards to new films issued by you.
Respectfully, H. L. HAMERSLY,
Captain Commanding Co. "F" 19th Regt. I.-I., N. G. P.

MESSRS. JOHNSON & NARVERUD FIND THE OUTFIT WORKS LIKE A CHARM.

Dassel, Minn.
Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Gentlemen: Our outfit has arrived and we have given one exhibition, which worked like a charm. The audience were well pleased and we are glad to say that we are very much pleased with our investment and expect to do well with it.
Yours, etc., JOHNSON & NARVERUD.

AN INCOME OF NEARLY $7,000.00 PER YEAR, WITH THREE MONTHS' REST.

Robert Turner, 872 Broadway, Chelsea, Mass., lectured for ten years in a small way for churches, Sunday schools, etc., in England. Has lectured in this country for twenty-six years, making a regular business of it, during which time his season has begun September 1st, closing June 1st of each year, and he believes that he has averaged to give thirty lectures per month. His average charge is $35.00 for one evening, $50.00 for two evenings and $10.00 for afternoons. He had the last week in March booked for twelve lectures, and negotiating for two more, making him an average of two per day. He has delivered in London five lectures in one day. His work is almost entirely confined to churches, societies, etc., and in 95 per cent of his lectures he does his own operating. He has not of late years employed an advance man, his engagements being all made by mail and attended to by his family at home. His entertainment consists of stereopticon views in connection with lecture, and as an auxiliary uses the motion pictures. There are many places where he is expected and does give entertainments every year. In this way, it can be seen that he has practically no expense outside of traveling, cost of advertising posters (which is small), making the receipts an average of probably $25.00 per lecture, with three months left for rest or other occupation. His income for the nine months would probably amount to $6,750.

MR. CHADWICK, OF PARK VALLEY, UTAH, IS MAKING OVER $60.00 PER NIGHT WITH THE OUTFIT.

Park Valley, Utah.
Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Gentlemen: I received the outfit that I ordered from you some time ago and was much pleased with it. It is everything that you said it was. We have just started out and have shown three nights and have taken over $60.00 each night, and everyone who sees our exhibition thinks it is all right. I would like to have you keep us posted if there is anything new in the way of moving pictures, stereopticon views or records for the graphophone.
Yours truly, CHARLES CHADWICK.

A PAYING BUSINESS.

Vinegar Works Building, Kingston, Ont.
Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Gentlemen: Allow me to say the Optigraph is giving great satisfaction, and opens up for a man a paying business.
Yours sincerely, A. B. MEREDITH.

THREE ENTERTAINMENTS ALREADY WITH CROWDED HOUSES ALL THE TIME.

Alagany, N. Y.
Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Dear Sirs: Since we have received the Optigraph and Graphophone combined we have given three entertainments with the outfit and have had crowded houses every time. The people are fairly wild to see and hear what we have got to show them and we believe we have a business now that will make good money for us right along, as it has exceeded our expectations up to the present time.
Yours very truly, G. S. SCOTT.

LEARNED TO OPERATE THE MACHINE IN ONE DAY AND HAS SHOWN SUCCESSFULLY TO THOUSANDS.

Columbus, Ga.
Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Dear Sirs: I have found your Optigraph and Stereopticon to be just as you recommended. I have shown to thousands of people and they have all been well pleased and I am living easy. You are at liberty to publish this in your next catalogue if you wish. The outfit is all right. I learned to operate the machine in one day to perfection. Please send me your catalogue of moving pictures to Atlanta, Ga., at once. I notice that you advertise Christ scenes and I want your net prices on same.
Respectfully, C. E. HAWK.

PREFERS IT TO ALL OTHER MACHINES.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Dear Sirs: I have been using your Optigraph moving picture machine for some time, and have seen those of other makes, but would say that I prefer yours to all others, as it is much smaller and therefore easier packed for travelling. It does not flicker like others and does not damage the films in any way whatever, and I am perfectly satisfied with it in every respect.
Yours respectfully, IRA DUNNING.

This attachment was designed to fill the requirements of those who prefer to have their films wound up as they pass through the machine, instead of running them into a bag, box or basket. It is constructed on the same plan as the upper reel, except that it has a feeding sprocket to relieve strain from the intermittent motion of the main sprocket wheel. It also has a sprocket wheel which is to be attached to the shaft of the upper feeding sprocket wheel and a chain for connecting the two.

It may be attached to any No. 3 Improved Optigraph, by simply removing the bolt which clamps the Optigraph to the upright post.

DESCRIPTION OF THE IMPROVED..

OPTIGRAPH MOTION PICTURE MACHINE

MODEL
No. 3.

This machine is intended to be used as an attachment to the Enterprise Instantaneous Combination Stereopticon (see combined illustration on page 10), or with other magic lantern or stereopticon.

It will run the films backwards as well as forwards without stop or complicated adjustment. This will double the length of the exhibition and is one of the most entertaining and novel features in connection with the motion pictures.

It has large reels, accommodating as high as 500 feet of film, and can be furnished with an additional automatic reel, which will wind up the films while the machine is running. In this way, a whole exhibition may be put on the reels at once, and thus dispense with the necessity of changing films during the exhibition.

Two reels of different sizes are furnished with the machine and others may be had at any time.

It has large size interchangeable lenses of the finest quality. The lenses for different sizes of pictures can be changed instantly.

It has rack and pinion for adjusting the lenses to focus.

It has an automatic spring door catch, which is a very great convenience.

It has an auxiliary feeding sprocket, which allows the reels to revolve with a regular and steady motion.

It has a spring actuated roller for holding the films in contact with the main sprocket wheel thus preventing all friction and insuring the perfect steadiness of the picture.

It has an extra heavy balance wheel, which gives the machine an even motion, and has a beautiful nickel plated balanced ball crank handle.

Lenses of three different ranges may be had, so as to project three different sizes of pictures without changing the location of the machine.

It will project pictures of any size and at any distance, and is guaranteed to do any work that any other motion picture machine will do, and to do it better.

For durability and workmanship the Optigraph has no equal. It is made of the finest material, by the best workmen, and no pains or expense have been spared to make it as nearly perfect as possible. The Optigraph stands so far ahead of any other motion picture machine on the market, that up-to-date professional exhibitors will use nothing else.

Every part is made of the very best material, finished in the best possible manner, on the finest automatic machinery, and the size and proportions of the different parts have been so carefully studied and arranged that the Improved Optigraph is as far ahead of other motion picture machines as the best American watches are ahead of the old fashioned Verge Bull's Eye Watches.

THE IMPROVEMENTS.

The reels are large, will hold an entire exhibition, work smooth and easy, never clog, and will run the film backward just as easily as forward. Two reels are furnished with each machine. The large reel will carry about 500 feet of film, which adapts it to the use of long films, or as many as ten 50-foot films joined together can be used. The small reel will hold about 150 feet of film, and is more convenient when using short films.

The spring actuated roller runs on small pivots and holds the film against the main sprocket wheel in such a way as to create no friction and prevent all possible injury to the film. A spring guide is on the Optigraph to press gently against the edge of the film and thus prevent all side shake in the picture.

There is positively no friction on the picture surface of the film, for which reason the films will last almost indefinitely. In fact, we never have seen a film that had been injured on the Optigraph. This cannot be said of other machines, as there are some on the market which will ruin a film after being run a few times.

The lens tubes are larger than the old model lenses, are  $1\frac{1}{2}$  inches in diameter, are interchangeable and will be furnished in three different ranges. One set only is included with the machine at the price quoted, and where the two extra lenses are not ordered with the machine, we advise the use of the No. 1 (medium range) lens, as being the best adapted to general requirements for electric and calcium light.

RUNNING FILMS BACKWARDS.

To reverse the film and run it backward, it is only necessary to turn the crank in the opposite direction. Motion pictures, when produced backward, will create more intense merriment than anything in this line that could be imagined. For example: In the fire run, the wagons come first, with the horses following, but going backward on full gallop. In a diving scene, you see a splash of water, the diver comes up from under the water feet first, goes high in the air, turns over, alights on his feet and runs backwards, and the other divers follow in the same order.

SIZE OF PICTURES.

The size of picture that can be projected with the Optigraph is unlimited and depends entirely on the distance which the machine is set from the screen.

The reason for making lenses of different range is to enable the operator to set his machine in the most convenient part of the house and at the same time, get a picture of the desired size. The further away from the screen the machine is set, the larger picture it will project.

No. 1 Lens is called a medium angle or long focus and will project a picture about  $10 \times 8\frac{1}{2}$  feet when set at about 45 feet from the screen.

No. 2 Lens is called the wide angle or short focus and will project a picture about  $10 \times 8\frac{1}{2}$  feet at 30 feet from the screen.

No. 3 Lens is called the narrow angle or long focus and will project a picture about  $10 \times 8\frac{1}{2}$  feet at 55 feet from the screen.

Any of the above lenses will project larger or smaller pictures by locating the machine nearer to or farther from the screen; thus the lens described as No. 2, would at 50 feet from the screen, project a picture about  $15 \times 18$  feet, and greater distances in the same proportion. A change of lens, with which to work at different distances is a great convenience, and preferable to what is known as adjustable lenses, which do not give real satisfaction.

The rack and pinion for the adjustment of focus is a very great convenience, and will be highly appreciated by all who use it for obtaining the finest possible detail in the pictures.

FILMS.

Any regular American or French picture film can be used on the Optigraph. The standard width is 1 5-16 inches.

DESCRIPTION.

The height of the machine is 19 inches to top of reel; length from back of machine to front of lens tube about 5 inches, and width over all about 8 inches; weight about 5 pounds.

The frame of the Optigraph is finished in dark green enamel; the gate, lens tube, front plate, balance wheel, crank and reel brackets are all nickel plated.

The dimensions of the Optigraph given above, are such as long experience and the matured judgment of experts, has proven to be most practical, in order to get the best results and to involve the least wear and tear on the machine and films, of any moving picture machine made. It is a mistake to suppose that it is necessary to have a large machine in order to obtain durability and good work. The Optigraph is made of the finest material, finished by the best workmen. It has never been known to break in actual use, and they have made records for durability which are unequalled by any other machine. The fact that cast iron and other low grade materials, are cheaper than fine material and good workmanship, supplies the reason why some types of projecting machines are made so unnecessarily heavy and cumbersome. Letters which we quote on pages 27 and 28, and which are written by some of the finest and most experienced experts in the moving picture business, should conclusively settle this question, as well as the durability and thoroughly practical nature of the Optigraph.

ATTACHING TO STEREOPTICON.

The Optigraph Motion Picture Machine may be used in connection with any stereopticon or magic lantern. It is only necessary to secure the instrument by screws to the end of a board about 30 inches in length, setting the stereopticon behind it and at the other end of the board. When attached, however, to our regular Enterprise Stereopticon, use can be made of our patent, adjustable sliding device, the effect of which is instantaneous in changing the machine from a moving picture instrument to a stereopticon, or the reverse, as desired. No means of making such a rapid change has ever before been devised or put into practical use.

Points of Superiority.

No. 1. A guide spring which rests against the edge of the film is made a special feature of the Improved Optigraph, and is a special point of merit, as it prevents the side vibration of the picture.

No. 2. Steady pictures are one of the most important and valuable features of the Optigraph Motion Picture Machine, and this is a point which is appreciated and praised by all exhibitors who have used other motion picture machines. This feature is due to the perfect workmanship, superior material and lightness of parts. It is impossible to get steady pictures with the heavy, clumsy machines of other makes, which are made of cheap material and not properly fitted.

No. 3. Compactness and lightness is a feature in the Optigraph that will be appreciated by exhibitors who have used other machines. It is easy to handle, easy to move about from place to place, can be carried in a small hand case or satchel, while other machines must be moved by express, wagon or dray, and the transportation charges on railways soon amount to a considerable sum.

No. 4. Simplicity is a feature which distinguishes the Optigraph from all other machines. It is so simple that a child can run it. As many as ten films can be cemented together, making up an entire exhibition, which can be placed on the machine and all the operator has to do is to turn the crank; the machine does the rest.

No. 5. The absence of noise is a feature of great value in the Optigraph Motion Picture Machine. With other machines the noise is so great that, as a rule, it is necessary to keep a piano or other musical instrument going while the motion pictures are being shown, to prevent annoyance to the audience. The Optigraph works with a motion that is so smooth, easy and perfect, that there is almost no noise.

No. 6. The capacity of the Optigraph is almost unlimited. It has been successfully used to project a picture 25 feet square, a distance of 190 feet diagonally across a street. In one of the largest cities to the top of a high building, in a locality where there was much street illumination. Other well known motion picture machines were tried on this work, but failed where the Optigraph was successful.

No. 7. There is an entire absence of friction on the picture surface of the film, thus doing away with the long scratches which are often seen on the films used in other machines.

No. 8. No vexatious delays need be experienced, as the small number of parts used, the perfect construction, strength of material and freedom from complication, render it almost impossible, with fair usage, for the machine to get out of order. All parts are interchangeable.

No. 9. This machine can be fitted with automatic rewind attachment, which takes the film up and rewinds it as it goes from the main reel. This attachment is, however, not shown in our illustration, nor is it absolutely necessary, as the Improved Optigraph will run the film backward and forward with equal ease and facility, whether provided with this attachment or not. Some operators prefer it, however, as a matter of convenience, and we can furnish it, if desired, at an extra price of $7.50.

We find the Optigraph gives good results and is very convenient in every way, but perhaps the best thing we can say is that after running our films constantly for a year, and some of them twice a day, we find our stock in about as good condition as when we purchased it. Gentlemen: Have been using your Optigraph for the past eighteen months, and am satisfied it is the best moving picture machine on the market. They invariably say, "Your machine doesn't flicker and hurt the eyes as other machines do—makes no noise at all and the pictures are sharp and clear; much better than any we ever have had here." While giving an entertainment in Power's Grand Opera House in this place (Decatur, Ill.), Mr. Fred Given, the manager, came across the house to where I was operating the Optigraph and said, "Well! There's no use talking; you've got the best machine that's ever been in this theatre and we've had them all." My films are in as good condition now as when I commenced using them.

Wishing you every success, I remain, sincerely yours,

Gentlemen: Have been using your Optigraph Moving Picture Machine for nearly a year and have found it very satisfactory, and believe it to be the best moving picture machine now on the market. Have seen many so-called picture machines, but none seem to enthuase an audience as the Optigraph, and your new model for 1900, with late improvements, is, in my judgment, the peer of all, and if it can be attached to the one we have been using would prefer to have all the late improvements. Gentlemen: During the past nine months I have used your Optigraph Moving Picture Machine, during which time I have had it on exhibition at the London Museum, in this city, giving on an average of nine exhibitions per day, and have passed through the machine ten films at each exhibition. I have found your machine to give the best results of any Moving Picture Machine I have ever seen or used, and certainly a great source of satisfaction to me is the fact that during all the time I have used it, it has never given me any trouble, and my films will last almost indefinitely, for they are not injured in this machine as they were by other machines which I have used. Dear Sirs: I have tried my stereopticon and moving picture machine last night, and it proved itself to be a wonder for the price. I must acknowledge, I expected a little trouble with the light, as it was the first time for me to see or operate a calcium light, but I had no trouble whatever and the Optigraph is perfect. I expected to see a lot of jumping and jerking in the pictures as the price is so small but I must say that if I paid $100.00 for a moving picture machine it could not produce a more perfect motion picture. I am perfectly satisfied with my investment.

ABOUT OUR PRICES:

The old method of supplying public exhibition outfits, has been to charge about five prices, and the exorbitant figures that have generally been asked have kept this professional work out of the reach of men of modest means. For example: Such an outfit as we furnish with any of our panoramic lectures, and which we figure at about $25.00, was for many years sold at $125.00 and upwards. The animated moving picture outfits when they first came out, were sold at several thousand dollars, hence they only came within the reach of a very few, and were only to be seen in the largest opera houses and in the principal cities. New original and copyrighted panoramas, especially those representing our war in the Philippines and the Transvaal subjects, which were gotten up at a very great expense, were furnished at even ten times the price we ask. These seemingly and perhaps really exorbitant prices were, as a matter of fact, necessary, because the business done was very limited and the expense of getting together these panorama exhibition outfits had to be borne by the very few people to whom they were furnished.

We have entirely changed this price condition by getting up our exhibition outfits in large numbers, and while the general expense of getting the outfits together has been not only as large, but far greater, owing to the wide field we have covered, and the entire disregard of expense in offering our patrons the newest, the best and the most popular, our extremely large sales enable us, by quoting a price based on the actual cost of production, with but one profit added, to furnish you such an exceptional outfit as you could not get elsewhere, and at but a small fraction of the price which has always been asked by other furnishers of exhibition outfits.

Our low prices bring this money-making exhibition work within your reach, within the reach of almost everyone; enables the young man with less than $100.00 to make a start with a complete panorama outfit, combined with the ever popular combination of graphophone and illustrated song, and those with only slightly larger capital to start at once, with an outfit which will insure them success in the larger cities, opera houses and theatres, with profits increased ten-fold at a comparatively slight addition to the investment.

Description...

OF THE Optigraph Moving Picture Machine MODEL 1899.

The 1899 model, is the machine which first made the name of "Optigraph" famous, and by the excellence of its construction and mechanism, worked a revolution in the moving picture machine business, and made it possible to offer an instrument of this description, capable of the highest class of work, at a figure, which in comparison with the prices charged for inferior machines, appeared only nominal. It is made with the same care and of the same high grade material as the 1900 model already described, and is capable of thoroughly first-class work in the projection of moving pictures. It differs from the improved model only in the following respects:

It has but one reel on which the roll of films is placed, this reel having an outside capacity for 150 feet of film only. It is, however, provided with an extra reel for re-winding film, the speed of which is quite high, so that but a few minutes are required to wind up the films used for an exhibition.

The machine is furnished ordinarily with a lens of medium range, throwing a picture about 10x8½ feet a distance of 45 feet. A wider range lens can, however, be supplied, if desired, without additional cost, or extra lenses, so that the machine may be used at varying ranges at a cost of $6.50 only for each such additional lens.

The set screw on the top of the lens barrel is used to hold the lens in position after it has been focused. In focusing, the lens tube is turned to place by hand instead of using a rack and pinion. Two springs, instead of roller, hold the film in place against the sprocket wheel.

This Optigraph does excellent work and has attained a great popularity with the highest class of exhibitors, three of the leading Chicago theatres being amongst the many places where it has been successfully exhibited.

To those who wish to economize, this machine will fill the requirements, but to those who appreciate the greatest amount of convenience, the facility with which films can be run either backward or forward, and the capacity for carrying large rolls of film, we recommend the improved model 1900.

A BINDING GUARANTEE.

The Optigraph is positively guaranteed to be the best moving picture machine on the market, and to be as represented in every respect. The purchaser of one of these machines runs no risk whatever, for if it is not found to be exactly as represented, and satisfactory in every respect, it can be returned to us and the money paid will be cheerfully refunded. We have experimented with a very large number of projecting machines now on the market, and know that the Optigraph far excels them. We are, therefore, glad to give this guarantee, and are willing that the machine should stand strictly on its own merits. The guarantee applies to either model of the Optigraph and to its combination with the Enterprise Stereopticon.

DO YOUR FRIENDS TRY TO DISCOURAGE YOU?

We find by investigation, that among many of those who have been considering public exhibition work to better their financial condition, some have, after consulting with their friends, their relatives and their parents, been by one and all discouraged and advised not to take up the work. We find in many cases that this has resulted in people who would have taken up the work and been successful, abandoning the idea, continuing their starvation vocation, and we find others who have not allowed themselves to be influenced by the advice of the over-cautious, sometimes "calamity howler," but have taken up our public exhibition work, either starting with one of our smaller, medium or higher priced and more complete outfits, and have made the biggest kind of a success from the very start.

REMEMBER THAT NEVER IN THE HISTORY OF BUSINESS HAVE PROSPECTS BEEN SO GOOD. CROPS HAVE BEEN ABUNDANT. EVERYBODY IS EMPLOYED ON FULL TIME AT BETTER WAGES THAN EVER BEFORE. MEN HAVE MONEY AND THE INCLINATION TO SPEND IT. THIS IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY. TAKE ADVANTAGE OF IT.

OUR MOST LIBERAL TERMS.

We will send any of these outfits, talking machine outfits, stereopticon moving picture outfits and films to points in the United States C. O. D., when desired, subject to examination at the express office, provided a deposit is sent with the order as a guarantee of good faith. This deposit should not be less than 10 per cent on price of complete outfit.

We will ship by freight, if customer desires, which will effect a saving in transportation.

HOW TO MAKE THE ## BIGGEST POSSIBLE SUCCESS

FROM THE VERY START.

If you are able, if you can raise the money, if you feel that you want to make this public exhibition work your business, if you want to make as much money out of it as you possibly can, if you want to make good big money from the very start, we advise you to do just as professional exhibitors do who are able. who come to us to supply themselves with a public exhibition outfit.

YOU SHOULD ORDER OUR

GRAND TRANS-CONTINENTAL FOR $430.00
EXHIBITION OUTFIT

And if you do not live too far from Chicago and want to learn more about it, want to be convinced of the opportunities, etc., you should come to Chicago. for in our exhibition department you can see this outfit at work, see it tested, learn just how to handle it, and seeing it work you will surely become enthused; you would see how the biggest kind of a success was sure from the start. This big Grand Trans Continental Combination Exhibition Outfit, which we furnish at $430.00, and which is used in the largest cities

WILL FILL ANY HALL OR OPERA HOUSE

In any town, will aid in making the work very easy, will go far towards insuring the greatest possible success, for with this outfit you will get favorable editorial mention in every paper in every town in which you exhibit, and with these press notices, which are always very flattering, you will be able to make satisfactory arrangements wherever you wish to exhibit. With our big Trans-Continental Outfit you can go to your town, find the entertainment committee of a church or hall; make arrangements with them to exhibit in their church, school house or hall, for a fixed amount of money or for a guaranteed sum. There is positively no risk; you can often make such arrangements with the manager of the opera house, and he will be only too glad to hire your entertainment for a guaranteed sum or share of the gross receipts.

WE EARNESTLY SOLICIT INQUIRIES

from bright, active, young, middle aged or old men who have native ability, confidence in themselves, and an energy to carry the confidence to success. Experience is unnecessary. We teach you all you need to know and then we tell you to go and do it. In other words, when you get your outfit and instructions, which are all clear, the proposition for success is up to you.

- 42 -

ARE YOU JUST A LITTLE UNDECIDED?

We know there are many who are unable to decide whether to start at the work or not. Without being influenced by relatives or friends, for or against, they are just a little undecided in their own mind whether or not to take up the work.

..Will I fail? ..If I do succeed, to what extent will be my success? ..

Are you asking yourself these questions? Are you numbered among those who are unable to take the necessary step to make the first start?

IF YOU ARE UNDECIDED WHETHER TO TAKE UP THE WORK OR NOT, POSSIBLY YOUR INABILITY TO DE-CIDE IS FOR ONE OF THE FOLLOWING REASONS: :

Perhaps you are a little too timid, a little too modest; in a small degree, you may lack self confidence and determination, and besides, you cannot bear to think of approaching people (strangers).

If for any one, or all of these reasons, you are still hesitating, still inclined to continue at your present work at an income of $25.00 to $50.00 a month, when $25.00 to $50.00 a day is no doubt within easy reach, now is the time to throw off that "lack of confidence feeling," cast aside that self consciousness, which, whether you take up this work or not, must be thrown aside, or you must pay a fearful penalty year by year.

Do not shrink from approaching people, do not hesitate to make the first start. Take up the work with a determination and you are sure of success.

SEND FOR ONE OF OUR PUBLIC EXHIBITION OUTFITS.

We advise you, if you can possibly afford it, to at least get our No. 21040 at $23.75, or our No. 21194 at $53.00, or, if you can afford it, one of our GRAND COMBINATION OUTFITS, our No. 21440, at $146.00.

If you are undecided for some other reason, write to us. If you feel that one of these outfits is just the right kind of an outfit, just the kind of a public entertainment exhibition proposition that our printed matter sets forth and that you can make a success, send us your order or consult us about the exact outfit best suited to your needs and your resources; but if you have not made up your mind conclusively that you will engage in this business, because you are a little in doubt as to the kind of an outfit we furnish, or if it be that you are not able to decide just which one of our outfits to select, or whether to buy from us or some other house, do not fail to write to us. If you are holding off for any such reasons, we would in writing you, advise you by all means to come to Chicago yourself, examine the different outfits, select the outfit that pleases you best, learn how to operate it, see it in operation, talk with us, make a personal investigation on the ground, and then decide. But, if you do not feel like visiting us in Chicago yourself, can you not write to some friend or relative in this city and ask them to come and visit our exhibition department, see and examine our public exhibition outfits, see them at work, and then write you and thus help you to determine as to the course to take?

AHEAD OF ANY OTHER MOTION PICTURE MACHINE.

Gentlemen: Having thoroughly tested your Optigraph Motion Picture Machine since I purchased it, I am still of the opinion that it is far ahead of any other motion picture machine. Its operation is smooth, noiseless, and the pictures are very steady. I am also very much pleased with the combination sliding attachment, and the Enterprise Double Stereopticon. I expect to start within a few days on a lecture tour of a few months, in this country, and then will go abroad and shall spend about two and a half years making a tour of the world. I expect to lecture all the way around, and while on the other side of the water, will collect material for lecture and exhibitions to be given when I return. You will probably be interested to know that I expect to carry out my original intentions by having an automobile carriage built to carry four passengers, and there will be myself, a photographer, a color artist and an operator make the entire trip. I shall need more films from time to time, and will keep you posted as to where to send them and what to send.

Wishing you every success, I am,

Yours very truly,

C. L. STODDARD.

THE OPTIGRAPH IS A WONDER AND RUNS WITHOUT NOISE OR VIBRATION.

76, 24th St., Pittsburg, Pa.

Gentlemen: I am now ready to answer the questions you asked me in regard to the Optigraph. I have been sick for some time and have just got started. Have held two entertainments and am pleased to inform you that the Optigraph is a wonder. It runs with very little noise or vibration and my audiences are highly pleased, and I have been requested to return and give our entertainment again in a month or six weeks.

Yours respectfully,

J. N. SWEARER.

THE BEST MOVING PICTURE MACHINE MADE AT WHATEVER COST.

Hartford, Conn.

Gentlemen: I have now used the Optigraph, as an attachment to my stereopticon, all last season and so far on this. I pronounce it the best moving picture machine made at whatever cost. I have used other machines, but would not exchange my Optigraph for any other I have seen as yet. I have made hundreds of dollars with it, and it has never failed to do the work.

Most respectfully,

HAROLD FLINT.

NO OUTFIT SO COMPLETE AND SATISFACTORY.

Hotel Morrison, Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen: Since I saw you in reference to your 1899 Model Optigraph I have received from J. W. Hawxhurst, Manager of the Chicago Peerless Entertainment Co., who is now in Northern Michigan and meeting with unparalleled success with their instrument, and who urges me to secure my outfit from you, as it would be impossible to find anything so complete and satisfactory to meet the demands of the public, as your combined machine. So, therefore, I shall, as soon as I return to the city, call upon you for a complete outfit and trust you will have it in readiness for me at that time, having some city dates to fill at an early date.

Yours most truly,

V. K. MORRIS.

No. 21254 RACING SCENE AT LEXINGTON, KENTUCKY. Racing scenes are always popular, and this showing the finish of a good running race, with clouds of dust rolling up behind, is full of life and motion, and one of the most popular to be obtained. Very lively, and exciting and never fails to interest an audience.

No. 21255 KISSING SCENE. This is a scene interesting to the entire audience, young and old included. It is supposed to be a burlesque of an affectionate encounter between two coons, and there is no film shown which meets with more hearty appreciation, and which is more often redemanded than this one.

No. 21257 BICYCLE PARADE. This is a film which is always in great demand and represents the parade of the Chicago cycle clubs on Washington Boulevard in that city. In the lead of the parade can be seen some of the champion bicycle riders of the west, while they are followed by different Chicago clubs, including a number of ladies.

No. 21258 THE STRUGGLE FOR THE WATERMELON. This is a new film and the operator has been successful in obtaining one of the most wonderfully clear results that has ever been shown with a picture machine. A number of boys are shown scrambling for a watermelon, which they have stolen from an old colored man, and the frantic efforts each makes to obtain more than his own share of the booty, make one of the most amusing scenes ever depicted.

No. 21259 CAVALRY HORSES FORDING A STREAM IN SANTIAGO DE CUBA. This is an exceptionally fine subject and is hailed with delight by all who see it. The horses are ridden to the edge of the stream into which they immediately plunge, and almost disappear under the water; only the horses heads and the upper part of the riders can be seen as they swim to the other bank of the river, and when they emerge with the water dripping from their sides, the applause is enthusiastic.

No. 21260 STREET SCENE IN LEXINGTON, KENTUCKY. This film presents a very fine scene, full of life and animation. The streets are crowded with vehicles and pedestrians, and the familiar spectacle is one which always enthuses an audience.

No. 21261 WASH DAY IN CAMP. Shows the soldiers out in the stream washing their clothes. It is a good subject, clear film, full of action, and shows some of the inconveniences and discomforts endured by our soldiers in the late war.

No. 21262 COCK FIGHTING. This is another camp film. It shows one of the amusements of the soldier boys when they are not in action and have a little spare time. They appear to have no fear of the enemy close at hand, but to be enjoying themselves like school boys. A picture of this kind provokes laughter and enlivens your audience after looking at graver subjects.

No. 21263 INITIATING A NEW RECRUIT. This film is particularly interesting. Shows another method the soldier boys have for amusing themselves in their leisure moments. New comrades are frequently initiated by the old-fashioned sport of tossing in a blanket. The newly arrived recruit, who is the victim of their sport, enjoys himself, perhaps, less than the other participants.

No. 21264 OFF TO THE FRONT. This is a magnificent marching scene, showing the soldier boys as they march from camp to board the train for the front to take an active part in the war.

No. 21265 BATHING SCENE, WITH HIGH DIVING.

This film shows a crowd of bathers at a natatorium, including high diving, somersaults in mid air, etc., and is universally pronounced to be one of most popular films ever shown. It is a particularly desirable film when the machine is adapted for running the scene backwards. The comical appearance presented by the swimmers jumping from the water backwards and up towards the diving board being simply indescribable.

No. 21266 CAKE WALK. This film is one of the finest of its kind, portraying a number of swell darkies engaged in the popular pastime of walking for the cake. The dance is well executed by people who have a reputation in this line, and the scene is a winner, and brings applause wherever exhibited.

All of the above films are furnished by us either in 25 or 50 foot lengths, as may be desired. The list includes all the films which we can furnish in less than standard 50 foot lengths. When ordering, be sure to state name, number and length of film. Please do not omit this.

In addition to the foregoing pages, which includes films made in both 25 and 50-foot lengths, we quote the following which are made only in 50 foot lengths:

PRICE, EACH, - - - $6.75

No. 21280 DRAGONS JUMPING OBSTACLES. This picture will appeal to all lovers of military action. The dragons are seen mounted on horse back in regular regimental order, jumping fences and taking regular cavalry exercise. This picture will be greatly enjoyed by an audience, as it is full of life and action.

No. 21281 WASHING ELEPHANTS. A novel and very unusual film, showing a herd of menagerie elephants in their home quarters, enjoying the privilege which they greatly delight in, of a thorough wash down. The huge creatures evidently appreciate what is being done for them, and the scene is one which invariably calls forth rounds of applause.

No. 21282 BATHING HORSES. One of the finest and most interesting films ever produced. The scene is one of the most noted training stables in the east, the horses are enjoying their "morning bath." A huge tank or bath, especially adapted for the purpose, is provided into which the horses are driven for their swim. All unconscious of the camera, they are shown true to nature, and one of the most animated and enjoyable pictures ever thrown on a canvas is presented to the audience.

No. 21283 AUTOMOBILE PARADE. This is a new film, exhibiting a new subject. The automobile, although seldom seen in the smaller localities, has become a popular fad in the bigger cities. Instead of the old style four-in-hand parades, the automobile owners unite in parading on some of the most fashionable boulevards. This film represents a scene of this description which occurred recently in New York City.

No. 21284 THE MAGICIAN. Sleight of hand always pleases old and young, and this film is one that is very successful. The conjuror removes rabbits and other things, too numerous to mention, from an empty hat, and afterwards causes them to disappear in a manner equally mysterious.

No. 21286 WATERMELON SCENE. The best and most amusing street scene that can be shown and brings the house down every time. A lot of street "gamins" fighting and scuffling for a watermelon that has fallen from an old colored man's basket. Two dogs take a hand and the fun becomes fast and furious.

No. 21287 BUSINESS RIVALRY. Shows a man on the corner of a city street whistling for a newsboy. The boys in large numbers appear as if by magic, and such pulling and hauling for a job of selling one paper, was never before seen. This makes a great picture; nothing in sight but boys and papers. Try it and make your audience smile at an everyday Chicago street scene.

No. 21289 SHOOTING THE CHUTES. This film, representing a very popular summer amusement, never fails to please an audience. The toboggan loaded with pleasure seekers, flies down the chute and splashes into the water, in the most life-like and realistic manner that can be imagined.

No. 21291 PLOWING MATCH. This is a realistic and thoroughly enjoyable scene, showing with wonderful fidelity, a familiar and interesting phase of "life on the farm."

No. 21292 PRESIDENT McKINLEY AT THE OMAHA EXPOSITION. This film shows President McKinley, accompanied by his suite and guard of mounted police, upon the occasion of his visiting and opening of the exposition at Omaha.

No. 21293 LIFE-SAVING CREW AT WORK. This is another very interesting film, taken from the happenings of the Omaha Exposition, and depicts a trial drill of the life-saving crew in response to a call for help. The crew put off in their boat, and when the scene of drowning is reached, one of them plunges in, and rescues the victim. The thrilling and intense excitement attending the exhibition of this scene, can be better imagined than described.

No. 21294 A SPANISH BULL FIGHT. ENRAGING THE BULL. This is one of the most intensely interesting and exciting films ever prepared. This and the companion film, No. 21295, are the two best selected from the entire series. No. 21294 shows the matadors exciting and enraging the bull in the cruel manner usual at Spanish bull fights; the representation given by these films shows all the more than animated action, the daring encounters and the narrow escapes without the debasing cruelty attendant upon the actual witness of the fight.

No. 21295 SPANISH BULL FIGHT. DEATH OF THE BULL.

No. 21296 WATER TOBOGGAN SLIDE, is another of the very popular series of bathing films, showing a number of young people enjoying the sport of bathing, and incidentally sliding down the toboggan slide into the water. Very comic and always popular.

No. 21297 LONE FISHERMAN. A lone fisherman sits upon the end of a loose plank on a bridge. Mischievous boy tips the stone, used as ballast, off the end of the plank, and the fisherman falls overboard, and after a ducking is pulled out. Sure to make a hit.

No. 21298 STREETS OF CAIRO. A true oriental scene, showing natives with camels, etc.; of most intense interest, transporting the audience in imagination, to these far-Eastern climes, and sure to be hailed with delight wherever shown.

No. 21299 THE RIVAL BILL POSTERS. A fight between two bill posters, who both wish to decorate the same space with their literature. It ends in a "free-for-all" fight, in which one of the men extinguishes the other with the paste pot. The funniest film ever shown.

No. 21307 THE INFANTRY CHARGE. This is one of our best and most exciting war films, and represents a false alarm. The soldiers can be seen running anxiously from their tents, with guns in hand, ready to fire. There is a large number of them, and as they pass by on the run, it causes the spectators to feel that trouble is close at hand.

No. 21351 WASHING THE STREETS OF PORTO RICO. Another unique scene, describing the manner of washing down the streets in Porto Rico, and of especial interest at the present time, as showing some of the primitive methods employed in Uncle Sam's new possessions.

No. 21352 BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS. This scene represents the fast Lehigh Valley Flyer, running at full speed; the section gang in the foreground, engaged in repairing track, wave their hands to the engineer, who is leaning out of the cab. The porter is shaking the tablecloth from the platform of the dining car. The Black Diamond is classed as one of the handsomest and fastest trains in America, and was running at the rate of nearly 70 miles an hour when the picture was taken.

No. 21353 BURNING STABLE. Showing a barn actually in flames, from which four horses are being rescued by the firemen and stable hands. The scene is exciting and full of action. Great volumes of smoke pouring from the doors, make a very realistic effect.

No. 21354 FEEDING PIGEONS ON ST. MARK'S SQUARE, VENICE. A beautiful picture of a familiar scene in Venice; the fluttering birds give an abundance of action to the scene, which is one of the brightest, clearest and most attractive ever taken.

No. 21355 HORSE FAIR AT BUFFALO, N. Y. The high-spirited animals are seen to great advantage as they are led on board the cars. This film excels in artistic merit.

No. 21356 A FARMER'S TROUBLES. A poor, dilapidated farm wagon, loaded with cabbages, is being driven along the market place, when a negro, with a wheelbarrow, runs into the wagon, takes off one of the rear wheels, and scatters the contents of the wagon in all directions. A pugilistic encounter takes place, in which the bystanders interfere.

No. 21357 GOING TO THE FIRE. This scene shows almost the entire fire department led by the chief, responding to an alarm, the horses going at full gallop. It is a very lively scene.

No. 21358 NARROW ESCAPE ON THE B. & O. One of the most intensely exciting and thrilling films ever shown. A family—father, mother and children—walking along the railway track, step aside, and instantly the fast express passes by; the three-year old wanders onto the other track, not noticing a train coming from the other direction; father rescues child just in time, and cheers from your audience will usually follow.

No. 21359 KISS SCENE. Showing John Rice and May Irwin in their famous and animated osculatory performance.

No. 21360 BABY'S DINNER. A very pretty baby scene.

No. 21361 BABIES' QUARREL. Two babies are shown, seated in high chairs and apparently enjoying themselves. Suddenly one snatches a toy from the other and they indulge in hair pulling. Very funny.

No. 21363 HIGH DIVING. Shows a crowd of bathers at a natatorium, including high diving, somersaults in mid air, etc. One of the most attractive films ever shown.

No. 21364 LANDING OF MARINES IN CUBA. This subject is, without doubt, the most realistic, interesting and exciting war picture ever photographed for the production of moving pictures. We have been fortunate enough to secure the negative of this great picture, and are able to furnish this very popular film at the regular price.

No. 21365 FAKE BEGGAR. He wears a sign "Help the Blind," and is apparently a cripple. A cop sees through his artful dodges. The fakir discovers he is found out, and starts to run away. Policeman catches him after a very lively foot race.

No. 21366 PILLOW FIGHT. Four young ladies, in their nightgowns, are having a romp. One of the pillows becomes torn, and the feathers fly all over the room.

No. 21367 CHARGE AT LAS GUASIMAS (WHERE CAPRON AND FISH WERE KILLED.) A most realistic picture, full of life and action. The boys are seen rushing through fire and smoke in their desire to reach the enemy, who continue to retreat. A very exciting picture, and shows where Captain Capron and Sergeant Fish lost their lives. It also brings to mind the words of Colonel Wood, who, when the boys tried to appease their anger by swearing, said, "Don't swear, boys, fight!"

No. 21350 THE AMERICAN FLAG. "Old Glory," fluttering in the breeze, never fails to rouse an audience to the highest pitch of enthusiasm, and is, of course, a splendid film with which to wind up an entertainment.

THE FOLLOWING SUBJECTS ARE IN 75-FOOT LENGTHS.

PRICE, EACH, - - $10.50.

No. 21368; TWO OLD SPORTS. This is one of the greatest comic films ever placed on the market. Two well fed and prosperous looking old gentlemen, are examining with great interest an illustrated theatrical paper, which apparently recalls reminiscences of bygone days, and the humorous nature of their conversation, is indicated by the amused look on their faces, and their thorough enjoyment of the theme. The facial expression and gesture revealed by this film, is a most wonderful revelation of the art of moving picture photography, and the comic effect is so hearty and infectious, that your audience will laugh with you. This film is a new one and has made the greatest hit of the season.

No. 21369 FOUR HEADS ARE BETTER THAN ONE. Here is a film that will keep you guessing. A man is seen to lift his head from off his shoulders and place it on the table by his side. He does this three times, and seating himself on a stool with a banjo in his hands, proceeds to sing and play; the three heads, all counterparts of the one on his shoulders, accompanying him. The heads annoy him so that he cannot proceed, and using the instrument as a club, he smashes two of them to pieces and throws his own away. He is now left without a head. Taking the one from the table which he had allowed to remain, he tosses it in the air and it lands in the proper place, when he bows to the audience and vanishes.

No. 21370 THE CLOWN AND THE AUTOMATON. This wonderful film belongs to the class known as mystifying or illusion films. A magician produces before the audience, a small automaton figure of a clown, which he places upon a pedestal, whereupon the figure begins to grow, as he passes his hands in front of it, until it is full life size; when it at once comes to life and endeavors to quarrel with the magician. He, however, with the aid of a heavy sledge hammer, gradually reduces the figure to its original size. One of the most interesting films ever presented.

No. 21308 DINNER UNDER DIFFICULTIES. This is a most perfect picture, and is bound to amuse everybody. When the picture first appears on the screen a dining room is seen and a waiter enters with a number of dishes and prepares to set the table when they fall to the floor. A man with his wife and their guest now enter the room, and as they are about to sit down to the table their chairs change their position as if by magic, and the three persons drop on the floor. The table is also seen to move and the chairs finally jump up on the table, when the parties seat themselves thereon, and the table falls over, the three persons falling on top.

No. 21309 THE PIONEER LIMITED AND THE AVERTED ACCIDENT. The finest and most exciting train film ever photographed. The Pioneer Express, one of the fastest trains in the United States, is seen flying past a country cross roads and the close "shave" which a farmer and his wagon experience from being run over.

No. 21310 THE DULL RAZOR. An entirely new film, which has become wonderfully popular with all audiences to whom it has been shown. An inveterate smoker with cigar in mouth is shown strapping his razor and getting ready for his shave, the razor proves dull, and the look of disgust which follows is inimitable. For facial expression this film has never been equaled and must be seen to be appreciated.

LIST OF 100-FOOT FILMS. PRICE, EACH, $13.50.

No. 21371 THE DOG AND THE TRAMP. A new film made especially for us and cannot be procured elsewhere. It is intensely comic, and the brightest, clearest film ever shown. It represents the felonious action of a tramp, who enters a backyard for the purpose of appropriating a pie set there to cool. The dog intervenes at the proper moment and the tramp has his own time endeavoring to escape. The bull dog tenacity of the canine is well exemplified and the scene calls forth uproarious laughter and applause and is almost invariably redemanded wherever shown. No exhibition can afford to be without this film.

No. 21392 BATTLE OF SAN JUAN HILL. This is one of the greatest war films ever placed on the market. The enemy is seen scouting in the underbrush at the foot of a steep hill. Suddenly our own soldier boys appear under the order of "Forward by rushes," and gallantly charge up the hill. A struggle takes place, but our boys are victorious and they plant our flag there to stay. The most realistic part of the subject is the explosion of the bombs thrown by the enemy in close proximity to a soldier who has fallen, and who is being cared for by the Red Cross staff, who finally carry him away on a stretcher. A most exciting picture. Notwithstanding the enormous expense entailed in procuring this film, we list it in length of 100 feet, at no more than regular price for standard films of that length.

No. 21397 TUNNEL ON THE FRAZER RIVER CANYON. This is a panoramic view of one of the most picturesque and wildy grand scenes in the passage through the Rocky mountains. It was taken expressly for us and cannot be duplicated or obtained elsewhere.

No. 21398 SPANISH BULL FIGHT. Made up of any two 50-foot lengths, printed in one continuous 100-foot film.

LIST OF 150-FOOT FILMS. PRICE, EACH, $20.25.

No. 21399 SPANISH BULL FIGHT. Continuous 150-foot film made up from the three films: (a) Entrance of the Matadors; (b) Enraging the Bull; (c) Death of the Bull. This is undoubtedly the best method of showing this wonderfully interesting subject.

No. 21400 MCCOY AND SHARKEY PRIZE FIGHT. This is by far, the finest fight film yet offered to the public. It represents the tenth, or last round in full, including the famous "knock out" blow. Full of ginger and a very lively picture.

Stereopticon Lecture Department

PLEASANT AND HONORABLE EMPLOYMENT.
SHORT HOURS AND LITTLE EFFORT.
NO SOLICITING AND NO GOODS TO SELL.

Do You Wish to Make Money with Little Effort ?

To the Teacher,
the Mechanic, the Clerk or the Clergyman :

To the Partially Successful :

To the Unfortunate, and even to the Unsuccessful
Business Man :

To all of those who are not satisfied with their present occupation, to those whose income is perhaps less than $1,000 a year, we take the opportunity of tendering a word of advice. We cannot guarantee you success; we cannot possibly say that you will make more than $1,000 a year with one of our Public Exhibition Outfits, for we really cannot undertake to say you will put forth your best efforts and work into it. We do not know that you will take up the work with a will. We cannot say what is your natural ability and capacity, whether you are equipped with the necessary energy and determination. May be you would not succeed in exhibition work; possibly, you never have succeeded, and if so, possibly, you never will; but whether you are a mechanic or a professional man, if circumstances and all conditions being considered, your efforts have so far resulted in a measurable amount of success, you will certainly merit a greater one with any of our exhibition outfits, and your financial returns will be gauged almost entirely by your own efforts.

A COMPARATIVELY SMALL INVESTMENT WILL ENABLE YOU TO MAKE A START...

FOR EXAMPLE:

$53.00 will buy for you any one of our special lecture exhibition outfits, a few of which we enumerate for your information and a full description of which will be found in the succeeding pages. Our lecture on Cuba, the Explosion of the Battleship Maine and the War with Spain, which it precipitated, has always been and continues to be very popular, and in the past has made for our customers, thousands upon thousands of dollars, an assertion that you will find fully borne out by the testimonials selected from hundreds of others, which will be found throughout this book. Our somewhat similar lecture on Our New Possessions and the War in progress in the Philippines Islands, is perhaps of more interest at present date, as dealing with events which have more lately transpired. Our newest lecture on the Boer and English War, with vivid and beautiful scenes, descriptive of life, scenery and incidents in the Transvaal and South African Republics, will sweep the country at the present and offers possibilities of a fortune within an incredible short space of time, to those who are first in the field and prepared to cater to an almost universal interest, which now prevails in this country for this, the second great struggle for liberty of the age.

-54-

THESE ARE LECTURES DEALING WITH TOPICS OF THE PRESENT DATE.

We have other and standard subjects which are always of interest. We can make up stereopticon outfits with every accessory necessary to go out at once on the road and achieve success upon an infinite variety of subjects. The natural scenery and views of our own land; the National Yellowstone Park, Niagara Falls, the Garden of the Gods, the Canyons of Arizona, all are magnificent subjects for lectures of this description, while for church and ministerial work we can provide complete sets of lectures of the Life of Christ on Earth, His Passion and Death and other biblical and religious subjects.

SELECT ALMOST ANY ONE OF OUR NEW AND MOST POPULAR SUBJECTS,

give it thirty days' trial and within that time you will be able to convince yourself whether or not you can make more than $1,000 a year with any one of our exhibition outfits. If you buy, say a $53.00 outfit, and start out for a thirty days' trip, determined in spite of everything to handle what you have undertaken for yourself, regardless of consequences, if you go at the work with a determination to give it an honest thirty days' trial, we can assure you that your success will more than surprise you, and that inside of thirty days you will be ready for an additional outfit, which will include the great moving picture attachment, etc., and will place you in a position to redouble your efforts with redoubled success and redoubled returns. You will break away from your present occupation and you will devote your time entirely to the public exhibition work, which we believe is

THE MOST PLEASANT AND REMUNERATIVE LINE OF BUSINESS THAT ANY MAN CAN ENGAGE IN.

If at first you are not able, or do not care to handle one of our moving picture outfits, equip yourself with one of our special stereopticon public exhibition entertainment outfits. Start in business immediately, make arrangements by letter or otherwise, with churches, societies, theatre owners, school trustees, etc., to give exhibitions at their places, giving them a small share of the receipts, for the use of the church or hall, and for their efforts in distributing the advertising posters, and selling the tickets, and you should make $3,000.00 to $10,000.00 per year.

-55-

NO PREVIOUS EXPERIENCE AND NO ABILITY AS A PUBLIC SPEAKER IS REQUIRED,

for as the description of the views is printed, it can be read while the views are shown with the stereopticon, and as each picture suggests the subject, the speaker will quickly find that the lecture will be imprinted on his mind, and will come to him readily so that he will soon be able to dispense with his book altogether.

Some of the most successful exhibitors had never spoken in public before taking hold of our outfit, and now they are making from $10.00 to $75.00 per day.

LARGE FORTUNES HAVE BEEN MADE IN THIS LINE OF WORK,

on far less entertaining subjects than those which we furnish. For example: Mr. Stoddard, who lectures on travels in foreign countries, illustrating the same by magic lantern views, gave a series of lectures in Central Music Hall in this city, extending over three weeks, having an average attendance of 1,500; in keeping with this, we also refer to a recent contract which Dr. Nansen, the Arctic explorer, is reported to have made. It has been published in the newspapers all over the country that he had closed a contract with a company to deliver fifty lectures for $65,000.00, the same to be illustrated with the magic lantern views. Everybody could not expect to do so well as Mr. Stoddard or Dr. Nansen, but we refer to their success, to show the possibilities in the lecture line of business, and a large proportion of our own customers write us that they have been successful from the start. Messrs. O'Brien & Allman, of Olney, Ala., write us that their experience with a Cuban outfit has been profitable from the first day they went out, clearing $230.00 over all expenses in the first month, and averaging $20.00 to $30.00 per night ever since. Mr. Vincent, another beginner in the same line, advises us that he makes an average of $38.00 per night for five nights in the week.

Are the masses of the people as much interested in Dr. Nansen's Greenland and North Pole lecture as in the all-absorbing and interesting topics of the day, such as we select and furnish?

There is almost no competition in this line of work, and although the field is very large, the work pleasant and pays well, it has been given but little attention, and it is no trouble for an ambitious man to obtain success and earn good money from the very start.

The Business Management.

The success of any business enterprise depends largely on the manager's knowledge of what methods he should pursue. In this matter, we leave no doubt in the minds of those who wish to start in this work, as we have had large experience in this line of business, and have consulted with and watched the success of the best exhibitors. We have carefully considered the plans of those who have been successful and believe we are in a position to supply the beginner in this line with valuable knowledge. In short, we furnish the business proposition, we furnish all material, we furnish all the knowledge of the subject in hand, we furnish the methods for conducting the business, we furnish the business ex-

GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF OUR SPECIAL ILLUSTRATED ENTERTAINMENT OUTFIT.

THE ENTERPRISE STEREOPTICON, as illustrated and fully described on another page, is furnished with this outfit. It is the highest grade lantern made and has the very important advantage of being thoroughly interchangeable, to permit the addition of any means of projection, such as the Optigraph Moving Picture Machine or another lantern on top, for producing dissolving effects. Lanterns similar to this, but not possessing so much merit, are sold regularly by other houses for $50.00 to $60.00 without views or any other accessories.

THE GIANT INCANDESCENT VAPOR ILLUMINATING APPARATUS is the very latest invention, is many times stronger than the best kerosene illumination. This illuminating outfit will be found fully described and illustrated on another page.

THE CRITERION ACETYLENE GENERATOR AND SIMPLEX BURNER throws a most brilliant picture, is so simple that a child can operate it and can be made ready in five minutes.

THE STEREOPTICON CARRYING CASE is made of well seasoned wood, stained, varnished and polished, and has brass trimmings and handle for carrying.

THE 52 MAGNIFICENT PHOTOGRAPHIC VIEWS are made on glass with glass covers to protect the picture from injury by scratching. Forty-two are in plain photographic tints, of far better quality than those usually sold at 50 cents each, and ten are beautifully colored, true to nature and of better quality than views usually sold at $1.50 each. A conservative value of the views alone, as sold by other houses, would be $36.00. The views are each of them, works of art, and when illuminated with the new Giant vapor light, or the Acetylene gas outfit, magnified by the powerful lenses of the stereopticon, to ten feet or more in diameter, and projected on the screen they cease to be a photograph, and are given a depth and appearance which is so true to nature, that the audience will almost forget that they are not looking upon the original scene.

THE LECTURE is printed in book form and consists of a short introduction and an interesting description of each view, the whole being written in such a pleasing and entertaining style, that when delivered while the beautiful photographic views are being shown, will be relished as a treat by everyone. The lecture may be read, if desired, or is very easy to commit to memory, on account of the paragraphs being short, and each view as it comes in its regular order and appears upon the screen, serves as a prompter, and suggests what is to be said next.

THE POLISHED WOOD VIEW CASE is well made, is fitted with brass trimmings, and has dividers for separating the views.

THE SCREEN is made of fine white material, is 12x12 feet, having 144 square feet of surface, is provided with ropes and loops for hanging it, and is used for a perfectly white surface on which to project the pictures from the stereopticon, and make them so large as to be distinctly seen by everybody in the hall or opera house.

THE ADVERTISING POSTERS are very large, are printed on tinted paper, and illustrated with attractive engravings, with blank spaces left for filling in the place where lecture is to be given, date, prices for admission, etc., and are to be posted up in store windows, on fences, buildings and other conspicuous places. They are very attractive, well worded, and will draw crowded houses.

THE ADMISSION TICKETS are printed in good taste on tough cardboard, and the quantity is made large enough to accommodate any size crowd and enough to allow for those which may get soiled or torn from time to time.

THE PRINTING OUTFIT is provided with a case of movable large rubber type, a holder, tweezers and ink pad, and is used for filling in the dates, places where lecture is to be given, prices for admission, etc.

THE BOOK OF INSTRUCTIONS contains full information for the operation of the outfit, showing the pictures, delivering the description of them, and particularly as to the best way to make the business a financial success. It tells all about the best methods to pursue, how to engage halls, churches, etc., how to keep down expenses, how to make the hall attractive, and to get testimonials of much value for advertising.

Everything that is needed is furnished with the outfit, and is ready for business as soon as received.

For further detailed description see following pages.

THE BOER-ENGLISH WAR

AND Scenes in South Africa.

DESCENDING A SPRUIT.

As all are aware, South Africa is a very mountainous country, and the difficulties of transporting goods from place to place are great. Enormous covered wagons are used, which are drawn by teams of oxen, sometimes as many as eighteen or twenty span being used. Our illustration is typical of the Transvaal, a range of mountains and the wagon and teams of oxen "trekking down the spruit," or, in other words, descending the pass.

With a set of these most beautiful and valuable pictures, together with the very interesting description of each, every entertainment should be a grand success and serve as an advertisement and a recommendation for future exhibitions.

If you are pleased with the ten colored slides and wish to have the entire set in colors, we will exchange them on liberal terms, within one month of purchase.

THE ONLY THING FOR BOTH PLEASURE AND PROFIT.

927 Woodland Ave., Nashville, Tenn.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Gents: The Cuban lecture outfit reconsigned to me from Clarendon, Ark., reached me safely ten days ago, and have given four exhibitions with it here at home with perfect satisfaction to myself and friends. It is the thing for pleasure and profit, and having been over most of the scenes portrayed myself, enables me to only the better understand and memorize the lecture readily:

Always your friend,

J. H. HURST.

BATTLE OF ELANDSLAAGTE.

Two days after the investment of Mafeking, in the west, the Boers crossed the border into Natal. The English began to retreat towards Ladysmith, but were attacked by the Boers at Elandslaagte. The famous charge of the Gordon Highlanders changed the fortunes of war and the Boers were beaten back with great slaughter.

To all of our customers who are already furnished with one of our lecture outfits, we strongly recommend the addition of a set of slides, taken from this outfit, which will double the value and entertainment possibilities of every exhibition and at a trifling cost, and will in many of the larger places where they may visit, enable them to make a stay of over two nights, giving two exhibitions at practically the cost of one.

The photographic views with this, and for our other lecture outfits, can be used in any of our lanterns or fit in any standard stereopticon, and we will include with any order for a set of these views, and without additional expense, 500 of our magnificent full sized posters advertising the set of views purchased. The regular price of this set of views is $20.00, but to our customers who have previously purchased outfits from us, or to those who wish to combine this set with any other exhibition outfit, we make a special net price of . . . . . $16.00

We include, without additional cost, a highly polished oak box with compartments, suitable for carrying and taking care of the slides, and 500 large advertising posters.

The Spanish-American War

AND THE PHILIPPINES
ILLUSTRATED.

INGORROTE SPEARMEN DRILLING.

While most of the Filipino insurgents are well armed with Mauser and other up-to date rifles and ammunition, this picture will give an accurate idea of the antiquated and uncivilized methods of warfare employed by some of the inhabitants.

A Company of Ingorrote Spearmen drilling in Calocan, Philippines, is represented here. If these people were more enlightened and educated, they would realize how foolish it is to oppose our army with such primitive weapons.

This is a rare view and will be highly appreciated by any audience.

PLEASED EVERY AUDIENCE FROM NEW ORLEANS TO EL PASO.

Manchao, La.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir: I have arrived from my tour through the country with my outfit of the Cuban war, and must say that your outfit is more than you claim it to be. I succeeded in satisfying every audience I appeared before, from New Orleans to El Paso, Texas. It is one of the greatest positions man can enter. I rejoice the day I purchased the outfit from you. If you use my name as testimonial I will gladly answer any questions regarding its merits to the public.

Yours truly,

JOHN N. CONRAD.

FUNSTON'S TWO VOLUNTEERS CROSSING THE RIVER WITH LINE.

This view represents an incident of the Philippine war which has been told and retold and will live in history. When Col. Funston's famous regiment desired to cross the River Rio Grande at Calumpit, it was necessary for the troops to cross on rafts. To insure this, some one had to swim the river with a rope, and this was done by Privates White and Trembley under fire from the trenchments of the insurgents. The rope was carried successfully across and Col. Funston's regiment was ferried over and soon outflanked the rebels' position.

This set of slides, dealing with matters of such recent happening and stirring events is very valuable to those already equipped with an outfit and would more than repay its cost in the first two evenings.

The entire outfit complete with fifty-two views, Enterprise lantern, screen and advertising matter..... $53.00

Set of slides alone with 500 posters..... 16.00

For list of general slides see other pages.

TO THE INEXPERIENCED MAN WHO WISHES TO START IN THE PUBLIC EXHIBITION WORK AND WHO WILL FOLLOW OUR BOOK OF INSTRUCTIONS CAREFULLY, WHO WILL DO JUST WHAT IS TOLD HIM TO DO, IS SURE OF MAKING $15.00 AND UPWARDS EACH EVENING, WHILE MUCH LARGER RETURNS CAN BE OBTAINED FROM ANY OF OUR COMBINATION OUTFITS DESCRIBED ON PAGE 35.

WELL PLEASED WITH OUTFIT.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Woodworth, Ohio.

The Cuban War outfit at hand, and in reply will say that we have showed four nights, and we are well pleased with it. Just as soon as you get something new, let me hear from you. We will start out again today with the outfit.

Yours truly,

TAKES $47.50 IN ONE WEEK.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Fort Chirch, N. C.

Gentlemen: About six months ago we ordered from you a Cuban lecture outfit. We have been out working regularly since, and have done exceedingly well. We took in in one week $47.50, which is very well indeed for rustic points. Trusting you may enjoy success in your business,

I beg to remain

THE DESTRUCTION OF THE MAINE,

AND THE ### SPANISH WAR.

BATTLESHIP MAINE AFTER ITS DESTRUCTION.

This picture is one of the best and most accurate which has been taken of the wreck, and shows the present condition of what was once one of the most beautiful of Uncle Sam's battleships. The lecture gives the details as to dates, the immense number of sailors killed, the force of the explosion, etc. With the beautiful photographic picture and the lecture, the audience will be able to get almost as much information and satisfaction as would be afforded by a trip to the spot where the explosion occurred.

In this, as well as in our Philippine set, we offer a choice collection of war views, true to nature, which makes them of the greatest interest to nearly every one; for in addition to the part they play in the history of our country, there are few people but what have near relatives or friends who have been or are serving in the war, and an entertainment of this kind has only to be advertised, to bring crowded houses, at good prices for admission.

WOULD NOT TAKE $75.00 FOR HIS LANTERN CLEARED $29.00 FIRST NIGHT.

Richmond, Va.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.

I have given one entertainment with the Cuban outfit in a good-sized hall, seating eight or nine hundred people; had a fair crowd, the receipts being $29.00. I find the instrument at a distance of eighteen feet, giving a clear and sharp picture, measuring 10x10 feet. The instrument is just as you have represented, and I think it a fine instrument for the money you ask for it. The lenses are certainly a fine piece of work, and I would be unwilling to part with it for $75.00. You are at liberty to use my testimonial and anyone is at liberty to write me on the subject. I will recommend your house in the highest terms. If I can be of any service to you let me know and I will gladly serve you.

Yours truly,

R. L. MITCHELL.

Set of slides alone, forty plain and ten colored..... 16.00

COMIC SLIDES...

"A LITTLE NONSENSE NOW AND THEN, IS RELISHED BY THE BEST OF MEN."

"DEED, CHIL' I DIDN'T KNOW YOU WAS DA."

No finer stereopticon slides have ever been made than our present list of comics. We have entirely discarded the old style, so-called comic slides, made from cartoons and line drawings; every one of our present list being taken from actual life models who have studied the humorous, pose artistically, and with a full appreciation of the comic side of life. We have eliminated altogether the coarse and vulgar features which made the old style comic so objectionable. We append names and numbers of some of the best of these slides.

ILLUSTRATED SONG VIEWS FOR THE STEREOPTICON (COLORED)

At the present time, illustrated songs are one of the most popular means of entertaining the public, and they have been immensely successful at the various vaudeville theatres in Chicago and New York. The dramatic effect produced by illustration of the song in this manner is very marked, and the audience who are not particularly moved by either song or illustration, become greatly enthused over this vivid combination of the two.

FROM "MID THE GREEN FIELDS OF VIRGINIA."

The views with illustrated songs, consist of pictures representing the most important incidents related in the song and are projected by the stereopticon. These pictures are all hand-painted, are in each instance taken from life models and when shown with the stereopticon, enlarged to life size, are exceedingly realistic.

The songs themselves, may be sung by a vocalist while the operator changes the slides at appropriate times. Of late, however, an exceedingly successful method of giving this entertainment, has been to use a graphophone for producing the song instead of relying upon a vocalist. When it is possible to use the Graphophone Grand described on page 101, for this purpose, the effect is even better and the enunciation more plain and distinct than with the human voice. It is not always possible to obtain the services of a local vocalist, but with the graphophone, the exhibitor is always assured of his ability to present this feature successfully.

We furnish a title slide free with each of the sets listed on next page. Where desired, we can also furnish sheet music for the songs at 25 cents each.

A high grade lantern slide can be obtained only by the best photographic art. Song slides are much more effective when colored, and to obtain the best results should always be ordered so. Beware of cheap colored slides, they are cheap at any price—better to use a plain slide than a daub. We employ only the best artists and our slides are colored entire. Not only the face, but the furniture, carpet, wall paper and draperies are artistically colored and blended in pleasing harmony.

THE ENTERPRISE STEREOPTICON....

Has all necessary adjustments known in high class stereopticon work, is equipped with all the latest improvements, and is the most beautiful as well as compact and convenient stereopticon made, but is sold at one-half the money asked by other houses for goods of less merit.

IT IS MADE OF METAL THROUGHOUT, AND BEAUTIFULLY NICKEL PLATED, has dark red bellows, which makes a very pretty contrast, together with dark steel lamp house, and the polished and nickel plated lens mountings. A new plan has been adopted in the construction of the Enterprise Stereopticon which will be highly appreciated by all who use it.

ALL PARTS ARE MADE INTERCHANGEABLE, and it is so arranged that any kind of combination may be made, or any of the numerous and very valuable attachments may be added to it at any time. The parts are made on automatic, and the most perfect machinery, and can always be depended upon to fit as perfectly as though they were ordered at one time.

THE DISSOLVING EFFECT, which constitutes the highest art in stereopticon or magic lantern projection, can be accomplished by adding the top section as listed on another page, which makes it a regular double dissolving stereopticon.

THE ENTERPRISE INSTANTANEOUS COMBINATION OPTIGRAPH ATTACHMENT may be added to either the single or the double stereopticon at any time, and is attached by means of machine screws, which are furnished with the Optigraph attachment.

THE ENTERPRISE SINGLE STEREOPTICON

No. 21500

Patented in the United States and Canada.

Lens Door Open.

THE OBJECTIVE LENSES are the latest production in Stereopticon lenses, are achromatic rectilinear of very high grade, and are made by the Bausch & Lomb Optical Co. Unless otherwise ordered, we furnish what is known as the short focus lens, which throws a ten-foot picture at about twenty feet from the screen. This is usually a convenient distance at which to place the Stereopticon.

THE NARROW ANGLE OR LONG FOCUS LENS, which throws a ten-foot picture at about forty feet from the screen, will be furnished instead of the short focus lens, if desired, for $1.50 extra.

THEY HAVE A VERY FINE RACK AND PINION for focusing; the fittings are lacquered and oxidized and finished in the best possible manner.

THE OBJECTIVE LENS is attached to the Stereopticon by a hinged door, which enables the operator to get at the rear combination instantly, and especially adapts it to use in connection with the Optigraph Animated Picture Machine and Instantaneous Attachment, as the Stereopticon Objective Lens can be instantly swung out of position and the Animated Picture Machine and lens at the same time swung into its place, it being unnecessary to change the adjustments.

THE CONDENSING LENSES are  $4\frac{1}{2}$  inches in diameter and are the finest grade, French imported, and as only the best optical glass is used in their construction and the grinding and polishing is very carefully done on automatic machinery; they are less liable to break from the action of the heat than the cheaper grades so often supplied.

THE LAMP HOUSE is made of a fine grade of polished steel, is extra depth and height, so as to accommodate burners for vapor, gas, oxy-hydrogen calcium, electric or acetylene illumination and is fully enclosed (except for ventilation) to prevent the escape of light from the rear or underneath.

.... PRICE ....

No. 21500 THE ENTERPRISE SINGLE STEREOPTICON, full nickel plated with high grade Bausch & Lomb achromatic rectilinear objective lens, one pair  $4\frac{1}{2}$ -inch high grade condensing lenses, dark red bellows, polished dark steel fully enclosed lamp house, all complete.....\$30.00

Our Double Dissolving Stereopticon.

No. 21520

THE HIGHEST GRADE OF STEREOPTICON MADE.

IT IS MADE WITH ALL PARTS INTERCHANGEABLE AND IS SOLD BY US AT ABOUT ONE-HALF THE PRICE ASKED BY OTHER CONCERNS FOR INFERIOR GOODS.

THE ENTERPRISE is especially arranged for convenience in showing dissolving views, which is the highest art in stereopticon exhibition work. For the benefit of those who are not familiar with stereopticon work we will explain that dissolving effects are produced by having two different views, one in each stereopticon, and gradually turning the gas from one jet to the other, so that while one view gradually fades away the other grows brighter until the one is not visible and the other has developed to full brilliancy. In this manner, the screen on which the pictures are shown is never blank, but a picture is visible throughout the entire exhibition.

THE ENTERPRISE DOUBLE STEREOPTICON

is composed of two single stereopticons as described above, except that the top is made slightly different, so as to be attached to the under one. The lower lantern is arranged for the instantaneous Optigraph animated picture attachment, which may be added at any time.

No. 21520 ENTERPRISE DOUBLE STEREOPTICON. Full nickel plated, except the lamp house, which is of planished steel; has dark red bellows, and furnished with either acetylene gas or calcium light burners, and carrying case, all complete. Price.....$60.00

THE SEROCO HAS A POLISHED OAK BASE, planished steel lamp house with hinged door at the rear end, bellows for adjusting the focus, a fine double rectilinear objective lens, with rack and pinion for fine adjustment of focus and 4-inch condensing lenses. The front, condenser mountings, rods and brackets are heavily nickel plated, and add much to the beauty and appearance of the lantern.

We have put our posters up in the windows of the business houses and other conspicuous places, and use from 15 to 40 in a place, depending on the size. We saw your ad. of the Optigraph moving-picture attachment. Could it be attached to our lantern? If so, send a catalogue, as we would like to add that to our entertainment. We hope to hear from you at Morgantown, Ind., Saturday, March 26.

No. 21569 THE PERFECTION OXY-HYDROGEN JET FOR CALCIUM LIGHT. These jets are very carefully made, and yield the maximum intensity of illumination, giving a uniform light without the hissing, which is a prominent feature of badly constructed jets.

The jets have a reputation of many years and to retain the reputation acquired, every detail is carefully supervised and each jet is fully tested before shipment. The lime carrier is supported on a sliding bed plate affording facilities for placing the lime at proper distance from the orifice of the jet. Has gear work for revolving and elevating the lime, so that a fresh surface may be exposed to the action of the gas when necessary. The jet when in a frame, is firmly held in the central line of the lens by a clamping screw on the vertical post.

LENSES.

STEREOPTICON OBJECTIVE LENSES are made of different focus so as to project pictures of different sizes at the same distance from the screen. We list the following regularly: Write us for estimate of prices on lenses of any other range required.

No. 21572 REGULAR ONE-FOURTH OR QUARTER SIZE, with rack and pinion, projects a picture the size of which is approximately half the distance between the screen and the stereopticon. Thus, at twenty feet, this lens will give a picture about ten feet square, or at thirty feet, about fifteen feet square.

Price, each.....$5.00

No. 21573 LONG FOCUS, OR TWO-THIRDS SIZE, with rack and pinion, projects a picture one fourth its range. Thus a ten-foot picture is projected at about forty feet, and a fifteen-foot picture at about sixty feet.

Price, each.....$7.50

No. 21574 THE DARLOT ADJUSTABLE LENS is made expressly for us and imported from France. This lens is one of the highest grade lenses ever sold in this country. It is perfect in operation, as well as in results and fully guaranteed by us. It consists of an ordinary lens tube or jacket made slightly larger than the regular size and finished in the highest style of mechanical art and perfection. It is made in such a way that the tube or shell which contains the lens can, by simple mechanical operation, be loosened and removed from the jacket. While an exactly similar tube in appearance, containing lenses of a different range, suitable for work at another distance, is inserted in its place and the operator is at once prepared to work with equal advantage at the new range. Five tubes in all are provided with this lens, so that it practically covers the entire limit of distance at which the exhibitor might desire to operate from—20 to 200 feet. The various lens tubes furnished are as follows:

- (a) Regular one fourth size tube and lenses, each.....$8.80
- (b) One-third size tube and lenses, each.....8.80
- (c) One-half size tube and lenses, each.....8.80
- (d) Two-thirds size tube and lenses, each.....8.80
- (e) Four-four size tube and lenses, each.....8.80
- Price of Special Adjustable Jacket.....8.80

Customers can select the jacket, with one, two or more tubes, and as they proceed with their work can add tubes suitable to such other ranges as they find desirable to their work. They are not required to purchase the complete set or more than they consider necessary.

The cost of a set of five standard objective lenses, which would be necessary to do similar work at different ranges, would be about $85.00, so that the purchase of the adjustable set would effect a saving of nearly one-half.

The advantage of a lens of this description for traveling exhibitors, who hardly ever operate twice under the same circumstances, cannot be over-estimated.

No. 21575 CONDENSING LENSES,  $\frac{1}{4}$  inches in diameter, plano-convex, best imported, perfectly finished, polished and annealed.

It has an iron frame, is well insulated, is made much lighter than the usual forms, and is especially adapted to the use of the traveling exhibitor. The total weight is 5½ pounds.
Price, each.....$5.00

No. 21578 THE STANDARD RHEO-STAT. When using the electric arc lamp on an incandescent or 220-volt circuit, it is necessary to use a more powerful rheostat, for which purpose we offer the Standard; it is provided with new style adjusting lever, by which the light can be gradually increased or decreased, and can also be adjusted for either 110 or 220 volts. For all purposes it is the best rheostat procurable.

No. 21582 SPUN-CONE AND SUB-CONDENSER.

The spun-cone is of much value for attaching to the rear of the Optigraph to prevent the side illumination from escaping between the motion picture machine and the stereopticon. When using electric or calcium light, only the cone should be used; but when using vapor light, both the cone and sub-condenser are necessary, as the sub-condenser makes a much flatter field and more intense illumination.

RADIANTS FOR USE IN ILLUMINATING AND PROJECTING FROM THE STEREOPTICON AND MOVING PICTURE MACHINE.

THE IMPROVED CENTURY PORTABLE CALCIUM LIGHT AND GAS-MAKING OUTFIT for stereopticons and moving picture machines.

The improved Century is the best, the most portable, durable, economical and convenient gas-making outfit on the market.

Showing outfit connected up, ready to attach to stereopticon.

Showing outfit connected up for making gas.

No. 21601 THE IMPROVED CENTURY PORTABLE CALCIUM LIGHT AND GAS-MAKING OUTFIT, complete including steel tank, saturator, retort, wrench and pliers.

Price, complete.....$45.00

The retort can be heated over a stove or a gasoline heater, or over an open fire.

POINTS OF SUPERIORITY.

You can make your own gas at one quarter the regular price.

No danger from punctured rubber bags.

The device is simple, easy to operate, and absolutely safe.

It is compact and portable, not exceeding 80 pounds in weight.

No washers are required, as all joints are ground and faced, and tight at any pressure. Is always connected up, and only requires two connections to be made in generating gas.

This device does away with all unnecessary fittings, nipples, washers, etc.

The advantage of using calcium light, should be well considered. It is clean, easy to handle, economical and reliable. For those who expect to show in small towns and in the country, where electric lights are not used, the calcium light apparatus is indispensable. The calcium light is produced by a combination of oxygen and hydrogen gas; is very white, next in intensity to electric light, produces about 700 candle power, and is the

ONLY OTHER LIGHT THAT CAN BE USED TO ILLUMINATE THE VIEWS FOR MOVING PICTURE MACHINES. . . . .

We have carefully considered all of the light-making apparatus on the market, and have selected one, which we believe, it would be difficult to improve upon. It is extremely simple, having the smallest number of parts possible, but at the same time is thoroughly efficient. The outfit consists of a strong steel tank for storing the gas, a pressure gauge, which shows at all times the pressure of gas contained in the cylinder, a retort in which the chemicals are placed for generating the gas, a filter, through which the gas passes for purification, and before going into the tank, and a saturator for converting a portion of the oxygen gas into hydrogen gas. The chemicals required for producing the oxygen gas are black oxide of manganese and chlorate of potash. These chemicals are heated in the retort, in a stove, open fire or any way convenient which converts them into gas, which passes into the steel tank as fast as generated. The cost of gas for an evening's entertainment is about 35 cents. Complete instructions accompany each outfit, which will enable any one to easily understand and operate it.

THE ECLIPSE PORTABLE CALCIUM LIGHT OUTFIT.

The Eclipse differs from the improved in being smaller, and of somewhat different mechanical construction and finish; it is, however, a thoroughly first class outfit, with all latest improvements, exceedingly portable, durable and perfectly safe. It will generate, and store sufficient gas for any ordinary evening's entertainment.

Shows outfit connected up, ready for stereopticon and case in which it is shipped.

No. 21602 THE ECLIPSE PORTABLE CALCIUM LIGHT AND GAS-MAKING OUTFIT.

Price, complete.....$38.00

REASONS WHY IT IS PREFERABLE FOR THE EXHIBITOR TO HAVE ONE OF THESE GAS-MAKING OUTFITS:

Because it is cheaper. To buy the gas and pay express charges on tanks both ways, will cost from $1.50 to $2.00 for each entertainment; to make your own gas, only about 35 cents.

Because of the delay in shipment or transportation, which so frequently occurs, when gas is purchased in tanks.

Because you can always make your own gas anywhere, and are thus perfectly independent.

If, however, your circumstances are such, that you are for a time compelled to rent gas tanks, we can furnish them at a cost of $6.25 for a pair of tanks, each containing fifty feet of gas. The gas when furnished in this manner, is exceedingly simple and easy to handle.

Shows outfit connected to stereopticon. Stereopticon is not included in price.

The Giant Incandescent Vapor Light.

THE NEWEST.... THE BEST....

FOR THE PROJECTION OF STEREOPTICON PICTURES
THIS LIGHT HAS PRODUCED A COMPLETE REVOLUTION.

THE GIANT INCANDESCENT LIGHT is next to the calcium, the strongest and most brilliant light for projection purposes known, and is about six times stronger than the best form of kerosene illumination.

The apparatus is small, light, perfectly safe, clean to handle, emits no disagreeable odor; is the most economical form of light made and will throw a good clear picture up to ten to twelve feet square with an ordinary quarter size lens.

The entire apparatus, including tank, air pump and burner, weighs about six pounds, and can be carried in an ordinary hand satchel or in the case with the stereopticon. Height to top of burner, only eleven inches.

DESCRIPTION OF THE GIANT INCANDESCENT VAPOR LIGHT.

The basic principle of this lighting apparatus is similar to the Welsbach gas burner, but the gasoline vapor furnishes a much purer hydrogen gas than is used for house illumination, and the high air pressure adds efficiency and makes the flow of gas perfectly steady; it has a mantle made on an entirely new principle, of extra heavy material, especially treated with a chemical preparation of recent discovery.

The arrangement and perfecting of this apparatus and its adoption for magic lantern and stereopticon illumination is the latest work of a well known scientist and expert in this line. To operate the apparatus is extremely simple, in fact, is almost as easy as to use an ordinary gasoline stove.

THE NEW SEROCO GENERATOR WITH DRIP CUP ATTACHMENT AND BEST ACETYLENE BURNER.

While it has been generally conceded, that Acetylene gas provides an almost ideal light for stereopticon work, trouble has sometimes been experienced in keeping a steady light during the entire entertainment, as the gas in generating increases the temperature of the water and more or less steam or vapor is carried into the rubber tube, where it condenses and retards the flow of gas. Various methods have been adopted to overcome this difficulty, but our "drip cup" attachment shown in cut is the only one that has proved entirely satisfactory; any accumulation of water which may form runs at once to the drip cup and the tube is kept free and clear and a brilliant and even flow of gas is the result.

The generator outfit consists of generator, rubber tubing, drip cup and five pounds of carbide in tin. (Burner is not included.)

The light is strong and very simple to operate, the gas is made automatically as used, and an explosion is therefore impossible.

..WHAT IS ## NECESSARY TO SUCCEED.

FIRST AND FOREMOST. Study the work of advertising. Be sure that your advertising matter is judiciously, at the same time, thoroughly distributed. Study the matter of making engagements for your entertainments, how to approach the church or school house committee, entertainment committee, or others with whom you make arrangements for a fixed or guaranteed consideration for your exhibition. If for any reason, you are not as successful in one case as you feel you should be, consider well your mistakes and how they can be bettered, and in the next town, the next committee that you go to see, profit by the experience gained in the former.

Make this your business; study it in every point, in the handling of the outfit, in the delivering of the lecture, the improving of the entertainment from time to time, in the advertising, the arranging for dates, contracting with entertainment committees, managers of halls, churches, school houses, etc.; in your personal conduct, in every way that elicits the interest of people in your proposition, and make the greatest possible success of your undertaking.

Out of a possible one hundred, ninety-nine people trudge along at the same old gait, at the same kind of work. Is it any wonder that their ambition occasionally causes them to give thought to other occupations, and believing that they are capable of a better and far more profitable career, they cast around with a view of finding a different occupation, an opportunity to rise above the common level. Are they encouraged by their friends and even their own family? No. In the same ninety-nine cases out of a possible hundred, they receive nothing but discouragement. He will be told that he cannot succeed, he doesn't understand the business, he cannot learn to understand the business, and his friends and his neighbors throw the sneering blanket of discouragement over the new proposition, the result being that he continues at the same old work, drives the same team or stands back of the same old counter for the sum of $1.50 to $2.00 a day.

From every city comes a few, from every town and community possibly one or two young men, who, in spite of all these conditions, have, with their own strength, brushed aside the opinion of relative, the neighbor, and the sneering friends, and putting their determination, their confidence in all cases into the developing of a new idea, have stepped forward to the greatest success, and among the possible one out of one hundred we have many very successful exhibitors who have purchased our various public exhibition outfits, and to the one out of the one hundred, we have the commercial success to offer.

We ask of the father, encourage your son just a little; we suggest to the mother, just a little word of encouragement to the boy; we advise the relative, the brother, the sister and the friend, not to make too little of the young man's possible first real business idea.

Don't forget it is an idea that may be worth $100.00, possibly $1,000, may be $10,000, there may be $100,000 in this idea. Just a little word of encouragement is necessary at the start. So much good can be done this young man just at the birth of this first business idea. How much harm can be done by perhaps killing the thought, the original idea you may never know. Encourage him just a little, let him at least make a little experiment. The expense will be very slight, the experience will be worth ten times the cost, even if at first he doesn't meet with the greatest of success. His business spirit will not be broken, not be weakened, and even a little discouragement on the start will only kindle in him greater ambition and determination.

The young man, who, seeing our advertisement of public exhibition outfits, either our talking machine exhibition outfit, panorama or moving picture outfit, and is impressed with the thought that possibly he can make a success of this work, writes to us, receives our Public Exhibition Catalogue, reads it through and through, familiarizes himself, as far as possible, with the different entertainment outfits, the different machines, how they are worked, their cost, reads what others have done and are doing, how much money they are making, etc. In this way he becomes interested in the public exhibition proposition. He sees where others, without previous experience, have made big successes, he sees where others, who, with conditions less favorable than his own, perhaps with much less education, perhaps in much poorer territory, or without sufficient means to buy as complete an outfit as he can buy, people who are not fortunate enough to be able to make the same personal appearance, the same ability to address, etc., with all these disadvantages have, with one of our outfits, stepped from a position of almost common drudgery to a position of liberal income and commercial success.

This young man has given this matter a great deal of thought; he has studied the proposition thoroughly; he has studied the different conditions which might tend to discourage and defeat the proposition; he has, by reason of his study, become competent to judge, and his opinion as to what he himself can or cannot do with one of our public exhibition outfits, is worth a thousand times the opinion of the father, the mother, the brother, the sister, the friend, or the neighbor, whose first thought is to discourage the young man, and so we say (and we feel we are perfectly justified in advising; we feel that the proof we have in the thousands who have succeeded is sufficient to warrant us in advising), first to the parents and the family, then the friend and the neighbor, don't judge the proposition too hastily, don't underrate the young man's ability. He may have, and he undoubtedly has, undeveloped ability which is yet to be shown, and it will be shown through his success in this exhibition work if he makes the undertaking and he is now sufficiently confident in his own ability to make the start, and the start will be made if he only gets that much needed word of encouragement from those with whom he feels it at least his duty to counsel.

The Graphophone or Talking Machine

THE PERFECT MUSICAL AND TALKING MACHINE.

TRIED, TESTED AND GUARANTEED.

A PUBLIC ENTERTAINER OF UNRIVALED MERIT AND A MINT OF MONEY FOR THE EXHIBITOR.

USED for public exhibition work, our entertainment outfits described elsewhere, will pay for themselves in from one to three nights and by reason of their simplicity, the ease with which they can be operated, the attractiveness of the programme presented, they are the best and most popular form of outfit for parties desirous of embarking in exhibition work on a comparatively limited capital.

AS A MONEY-MAKER

The Graphophone Has No Equal.

THE GRAPHOPHONE

Is the latest improved, most durable and the loudest of all forms of standard talking machines. Manufactured by the best known firm in that line in the country and fully guaranteed. It is provided with machine-cut gears and all parts are made with a view to strength, durability and ease of motion.

THE MECHANISM

Is as perfect as years of experience and experiment have been able to produce, and there is almost no chance for it to get out of order. It is operated by a spring motor, which runs two records with one winding and has a governor for regulating the speed.

THE AMPLIFYING HORN

Can be used with any of the machines we list in this catalogue and is certainly instrumental in considerably increasing the volume of sound. We list elsewhere a full line of genuine brass horns for use with our Graphophones which not only multiply the sound, but impart a distinctness, purity and rich musical quality not obtained from an ordinary tin horn, nor from the common line of cheap white metal horns, which are really no improvement on a tin horn. See illustration of our magnificent brass amplifying horn on next page.

TAKE ONLY THE BEST.

Our immense experience as the leading and practically the only purveyors of exhibition outfits in the west, the care we devote to the selection of our musical and talking records, our knowledge of the business and our facilities for buying in large quantities, enables us to furnish to our customers, not only the latest and best in this line, but at lower prices than any other concern.

DO NOT DELAY

But order at once. It is an easy matter to make from $5.00 to $25.00 per day with one of our Standard Graphophone Outfits. You can make arrangements by letter or in person with churches and societies to give one or more exhibitions on terms of sharing the proceeds for the use of the house, assistance, etc. Churches, Sunday schools and societies are glad to have some means of giving entertainments, as it enables them to raise money to help pay their expenses.

ALL THE EXHIBITOR HAS TO DO

Is to make his appearance on the evening of the entertainment, place his instrument in position, give the entertainment and take away his share of the cash taken in. For example, suppose that an exhibition is given in a church which will seat about 200 people and the charge for admission is only 15 cents each. This would make the total receipts $30.00, and by giving half for the use of the church, etc., that would leave the exhibitor $15.00 for the evening's work, and six exhibitions a week would amount to $90.00, clear. Think of such an opportunity as this as compared to any other proposition that you know of.

-94-

The amplifying horn can be applied with advantage to any of our talking machines, and will more than double the volume of sound.

WE POSITIVELY GUARANTEE

Our Exhibition Outfits to be exactly as represented and are willing to send the outfits C. O. D., subject to examination, provided $5.00 is sent with the order as a guarantee of good faith; and if they are not found exactly as represented and a wonderful opportunity for making money, the outfit can be returned to us at our expense, and the money sent to us in advance will be refunded.

GET OUT OF THE RUT

Which, perhaps, you are in; where only the most meager returns are repaying your unending labor. Start in a business where the way has been paved and everything prepared by those whose wide business experience enables them to place in your hands an outfit perfect and complete in all respects and ready now to go at once to work. It will seem to you like a new life and a new career, where prosperity comes easy, bringing with it comfort and contentment.

No. 21010 CONCERT EXHIBITION GRAPHOPHONE complete with recording and reproducing diaphragms..... $25.00

OUR CONCERT EXHIBITION GRAPHOPHONE is provided with machine-cut gears, and all parts are made with a view to strength, durability and ease of motion. The instrument sets on a polished nickel plated base, which is mounted on the motor and is propelled by a powerful double spring, which is wound up by a detachable crank and runs five or more pieces with one winding. The motor has a governor and a screw for regulating the speed, which may be governed for fast or slow, as may be desired, and automatic screw for tightening and regulating the belt. The motor box, which forms the base of the instrument, is made of the best seasoned oak, beautifully finished and polished. The machine is provided with a top cover made of quarter-sawed oak, which is attached to the base by safety hooks and has a handle for carrying. The base of the box measures  $7\frac{1}{2} \times 11\frac{1}{2}$  inches; total height, including cover,  $10\frac{1}{2}$  inches.

The Concert Graphophone has recording as well as reproducing diaphragms, so that original records can be made by the owner and afterwards reproduced. This is a very great advantage and invariably a winner for exhibition work.

...THE COLUMBIA GRAND...

Fills the Largest Auditorium <sup>OR CONCERT HALL</sup>

AND NEVER FAILS TO CHARM
ALL WHO HEAR IT . . . .

IT IS THE TALKING MACHINE LONG LOOKED FOR—bringing the singer, the musician, or the orchestra into the audible presence of the listener. Those familiar with other types, but who have never listened to the Graphophone Grand, have no conception of its wonders.

EVEN THOSE WHO ARE FAMILIAR WITH THE WONDERS accomplished by sound reproducing mechanism, on first hearing the Grand, are amazed by the absolute naturalness, the full volume and tone perfection of the reproduced sound which seem almost beyond belief. It is the real sound, resonant and vibrant, and can be heard as far and even farther than the original.

THIS MACHINE WAS ORIGINALLY SOLD BY ALL DEALERS FOR $100.00. Considering its unique character and the marvelous results which can be obtained from it in sound reproduction, the price of $50.00 which we place on it makes the greatest bargain ever offered in Talking Machines.

No. 21050 THE COLUMBIA GRAND. Price.....$50.00

- Handsome Oak Cabinet,
- One Grand Reproducer, guaranteed the loudest and clearest result,
- One New Style or "Perfect" Recorder,
- One Grand Shaving Knife and Adjustable Carriage, to be used with the machine, and
- One Specially Adapted Brass Horn for recording work.

THE MACHINE IS FURNISHED WITH HEAVY SPRING MOTOR, which will last a lifetime. The most careful attention has been paid to every detail, and it is properly described as

THE MOST HANDSOME, MASSIVE AND PERFECTLY FINISHED MUSICAL INSTRUMENT OF THIS DESCRIPTION
EVER FURNISHED. . . . . .

THE SUCCESS OF THE COLUMBIA GRAND has been demonstrated in New York, Washington and Chicago. In some cases, to an audience composed of 2,000 people, with the most satisfactory results, even to those in the remote corners of the hall, the reproduction being heard as loudly and plainly as by those in the front seats.

FOR EXHIBITION WORK ...THE COLUMBIA GRAND...

IS WITHOUT A PEER

NOT ONLY AS A TALKING MACHINE, but in its power of entertaining and amazing an audience, and above all as a money-getter. It cannot at the present time, be equaled by any other entertainment feature now before the public. Consider that this type of machine is something entirely new, something that the people have never seen before; that it so far surpasses all previous efforts in the same direction, that it is only necessary for one to hear it, in order to enthuse and interest every intelligent person in the same locality, city, town or country. There are but few of the Columbia Grands throughout the country, and those only in the largest centers.

AN UNSURPASSED OPPORTUNITY PRESENTS ITSELF to those who are first in the field, of making not only big wages, but a small fortune in an easy, honorable and pleasant manner.

THE RECORDS FURNISHED BY US with these machines are incomparable. Each and every record is personally tested in our own laboratory by our own special expert. They are 1 foot 3½ inches in circumference, and owing to the care exercised in their making and inspection, cannot be equaled elsewhere. Cost of Grand Records has heretofore been $1.50. We have reduced the price to.....$1.00 each

For list of Graphophone Grand Records see pages 110 to 118.

.....OUR COLUMBIA GRAND ENTERTAINMENT OUTFIT.....

No. 21080 IS THE GREATEST WINNER FOR EXHIBITION WORK that we have ever been able to offer to our customers. ### FOR STORE, OFFICE AND COUNTER WORK

No better paying investment can be made than to put a few of these machines into stores and other public places on shares, giving the proprietor of the premises 25 per cent of the receipts, which is customary for his share. The owner of the instruments can go on with his regular duties during the day and he can successfully conduct two different enterprises in this way.

The money there is in it, is demonstrated by the fact that several Talking-Machine Parlors have been running in this city for the past three years, in stores on the best business streets, where they pay a rental of from $125.00 to $500.00 per month for the store only, and still they make big profits. One of the smallest parlors we know of, the proprietor tells us, has made clear for him $3,000.00 per year.

READ WHAT A DRUGGIST IN A SMALL TOWN IN MINNESOTA WRITES:

"Gentlemen:—I consider one of your graphophones, the style I have, a great investment for a drug store. In two months, one machine took in $75.00, and still does a good business, and in addition has been a great drawing card."

OPPORTUNITIES WAIT FOR NO MAN!

MAKES MONEY WITH A GRAPHOPHONE EVERY NIGHT.

Gold Rock, N. C.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen: I received your graphophone and am well pleased with the machine. Everybody says it is the best machine they ever heard. I received the machine on the 15th of April at Battleboro, N. C., and have played it to the people every night since. I make good money every night and I like it so well that I am bound to have more records. Everybody speaks well of you and I know that you will send me a good choice of records.

Yours truly, HENRY P. BRYANT.

ALWAYS SHOWS TO CROWDED HOUSES.

Redfork, Ark.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.

After an extended trip of several weeks with the graphophone outfit ordered from you several months ago, I wish to say I consider it a regular "Klondike" for any young man with only a small capital to begin with. Have been giving exhibitions every night except Sunday and always to crowded houses. Yours truly, HENRY M. CHILDS.

MADE MONEY RAPIDLY.

Hermitage, Va.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.

I am more than pleased with the graphophone and I am doing well enough, but expect to do twice as much business in the near future. I am well pleased and satisfied with the outfit, and think it will pay for itself in less time than I expected. I have had four entertainments in all, and made money rapidly. Yours truly,

RICHARD WASHINGTON.

Coleman City, Texas.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sirs: I write you in regard to the graphophone outfit that I ordered from you about two weeks ago, and can say that it reached here in good shape and is the very finest I have ever heard—and I have heard a great many. I think the outfit is just wonderful and is dirt cheap at that price. I thank you all for your kindness and will order a dozen records in a few days. We will also order the Cuban lecture outfit in about three weeks from date. You may send me circular of the Cuban outfit. The people are wild to hear the Cuban lecture, and I told them all that I would give an entertainment here very soon. I think that I will get crowded houses for two or three nights right here in Coleman, before I start to travel. I remain Yours very truly, JACKSON HUBB.

"LOUDEST I EVER HEARD."

New England, W. Va.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.

The graphophone sent for came all O. K. and it is a daisy. It is the loudest one I ever heard. The people say that its reproduction is louder and clearer than those which cost $60.00. I am more than satisfied with the machine. I made $5.50 in about four hours on the 4th, and I think that is doing pretty well. Yours truly,

WM. H. MEMEL.

•• A Word About Records ••

Records for the graphophone differ somewhat in quality: We handle none but the best made. To give a satisfactory public exhibition, the quality is of the most vital importance, and we insure this to our customers by purchasing only original records made by the leading manufacturers in the world, by paying the highest price and above all by careful selection and by testing every record before shipment and rejecting those not fully up to the highest standard. We guarantee that extraordinary care is taken in the selection and testing, and that no better, clearer or louder records can be purchased anywhere, than those we furnish.

A Few Expressions of Opinion

from our friends, will be of interest in connection with the quality of records furnished by us.

Mr. E. F. Goodwin, of Olympia, Wash.:—

"Your records have given good satisfaction. They are very loud and distinct."

Mr. Samuel Hogan, of North Oxford, Mass.:—

"Your Graphophone is all right and far better than I expected. The records are the same."

Mr. J. P. Morris, of Nevins, Ky.:—

"I like all of your records so far. I ordered twenty records from another firm and they were no good, but all of yours are very plain. Every one praises them. Your records do not have that harsh sound like others."

Mr. E. J. Pink, of Wassiac, N. Y.:—

"The records are at hand and they are fine; so loud and clear."

Mr. Harting, of Lauder, Wyo.:—

"I send you an order for another dozen records; those sent before are the loudest I ever heard."

Of all the musical records made for the Graphophone, the Orchestra Selections are far in advance. They seem especially adapted to Graphophone reproduction, and we believe that almost without exception they are most appreciated by everyone. The beautiful tones of the violins and clarinetes, blended with the piano, cornets, piccolos, trombone, bass viol and other instruments, produce melodies which no other class of band can equal. We pride ourselves on having selected the most superb orchestra records ever made. The character and value of them appeal to the most critical and is plainly demonstrated by the records themselves. Don't fail to include a liberal assortment of these superb orchestra records with your orders.

Complete Exhibition Outfits.

On page 35 of our catalogue, we have already indicated some of the most popular forms of exhibition outfits and have devoted space to a description of the various items included in them. For the convenience of those who do not know what constitutes a complete outfit, and how to figure the exact cost, we will list a few combinations which are complete with the exception of those in which the motion picture machine is included. Where this is the case, it will be necessary to add some films, but the number of films will depend upon other features of the entertainment. For example: A panoramic stereopticon lecture constitutes a complete entertainment of itself, but if it is desired to add the moving picture machine, a few films will also be necessary and it will be found that with such an addition, larger and better paying houses can be secured, and the outfit will naturally be much more profitable.

If the exhibitor does not feel able at first to add a full collection of films, he can begin with a few and add from time to time, as his means will allow and after he begins to make money with his outfit.

Colquhoun, Ontario, Canada.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.

I received your letter and was much pleased with your liberal offer of the Graphophone Grand. You said you would take my Gem machine as a part payment, but I would not part with it. I gave an exhibition last night in our little schoolhouse and took $7.50. I think that is very good for a start and I expect a better crowd tonight. Yours truly,
DELBERT CHILEY.

LEARNED TO OPERATE THE MACHINE IN ONE DAY AND HAS SHOWN SUCCESSFULLY TO THOUSANDS.

Columbus, Ga.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sirs: I have found your Optigraph and Stereopticon to be just as you recommended. I have shown to thousands of people and they have all been well pleased and I am living easy. You are at liberty to publish this in your next catalogue if you wish. The outfit is all right. I learned to operate the machine in one day to perfection. Please send me your catalogue of moving pictures to Atlanta, Ga., at once. I notice you advertise Christ scenes and I want your net prices on same.

Respectfully,

G. E. HAWK.

THE OPTIGRAPH IS PERFECT.

New York, corner 61st St. and Amsterdam Ave.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sirs: I have tried my stereopticon and moving picture machine last night and it proved itself to be a wonder for the price. I must acknowledge, I expected a little trouble with the light as it was the first time for me to see or operate a calcium light, but I had no trouble whatever and the optigraph is perfect. I expected to see a lot of jumping and jerking in the pictures as the price is so small but I must say that if I paid $100.00 for a moving picture machine it could not produce a more perfect motion picture. I am perfectly satisfied with my investment.

I am yours truly,

D. HOFFMAN.

MAKES HIS PARLOR A POPULAR RESORT.

Mineola, Texas.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.

In reply to enclosure I will say that I received the graphophone two days after shipment in perfect condition, and to state it concisely, could not have been better pleased. I did not expect such a beautiful instrument of this kind for the money. I shall purchase new records of you from time to time. The instrument is for home entertainment and my parlor is quite a popular resort for my friends of evenings.

Yours truly,

ANDREW J. BRITTON.

THE HOME MACHINE SCOOPS THEM ALL.

Kentland, Ind.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sirs: I am in receipt of my Home Graphophone outfit and will say it's the finest thing I have ever seen. High or low, big or little, it scoops them all. A friend of mine is bound to have it so I write to find out just what it will cost to replace it.

Respectfully,

ALLEN W. KENOYER

DOING A GOOD BUSINESS.

Colquhoun, Ontario, Canada.

Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Gentlemen: I am doing a good business with my graphophone. People that hear it once, come again, so that I want, and here give you an order for, two dozen new selections. With these records I can give a change of program. Ship promptly, because I have a large hall engaged.

Yours truly,

DELBERT CHILEY.

MACHINE PLAINLY HEARD IN HALL 50 X 100 FEET.

Manitou, Colo.

Messrs. Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Dear Sirs: I received my suit, also the graphophone and records. Everything was all right. I am more than pleased with both the suit and graphophone. I should have written before, but have been too busy playing to my friends. There are several machines in town, some that cost $25.00, but everyone admits mine to be the best they have ever heard. I had the machine in a hall 50x100 feet last evening and every word was plain at any part of the hall. There are three or four talking as though they would like one of your machines, and as I am so will pleased with the courteous manner in which you have used me, I would like to be able to show up my machine in the best possible manner. Thanking you for your courteous treatment in the past and assuring you of future orders, I remain,

Yours respectfully,

C. H. WALLACE.

THE GRAPHOPHONE GRAND.

Truckee, Calif.

Sears, Roebuck & Co.

The Graphophone Grand that you sent me is a grand one, and I am well pleased with it; it is so clear and distinct. There is another one in town, but it does not come up with Sears, Roebuck & Co.'s.

Yours truly,

CHARLES THOMAS,
Proprietor Truckee Soda Works.

GIVES PERFECT SATISFACTION

Jeanerette, Louisiana.

Sears, Roebuck & Co.

I have also tried one of your Gem Graphophone Talking Machines and it gave perfect satisfaction.

Yours truly,

MAKING $7.00 TO $10.00 PER NIGHT.

Cedar Falls, Iowa.

Messrs. Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Dear Sirs: The Gem Graphophone Entertainment Outfit that I purchased from you a year ago was a money-making outfit. I made from $7.00 to $10.00 a night just in the country school houses. I am,

Yours truly,

NELS. B. GRAM.

THE BEST EVER SEEN OR HEARD IN THAT LOCALITY.

Compton, Calif.

Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Dear Sir: I have received the Graphophone Grand Talking Machine, and it is certainly one of the best; in fact, I might say that my graphophone is the best ever seen or heard here. I want to get a Magic Lantern Moving Picture Machine to use with it, and should expect to receive the very best on the market, as nothing else would be satisfactory for my Graphophone Grand.

Yours truly,

BENJ. WALTON.

ENJOYING GOOD RETURNS FROM HIS INVESTMENT.
Dudleytown, Ind.

Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Gentlemen: Owing to negligence I failed to notify you on receiving graphophone and records I ordered of you some time ago. I will say that I am well pleased with it and have been enjoying good returns from my investment.

Yours very truly,

HENRY OSTERMAN.

THE GRAPHOPHONE A HOWLING SUCCESS.

Joliet, Ill.

Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Gentlemen: In reply to your letter will say that the graphophone purchased of you is too truly musical and can be called a "howling" success. I bought this instrument purely for the entertainment of my own family and friends, and it has more than fulfilled my expectations. My little four-year-old girl calls for "Alabama Coon" and "Hot Time" regularly once a day.

Yours truly,

NAT J. ROWELL.

WOULD NOT PART WITH IT AT ANY PRICE.

Kinderhook, N. Y.

Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Gentlemen: I wish to say that I did not purchase the graphophone for exhibition purposes, but for home entertainment. I am very much pleased with it and would not part with it at any price.

Yours very respectfully,

CARL KOLB.

A VERY EASY AND INFALLIBLE WAY TO MAKE MONEY.

Gettysburg, S. Dak.

Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Dear Sirs: I wish to say that with the graphophone I am more than pleased, but when I sent for same I did not intend it for only a home entertainer. But seeing that I live in the country I have not got the advantages that people living in towns or traveling have, but I have been out on a number of occasions, and must say that I met with the most perfect success. I think it a very easy and infallible way of making money. Everyone hearing it (mainly those who have heard others), say that they never heard one talk so plainly.

Yours truly,

FRANK L. KOEPP.

OUR GRAPHOPHONE BETTER THAN ALL THE OTHERS.

Lander, Wyo.

Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Dear Sirs: I can say that I am well pleased with the graphophone which I purchased from you. It has given good satisfaction so far. All who have heard mine say that it is the loudest that they ever heard. There are three other graphophones in this town besides mine, but I am well pleased with it, and all who have heard it say that it is better than the others. I have just sent an order to you for another dozen of records, which I hope you will receive and give prompt attention.

Yours very truly,

HARRY HARTING.

HOW TO ORDER.

Use Our Regular Order Blank. If you have one; if not, use any plain paper. Always keep well supplied with our order blanks, as it is more convenient for you to make out your order on our regular order blanks than in any other way. If out of them at any time, drop us a postal card and we will be pleased to send you some.

Whether you write your order on our regular order blank or letter paper instead, be sure to observe the following instructions:

Always sign your full name (Christian name and surname). Write your name in full, clearly and distinctly.

Give your postoffice, county and state, rural route and your shipping point, if different from the postoffice.

Always give catalogue number in full (write every figure and letter in the catalogue number), description and price of each article ordered.

Always try to mention the number or name of the catalogue or circular from which your order is taken and be sure to give the size, color, weight and measurements when required.

Be sure to enclose your money with your order and state plainly in your order how much money you enclose and in what form. Sending us money in one envelope and your order in another causes delay and confusion in our office, as they become separated in the mails.

Be sure you have allowed our rules carefully about enclosing the proper amount of money with the order, including enough to pay postage if the goods are to be sent by mail, and insurance fee if to be sent by insured mail.

HOW TO SEND MONEY.

Send Us a Postoffice Money Order. express der, bank draft, cash or stamps. Should you send stamps, fold them in waxed paper. We receive many orders with stamps stuck together and worthless. We do not accept revenue stamps, foreign stamps and due stamps, as they are of no value to us. Do not send them.

If you live on a rural route you can just give the letter and the money to the mail carrier and he will get the money order at the postoffice and mail it in the letter for you.

Postage stamps in amounts exceeding $1.00 will be accepted only at a discount of five per cent (5%), or thirty-five cents on the dollar.

If you order an article priced at $2.00 and send stamps, you should send $2.10. If a $3.00 article you should send $3.15 in stamps. We are compelled to dispose of all surplus stamps at a discount of from 2 per cent to 5 per cent and besides there is an extra expense in handling stamps, and our very small profit will not admit of this expense. We advise remitting by postoffice or express money order, but will accept postage stamps in any amount at 95 cents on the dollar. As an accommodation to our customers we will accept postage stamps at the face value in amounts less than $1.00.

OUR GUARANTEE.

Everything that we sell in the way of Optical Projection Machines, Magic Lanterns, Stereopticons, Slides, Films, complete outfits of all kinds, we send out under our positive binding guarantee, under the terms of which any of the goods not proving satisfactory, because of defective material or workmanship, may be returned to us at our expense, and the amount which you paid for the goods will be refunded to you in full, including the money you have paid out for transportation charges. We are the only house selling Optical Projection Apparatus of all kinds upon these terms, and you will realize that this policy upon our part is in itself an assurance that you will get the very best that the market affords, as we could not send out inferior or defective goods under our policy of returning the money in full on any purchases not entirely satisfactory.

After Writing an Order, please compare it with these rules, check it over closely and see if you have written your order correctly.

If you wish to refer to any matter not concerning the order, be sure to write it on a separate sheet. Do not write it on your order sheet, though you may enclose it in the same envelope with your order.

Our orders and letters are handled in separate and distinct departments, and we ask you, therefore, please do not fail to observe this rule.

Always try to write remarks concerning your order on the same sheet with the order. This will prevent the possibility of any remarks or instructions being separated from the order. Should you have occasion to write us concerning an order which you have already sent us, do not fail to mention the date on which your letter was mailed, also state the nature and value of your remittance and the name and address as given in your order. This information will enable us to promptly locate the matter you refer to.

Should you change your address, please notify us, being sure to give old as well as new address in full.

We recommend the postoffice and express money order systems, because they are inexpensive, of less trouble and safe. Besides this, if the money order should get lost or misrouted, your loss will be a small one.

Do not, under any circumstances, send money or stamps in a letter except by registered mail. If sent by open mail the letter may never reach us, and in such a case a great amount of trouble and inconvenience is caused, as well as the loss you sustain. If you wish to remit by registered mail, we advise the use of two envelopes.

One inside the other, and the other one carefully and securely sealed.

Do not send gold or silver coin that is defaced. Gold coins are worth no more than bullion, and bullion is less value of the coin.

To Insure Safety always register a letter containing money. Be sure to state in your order plainly how much cash you enclose and in what form. You need not be afraid of sending too much, as we always refund when too much money is sent.

OUR LIBERAL TERMS.

We have no Discounts; we sell for cash only, and the prices quoted in this catalogue are absolutely net, from which there is no discount whatever. Our prices are alike to one and all, regardless of the amount of the order; the same to the merchant, retailer or showman. We especially request that you send in the full amount of cash with your order, for this is always more satisfactory than to send part of the money, the balance to be paid C. O. D., and understand, when you send us your order and money, we accept your money and your order and ship the goods to you with the understanding and agreement that if they are not perfectly satisfactory because of defective material or workmanship, you are at liberty to return any part or all of them to us, at our expense, and we will immediately return your money, together with any freight or express charges paid by you. We do not sell on the instalment plan. Our prices are based on factory cost with only our one small percentage of profit added.

CONCERNING C. O. D. SHIPMENTS.

We Feel. In the interest of our customers, we should advise against ordering any goods sent either by freight or express C. O. D., subject to examination, for such shipments are accounted both at this end and at the point of delivery with more or less complications. If it is an express shipment, you must not only pay the express charges on the goods, but you must also pay an extra charge for collecting the amount of the C. O. D., and returning it to us, an extra charge which you do not have to pay when you send cash in full with the order.

If the Order for Goods is forwarded by freight, it is still more inconvenient, for the reason that the shipment must be addressed to ourselves and the C. O. D., or collection we must send by express. You must then go to the express office and pay the C. O. D. to the express agent and in addition to this balance due us, the express agent will make a charge usually of 25 to 40 cents for collecting the money. The C. O. D. must be paid before the railway agent can deliver the goods to you, which we have shipped. This usually means a delay and annoyance, which can be entirely done away with if the full amount of money is sent with the order. You do not lose anything by sending us your money, as you are at liberty to return the goods to us, at our expense, if they are not perfectly satisfactory, and we will immediately return your money, together with any transportation charges you may have paid. The sending of the full amount of cash with the order gives you an added advantage, in that you can take the goods home, examine them carefully and try them, which you cannot do when shipped C. O. D.

AMUSEMENT FOR PROFIT.

In Presenting this Catalogue

we feel that we are directing attention to a business in which the opportunity for gain is sufficient to satisfy anyone of reasonable ambitions, while the investment required is such as to place it within the reach of those of moderate means, and the percentage of operating expense is extremely small; a business in which one without previous experience may engage with assurance of success, and with reasonable diligence and care make it the means of lifting himself from the bonds of a salaried position, and of establishing himself in a profitable business of his own, which may be continued indefinitely, or he may make it the stepping-stone to the realization of other ambitions. A feature of great importance to the man of real business instincts, and very much to the credit of this business, is the fact that the earnings may be retained in money, instead of being tied up in a stock of merchandise, which is constantly changing style and becoming out of date owing to later improvements, thus making the holdings of constantly depreciating and very uncertain value, as might be the case if engaging in the merchandise business.

A stereopticon or motion picture outfit, with a choice selection of views covering a good subject, furnishes a form of amusement that is patronized not alone by the theatre-goer, but meets with the hearty approval of the church-goer as well, which broadens the field into an almost boundless comprehension, and when properly handled, the business is sure to bring profitable returns.

It is Easy to Learn to Operate the Instruments.

Mysterious as they may seem, they are far from it. In the first place we have done everything possible to simplify and make more practical the instruments and apparatus required, and in the second place, we have endeavored to leave nothing undone in the line of printed instructions, contained in our "Instruction Book and Business Guide," which in addition to much other valuable information, describes in plainest language all about how to operate and care for the instruments. So plain have these instructions been made by discerning and otherwise, that anyone of ordinary intelligence will have no difficulty in successfully following them.

The motion picture and stereopticon exhibition business may be properly divided into three classes, viz.: Traveling Exhibition work, the Nickel Theatre, and Street Advertising.

The Traveling Exhibitor usually shows a combination of stereopticon views with motion pictures, and travels from town to town or from place to place, stopping one or more nights in a place, and showing in theatres, churches, lodge halls and school houses, vacant stores, or in a specially constructed motion picture tent. This line of work may be considered, as some have done, and very successfully too, within a radius of fifty to one hundred miles from one's own home, and by providing new subjects from time to time, go over and over the same ground where if he gives a good entertainment, he will be welcomed for return engagements with increased attendance. Others prefer to extend their travels to considerable distances, while some few of the more successful ones confine their operations to a few of the large cities, and he small number have combined this business with traveling for their health.

With Nearly 200,000 Churches, over 8,000 schools, 10,389 towns of over five thousand, 604 cities of over twenty-five hundred, 161 of over twenty-five thousand, 78 of over fifty thousand, and 28 with over one hundred thousand population in the United States, it is apparent that any one exhibitor can cover but a very small corner of it, and that he need have no fear of being crowded by competition. (The above figures were taken from the census of 1900-1901 and 1902.)

SEARS, ROEBUCK & CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

Competition is Light, in this line owing to the fact that the business seems to most people to be mysterious and difficult; and also to the fact that, as a rule, these enterprises are started by those without previous experience, but who have had the courage to procure an outfit and plunge in. We may state with positiveness, however, that those who have been the most successful in this line are men that have served no apprenticeship, but who were fortunate in possessing sufficient self-confidence, and determination to be willing to undertake without a teacher, something which they had not done before.

Great Advantages have, however, by our efforts, been placed within reach of those who wish to engage in this line of business. Only a short time ago when a party wished to engage in this business, all that he could secure of the dealer would be his instruments, lantern slides, films and in many instances not even a descriptive reading, and he was unable to get anything more than the most meagre instructions for the operating of the instruments. In these matters we have worked a revolution. With great care and diligence we have prepared a complete "Instruction Book and

GENERAL INFORMATION.

What Constitutes an Outfit, and what kind of an outfit should I have? are usually among the first questions that appeal to the mind of those who are considering this line of business for the first time. As the business is divided, as we have stated before, into three separate and distinct classes, it will be necessary, in order to answer the question, to treat each one separately.

The Traveling Outfit should consist of a Stereopticon, Motion Picture Machine, instruments and apparatus for illumination, a good selection of Stereopticon and Motion Picture Views covering some interest subject, a quantity of Advertising Posters, Admission Tickets, Printing Outfit for filling in dates, etc., on the posters, and an "Instruction Book and Business Guide." Some who are considering the business get the impression, owing to the importance of motion pictures, that the exhibition should consist of nothing else. Such a belief, however, is a mistake, unless it should be the intention to give five or ten cent shows in a tent or vacant store at short intervals throughout the afternoon and evening, in which case the selection of the outfit would not come under this heading. To the regular traveling exhibitor who shows in theatres, lodge halls, churches, school houses, etc., giving a full evening's entertainment, stereopticon views are indispensable. In the first place scenic views can be shown with the stereopticon with all the detail and colors of nature, and as they are free from movement, they are restful to the eyes. By showing at intervals, say after every fifth or tenth stereopticon view, a motion picture of such scenes as show considerable action, the entertainment is brought to the highest standard, a fact which is evidenced by the programmes of the acknowledged leaders in this line. A full evening's entertainment composed of motion pictures would be a thing to the eyes, while a mixed entertainment is not. Many exhibitors use illustrated songs in combination with stereopticon and motion picture entertainment. The songs may be rendered by a vocalist (local talent can often be had for a nominal sum) or by a talking machine as the pictures are being shown. An auxiliary of this kind constitutes a very nice diversion. While a combination of motion picture and stereopticon views is always advisable, and much more profitable, it is not absolutely necessary. Where the means at hand are not sufficient for the purchase of a combined outfit, many have started with a stereopticon outfit alone and have quickly earned the money necessary to add the motion picture outfit. The illumination best adapted to the requirements of the Business Guide," a book that not only tells how to manage the instruments, but also tells all about how to start and conduct the business, how to make arrangements for the use of halls and churches, what would be considered a fair share for the use of the same, how to get the advertising posters, circulars, etc., distributed and posted, tickets sold in advance, the use of complimentary tickets to secure influence and assistance, how to do newspaper advertising, and renders much other necessary assistance to the inexperienced.

Large Advertising Posters that are illustrated with attractive cuts, constitute another one of the great accomplishments we have brought about for the benefit of the beginner. With a complete outfit we furnish a quantity of large illustrated advertising posters which if he were to undertake to duplicate for his individual use would, alone, in some instances, cost twice the price of the complete exhibition outfit. By producing these posters in quantities, we are able to furnish not only sufficient posters to last for a considerable length of time, but also a quantity of admission tickets and other accessories that we include with the outfit without additional charges.

traveling exhibitor is the calcium light. While electricity may be used to advantage where connections may be had, the calcium light may be depended upon under all conditions. Except when in the vicinity of large cities, the Enterprise Portable Calcium Gas Outfit will be found almost indispensable. The Sun Rival, Gasoline Vapor, Vapo Search Light and Acetylene are also being extensively used by traveling exhibitors, usually where only stereopticon views are shown.

The Nickel Theatre Outfit is different. In this case the requirements would consist of a Motion Picture Machine complete, a screen or curtain on which to project the pictures, and a number of cheap chairs or benches on which to seat the audience. Such an outfit may be had at a cost of about $85.00 exclusive of chairs. If chairs are used, the cost would be about 50 cents each. Advertising for a show of this kind is usually confined to a display in front of the store, but occasionally includes newspaper notices.

A Street Advertising Outfit may consist of either a Stereopticon with illuminant and Screen, and a suitable collection of Advertising Slides, or it may be a combination of both Stereopticon and Motion Picture Mechanism with Illuminant and Screen, and both stereopticon and motion picture views.

Owing to the long distance that pictures must be projected, we would advise the use of nothing cheaper than the Enterprise Stereopticon, and the largest size lenses. When the stereopticon is operated with electric light and does not include the motion picture mechanism, the cost of an outfit would be about $88.00. When the motion picture mechanism is included it would be about $125.00. Electric arc light is most generally used for street advertising work. Where electric connections cannot be conveniently had, calcium light is the next best and the only other suitable light for the purpose.

Illuminants, Relative Merits of. In the selection of the illuminant for the motion picture outfit, there are eight different kinds to consider, all of which are named in the order of their strength or intensity, as follows: Electric Arc, Calcium or Lime Light, Sun Rival Gasoline Vapor, Vapo Search Light (uses alcohol), Acetylene, Incandescent Electric, Weisbach Gas, and Kerosene Oil.

The Electric Arc is the strongest of any of the illuminants and will under favorable conditions develop about 1350 candle power (candle power is measured by a comparison of the illuminant in question with the standard sperm candle). Electric Arc Light, by reason of its great strength is a little better for motion pictures, but it is not so good for stereopticon views as calcium light.

While most theatres, halls, churches, etc., where public exhibitions could be given, are wired for electricity, there are some that are not.

Calcium Light is, without question, more generally used by the most progressive exhibitors than any other form of illumination for optical projection work. While for motion picture work, there is a little stronger, experts in stereopticon work prefer calcium light, owing to its being a softer and more mellow light, which gives a more natural appearance to the pictures. When used at its maximum efficiency Calcium Light will produce illumination, the intensity of which is within about 15 per cent of that given by electric light when used under average conditions.

The Sun Rival Gasoline Vapor Light and the Vapo Search Light may be considered in one class. They are well adapted for stereopticon work, and have been very large sellers owing both to their portability and cheapness of operation. The cost of operating the Sun Rival is about 1c per hour, and of the Vapo Search Light about 8c per hour exclusive of mantles. They produce about 300 candle power, and will illuminate a stereopticon view up to ten or twelve feet in diameter. While we do not recommend the Sun Rival or Vapo Search Light for motion picture work, they have been used for such when showing small pictures of six or seven feet in diameter, in small halls and where the exhibitor was not able at the start to provide himself with a stronger illuminant. These illuminants are especially well adapted to the requirements of churches, Sunday schools, secret societies, day schools, etc. They are exceedingly simple and easy to handle, and there are no dirty chemicals of any kind to soil the hands or clothing.

Acetylene is a well-known, convenient, and economical illuminant. The outfit is light and portable and is very simple to operate. The cost of operating it is about 10c per hour, and it produces about 250 candle power, which is only a little less than that produced by the Sun Rival or Vapo Search Light.

Incandescent Electric Light will produce from 50 to 100 candle power, depending upon the type of bulb used, and is especially suitable to the requirements of secret societies, churches, schools, Sunday schools, etc., and also for home use.

Weisbach Gas Light produces about 100 candle power, which is about equal to the best incandescent electric, and it is suitable for the same purposes.

Kerosene Oil Light produces about 85 candle power. Many years ago it was used very extensively as an illuminant for stereopticon work, but since the introduction of so many stronger and more convenient exhibits, it has the added objection of being difficult to transport without the oil leaking out and saturating everything else that is packed with it.

Selection of the Subject to be illustrated is one of the greatest importance. In order to meet with abundant success it is necessary to illustrate some-entertainment after seeing the advertisement. In this we have departed from a custom established many years ago by dealers in this slides of various subjects, nine-tenths of which would be of little interest to the public. We have confined our attention to only such subjects as will be of greatest interest to the public, and which we know to be of quite a variety that they will bring success to the exhibitor. There is no reason to suppose that the prospective exhibitor select a subject which he thinks would harmonize best with his own ideas, and by so doing he can put forth his best efforts. We will be pleased to give further advice on this subject when desired.

Additional Information covering details in the selection of the outfit will be found in the introductory headings which precede the different instruments and apparatus, and a list of complete outfits will be found on other pages. Any further information which may be desired will be cheerfully furnished.

Our Special Outfits are offered at a little less than individual articles, first, because we can handle a big order proportionately cheaper than we can handle a small one, and second, because it is to our interest to get people started on the view of their future patronage, we can afford to sacrifice a little get a customer started that they could afford to continue to spend on the same customer.

A careful comparison of our catalogue, and our prices and values with those of other houses, should convince you that our prices are right, that we are offering you greater values than you can get elsewhere, and that you will get fair and just treatment if your orders are placed with us.

We do not Handle Second Hand Goods.

While we are aware of the fact that occasionally a bargain may be had, in nine cases out of ten, or probably ninety-nine out of a hundred, the goods have been discarded by their original owner for reasons that are perfectly sufficient to warrant the rejection of them by any other prospective purchaser.

This Catalogue is New and up to date. It is complete with everything that is required for this line of business. All of the instruments, apparatus and supplies are of the very latest design, a large number of them having made their first appearance on the market with this issue of our catalogue. Remember we are thoroughly familiar with every line of goods that is on the market, and we have always made it a point to advise and recommend only the best. If the exhibitor is to make the best of his chosen profession, he must be equipped with good instruments and apparatus. While the opportunity for profitable investment in this line is unusual, one who would start in, handicapped with instruments of poor quality may be well-liked unto the man who, even though a good swimmer, would undertake to swim a river with a stone tied to his neck.

It is our aim to treat our patrons as we would like to be treated if we were in their place, to furnish them with the best quality of goods obtainable, at the smallest margin of profit. We endeavor to fill all orders with promptness and dispatch, and, as a rule, it is only on such slides or films that are made to order that there need be any delay. If you have not already started in this business, we ask you to read this book fully and carefully and give it the consideration that it deserves, and if there is anything that you are unable to understand, or any further information that you would like to have, we beg of you to feel that we will consider it a privilege to answer your inquiries. If you are already engaged in the line we court an opportunity to convince you that we can handle your orders in a way that will merit your future patronage. At least we trust you will be good enough to let us hear from you.

THE MOTION PICTURE MACHINE

THE MOTION PICTURE MACHINE.

The projection of pictures in motion is probably one of the greatest and most wonderful of modern achievements. By its use it is possible to make a complete photographic record of every motion of any object which is before the camera, and with the aid of the Motion Picture Machine and powerful condensed light these same motions may be reproduced as many times as desired, the pictures being shown in large size with all the motions, as natural as life. By this means records of past events may be viewed by thousands of people thus giving them a correct impression of the entire performance as it originally occurred.

To illustrate more clearly we will describe an amusing incident as it would be shown in a theatre, church or hall. The house is darkened, and as the lens of the Motion Picture Machine is uncovered there seems to open before the audience a huge window. Through this window they see the rear of a house inclosed by a solid baked pie on it. A tramp comes along, sees the pie, climbs over the fence, takes the pie and starts away with it. Just as the tramp is climbing over the fence with the pie a bull-dog grabs him by the trousers and prevents his escape. For some moments neither one seems to make any headway but finally the dog gets the best of it, brings the tramp to the ground; the lady comes out with a broom and between the broom and the dog they make it lively for the tramp.

Every motion is so clearly and distinctly recorded that the audience will almost forget that it is but a picture which is before them.

This is but one of the thousands of realistic and intensely interesting pictures which may be brought before the public, enabling them to view, through the magic windows of the Motion Picture Machine, events which have happened in all parts of the world.

Our list includes an immense variety; from the humorous to the tragic and from the sublime to the ridiculous. It includes such funny events as that already described, war scenes, both land and naval scenes from the rural districts, such as harvesting and other events; all kinds of scenes from the busy metropolitan cities; scenes from foreign lands, etc.

The optical principle of the motion picture machine is the same as that of the stereopticon, only that the pictures for the motion picture machine appear on a transparent film, and pass before the lenses in rapid succession.

The film is a long transparent celluloid tape  $1\frac{1}{2}$  inches wide. (See introduction to Motion Picture Films) the length varying with the duration of the scene that is being illustrated. On the film is a series of photographs about  $\frac{1}{4} \times 1$  inch, taken at the rate of from fifteen to twenty per second, and to produce the animated movements, the films are moved past the projecting lenses at the same rate of speed, with a fractional stop between each picture. On a film one hundred feet in length there is a series of about 1,600 separate and distinct photographs, each one slightly different from the other. From the beginning to the end of the film all the movements will be recorded that have been exhibited before the camera at the time the picture was taken. For each subject that is to be illustrated, a separate film is necessary.

For the production of motion pictures, the indispensable elements are a source of illumination, "A" condensing lenses, "B" for gathering and condensing the light rays, and passing them through the picture on the film "F" to the objective lenses "EF" of the motion picture machine, where it is magnified and projected on the screen "G" where the pictures are displayed. The machine must be provided with a mechanism for intermittently moving the film so that each successive picture in its turn appears before the objective lenses, and an automatic shutter to successively cut off the illumination while each picture is being moved to place. What is called "persistence of vision" is depended upon for the blending of one picture with each succeeding one. The motion picture machine must also have a means of framing the picture, by which is meant bringing the picture to a position that will accurately register its margin with the edge of the light opening in the machine.

It must also be provided with satisfactory reeling mechanism for unwinding and winding up the film as it passes through the machine. Objective lenses of the highest standard of quality are an indispensable element to high grade motion picture work. Owing to the small size of the picture on the film, which measures only about  $\frac{1}{4} \times 1$  inch, great magnifying power is required to produce a picture of the required size on the screen, and as the detail of the picture on the film is very small, nothing but a first-class lens will reproduce it accurately. All of this and many other requirements are necessary to the production of a satisfactory motion picture machine.

In the new Model Optigraph No. 4 Model 1907 we have endeavored to provide every possible requirement in the way of adjustments and conveniences that will contribute to the highest grade of motion picture work, and to the comfort and satisfaction of the operator. We invite your most careful investigation of the New Optigraph, as we believe it to be the best motion picture machine to be had, and are pleased to recommend it as the best to all those who are considering this line of work.

The Optigraph Model No. 3½
Motion Picture Machine.

The Model No. 3½ Optigraph Motion Picture Mechanism is an improvement for 1900 on the Model No. 3 of which it is safe to say there have been more sold than of all other Motion Picture Machines combined. The improvements for 1900 consist of 1st. A Special Screw Reel Clamp and new type of reel. Its object is to clamp the reel firmly on the reel shaft, and let the belt slip when the reel is taking up the film instead of depending on the reel to slip on the shaft. The new arrangement is much better adapted to the handling of the longer films.

2nd. The Grooves in the reel spindle have been dispensed with. 3rd. Separable Reels in the larger sizes (8 and 10 inch) which enables the operator to get along with one reel instead of having a separate reel for each roll of film.

4th. A Longer Crank Handle, which measures  $\frac{1}{4}$  inches from corner of main shaft to center of handle while the handle for the Model No. 3 measured only  $\frac{1}{8}$  inch and the large ball on the No. 3½ measures  $\frac{1}{2}$  inches in diameter where the No. 3 measured only  $\frac{1}{4}$  inch.

5th. The Thumb Nut of the lens focusing pinion has diamond knurling same as on the reel thumb nut and instead of the diagonal knurling as on the No. 3.

6th. The Model No. 3½ is stamped on the lower corner of the front plate "MODEL NO. 3½" 1900.

The Optigraph No. 3½ will run the films backwards as well as forwards. This feature not only adds a very novel and amusing feature to the entertainment, but is an economical feature, as it enables the exhibitor to give a longer show with the same amount of film.

The No. 3½ has the limited framing device the same as the No. 3.

For Steady Pictures the Optigraph always has and still leads.

The vital parts are constructed with the greatest accuracy and precision and are so arranged as to give the best possible results.

Absence of Noise is a feature of great advantage in the Optigraph over any other machine. There is absolutely no other machine that so approaches the Optigraph in this regard, and it is a feature that is very greatly appreciated by the exhibitor of experience.

For Workmanship and Durability the Optigraph is not approached by any other machine. It is made of the finest materials; and throughout is constructed by the highest class of mechanics, and no pains or expense has been spared to make it as nearly perfect as possible.

Its Light Weight, Simplicity and Portability makes it especially adapted to the requirements of the travelling exhibitor who finds it a great advantage to make his outfit as light and compact as possible.

LENSES.

The Size of Picture that can be projected with the Optigraph is unlimited and depends entirely on the distance which the machine is set from the screen.

No. 1 Lens is called a medium angle or focus and will project a picture 10 feet in diameter when set at about 45 feet from the screen.

No. 2 Lens is called the wide angle or short focus, and will project a picture 10 feet in diameter at about 25 feet from the screen.

No. 3 Lens is called the narrow angle or long focus, and will project a picture 10 feet in diameter at about 60 feet from the screen.

Any other sizes of pictures may be projected with any of the above lenses by varying the distance between the machine and the screen.

No. 31F1950 Price, With Stereopticon, Lenses, and the Optigraph (Model No. 3½) $64.00
Runs the Films either Backwards or Forwards.

While thousands of exhibitors testify to the merits of the Optigraph No. 3½ Motion Picture Machine, we recommend our No. 4 Model, 1907, as being worth more than the difference in price.

Has handle 1½ inches from center to crank handle, and the new separable reel with screw clamp.

PATENTED IN THE UNITED STATES AND ENGLAND.

This attachment was designed to fill the requirements of those who prefer to have their films wound up as they pass through the machine instead of running them into a bag, box or basket. It is constructed on the same plan as the upper reel, except that it has a feeding sprocket to relieve the strain from the intermittent motion of the main sprocket wheel. It also has a sprocket wheel which is to be attached to the shaft of the upper feeding sprocket wheel, and a chain for connecting the two.

This attachment may be attached to any No. 3 and 3½ Improved Optigraph by simply removing the bolt which clamps the Optigraph to the upright post.

More Optigraphs sold than all other Motion Picture Machines Combined

The Forty Reasons .... WHY .... THE NEW OPTIGRAPH No. 4

Is the Best Motion Picture Machine
Will be Found on the Following Pages.

No. 1 New Framing Device is a most important feature and one which places the New Optigraph No. 4 a long distance in advance of other machines, in that the shutter does not change position with relation to the "optical axis" of the lens while framing the picture, as in other machines. The film may be placed in the machine without any consideration of the relation of the pictures to the "light opening" or "optical axis of the lens," and when started in motion the picture may be instantly framed with the greatest ease and exactness, and without sacrificing the correct relationship of the shutter to the lens and light opening.

Note:—By "Framing" is meant the act of shifting the film to make the margin of the picture coincide with the margin of the light opening in the machine.

No. 2 The Optigraph No. 4 mechanism is a "Universal" machine, in that it is equally adapted to use with a regular motion picture lamp house, or with a single, double or triple dissolving stereopticon. The Optigraph possesses the distinction of being the first machine designed for such purpose.

No. 3 It has Universal Sprocket Wheels, adapted to use any and all makes of standard gauge film, and so designed and proportioned as to cause the least possible wear on the films, and thus prolongs their life to the maximum, with the result that where the machine is used a great deal it may save its cost from once to twice a year in saving on films. The width of standard gauge motion picture film is one and three-eighths inches.

No. 4 Steady Pictures is the one feature above all others that stands for superiority in a motion picture machine, and in this accomplishment we are proud to be able to say, "the Optigraph No. 4 holds first place." Accurate workmanship, design and some special features of Optigraph construction are responsible for this most important advantage.

No. 5 Reversing the Film, or running it backward can be done safely with no machine other than the Optigraph, because, to run a film backward requires certain features of construction that are not found in other machines. By the judicious use of the backward movement of films, many ludicrous and very laughable effects may be produced, and many short films may be prolonged to more than twice their original length. Imagine horses going backward at full gallop, people running backward, articles or people jumping upward from the ground to the top of a wagon, divers coming from the water feet first, alight on a spring board and run backward and a thousand other ludicrous, unnatural and very humorous happenings. To produce reverse effects with other machines it is necessary to have films made by "reverse printing" which unites them for any use other than the reverse or backward movement.

No. 6 Absence of Noise is another great advantage in favor of the Optigraph. This important accomplishment is the result of a class of material and special arrangement of parts not to be found in other machines. With the Optigraph it is not necessary to keep a piano, orchestra or other musical instruments going to cover the noise while showing the motion pictures.

No. 7 The Improved Automatic Take Up Attachment has geared connection (no chains), is smooth running and positive in its action; may be quickly attached and detached at will, and has a substantial support bar; detachable head, is well made of the best materials, is light in weight, yet durable and always dependable.

No. 8 A Detachable Spring Actuated Rail Crank Handle forms a part of no machine other than the Optigraph No. 4. By its use there coming off and on the machine by reason of the handle accidentally starting detached for safety during transportation.

No. 9 The Framing Handle may be instantly folded to a place of entire safety without the use of screw driver or thumb screws, a feature which is a very great advantage when packing the machine for transportation. This feature is found in no other machine.

No. 10 The Compound Changeable Speed Rewind Reel Head belongs to the Optigraph and to no other machine. By its use films can be quickly rewound and without fatigue. It has two speeds; a fast reel will come large.

No. 11 It Has High Grade Lenses, without which no machine can project good pictures. A high grade lens must have large glasses to prevent loss of light, but large glasses require the greatest care and accuracy of workmanship in order to get a sharp and uniform picture. The lenses of the Optigraph No. 4 gives the maximum of illumination finished by an expert in optical projection lens work. We claim them to be far superior to other so-called high grade lenses.

No. 12 Choice of Lenses Without Extra Cost is an important advantage to be enjoyed by the purchaser of a No. 4 Optigraph. Other makers furnish only lenses of certain focus with machines, at prices quoted. One lens is included with every Optigraph No. 4 and the purchaser may have his choice of either No. 1, 2 or 3.

No. 13 Interchangeable Lens Cells is responsible for a Great Economy in lens purchases. By their use only one lens body is required and that is the best that can be made. Different sizes of pictures screen by simply changing the cells in the lens. The cells are all marked with numbers to avoid the possibility of mistakes in selection.

No. 14 A Wide Range in Size of Pictures may be accomplished by the use of the Optigraph interchangeable lens cells, which enables the operator to locate his machine in any part of the hall that is most moving one pair of cells from the lens body, and substituting those of another number a picture of a different size may be obtained.

No. 15 The New Style Spiral Lens Body with triple bead knurled focusing band is absolutely unapproached for ease and accuracy in focusing, convenience, neatness of design and finish. The casing is finished in a rich yellow Egyptian lacquer, the focusing band and lens tube are nickel plated and the cells are finished in black most artistic effect. This new style lens mount is a very marked improvement over the old style "rack and pinion" focus movement, and lenses can be had only with the Optigraph No. 4.

No. 16 Improved Film Pressure Springs make it possible to apply a uniform pressure to the film, to keep it at all points in perfect focus and perform a function in the production of steady pictures that cannot be done with the ordinary springs in general use.

No. 17 The Separable Reels make it unnecessary to carry a reel for each roll of film. The reels may be changed almost instantly, on and off a single reel, thus affording an advantage not alone in the way of economy but in making the outfit lighter and more compact for transportation. The reels are made of strong material and are lightened as much as is practicable by large perforations.

No. 18 Improved Reel Clamps which clamp the reels securely on the reel spindle are a means of imparting positive and steady movement to the film reels and at the same time of preventing them from accidentally tearing the film or of slipping off the spindle.

No. 19 Fire Proof Film Magazines that may be quickly attached to detached from the reel heads, afford a means of protecting the films from accident in case of neglect on the part of the operator. The film passes through a roller trap which will instantly extinguish a flame.

No. 20 Solid Steel Reel Arms and Solid Brass Reel Heads mean no breakage, hence a great improvement over the brittle, cast iron parts used for the same purpose on other machines.

No. 21 The Reel Heads are Separable from the reel arms by a simply turning a thumb set screw, which is considered a great convenience for packing.

No. 22 The Cylindrical Shutter is an Optigraph invention, and being entirely enclosed it is free from accidental breakage, a source of much annoyance to operators who use other machines. This shutter is double acting and is the only type of shutter that gives uniform exposure. It is quick in its action because it opens and closes from both the pictures delightfully smooth and pleasant to the eye.

No. 23 Two Pressure Rollers for holding the film against the sprocket wheel, insure good contact of the film with the sprocket teeth, hence a positive feed, and no tearing of film by reason of not enough teeth engaging.

No. 24 Adjustable Tension is provided for the pressure roller frames which enables the operator to use any amount of tension he finds necessary.

No. 25 The Eccentric Stops for the pressure roller frames prevent excessive pressure and wear on both the feeding sprockets and the film, as well as on other parts of the machine. It may be so adjusted that the rollers will barely touch the film, still the frame will be maintained by a strong tension against the eccentric stop.

No. 26 The Spring Door Stop holds the door where it is wanted, either open or shut.

No. 27 The Heat Arrestor Disc protects the film, door, springs, etc., from excessive heating while the machine is in operation.

No. 28 Absence of Friction on the picture prevents the disagreeable vertical streaks called rain; also the flashing of light spots, both of which are due to pictures coming in contact with the metal parts or rollers of the machine. In the Optigraph every possibility of that nature has been eliminated. In other machines it has not.

No. 29 The Improved "Vise-Grip" Sliding Base is distinctly an Optigraph product and there is nothing like it that forms a part of any other machine. It holds the machine as firm and solid as if in a vise and is one of the means of preventing unsteady pictures that are so disagreeable and tiresome to the eyes.

No. 30 Interchangeable Parts affords a great convenience to the operator, for in case of accidental breakage of any part, a new part may be had from stock to take its place.

No. 31 Simplicity is a very strong point in favor of any machine, for the more simple it is the easier it is to operate; the less liable it is to get out of order, and the easier it is to repair in case it does get out of order. On this point the Optigraph always has held first place, and still maintains its well-earned reputation.

No. 32 A Compact Machine is a great convenience to the traveling exhibitor, because every inch and every pound of additional baggage is that much additional burden. The Optigraph is exceedingly compact and instead of having most of the working parts exposed to accident, they are contained on the inside of the machine. The dimensions of the No. 4 Optigraph are as follows: Height from bottom of round base to top of body 8 1/2 inches; to upper reel arbor, 12 1/2 inches; to center of light opening 5 1/2 inches (when on the sliding base about 4 to 7 inches). Length, from heat arrester disc to front of crank from center to handle, 3 inches. Width of round base, 5 1/2 inches. Length and width of Sliding Base 8 1/2 x 5 inches. Diameter of lens tube, 1 1/2 inches. Swing of Sliding Base 5 1/2 inches. Arc of lens tube, 1 1/2 inches; length, 9 inches; width, 5 inches.

No. 33 The Weight of the Mechanism No. 4 without take up is 12 pounds; take up device, 2 1/2 pounds; Sliding Base, 2 1/2 but 9 pounds; take up device, 2 1/2 pounds; Arc lamp, rheostat, knife switch and stereopticon lens, 2 1/2 pounds. Arc lamp, rheostat, knife switch and stereopticon lens, 2 1/2 pounds. Some manufacturers have made a desperate effort to convince the buyer that a very heavy machine is necessary for accuracy and durability, but this is not only untrue and absurd, but is positively an imposition, because it is absolutely impossible to make a large, heavy machine do as accurate work as a smaller one. Then, too, owing to the rapid, intermittent motion the wear and tear is greater on the heavy machine. If this is not a fact, why is it that a watchmaker does not use a machinist's engine lathe for making parts of watches? And why have bicycle makers discontinued the 60 pound wheels and are making 20 to 25 pound wheels instead? There is but one foot of film between the reel and the intermittent sprocket wheel; one foot of film is but 1 1/2 inches, the thickness about 1/16 of an inch and the weight per foot is less than 1/2 of an ounce and that is all which the machine has to propel except to revolve the reels. Ordinary cast iron and other low grade materials that are so strong and will wear so well, are used liberally on the heavier machines. The exact opposite is true of the Optigraph. It is lighter than any other machine of its class, and its accuracy, rigidity and durability and that is the Optigraph No. 4. It is neither the heaviest nor the lightest machine, but is just right.

No. 34 Capacity There is no class of motion picture work that is so difficult for the Optigraph. In many instances, on very difficult work, it has been placed in competition with other machines and has been given the preference, owing to the fact that it was the only one that was equal to the requirements.

No. 35 Economy may be installed in several ways by the purchase of an Optigraph motion picture machine, viz: 1st. The first chance of the machine is from one-half to two-thirds the price asked for other machines of anywhere near equal quality. 2nd. The saving on other machines of anywhere near equal quality. 3rd. The saving on the price of films in a single year may amount to two or three times the price of the machine. 4th. The saving on excessive baggage and cartage may be fully equal to the preceding item. 5th. Probably nothing will be required for repairs, but if any, the vital parts may be had at much less than the prices charged by others for similar parts.

No. 36 The Best Material is none too good for the construction of a machine from which so much is expected, and in the Optigraph it is none but the best is used. Where others use cast iron, similar parts in the Optigraph are made of steel or brass; where others use the cheap grade of steel, but little above the quality of iron, the best of tool steel at fifteen times the cost is used in the Optigraph, and we trust the prospective purchaser will take due account of these important matters, before placing his order.

No. 37 Workmanship is only one of the many points that are prominently conspicuous to one who knows, and on this point we invite the most careful comparison with other machines. The Optigraph is made in a shop that is thoroughly equipped, not with the ordinary machine shop machinery, but with the best class of machinery that is designed only for fine work. The many special tools and machines are made and the manufacturing is done, by men who have had a life-long training on the finer class of work.

No. 38 Durability is a vital point on which the Optigraph holds first place. If the parts are to retain their delicate adjustments which are absolutely essential to the projection of steady pictures, they must be accurately made and of the best material, which means durability. The Optigraph is made of the best material, which means durability.

No. 39 The Artistic Design and Finish of the Optigraph has always distinguished it from other machines and the new 1907 model, No. 4, has taken a long step in advance of any of the other Optigraph productions. The frame and Sliding Base are finished in black enamel with gold striping and ornaments, while the reel heads, arms, roller frames, gears, balance wheel and other small parts are nickel plated and polished and the reels are white nickel-plated.

No. 40 The Number of Optigraphs Sold has probably been greater than of all other motion picture machines combined, which we believe is the best of evidence that the buyers and users of motion picture machines agree with us as to the merit of the "40 Reasons" WHY YOU SHOULD BUY THE OPTIGRAPH No. 4 MOTION PICTURE MACHINE in preference to any other.

Remember that the "Basic Principles" that form the foundation of the Optigraph were fully covered many years ago by United States patents, and that many patents covering important Optigraph improvements have been added since that time. Thus it can be seen that the later day inventor is very much handicapped, and must sacrifice vital requirements in his effort to avoid the prior patents which belong to the Optigraph, or he must lay both himself and the user liable to prosecution for infringement.

NO. 4 TAKE UP ATTACHMENT
For the New Optigraph No. 4
Model 1907
MOTION PICTURE MACHINE

This attachment was designed to fill the requirements of those who prefer to have their films rolled up on a reel as they pass through the machine instead of running them into a bag, box or other receptacle. It is constructed on the same plan as the upper reel, except that it has the free sprocket on the reel arm instead of being on the body of the machine.

The No. 4 Take Up Attachment has a geared connection with the main part of the machine and is held in place by a bolt and thumb nut which form a part of the device. The geared connection is positive in its action and will not catch or bind as in chain-driven mechanisms. A metal strap attached by a thumb screw to the upper part of the main frame of the Optigraph serves as a rigid support and relieves the belt of any unnecessary strain.

The attachment may be instantly attached or detached by the manipulation of two thumb screws.

This attachment is intended for use only with the No. 4 Optigraph and cannot be used with the No. 3 1/2 Optigraph.

Note: The compound rewind is intended to be used on the upper reel arm, but where the Optigraph has been ordered with plain reel head and it is desired to add both "Take Up" and the "Compound Rewind" they may be ordered in combination, then the two reel heads may be interchanged, placing the Compound Rewind on the top arm.

THE COMPOUND REWIND REEL HEAD.

For the
New OPTIGRAPH No. 4 Model
1907

The object of this attachment is to furnish a convenient means of rewinding the films after they have been run through the machine. This attachment is patented and possesses two very great advantages over anything ever devised for a similar purpose. First, it has two speeds, one which gives three revolutions of the reel to one of the handle and is used for winding short films and for the first half of long films of 800 to 1,000 feet or more. The other speed gives one revolution of the reel to one of the handle and is used for the last half of the long films.

The second improvement is, that instead of using a short handle as is customary on other rewrites that form a part of a motion picture machine, the main crank handle from the body of the machine is used which prevents fatigue even where the machine is in constant use as in "continuous show" motion picture work.

The handle may be quickly attached and detached by pressing a catch bolt.

FIREPROOF MAGAZINES
Another Important Optigraph Improvement for 1907

The object of these magazines is to provide protection to the film while in use in case, through carelessness of the operator, the film should become ignited. The magazines are made of strong sheet metal, are spun to shape, corrugated to give strength, are neat and artistic in both finish and design. Being circular in form, they conform to the shape of the reels, hence there is no waste space, or superfluous weight, and they are much more artistic, also more convenient than if made square.

Each magazine is equipped with a "Trap" consisting of a pair of rollers through which the film passes to and from the machine. As these rollers are held in contact by spring tension, the film cannot burn beyond the point where it passes between them. The cover of the magazine is provided with spring catches to hold it in place.

The magazine is mounted on a metal spider which fits on to the reel head and is held in position by screws. But a few moments are required to attach or detach the magazines from the reel heads. The magazines are interchangeable with both the upper and lower reel heads.

MOTION PICTURE MECHANISM AND VISE GRIP SLIDING BASE

In Combination with The Enterprise Double Dissolving Stereopticon.

A highly successful and economic arrangement for showing motion pictures and lantern views. With this combination, stereopticon views may be dissolved at will and but a moment is required to change to motion pictures. With the single lantern in combination with the motion picture machine, lantern views may be quickly and artistically changed by the use of the rapid slide changer which accompanies the lantern. The Base Boards listed below are 25 inches in length which is too long to be packed into our regular lantern carrying case. Where it is desired to carry it in the case the joined board should be ordered in which case add $1.00 to the price quoted with plain board.

MOTION PICTURE OBJECTIVE LENSES.

The Motion Picture Objective serves the same purpose for the motion picture machine as the stereopticon lens does for the stereopticon, and is constructed after the same general plan, but owing to the fact that the enlargement for motion pictures must be many times greater than for stereopticon pictures, the requirements are proportionately more exacting. The picture of a motion picture film measures little less than 1/4 of an inch by 1 inch, while the picture portion of a lantern slide view is a little less than 3 1/4 by 3 inches. From this it will be seen that the magnifying power of the motion picture lens must be three times greater to produce the same size picture on the screen, and it naturally follows that in order to secure satisfactory results the lens must be made with the greatest possible degree of accuracy, in order to secure sharp detail, and depth of focus, both of which are absolutely necessary to the production of good pictures.

In our "Roco Special" Motion Picture Lens we have endeavored to leave nothing undone that would contribute to the best results. The lens has been designed by an expert in this line; one who has devoted himself to this line of work ever since the introduction of motion pictures. Every stage of the manufacture is conducted by the most thorough mechanics who have had long experience in this line of work, and from the lens glasses to the mountings every piece and part represents the best in both material and workmanship.

In the planning of this new line of Motion Picture lenses, our action has been the same as on our new line of stereopticon lenses; viz., a radical departure from the old system of measurements, and the adoption of a new system that is suited to the requirements and in keeping with the rapid progress in this line of work. Instead of giving them numbers, or names which means nothing, we have designated each lens by its equivalent focus in inches, which means the distance between the motion picture film and a point between the two sets of lens glasses at which the light rays cross, this point being usually a little in front of the dividing line between the two lens cells. The following table gives the approximate size of picture projected by the different lenses at varying distances from the screen. The upper figures represent the height of the picture on the screen, while the lower figures represent the width. The figures in the left hand column represent the focal length of the Motion Picture lenses, while the figures in the right hand column represent the focal length of the stereopticon lens best adapted to match the motion picture lenses in the respective horizontal columns:

Our Way of matching Motion Pictures with Stereopticon views is shown in the diagram herewith. The solid line represents the margin of the Motion Picture view, while the dotted line represents the margin of the Stereopticon view. These proportions result in a harmonious and pleasing effect that is entirely absent in any other arrangement. Some dealers and exhibitors match to the sides and disregard the top and bottom. Our table of comparative sizes have been calculated on the proportions shown in the diagram and unless otherwise instructed we will fill orders accordingly.

A Special Feature of the "Roco Special" motion picture lens, and one of very great convenience and economy, is the interchangeable lens cells, by the use of which it is unnecessary to have anything more than one mount. By purchasing additional pairs of lens cells for the various foci, they may be interchanged in the lens mount to produce the sized picture desired. When using lenses of longer focus it is necessary to extend the lens mount further from the body of the machine, and for this purpose we provide what we call extension collars, each of which is designated by the length of focus of the lens.

For the new "Roco Special" Motion Picture lens we have designed an entirely new mount in which a knurled ring that encircles the mount, working in spiral grooves, is used for focusing instead of the old-fashioned rack and pinion, which is not only cumbersome and awkward, but constantly exposed to accidents in transportation. The spiral focusing device is in keeping with the progress demanded in this line. It is artistic in design, and provided with the finest adjustment for focusing. The lens barrel and focusing ring are nickel-plated; the lens cells are enamelled in black; the lens body is finished in Egyptian bronze lacquer. The combination makes a very pretty and harmonious contrast.

The Value of a Stereopticon depends upon the quality of its lenses and upon its arrangement for convenience in accomplishing the various adjustments with ease and speed, and retaining them after they are secured. Our stereopticons are built with a view of affording very modern convenience and of securing every adjustment desired with the greatest possible speed and ease, and of contributing in every possible way to the comfort and convenience of the operator.

THE CHAMPION..... MAGIC LANTERN

THE BEST, MOST CONVENIENT and EFFICIENT
MAGIC LANTERN MADE FOR THE MONEY

This instrument has been designed to meet the demand for a low-priced, portable, light and convenient Magic Lantern for illustrating songs and for Church, School, Lodge, Scientific, Home and other work, where the purchaser feels that the purpose will not justify the purchase of a higher priced instrument.

THE CHAMPION MAGIC LANTERN

Is strong and well made, has fine quality Condensing and Projection Lenses, rack and pinion for focusing, uses either short, medium, or long focus lenses, has nickel-plated slide rods and tubes, and black bellows, and while it is not so well finished as our Enterprise Lantern, it is well-proportioned, artistic in appearance, does good work, and is much better value than can be had elsewhere for the same or more money.

THE LAMP HOUSE

Is made of planished steel, and is of good size, which permits the use of either the Sun, Rival, Acetylene Gas, Calcium or Electric Light. This universal feature is very desirable, as no change is necessary other than a burner if a change of light is desired.

THE CHAMPION MAGIC LANTERN is so arranged that two or more of them may be used in series, one on top of the other, for dissolving work, and as they are all of the same construction, any one of them may be used for either top or bottom.

When two or more Champion Lanterns are ordered at the same time the attachments for connecting them are included without cost, but when ordered one at a time the connections are not included, and cost extra.

A DOUBLE SLIDE CARRIER,

Made of polished hard wood, and so arranged as to enable the operator to instantly change and center the views, will be included with each lantern without charge.

THE ENTERPRISE SINGLE STEREOPTICON

Is Used in Our Special Exhibition Outfits and is the ACKNOWLEDGED LEADER IN OPTICAL LANTERNS!

MODEL 1906

Patented in the United States and Canada.

The above view shows the Objective Lens Door closed and in position to show Stereopticon Views.

THE "ENTERPRISE" has all the adjustments required for high class stereopticon work, is equipped with the latest improvements, possesses many important advantages over others, is the most artistic in design, the best finished and absolutely the best Stereopticon on the market, a fact that is amply evidenced by the sales, which we believe are greater than of all other stereopticons combined, and it is sold for less money than other instruments of far less value.

Foremost Among the Advantages to be found in this instrument and in no other, is the "Patented Objective Lens Door," which especially adapts the "Enterprise" lantern to use in combination with a Motion Picture Machine, and is of great additional advantage in that it affords a quick means of attaching or detaching the lens, and for examination of or cleaning the lenses.

The New Vise Grip Clamps for the telescope tubes and rods are infallible in firmly securing the fixed and movable parts and constitute a valuable and important improvement for 1906. Operators who have experienced the perplexing difficulty of having the fixed parts slip out of place, or the adjustments stick fast when attempting to set up their instruments will appreciate the merit of our new system of clamps which insures the perfect working and adjustment of all the parts.

system of clamps which insures the perfect working and adjustment of all the parts.

Both of these valuable features are illustrated in the cut on the preceding page which shows a partial view of the side of the Stereopticon. The clamp "A" shown in the rear of the cut shows the method of securing the main frame in place on the telescope tubes. The casting is slitted with a saw and drawn together round the tube by two screws which hold it as firmly as if in a vise and yet it does not in any way cramp or interfere with the easy and perfect working of the rods in the tubes which is the case with lanterns so constructed that the clamping screws press directly against the tubes.

The New Pin Button lens door latch illustrated herewith marks another important 1906 improvement. The new latch is attached to the frame of the Stereopticon instead of to the door as in the last years model and is the means of furnishing a perfectly rigid and always dependable means of holding the door in a closed position.

When Motion Pictures are to be combined with Stereopticon views, the "Enterprise" will be found invaluable owing to its special adaptation to this class of work. The "Sliding Attachment" or "Sliding Base" for the Motion Picture Machine may be attached at any time by means of screws. By the addition of the Motion Picture Machine in this manner, the change from stereopticon views to motion pictures and vice versa may be made almost instantly.

The Universal Lamp House affords a great advantage to the traveling exhibitor in that it is large and roomy, and any form of illumination may be used by simply changing the burner. It is made of the best grade of planished steel and is well ventilated.

Dissolving Views, which constitute the highest art in Stereopticon Projection work, may be produced with the most perfect results by adding at any time the upper "Enterprise" Stereopticon as listed and further described on the following page.

Objective Lenses of any kind may be used on the "Enterprise" Stereopticon and the bellows are of sufficiently long draw to accommodate them.

MODEL 1906

date them. Unless otherwise instructed we will furnish lens door with opening to accommodate the largest size lens ordered, in which case adapting or reducing rings as listed on another page will be required for the use of lenses of smaller barrel.

SEARS, ROEBUCK & CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

The Eccentric Collar at "B" is attached to the front end of the telescopic tubes and with the thumb screw "C" affords a rigid and dependable means of clamping the telescopic rods in the tabs to maintain the proper bellows extension.

The Condensing Lenses are of the best quality, are 4 1/4 inches in diameter and are mounted in nickel plated telescopic mounts of such construction as insures the maximum of utility and convenience.

Adjustments and Finish. The rough adjustment for focus is accomplished by the extension of the flexible bellows and the telescopic rods sliding within the frame tubes. The slide changer is held in place by two springs and two top adjusting screws which are secured in adjustment by check nuts. All parts are made interchangeable and duplicates may be had at any time. All metal parts except the lamp house are polished and nickel plated and the combination with the dark red bellows and the dark lamp house makes a pretty and harmonious contrast.

Stereopticon Made

The Enterprise is especially arranged for convenience in showing dissolving views, which is the highest art in stereopticon exhibition work. For the benefit of those who are not familiar with stereopticon work we will explain that dissolving effects are produced by having two different views, one in each stereopticon, and gradually turning the illumination from one stereopticon to the other, so that while one view gradually fades away, the other grows brighter, until the one picture is not visible on the screen, and the other has developed to full brilliancy. In this manner the screen on which the pictures are shown is never blank, but shows a picture throughout the entire exhibition.

The Enterprise Double Stereopticon is composed of two single stereopticons, the same as described on the preceding page, except that the upper one is made somewhat different so as to be attached to the lower one and is not provided with a swiveling objective lens door. The lower stereopticon is adapted for the attachment of the Optigraph Motion Picture Machine which may be added at any time.

Objective Lenses for the Stereopticon.

The Stereopticon Objective is composed of a series of glasses of proper refractive power and curvature, set in a brass tube mounting, and is located on the front of the Lantern or Stereopticon, for the purpose of projecting the picture to the screen by means of the light rays, which have been gathered and concentrated by the condensing lenses.

In principle the Stereopticon Objective is the same as the photographic lens, and the work it does is the same, only that in projection work, the conditions are reversed; the image originating in the stereopticon, and being projected out of it to the screen. The name Objective, is derived from "Object Glass," a name applied to photographic lenses many years ago.

In a good stereopticon objective there are several indispensable requirements, namely, sharply defined detail in the pictures, called definition, and depth of focus, the result of which is sometimes called flatness of field. The definition depends.

First, on the correctness of the scientific formula (or plan) of the lenses, that is the relationship of the curves of the several elements of glass one to the other.

Second, the selection of glasses of the proper refractive power. Third, on the degree of perfection to which the workmen have followed the formula. Fourth, on the perfection of the polishing, and fifth, on the care used in mounting them.

By depth of focus, is meant the arrangement necessary to overcome the tendency on the part of a lens to focus sharply at a given point, which does not allow sufficient latitude to overcome the spherical plane of focus. A lens which has insufficient depth of focus, will project a picture which may possess sharp detail in the middle, while around the edges it will be indistinct, or vice versa, depending upon the adjustment. A lens with sufficient depth of focus, will project a picture possessing equally good detail both at the edges and the center. To have sufficient depth of focus, a lens must be made after the proper formula, and be well finished.

Stereopticon Objective lenses have always been styled as 1/4, 1/2, 3/4, 1, 1 1/2, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 10, 12, 15, 20, 25, 30, 40, 50, 60, 70, 80, 100, 120, 150, 200, 250, 300, 400, 500, 600, 800, 1000, ## THE "MODEL B" ENTERPRISE Calcium Light Outfit

THE LATEST VICTORY OF SCIENCE

Makes Its Own Gas, but Requires No Forced Pressure, No Hot Retort, No Furnace, No Hot Water, No Heat of Any Kind. No Gases in Wrong Place. Causes No Disappointments, No Failures, No Delays, No Accidents. No Freight, Express, Cartage, or Excess Baggage Bills. No Disappointments Owing to Delays in Transit, or Illuminating Apparatus Going Astray as when Using Cylinders or Old Style Outfits.

A CHILD CAN USE IT WITH PERFECT SAFETY,
AND ITS WEIGHT IS BUT 35 POUNDS (including the Case)

It Makes PURE Oxygen Gas (Others only 85 Per Cent). It is Positive. It is Automatic. It Makes Gas as Used. You may Charge it Five Minutes or Twenty Four Hours in Advance. Stop Using Gas, It Stops Making. No Waste of Chemicals, as it May be Charged for any Length of Entertainment Desired. Gives Over 700 Candle Power. Light as strong as from Compressed Gases in Cylinders, and Stronger than Produced by Other Portable Gas Making Outfits.

Calcium Light is produced by burning in combination, the proper proportion of Oxygen and Hydrogen gases, both of which are generated in the Enterprise outfit. The Oxygen Gas is generated from either one of the New Oxygen Chemical Compounds, called "Oxylithe" and "Oxone" which are made by recently patented processes, and are put up in sealed tin boxes, weighing about 2½ pounds. These chemicals generate Oxygen Gas when brought into contact with water with which the tanks are partly filled. The Hydrogen Gas is produced by the vaporizing of Sulphuric Ether, or 88 grade refined Gasoline. Calcium Light, (sometimes called Oxy-Hydrogen) is the only all-around satisfactory light for high-class Stereopticon and Motion Picture exhibitions, and no traveling exhibitor who desires to give a first-class show to large audiences, at good prices, can afford to be without it.

All who have examined the Enterprise agree that it is the only satisfactory outfit for producing Calcium Light, and that its use adds much to both the pleasure and the profit.

.....DIRECTIONS.....

Remove the cover from the Oxygen Tank, put a number of cakes of the Oxygen Compound in the holder, replace the cover, attach the stand pipe and upper tank, pour in water, charge the saturator with a quantity of Ether or 88° grade Gasoline, connect the rubber tubes to the Calcium Jet (burner) and all is ready.

THE SATURATOR for generating hydrogen gas is of a new and improved design having a patented arrangement of saturating compartments, which are filled with a specially prepared absorbent and non-deteriorating material. A very important feature of this Saturator is its Condensing Jacket which serves a double purpose. It takes the moisture from the Oxygen Gas-dry gas being necessary for a steady light—and at the same time conducts the heat from the warm Oxygen Gas to the Ether or Gasoline contained in the Saturator, which stimulates vaporization.

A Screw Cap on the bottom makes it possible, in case the Saturator should become clogged with non-volatile residue, to very quickly and easily change the filling, and give the one that was in use ample exposure and time to dry.

Complete instructions, that tell all about the operation and care of the outfit, attaching it to the Stereopticon or Magic Lantern, etc., accompanies each outfit.

Dissolving Views, which represent the highest attainment in the art of Stereopticon Projection, as further referred to on another page under the title of Single and Double Enterprise Stereopticons, may be shown with the most perfect results with the Model B Calcium Gas Outfit in combination with a Double Stereopticon, and the regular Low Pressure Dissolving Key as shown in the illustration herewith. When ordering for dissolving work two extra pieces of tubing should be ordered with the dissolving key, to make the additional connections required.

THE TANKS of the Model B Outfit are each drawn from a single piece of the very best sheet steel and are without seams, rivets or solder, which are frequently the causes of leakage. Both tanks are coated, inside and out, with porcelain, which renders them positively proof against the action of chemicals, easy to keep clean, free from rust or corrosion, and practically indestructible.

The entire outfit is constructed on scientific principles, is made of the very best materials, and by the most skilled workmen. The top of the oxygen tank is ornamented by a neat design of relief scroll work. The fittings including the Saturator, Stand Pipe, Oxygen Tank Top, Hand, Clamp Screws, Cocks, etc. ARE HEAVILY NICKEL PLATED, and the whole presents an unusually Rich and Artistic Appearance.

The Oxygen Tank is 6x15 inches, and the height of outfit complete, set up for use, is 45 inches. The dimensions of the carrying case is 10x10x34 inches, and the weight of the complete outfit in case is about 35 pounds.

The Model B Calcium Gas Outfit possesses the very great advantage of being always at hand, and that the exhibitor can always depend on having a supply of pure gases on a few minutes' notice which cannot be said of the compressed gases in steel tanks, owing to the unreliability of the railroads and other transportation companies who often fail to get goods to destination on time, or through mistake ship them to the wrong place, to say nothing of occasional disappointments from breakage or mistake in estimating quantity on hand. While an Electric Arc Lamp is a good thing to have, electric connections cannot always be had, because very often the hall or church in which the exhibition is to be given may not have been wired for electricity.

If you wish to know more about this outfit, or there's anything you don't understand, write us for further particulars, specify what you wish to know, and we'll be pleased to give the information desired.

WE POSITIVELY GUARANTEE every outfit to be exactly as represented, and should any outfit be found otherwise we will cheerfully refund the money.

WE CANNOT SAY ENOUGH

For the merits of this Outfit, as all who have used it say that it will revolutionize the business, and is everything that could be wished for.

One box of oxygen compound and about ¼ of a pound of Ether or Gasoline is sufficient for an entertainment of over one and one-half hours, with a jet of medium bore.

IMPORTANT—Our Improved Perfect Combustion "Non-Pop" Calcium Jets will be found a great advantage and should be used with this outfit.

Ether is a little more expensive, but we recommend its use in preference to the gasoline, as the additional expense is a very small consideration. It gives better results, may be carried in small quantity, and it can be had of almost any druggist, while gasoline of the 88 refined grade can be had only from the large cities, and must be shipped by freight. 88° GASOLINE MUST NOT BE USED. See 88 test gasoline listed on another page.

OXONE TWO VICTORIES OXYLITHE OF SCIENCE

That are of inestimable value and furnish a much needed and long sought convenience to The Optical Projectionist. By Simply Bringing Either one of these new chemicals into contact with water in the same manner as when producing acetylene gas from calcic carbide, they will generate almost

CALCIUM OR LIME LIGHT

CALCIUM LIGHT has always been the favorite and main dependence of the optical projectionist even in the bygone days when it has been necessary to procure the gases ready made in high pressure steel tanks, or to make it with the old-fashioned, portable outfit in which chemicals, consisting of black oxide of manganese and potash, were converted to gas by placing the heavy iron retort into a stove or furnace and heating it red hot.

BUT HOW DIFFERENT NOW

All that is required is to place Oxylithe or Oxone in the basket of the Enterprise Model B Calcium Gas Outfit, pour in water, put a few ounces of ether or 88° test gasoline into the saturator and

YOUR GASES ARE READY

OXYLITHE AND OXONE are both made from practically the same combination of chemicals, but Oxylithe is made in France and the chemicals are compressed into cakes, while Oxone is made in the United States and the chemicals are fused into cakes by the electrolytic process.

The Oxone cakes differ from the Oxylithe in that they are much harder, a little lighter and do not break or crumble in shipment. The Oxylithe cakes are completely consumed in the making of the gas while the Oxone leaves some residue. Both chemicals are put up in sealed tin boxes, the Oxylithe weighing about 2½ pounds and the Oxone about 2½ pounds per box. Either chemical will produce approximately six cubic feet of 90 per cent Pure Oxygen Gas which is equal in illuminating power to between seven and eight feet of tank or chlorate gas owing to the 15 per cent of impurities in the latter which are non-combustible, and reduce the intensity of the illumination in greater proportion.

One box of either Oxylithe or Oxone will produce gas enough for an exhibition of over one and one-half hours when using a jet of medium bore.

NOTHING IS GAINED as some suppose by high pressure on the gases. While the maximum pressure of gases stored in steel tanks is 250 pounds, it is well known that the gas may be used to the last pound with equal results, as the pressure actually required at the tip of the jet does not exceed one pound. The Enterprise Model B Calcium Gas Outfit gives a uniform pressure of about 6 pounds to the square inch.

As to the Relative Merits of Oxylithe and Oxone, We Recommend Both Try Both and Be Your Own Judge

The Sun Rival.... Hydro Carbon Vapor Gas Outfit

The Sun Rival, Hydro Carbon Vapor Gas Outfit consists of a strong steel tank for containing gasoline and air, a gauge for indicating the air pressure, a powerful foot pump for supplying the air to the tank, a generator for converting the gasoline into vapor gas, a burner adapted to receive a mantle, a specially-prepared mantle and a long flexible metal tube for connecting the burner with the tank. For operation the tank is supplied with about two quarts of ordinary stove gasoline and the balance of the space is reserved for air pressure which should be pumped up to about 40 pounds pressure. With the filter bulb about a spoonful of gasoline is placed in the generator cup and lighted to start the generator. When the generator is sufficiently heated the burner is lighted by opening the generator needle valve. One pumping of air is usually sufficient for an entire exhibition.

The Generator of the Sun Rival Outfit is of special construction, the result of much investigation and experimental work and has been so perfected that it insures perfect vaporization of the gasoline, which in the form of vapor gas passes through the mixing chamber where it combines with the necessary quantity of air to insure perfect combustion when burned on the mantle.

The Mantles are specially prepared for this class of work, being charged with several times the usual amount of the "Oxide of Thorium" which together with the forced pressure gives an illumination about three times the power of the ordinary incandescent Welsbach gas light, a little stronger than acetylene and about one-third the strength of Calcium light.

Ordinary mantles that may be purchased in almost any town, will serve the purpose in case of an emergency, but will not be found satisfactory for regular work as they will not give any where near so much illumination as the special-prepared mantles. The mantles may be transported with perfect safety before being burned, and will last for some time if carefully used, but after having been once used they are fragile.

The Sun Rival Outfit furnishes a steady and brilliant white light of about 300 candle power at a cost of about one cent per hour and will illuminate a stereopticon picture up to 12 feet in diameter or Motion Picture up to 6 or 7 feet in diameter, but is not recommended for motion pictures.

Convenience. The tank measures but 5x13 inches and the entire outfit weighs only nine pounds. It is so simple that a child can operate it and is free from danger of any kind. The tank is tested to three times the amount of pressure that is required for use. Owing to the compactness and portability this outfit is especially adapted to the requirements of certain classes of public exhibitors, secret societies, churches, Sunday schools, day school teachers etc.

Pressure Gauge No. 2

Pressure Gauge No. 2, for indicating both the pounds pressure and cubic feet in 12x48 cylinders. Price, each, $6.00.

Pressure Gauge No. 3, for indicating the pounds pressure and cubic feet in cylinders 12x30, 12x42 and 12x48. Price, each, $6.00.

Pressure Gauge.

To those who use gases from cylinders, a Pressure Gauge is a very necessary instrument. The operator should always know before beginning an entertainment, that his cylinders contain sufficient gas to see him safely through.

Otherwise he might be subjected to the humbug of having to dismiss his audience abruptly, owing to a deficiency of gas. The pressure gauge is also valuable for measuring the amount of gas received from the calcium light companies, to see that full measure is received.

No. 21F2250 Pressure Gauge No. 1, for indicating the pounds pressure only, Price, each, $4.00.

No. 21F2250 Pressure Gauge No. 3, for indicating the pounds pressure and cubic feet in cylinders 12x30, 12x42 and 12x48. Price, each, $6.00.

Improved Calcium Light Jets.

While calcium light, by reason of its great efficiency, reliability, portability, and convenience, has in the past, been the leader in illuminants and a most faithful servant to the optical projectionist, recent developments in the line of patented improved calcium jets promise to expand its field of usefulness to a wonderful and unexpected degree.

In this catalogue is listed, for the first time in the history of the optical projection business, a line of improved calcium light jets, which for efficiency, reliability, convenience and artistic merit, is nothing short of a revelation in several ways. There is probably not possible to bring about greater results in the way of better pictures improvement has been taken full advantage of, and radical departures have been made from the stereotyped, awkward jets to which the public have been accustomed in the past, and our new line is as must be plainly recognized by any one who will take the pains to compare our line with the jets of other makers.

Foremost among the improvements embodied in our new line of calcium jets, is the patented "Non-Pop" nozzle, which is furnished in two forms, either of the "Non-Pop" nozzle, which is furnished in greater efficiency, positively prevents popping at the jet, which is especially annoying and happens more frequently when using gas may be used, thus obtaining the maximum illumination without the possibility of popping or other unsatisfactory results. While either of our "Non-Pop" nozzles is a phenomenal improvement over the other types of jets, the Cone type of "Non-Pop" nozzle is to be preferred, by reason of the advantages gained in its form of construction. Both of these "Non-Pop" nozzles are fully protected by U. S. patents applied for, and infringers on these rights will be vigorously prosecuted.

Pressure Gauge No. 3

Another radical departure in our line of jets is the "turned ball" type of mountings, in which form they take a better finish, are easier to keep clean and with their well proportioned and symmetrical arrangement are neat and artistic beyond description.

Prominent among the new features is that every one of our new jets is made with the assistance of very expensive specially made jigs and tools, that are true to the thousandth part of an inch, and by the use of these invaluable accessories, instead of depending on ordinary workmen to be uniform, to work smoothly, easily and with certainty.

Other important improvements are the screw adjustment, the perfect mixing chamber for mixing the gases, needle valves instead of stop cocks, tubular bearings on the cross heads and the off-set nipples, none of which improvements are to be found in any other line of jets.

The "Togo" Calcium Jet is without question the best low-priced jet on the market. While it is not equipped with the "Non-Pop" Nozzle, a mixing chamber and other found in the "Roco Special" and "Roco Premier" it is well made, has the ball type of mountings and is nickel plated.

No. 21F2170 The "Togo" Calcium Jet No. 1 without lime turner. Price, each, $4.00.

No. 21F2172 The "Togo" Calcium Jet No. 2, with lime turner. Price, each, $5.00.

The "Roco Special" Calcium Jets, are intended to take the place of the "Togo" jets, and are a very great improvement over the "Togo" jet formerly used. It has two tubes running its entire length, has the ball strong and rigid, and is full nickel plated. Nos. 2 and 3 are provided with a single hole of larger bore.

No. 21F2175 The "Roco Special" Calcium Jet No. 1, with lime turner and plain single hole nozzle. Each, $7.00.

No. 21F2176 The "Roco Special" Calcium Jet No. 2, with lime turner, tube mixer, and patent "Multi Non Pop" Nozzle. Each, $8.00.

No. 21F2177 The "Roco Special" Calcium Jet No. 3, with lime turner, tube mixer, patent "Multi Non Pop" Nozzle and cocks. Each, $9.00.

"Roco Premier" Calcium Jet.

No. D

The "Roco Premier" represents the highest degree of development and the most perfect calcium jet ever produced. It has every practical convenience and adjustment necessary to the greatest possible efficiency. The most prominent feature in this jet is the "Cone Non-Pop" nozzle which absolutely prevents popping, and at the same time affords better combustion, hence greater experienced exhibitors. Different sizes of cones makes it possible to regulate the quantity of gas to suit individual requirements. The consumption of gas per hour with Cone No. 1 is about three feet, No. 2 about four feet, and No. 3 about six feet. Larger sizes made to order.

Unless otherwise ordered we will furnish the No. 2 cone. A feature of great value in this jet is the Perfection Mixing Chamber, an arrangement which insures the perfect mixing of the two gases, hence, perfect combustion, and the greatest possible intensity of illumination. A screw adjustment for adjusting the distance between the lime and the point of the jet is another special feature of the "Roco Premier" and is alone the means of placing this jet a long way ahead of anything else on the market. The screw adjustment, which movement of the lime, and it is sure to remain where it is placed. By the use of this handy device, it is possible to secure a perfect and positive adjustment of the lime without the necessity of exposing the hand to the heat of the inside of the lamphouse.

Needle Valves is another excellent feature to be found in no jet other than the "Roco Premier" No. D. By their use a finer adjustment of the gases may be secured with the greatest ease and certainty, and after the adjustments are secured there is no danger of their being changed by an accidental knock, as with stop cocks.

Long Tubular Bearings to the cross head and other mountings, are a great improvement, which insures the smooth and easy working of all parts without chafing or cramping.

Take it all in all, this jet possesses so many points of merit, that those who are interested in securing the best results with the greatest comfort in operating, cannot afford to consider any other.

The "Togo" Electric Arc Lamp.

This Electric Arc Lamp is similar in form to the "Roco Premier", but has square rack rods instead of round, and the frame, carbon holders, arms, etc. are made with the square, instead of the round finish, and it is not quite so heavy. The carbon holders are held in line by friction plates instead of guide forks as in the Roco Premier. The small illustration shows position for alternating current. It is a well finished lamp, and the best on the market for the money.

No. 21F2800 Price.....$4.00

The "Roco Premier" Self-Centering Electric Arc Lamp.

No. 21F2805 This lamp is a great improvement over other lamps of this type, both in utility and beauty of design. It is provided with a perfect rack and pinion movement, which moves both carbons in unison, and keeps the light centered. The rack rods are round and operate in long cylindrical bearings, which makes them work much more smooth and regular than those of the square type. The guide forks, having a bearing well away from the center of the rod, furnishes the maximum of rigidity, and serve to hold the carbons accurately in line. The parts are made strong and durable, and being furnished in the round, are easy to keep clean, and present a most artistic appearance. The carbon holders are adjustable, making them equally adapted to both alternating and direct currents. The adjustment wheel is well back away from the heat, is easy to get at, rapid, and certain in its action. The small illustration shows position for alternating current.

In our "Roco Premier" Improved Self Centering Arc Lamp, as in our new line of Calcium Jets, we have introduced the new turned ball finish. In fact, on every part where it is possible round parts have been used, which, together with the excellent form and proportions of the different parts, contributes to the artistic merit more than can be expressed in words or picture.

This is without question the most artistic, and in every way the best Electric Arc Lamp ever placed on the market, and yet is sold for no more money than other ask for inferior goods. Full polish finish and nickel-plated, price.....$8.00

The "Roco 90°" or Right Angle Arc Lamp.

The Right Angle Arc Lamp possesses both advantages and disadvantages. The advantage is that the horizontal carbon is in line with and fed directly toward the optical axis of the lenses, which makes it easier to keep it centered. The disadvantage is, that it requires more careful and more frequent adjustment than the form in which the carbons are fed directly toward each other. We offer, however, the best form of right angled arc lamp that has ever been constructed. It is very compact. The frame measuring about 10 inches long by 5 inches high. It has a feed of about 24 inches depending on whether one or both feeding wheels are turned. Each carbon should be used. For alternating currents both carbons should be 1/2 inch cored. To admit this form of arc lamp the distance between the center of the condensing lenses and the bottom of the lamp should be at least 5 1/2 inches. If the space is less than this, an opening should be made in the bottom of the lamphouse.

No. 21F2807 Price.....$6.00
Automatic Electric Arc Lamps are little used. They are not only very expensive, but have proven unsatisfactory for projection work. They are hard to control; very bulky, and we neither list nor recommend them. Prices, however, will be quoted on application.

Rheostats.

Used to Reduce the Current for Electric Arc Lamp.

No. 21F2810. "Excelsior" Rheostat No. 1. The enclosed fuses, which are adapted to direct current of 55 to 110 volts, and also to alternating 55 to 104 volts. It has iron frames top and bottom, separated by a sheet metal form, is well insulated, and is especially adapted to the use of the traveling exhibitor. Height, 16 inches. Weight, 5 1/2 pounds. Price, each, without fuses.....$2.00
No. 21F2815 "Excelsior" Rheostat No. 3. Same as No. 1, except that it is covered with a heavy wire screen. Price, each, without fuses.....$7.50

No. 21F2820. "Excelsior" Rheostat No. 2. This Rheostat is the same as "Excelsior" No. 1 except that it is wound with finer wire for use with ordinary lamps using 3/4 inch carbons and socket attachment. Price, each, without fuses.....$4.00

No. 21F2825 The "Roco" Rheostat. This Rheostat is a very popular form where heavy resistance is required. It is provided with a number of resistance coils, which are protected from contact by a heavy wire netting, and is adjustable by turning the handle on the top. The resistance coils may be replaced at small cost in case of accident. This Rheostat is intended for either direct or alternating current, and is calculated to carry from 15 to 50 amperes on a current of 110 volts. Price.....$10.00

No. 21F2830 Double Plug Electric Connection. A convenient way of making quick connection for the traveling exhibitor or for schools, churches and home use. The larger block with the holes in it is attached to the supply wire, and the smaller part with the plugs, to the lamp. Should the polarity of the lamp be wrong, it can be instantly corrected by removing the plug block, and turning half around. Will carry 45 amperes. Price.....$1.00

Electric Switches.

Exhibitors using Electric Arc Lamps should provide themselves with a Knife Switch. A fuse block is also desirable, for if in any way a short circuit is formed, no damage would be done other than to melt the fuse on your block, which could be instantly replaced. We recommend the Nos. 6 or 8 Combined Switch and Fuse Block to use enclosed fuses. In many cities the insurance companies prohibit the use of any but enclosed or cartridge fuses. We also advise the use of 30 ampere switch and fuse block, because when using alternating current it is necessary to use 30 to 40 amperes of current to get good results on motion pictures.

No. 21F3035 Electric Knife Switch No. 1. Porcelain base, 250 volts and 30 amperes. Price, each, without fuses.....$0.65
No. 21F3037 Electric Knife Switch No. 2. For 50 amperes, otherwise same as No. 1. Price, each, without fuses.....$1.00

No. 21F3060 Fuses, plug. Price, per dozen.....$5.00

No. 21F3062 Electric Cut Out No. 8 with porcelain base, for enclosed fuses, 250 volts, 25 amperes. Price, each, without fuses.....$0.90

No. 21F3065 Flexible Electric Light Wire, Double, called lamp cord, with heavy cotton insulation for connecting electric or incandescent lamps to the main line. Price, length of 30 feet, (without tips).....$0.95
Price, shorter lengths, per foot.....$0.06

Electric Cut Out, No. 8

Note: The flexible electric lamp cord should not be used where more than 15 amperes of current is being consumed, as the insulation would be liable to burn off.

The "Roco" Incandescent Electric Lamp.

The Incandescent Electric Lamp will be found a very great convenience where electric connections can be had, for such as lodge, school and church work and may be used to advantage by certain classes of traveling exhibitors. It may be used on either the alternating or direct current. When using the 50 candle power lamp the connection may be made direct with the lamp socket without the use of a rheostat, but when using the 100 candle power lamp, a small switch should be used for turning the current on and off, instead of making and breaking the connection at the lamp socket. This form of illumination is a little stronger than the Welsbach gas burner, but has not the efficiency of an Acetylene or Vapor gas light.

The design of the "Roco" Incandescent Electric Lamp is highly artistic and for general merit is far superior to anything heretofore introduced. It is beautifully polished, and with the exception of the lamp socket, is nickel plated.

- No. 21F3080 Price, complete with 50 c. p. lamp, 20 feet of insulated wire and attachment plug ..... $4.50

Note: We cannot be responsible for breakage of electric lamp bulbs in transit.

Stand or Burner Support.

- No. 21F3092 This stand is intended for use in old style lanterns, which have not been fitted for the use of modern burners. It has a round base with screw holes for securing to the bottom of the lantern standard upright burner spindle and is fully nickel plated. Price ..... $1.00

Instruction as Well as Amusement is furnished by Stereopticon Views and Motion Pictures. That's one of the reasons why they are so well patronized.

No. 21F3115 Condensing Chamber or Drip Cup for Acetylene Outlets. Owing to the presence of a considerable amount of heat in the generation of acetylene, steam is formed, a certain amount of which is carried to the jet with the gas, especially with some forms of generators that are different from our own. To remedy this condition which is detrimental to good results we have devised this little attachment which is placed in the path of the gas from the generator to the jet. As the gas gets away from the heated generator it cools and the vapor condenses to water which lodges in the condenser. It is about 6 1/2 inches long, is made of brass and nickel plated. Price ..... $1.00

The "Roco" Welsbach Gas Burner.

The "Roco" Burner is an improvement over anything heretofore made in this line. Its form of construction is such as to afford the greatest efficiency together with convenience and artistic design. The burner part is of the form best adapted to the requirements, and has ample adjustments for the perfect balancing of the gas and air. In efficiency it is considered better than the best oil lamps, but it is not equal to the Alcohol or Gasoline Vapor Burners. It is made of brass throughout, beautifully polished, nickel plated, and from an artistic standpoint as well as efficiency, is far ahead of anything in its class.

- PRICE, complete with 10 feet of rubber hose ..... $4.00
 No. 21F3101 With Stop Cock, extra ..... .50
 No. 21F3102 Extra Mantles, with support, best quality, each ..... .25
 No. 21F3103 Extra Chimney, 6 inches, each ..... .10

No. 21F7340

The "Orton" Four-Jet Self-Cleaning Burner is much appreciated by those who have used it.

The jets are so placed that the centers of the flames all come in a line with the axis of the lens, and being placed nearer together than in the old type of burner they all come more nearly within the focus point of the condensers, hence greater efficiency. Each jet is provided with a coarse-holed screw, the point of which passes through the orifice of the tip and cleanses of any soot or carbon deposits with which it may have become choked. Each jet is provided with a nickel-plated and polished reflector. Full polished finish, nickel-plated. Price, each ..... $1.00

The "No. 50" Magic Lantern with Oil Light.

No. 21F3120.

For secret societies, Sunday schools, public schools, teachers, home amusement, etc. While the oil light lantern has seen its day, there are still a few, who probably from motives of economy desire an instrument of this kind. The body is made of the best Russia iron, has a good achromatic objective lens, two 3/4 inch condensers, the best three wick oil lamp, double slide carrier and a carrying case. When using a standard Slide, it projects a picture of about 7 1/2 feet in diameter at 15 feet from the screen, and the illumination gives an efficiency of about 100 candle power, which is a little more than one-third the power of acetylene, gasoline, or alcohol vapor light. While this instrument is not a toy, and is designed for professional use only, and is as good as any kerosene oil lantern made but cannot be expected to give satisfactory results for a traveling public exhibitor. Price, complete with lenses, carrying case, etc. .... $12.00

Oil Lamp for Stereopticon.

No. 21F3125.

While Oil lamps are now but little used for stereopticon work, there are still a few people, who, from motives of economy, are prompted to buy them. While the lamp we list is the best that can be had for the purpose, having three wicks, we do not recommend them. They are rated at about 100 candle power and give about one-third the efficiency of Acetylene, Gasoline or the Alcohol Vapor Light. This lamp may be used in our $15.00 Magic Lantern or Stereopticon. Price, complete with wicks and telescope chimney ..... $4.00

Motion Pictures are Taking Top Money is the almost universal report, that comes from amusement places such as Summer Carnivals, Street Fairs, County Fairs and Amusement Parks.

People do not Tire of Motion Pictures. On the contrary they get into the habit of going near enough, of going once a week or more.

Slide Carriers.

No. 21F3130 Double Slide Carrier No. 1. For single stereopticon, adapted for American Slides only. Price ..... $0.50
 No. 21F3132 Double Slide Carrier No. 2. This carrier is the same as the No. 1, with the exception that it has brackets for loading it in the lantern, and cushions which make it possible to change views instantly without noise, thus making a substitute for a dissolving lantern. Price ..... $0.50

No. 21F3134 Double Slide Carrier No. 3, for single Stereopticon. Instead of having one groove as in the No. 1, it has two grooves slide by side, one for the English and the other for American slides. Is convenient when exhibiting a mixed lot of slides. Price ..... $0.75

No. 21F3136 Shutter Slide Carrier, for both American and English slides. Is especially adapted for the double lantern. Is similar in form to the double slide carrier, but has a metal diaphragm in one side, and is intended to carry a piece of opaque material or a ground glass in the other. Price, each ..... $1.25 Per Pair ..... $2.25
 No. 21F3138 "Panorama" or "Push Through" Slide Carrier, for Single Stereopticon. Suitable for both English and American slides. This carrier can be used for showing Panoramic effects. Price ..... $0.50

No. 21F3142 Self Centering Slide Carrier, for Dissolving Stereopticon. Adapted for both English and American slides. This is the most convenient and popular form of slide carrier for use with a dissolving lantern. Has a metal pull for withdrawing the slide. Price, each ..... $3.00

No. 21F3144 Glass Cell. Measures 4x7 inches, and fits into the slide stage of any lantern using standard slides. It can be used dry to hold views, or may be filled with water to show live specimens of insects, fishes, worms, etc., enlarged views of which may be projected on the screen with the Stereopticon or Magic Lantern. Price ..... $3.00

THE MECHANICAL DISSOLVER.

For the production of Dissolving Views with arc or incandescent electric light, the Sun Rival Gasoline Vapor or Alcohol Vapo Search Light, Welsbach gas or kerosene oil illumination it is necessary to use the Mechanical Dissolver which consists of a cut off with raised or saw tooth edges and so mounted on one of the objective lenses that it may be gradually shifted so as to cover first one lens and then the other while the illumination is allowed to remain full on in both stereopticons. The result is that one view will gradually fade away while the other will be developed from nothing to full brilliancy.

The Mechanical Dissolver is attached to the upper lens by means of screw clamps that are cushioned to prevent scratching the lens mounts as shown by the two illustrations. The shutter is made of thin planished sheet steel, and the mountings are polished and nickel plated.

No. 21F3225 Price with Poles 1 1/2 inches in diameter, per section.....$0.50

No. 21F3227 Price with Poles 2 inches in diameter, per section.....$0.75
The Portable Extension Screen Frame can be adapted to all sizes of screens and will be found a great convenience to the traveling exhibitor. It is composed of the required number of sections depending on size of screen, each section being three feet in length, made of tough, thoroughly seasoned white wood and jointed together with metal ferrules. Two of the end sections have a sharp pointed butt that sticks into the floor so that it cannot slip or get out of position. The other two end sections have a pulley let into the body of the section through which is carried the screen rope which is to be attached to a small screw-eye in the floor in the line with the face of the screen and at the proper distance from the screen. Then two guy ropes at each side of the screen, one extending forward and one backward serve to hold the screen immovably in place. This arrangement answers admirably for screens up to 20 feet square. Larger screens than this require a heavier frame. We recommend 1 1/2 inch poles for screens 12 feet square and under, and 2 inch poles for screens over 12 feet square. The frame for a screen 12 feet square or 10x12 consists of six sections, three for each side.

No. 21F3230 Price of Frame for 12 foot screen, complete without ropes.....$4.00

Carbons for Electric Arc Light.

Solid Carbon

Soft Cored Carbon

For alternating current use 7/8 or 1/2 inch soft cored carbons both top and bottom, depending upon the number of amperes used.

We carry in stock the following sizes:

No. 21F3350 Soft Cored Carbons.

No. 21F3355 Solid Carbons.

In lots of 100 we allow a discount of 10%.

Platinated Carbons for Alternating Current. Illumination from alternating currents has a tendency to be noisy and unsteady, particularly when using low amperage. The advantages claimed for this carbon is that it reduces the noise, and on account of one side being flattened has a tendency to hold the "center" more to the front side of the carbon. When using these carbons, the flat side of both should be toward the condensing lenses. These carbons are made in one size only, which is 1/2 x 10 inches.

The above quotations are for the "B GRADE" tents. For the "A GRADE" tents add 10 per cent to the body price only. Lining and poles is the same price in either case. The "A GRADE" includes the finest grade material, the greatest care in making up and will warrant the additional expense. We also make a "C Grade" tent in the black only but do not recommend it. Prices will be quoted on application.

These prices are for tents with 15 inch curtain, scalloped, bound with service braid on outside. Tents with same curtain on outside and plain 28 inch curtain on inside, and 15 inch sod cloth at bottom of wall will cost 10 per cent extra on above prices.

We solicit inquiries from any who are interested, and shall be pleased to furnish any further information regarding tents, outfits, etc., that may be desired.

Motion Picture Exhibition Tents.

To the experienced motion picture exhibitor the utility of the black canvas tent with black cotton flannel lining has become well known, but to those who are not familiar with the advantages to be derived from its use, we wish to say that those who wish to exhibit at Street Fairs, Summer Carnivals, Summer Parks, County and State Fairs, Picnics, etc., will find its use almost indispensable. Then, too, for general summer work, it is an advantage in being cooler, and the saying in rents will soon return the cost.

The outside of the tent is made of heavy black cotton duck or drill, will shed rain, and being of double thickness, it may be used for both day or evening entertainments. Those equipped with a black tent may stop for several days or weeks in the same lot at the minimum of expense, having no rent to pay. A tent attracts attention during the day, and if good display banners are used will do much to stimulate the attendance. When showing at fairs, etc., it is customary to give short exhibitions of one-half hour each, making the admission appropriate to the locality and conditions. These tents are made up and roped in regular showman style, of only high grade materials and by skilled workmen. The capacity of the 20 x 40 tent is over 200 standing, and about 100 sitting.

Banners and flags of any size and style will be made to order, but are not included with the tents. Prices and particulars will be furnished on application. When writing for prices on banners please state as clearly as possible what is wanted, or that you would like to have our opinion and advice in the matter.

We have two grades, styled A and B, the difference being in the quality of the material. Some dealers list only the B grade, but we recommend the A grade, the difference in quality being far greater than the difference in price. They wear far better and look better.

We guarantee all of our tents to be exactly as represented.

A good idea of the appearance of these tents may be had from the above views. As tents are made only to order, full cash payment is required with order for same. We cannot ship them C. O. D. About a week will be required to make tents.

Outfits.

With a view to assisting the prospective purchaser in the selection of his outfit and figuring cost on the same we submit a number of combinations that are suited to various requirements. They are all complete with the exception of films in the outfits that include Motion Picture Machines. It is best to include ten or more Motion Picture Films where the means available will permit, but in cases where it will not, we advise including as many as possible and adding more from the profits of the business.

Outfits Nos. 50 to 84 inclusive are suited to the requirements of the Traveling Exhibitor. Those from 80 to 86 inclusive are for Nickel Theatres, and those from 90 to 94 inclusive are adapted to the requirements of those who wish to do Street Advertising.

No. 7—London Bridge.

THE most famous of all the bridges which cross the Thames within the city limits is called the London Bridge and was opened to traffic by King William the Fourth in 1831. It is constructed of granite and the lamp posts on its sides are said to have been cast from cannon captured from the French during the Spanish War. The cost was about eight millions of dollars. During twenty-four hours it is estimated that an average of twenty thousand vehicles and one hundred and twenty thousand pedestrians cross here from one side of London to the other. Standing on this connecting link between the two great sections of the world's metropolis one realizes the immensity of London. The city's population is nearly five millions, to which twenty-five hundred are added per week by birth and two thousand taken away by death. If the entire population of London were placed in single file eighteen inches apart they would extend a distance of twelve hundred miles, or further than from Chicago to Boston.

No. 10—Paris Panorama.

A TRIP to Europe would be very incomplete if it did not include a visit to Paris, the capital of what has been by turns the Empire, the Kingdom and the Republic of France. It is a most beautiful city and of it the French are justly proud. For many centuries the City of Paris changed but slowly and to no great extent, but under the Bourbons and the Bonapartes the changes have been great and rapid, until to-day the population numbers full two million souls and the appearance of the city has been entirely changed. In her wide, well-built, well-paved streets, her broad boulevards, her parks, fountains, arches, churches and bridges, she presents an appearance of extent and splendor and completeness unequalled by any city on the globe.

No. 21—Moscow—Church of St. Basil.

MOSCOW is the Ancient Capital of Russia and it still retains its relative importance and prominence, and its general appearance is exceedingly striking. One of the most striking and imposing structures to be seen in this ancient city is the Cathedral Church of St. Basil. This shows almost every variety of architectural form and decoration, and so delighted Ivan the Terrible, under whose direction it was built, that he caused the architect's eyes to be put out in order that he might never erect a rival to it.

No. 27—Leaning Tower, Pisa.

ONE of the most wonderful structures known throughout the world is the Leaning Tower of Pisa. It is as beautiful as it is extraordinary and is so far inclined from the perpendicular as to appear to be on the point of falling. It is 180 feet in height and 14 feet out of perpendicular. It is constructed of pure white marble and is remarkable for its beautiful architecture, grace and elegance. It consists of eight circular stories, the uppermost containing seven sonorous bells, the largest weighing upwards of eleven thousand pounds. In spite of the appearance of being unsafe this tower has been leaning thus for nearly six hundred years. The Leaning Tower is not the only object of special interest in Pisa, for nearby is the Grand Cathedral and the Baptistry, both constructed of marble.

No. 28—Castle of Chillon, Geneva, Switzerland.

GENEVA is most delightfully situated, lying as it does at the southern end of the lake, which is 55 miles in length, and commanding a charming view of the snow-clad chain of Mt. Blanc and is within a few hours' drive of Chamounix. It is the most beautiful, as well as the most popular of Swiss cities. Close to Montreux and only a rod or two from the shore is the Castle of Chillon. Count Peter of Savoy did much during the thirteenth century to enlarge and strengthen, as well as to beautify the castle, and it now remains much as he left it. A feature of special interest in the castle are the dungeons where prisoners of state were confined, and many good men who dared to assert their independence with reference to their faith. Among the many objects of special interest in Geneva are its historic souvenirs, stately hotels and elegant jewelry shops. In the manufacturing of watches Geneva holds a very prominent position, and its products are known the world over.

No. 44—Pyramids and Sphinx.

WHAT which most prominently claims the attention of the tourist is the Pyramids, whence forty centuries look down upon us. The origin of these monstrous masses of stone was undoubtedly the desire of the Rulers of Egypt to perpetuate their memory. The Great Pyramid was the Mausoleum of Cheops, who ruled in Egypt more than three thousand years B. C. Its length on each side was 764 feet and it covered an area of more than thirteen acres. In the interior of the Pyramid is to be seen in the King's Chamber after a slippery, suffocating, descent of 320 feet a battered sarcophagus which is said to have served as a coffin of the Cheops. Near the Pyramid is the Sphinx, the huge image of one of the deities of the Ancient Egyptian.

No. 50—Roadside Tea House, Japan.

EVEN though it has been but a few years since the cities of Japan have been thrown open to foreign travel they have during these few years lost no time in assuming many European characteristics. In fact, so rapidly have these changes been brought about that the traveler who sees Japan of to-day sees but little of what it once was. The foreign dress and mode of arranging the hair have been very extensively adopted and numerous buildings are constructed on the European style. Electric lights, telephones and street cars no longer excite wonder. There is, however, an old custom, which probably will for many years be retained, and that is the use of the Jinrikisha for the transportation of passengers. A man places himself between the shafts and plays the part of the horse for as many hours and as long a distance as the passenger cares to ride. In the foreground of this picture will be seen the Jinrikisha, while in the background is the Roadside Tea House, where tea and other dainties are served as refreshments.

No. 77—Niagara Falls.

WHEN we consider that the Niagara River at the Falls has a normal width of nearly a mile, that it requires the drainage of half the continent to supply it, that its sources are some of them two thousand miles from here, and that eighty-five million tons of water are falling every hour a distance of 160 feet to the abyss below where it assumes a boiling, seething mass in its effort to pass through the narrow channel known as the Rapids, we have before us a subject which is too sublime, too grand, for minute description. The American Fall is about one thousand feet in width, which is about half the width of the Canadian Fall. The two are divided by Goat Island, which is reached from the American side by a bridge. As we stand on the edge of the precipice and view the mighty rush of water, the roar of which can be heard for many miles, we can scarcely realize that this wonderful spectacle existed before there were human eyes to see it.

A TRIP to PARIS

..... 52 VIEWS—WITH READING.....

We hear so much about Paris, both by reason of its world famous expositions, and because it is generally conceded to be the Most Beautiful City of the World, that it brings an entertainment on this subject into popular demand. This set contains views of all the principal points of interest, and includes a few of the most important views of the late exposition. The views are made from original photographic negatives, are clear, sharp and artistic, and the set, together with the interesting printed description that accompanies them gives one a good general idea of the capital of the French republic, and is equally interesting to the person who never expects to go, the one who does expect to go, and the one who has been there.

Sights of Paris and the Exposition.

The Trocadero.

ON rising ground and near the Pont de Jena, a handsome bridge built in the time of the First Napoleon and commemorating in its name his victory over the Prussians at the town of Jena, in 1806, is the Palace of the Trocadero, which derives its name from a Fort in Cadiz, taken by the French in 1823. The Palace is modeled after Oriental styles, and is occupied in part as a museum, contains reproductions of monumental sculpture in Europe since the Middle Ages, Chinese sculpture, curiosities and domestic objects illustrating the life and customs of various nations. It also contains a large concert hall capable of accommodating six thousand persons, and annually on July 14 (the great national holiday of France) the entire building is brilliantly illuminated, and then becomes a veritable palace of fire, every arch and column and pinnacle being marked out in dazzling lines of light.

Sights of Paris and the Exposition.

No. 14—Column Vendome.

LOCATED near the Place de l'Opera, which marks the junction of what bears the universal reputation of being the gayest and most brilliant thoroughfare in Europe is the Place Vendome, on which stands the mammoth Bronze Monument, Column Vendome, which is an imitation of Trajan's Column at Rome. This lofty shaft, erected by the First Napoleon to commemorate his victories over the Russians and Austrians in 1803. The bronze plates which form spiral from base to top were made from cannon captured from the enemy and represent in bold relief the chief events of that campaign. Since its erection the column has more than once indicated political changes through which the country has passed. At first it was mounted by a colossal statue of Napoleon the First, in the attire of a Roman Emperor, but in 1814 the Royalists replaced this by a statue of Napoleon in the uniform of a General, and that was changed in 1830 under orders of Napoleon the Third to a reproduction of first statue. In 1871 the Communists overturned the column, destroyed many of the bronze plates, but the fragments were collected, and plates made for those which were broken, and the column erected in 1875.

Japan and the Japanese.

.....70 VIEWS—WITH READING.....

THIS series deals with one of the most interesting countries of the world, and is of peculiar interest at the present time, due to the fact that the Japanese are rapidly acquiring a form of civilization such as exists in all modern and progressive countries. So rapidly is this change taking place that the traveler visiting their country is amazed to note how the picturesque of their architecture and their dress is disappearing. We have here preserved in a series of views all of the quaintness, picturesqueness and romance that is characteristic of the people and their world, before the march of progress had worked its changes.

The Yellowstone National Park

By common consent the term "Wonderland" has been applied to this marvelous region. This name is neither far-fetched nor an exaggerated one. One who could even approach the truth in vividness of description would lay himself open to the charge of wildest romanticism, on the part of those who have never seen the park. With its mammoth geysers, that send streams of boiling water and steam hundreds of feet in the air, its beautiful terraces presenting all the colors of the rainbow, and a thousand other wonders, it is not surprising one is unable to find words to express his opinion of it.

President Roosevelt says: "The Yellowstone Park is something absolutely unique in this world."
"It is simply the Alamy's masterpiece."
"It must follow that with a set of magnificent colored views illustrating as they do the superlative beauty, the mighty grandeur, the splendid majesty of this wonderful creation, and with a suitable lecture to accompany them, a most unusual opportunity is offered for public entertainment that is both entertaining and educational."

China and the Chinese.

No. 16—Chinese Soldiers.

It is said that the Chinese Soldier never wears his full uniform except when he is upon particular duty. His uniform consists of a wide pair of drawers squeezed into his boots with stockings of quilted cotton, an under garment of blue or black cotton hangs loosely over them. The jacket is short, made of nankeen cloth and bordered with red. In the center of the jacket immediately below the shoulders is a badge or patch of red cloth with black characters denoting his Company and Corps; a long queue hangs down below the waist, and upon the head is worn a small cap covered with red hair. The weapons of the Chinese consist of bow and arrow, pikes, sabers, matchlocks and muskets. Their Arsenal at Foochow, Shanghai, Nankin and Tientsin, where warships, cannons, muskets, and all other war appliances are turned out under foreign superintendence. The army of China is magnificent "on paper" but in reality is exceedingly defective.

No. 21—Cat Sellers at their Work.

We may think it disgusting at the idea of having Pussy served up for dinner, but to the Chinese who do not even object to rats and mice nor the flesh of monkeys and snakes, a tender kitten is not to be despised.

NOTE—The above represents two sections taken from the Descriptive Reading on China, but we regret that for want of space we cannot give a better idea of the great treasure of knowledge contained in this set.

Lantern Slides from Original Negatives Illustrating The Grand Canyon of the Colorado in Arizona

No better description can be given than to quote Major Powell:
 "The whole scene is forever reminding you of mighty architectural pinnacles and towers and balustrades and arches and columns with lattice work and delicate carving. All of these architectural features are sublime by titanic painting in various hues—pink, red, brown, lavender, gray, blue and black. In some lights the saffron prevails, in other lights vermilion, and yet in other lights the grays and blacks predominate."
 No painter can convey the impression of titanic immensity; no photograph can give more than an idea of the reality, but in the series of views we have selected for our lecture sets, it is possible to give the best possible presentation on a scale larger than by any other method. A set of these views with the lecture or reading that accompanies them never fails to interest any audience.

The San Francisco Disaster, The Greatest Calamity of Modern Times

Illustrated with Motion Pictures and Stereoscopic Views.

We have fifty stereopticon views, and a number of motion pictures that were taken about a year before the fire, and seventy stereopticon views, and a large number of motion picture views that were taken immediately after the catastrophe. The first series shows the magnificent city in all its splendor, while the second series shows the charred and twisted ruins, the great earthquake cracks, the improvised camps where both rich and poor are on an equal footing, feeding the refugees, etc.

Our stereopticon views are made from original negatives, and the slides are furnished colored only, which makes them more realistic and natural. These views have produced a sensation wherever shown, and should be made a part of every exhibitor's outfit.

The author says "there is nothing in the amusement line that so thoroughly stirs the imagination as a circus." It can turn a community into a merry world, and it can make a man who is not a clown, a clown, in the entertainment joke. There's another side to it as told by one who has for twelve years has acted in the capacity of advance agent for the World Famous Ringling Brothers Circus. The story is exceedingly interesting and the inside features of the show and the general interest that it should draw good patronage wherever advertised.

The full set consists of seventy views, all colored but five, and a set of fifty-two is selected from the seventy.

It is a great industrial enterprise demanding study, patronage and respect.

No. 70—The Clowns.

THE Clowns are the hardest working people in the show. They are always at it and if it were not for them the Circus would be pretty flat. Nowadays there are no speaking clowns. The tents have grown so large people could not hear them. The clown has to depend on his actions for his work and not infrequently it happens that sev-

...The Passing of the Indian...

No. 6—Pocahontas and John Smith.

IMPROBABLE as the romance may seem, we want to believe the story of Captain Smith and the lovely, dark-eyed Pocahontas. I would not give a snap of my finger for a man who had not any story or romance in his composition. Generations have been thrilled by the doubtful story of Pocahontas, and every Anglo-Saxon feels in his heart that if the story was not true it certainly should have been. It is a relief to turn from the New England Puritans and the Virginia Swash Bucklers and their career of extermination and study the different course pursued by William Penn in the province of Pennsylvania. His treaty with the Indians was inviolate during the seventy years that the Quakers controlled the province, and has been a model for statesmen ever since. He paid them for their lands, kept his word, all his agreements and this is almost the only instance of the kind in the early history of America.

No. 20—Sitting Bull. (On Advertising Poster.)

SITTING BULL has usually been considered the leader in the Custer massacre. This is an error. The real fighting leader at that time was Chief Gail, one of the bravest and most resourceful leaders that the Dakota Nation has produced. During the battle, Sitting Bull, who was a medicine man, was in his tepee making medicine—endeavoring to placate the Great Spirit and thus secure a victory for his people. After the battle Sitting Bull, with the remnant of his tribe, escaped across the line into Canada. A command leader of his General Terry met Sitting Bull and his braves near Fort Walsh on the Canadian frontier. Full pardon for all past offences was offered the old chief, and he was told that if he would peacefully return to the United States the Great Father at Washington would make a new treaty with the Sioux, which would be kept inviolate for all time. Sitting Bull had been crouching with the members of his family with his blanket drawn over his head. As General Terry ceased speaking the old chief dropped the blanket and slowly rose to his feet. "Why should I go?" he asked. "Your government never keeps its promises with my people. If you can show me one single treaty ever made by the Great Father that was kept in good faith I and my people will go back with you," and General Terry in speaking of the matter afterwards said that he was compelled to confess with shame that he could not recall one such instance.

...The Passing of the Indian...

No. 13—Indian Mother and Pappoose.

BECOMING impatient at the government's delay in providing for them, the lower agency near Mankato, Minnesota, went on the war path. A force of United States troops was sent against them and after some of the Indians had been killed the others surrendered and were taken to Mankato as prisoners. At the subsequent trial thirty-eight were condemned to be hanged. The execution took place at one time and upon a single gallows at Mankato on December 26th, 1862. The punishment was just, but even at that time some of the white people failed to demonstrate wherein they were any better than these red marauders. While the Indian captives were being taken to Mankato with their women and children they were attacked and brutally beaten by citizens, and an eye-witness of the scene has said that one frantic white woman snatched the pappoose from the back of its Indian mother and raising it above her head dashed it to the ground so violently that it died in a few minutes.

The Spanish-American and Filipino War.

OF ALL the illustrated entertainment sets that have been produced, there probably never has been and may never be another of such universal merit as this one illustrating the Spanish-American and Filipino war. It appeals to the patriotism and the national pride of all, and then nearly every one has a near or distant relative or near friend who was in the service, and they will gladly patronize anything that will refresh their memories and throw more light on the subject.

One of the strong elements in the success of a set of this kind is that the public seems never to tire of listening to war stories, but the great popularity of this set is not, however, merely because it is a war story, for neither an internal rebellion or a war in or between foreign countries would appeal sufficiently to any very large portion of our country, for with the former the seat of trouble is so near home and brings so much devastation and suffering, that it is preferable to forget rather than to resurrect, and with the latter there is not enough personal interest in some other nations' troubles to afford the support that the exhibitor needs.

Not only has this set been our best in the past, but it continues to be in good demand and probably always will be popular. This set has our most earnest endorsement and should be included with the outfit of every traveling exhibitor.

ILLUSTRATED with 52 Transparent Photographic Views 10 of which are hand painted and show all the colors and tints of nature and 42 are shown in regular photographic tints.

(COLORED)

This view illustrates the unfair methods employed by the Spaniards in their warfare. Instead of fighting as other civilized nations they prefer to conceal themselves, oftentimes making overtures for peace in order to meet their opponents unawares.

Spanish Treachery is the subject of the above illustration, which shows how the gallant Cuban General Maceo met his death.

Admiral Dewey's Victory.

With a set of these most beautiful and valuable pictures together with the very interesting description of each, every entertainment should be a grand success and serve as an advertisement and a recommendation for future exhibitions.

Devastation of Cuba.

THE awful sight presented by the above picture is but one of the many events of the kind which was reported from time to time during that long and most cruel war waged by Spain against the Cubans who were struggling to free themselves from the unbearable oppression.

Even the women, children and aged men were not exempt from

The Disgraceful Methods of Spanish Warfare.

So realistic are these views when shown with the mammoth high power Stereopticon which magnifies to life size or larger, and so faithful and interesting are the descriptions of the scenes that the audience will derive almost as much satisfaction as they would from a trip to the spot where the events happened.

- 13 An enormous puppy was looking down at her.
- 14 Alice appeals to the caterpillar for advice.
- 15 Father William, "I fear it might injure your brain."
- 16 "Yet you turned a back somersault in at the door."
- 17 "In my youth," said the father, "I took to the law, and argued each case with my wife."
- 18 "Yet you balanced an eel on the end of your nose."
- 19 "Anything you like," said the Footman.
- 20 "There's certainly too much pepper in that soup."
- 21 "Don't grunt," said Alice, "that's not at all the proper way of expressing yourself."
- 22 "Would you tell me, please, which way I ought to go from here?"
- 23 But a grin without a cat.
- 24 A mad tea-party.
- 25 "Have you guessed the riddle yet?" the Hatter said.
- 26 And they put the Dormouse into the teapot.
- 27 Five and Seven said nothing, but looked at Two.
- 28 Next came the guests, mostly kings and queens.
- 29 The chief difficulty was in managing her flamingo.
- 30 "Off with his head!" said the queen, without even looking around.
- 31 "Be what you would seem to be" said the Duchess.
- 32 They very soon came upon a Gryphon, lying fast asleep in the sun.
- 33 The Mock Turtle's story.
- 34 The Lobster Quadrille.
- 35 "You have baked me too brown, I must sugar my hair."
- 36 "Who stole the tarts?"
- 37 "The Queen of Hearts, she made some tarts, all on a summer day."
- 38 In his confusion the Hatter bit a large piece out of his cup.
- 39 "You may go," said the King and the Hatter hurriedly left the court.
- 40 Alice has grown to her natural size.
- 41 "Why, there they are!" said the King, triumphantly, pointing to the tarts on the table.
- 42 At this the whole pack rose up in the air. Alice awoke, and said to her sister, "Ah, how had such a curious dream!"

Shadows of a Great City.

....61 VIEWS—WITH LECTURE.....

FOR temperance work we consider this set to be one of the strongest and most attractive ever produced. The series illustrates the mode of life, habits, etc. of the lower strata of society, and the surroundings within which they dwell. There has been an oft repeated assertion that one-half the world does not know how the other half lives, and in this series we reproduce the unfortunate half whose lives are passed in wretched hovels, in the breeding spots of vice and crime.

ILLUSTRATED SONG VIEWS.

(Colored only.)
FOR THE STEREOPHON.

Illustrated Songs have become one of the most popular means of entertaining the public. The views for illustrated songs consist of a series of pictures representing the most important acts described in the song, and are projected by the Stereophon, while the song is rendered by a vocalist or a Talking Machine.

Song Slides are furnished colored only. They are hand-painted showing all the colors of nature, and when they are shown with the Stereophon enlarged to life-size they are very realistic. If the exhibitor does not sing and does not care to engage a regular vocalist or use a talking machine, it is most always possible to secure the services of a local vocalist to assist in the entertainment, and as some society, the services will usually be donated, and by reason of local talent being represented, it creates much additional interest in the entertainment. The vocalist is usually pleased to have an opportunity to sing, as it increases his or her popularity.

THE TALKING MACHINE affords an excellent means of producing songs to accompany Stereophon illustrations. The song productions of the latest improved machines and records are loud, clear and distinct, and the novelty of the all mechanical entertainment, helps to charm the audience. When the talking machine is used for producing song slides, ten or a dozen slides will be sufficient. Talking machine records cannot be had for all the songs, and as the lists of records are constantly changing and the forms and sizes differ, it is best to make selections of songs you like and write us for the information, to compile this catalogue to get Talking Machine Records. For disc records the mark is "D," for cylinder records "C" and for both disc and cylinder (D. C.)

MUSIC will be furnished when desired, and with few exceptions the price is 35 cents. Orchestration when desired should be ordered of the publisher, names of whom will be furnished on application.

No. 21F5340 PRICE PER SLIDE. Colored, each.....$0.50

Way down upon the SWANEE RIVER, (D. C.)
 1 Way down upon the SWANEE River, far away—
 2 There where my heart is turning, ah, there's where the old folks stay
 3 All up and down the whole creation saddy I roam.
 4 All around the world and all the way, wherever I roam.
 5 All around de little firm I wandered when I was young.
 6 When I went plucking my braber, my happy was I.
 7 One little hit amon de bushes one day I love
 8 When will I see de snake a hummin all around de comb.

AMERICA (D. C.)
 1 Land where my fathers died
 2 Land where the rocky hills
 3 Let music swell the breeze and bring from all the trees.
 4 Long may our land be bright
 5 With Freedom's holy lights.

HOME, SWEET HOME (D. C.)
 1 Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home.
 2 An exile from home saps all our dashes in vain.
 3 How sweet 'tis to sit 'neath a fond father's smile.
 4 To thee I return, overburdened with care.

SONGS THAT NEVER GROW OLD.

KILLARNEY (D. C.)
 1 By Killarney's Lakes and Fells
 2 Mountain Pinnas and Woodland Dells.
 3 (Chorus) In that Eden
 4 Every flock that you pass by,
 5 Origin-Land Berrien Land of Snows,
 6 (Chorus) Angels Outen Pausing There.

LIGHT OF THE WORLD.
 1 I heard the Bells at midnight pealing,
 2 I saw the Blessed Mother Kneeling,
 3 And then I heard the angels weeping,
 4 I saw an Angel shining clear,
 5 And still the Angel sang the story,
 6 For us He lives and reigns in Heaven.

STAR OF BETHLEHEM (D. C.)
 1 I got beside my window
 2 There rose one radiant Star.
 3 I saw a sunset glow
 4 And a homeless wanderer.
 5 I rose, as born on high
 6 And then the gates rolled backward.

THE HOLY CITY (D. C.)
 1 Last night I lay a sleeping
 2 I stood in Old Jerusalem.
 3 I thought the voices of the angels
 4 The streets no longer rang,
 5 Upon a lofty hill
 6 I saw the Holy City.

OLD KENTUCKY HOME (D. C.)
 1 The sun shines bright in the Old Kentucky Home,
 2 (Chorus) Weep no more, my Kentucky,
 3 They sing no more by the gutter of the moon.
 4 The time has come when the darkeys have to part.
 5 A few more days the spell
 6 A few more days till we toddle on the road.

STAR ANGEL (D. C.)
 1 Oh, say can you see by the dawn's early light,
 2 And the rockets red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
 3 On the shore dimly seen through the mists of the deep,
 4 And where is that band who so vauntingly swore,
 5 Oh, thus be it ever when freemen shall stand,
 6 And this be our Motto, in God is our trust.

MARCHING THROUGH GEORGIA (D. C.)
 1 Bring the good old battle boys,
 2 Here the darkeys shouted,
 3 And there were Union men,
 4 Sherman's dashin' Yankee boys,
 5 So we made a thorsy,
 6 Hurrah! Hurrah! We bring the jubilee.

Pose Slides.

These slides are known by the name of Poses Plastique, Costume or Cloak slides. They get their name from the original method of projecting the slides, which was done by having a person pose before a black screen, usually a lady with a white dress and black cloak with a white lining. The cloak is made in the form of a kind of plain mantle, and along the front edges is provided with loops through which the arms are passed and by which the cloak is supported when the arms are spread out, in which position the cloak together with the white dress of the lady, forms a screen on which the picture from the lantern may be projected. The pictures blend with the costume in such a way, as to make it appear that it is either woven into or printed on the goods. The cloak should be closed, which will leave everything black, while the slide is being changed. The slides for this purpose having the background blacked out, shows only the picture from the slide.

No. 21F5380 Slides for Serpentine or Skirt Dances. Colored and Blacked Out, Each $1.00.

Costume slides are furnished in two ways. Where they are intended to be projected on some one posing, the space in the slide where the head would come is left transparent, so as to project the light on the face of the poser. These slides may be used, however, to advantage without a poser, by ordering them with a face, in which case they may be projected on an ordinary curtain or screen.

Comic Stereopticon Slides.

A few Comic Slides will add much interest to a Stereopticon Lecture or Motion Picture Exhibition and the popularity and increasing demand for something new in this line has encouraged us to make up an entirely new list of comic slides in which we have combined originality, the best work and the most entertaining subjects.

We would suggest that the selection of comic slides be left to us, as it is impossible to give an accurate idea of slides of this kind from the title and abbreviated description. If the exhibitor will give us the subject of his lecture and what other features he is using in his entertainment, it will enable us to make a more satisfactory selection than probably he could do himself.

No. 21F5390 Plain Comic Slides, each..... $0.25
Colored Comic Slides, each..... .50
Color adds much to the value of comics and they should always be ordered colored.
Be sure to give us the catalogue number and full title of the slide you wish.

... What Our Customers Say ...

Best Motion Picture Machine on the Market.

EN ROUTE, SAGINAW, MICH., July 30, 1900.
GENTS:—Have been using your Optigraph Motion Picture Machine for nearly a year and have found it very satisfactory and believe it to be the best Motion Picture Machine now on the market. Have seen many so-called picture machines but none seem to enthrall an audience as the Optigraph, and your new model for 1900, with late improvements, is, in my judgment, the best of all, and if it can be attached to the one we have been using we would prefer to have all the late improvements. Please advise us the cost of same.
A waiting your prompt reply. I am, yours very truly,

Stereopticon Advertising.

A Profitable Business, to which you may devote all your time, or it may be conducted successfully after hours in your own town without interfering with regular employment or business.

While it is not generally known, a good income can be made by stereopticon advertising with a stereopticon alone, or in combination with a motion picture machine. Advertisers are ready to patronize the best means of getting their business card, or a list of their bargains, before the public, and this method, we believe, is not surpassed by any, but good as it is, it has been worked very little.

Arrangements can be easily made with from twenty to thirty merchants at a time, to show their advertisement from four to six times during the evening (either a single slide or a series). The advertising slides should be interspersed throughout with a selection from our regular comic list, scenic views, etc., to keep up the interest, and an occasional motion picture view will add much to the value, but is not imperative.

At great expense, we have prepared a large list of designs suitable for representing almost any kind of business. Each slide has an attractive design, comic drawing, cartoon or lettering in attractive form, with blank space for name and address. Each slide is colored to make them more natural and interesting. The name and address of the dealer, or a list of special bargains may be written or printed in with a pen and India ink.

SEND FOR SPECIAL CAMERA CATALOGUE

and look over our line of Conley Cameras made in our own camera factory embodying the very latest ideas in design and finish; embodying the most decided improvements of any line of cameras in America. The name CONLEY on a camera is in itself a guarantee of quality from the very lowest priced to the very highest priced camera in our line you will find this same invariable supremacy.

MOTION PICTURE FILMS.

With this issue of our catalogue we have included a line of motion picture films that represent the best subjects of the best-known catalogues and is so complete that selections may be made from it to suit almost any class or type of illustrated entertainment.

Instead of copying the descriptions given by the manufacturers, as is usually the custom, we have endeavored to describe each subject from a standpoint of its real merit, as viewed by one not prejudiced in favor of any particular maker, which, together with the very complete classification of the different subjects, will be found a great convenience in making selections.

We have made our descriptions as complete as is practicable in a catalogue of this nature, but if a more complete description of any particular subject is desired, we shall be glad to furnish additional particulars.

In some instances more than one film is listed under the same, or a similar name, in which case they are the production of different makers. We aim to keep posted as to the merits of the films produced by the different makers, and their adaptation to certain requirements, and when desired, we shall be glad to give the prospective purchaser the benefit of our knowledge.

The value of a motion picture film depends upon three essential elements: viz: "First, on the merit of the 'Play,' or 'Reproduction' from which it was photographed; second, on the photographic quality of the 'Negative' and third, on the photographic quality of the 'Positive'—called the Motion Picture film.

The production of a good motion picture film is usually attended with great expense. In some instances the living of the characters (usually theatrical people), the furnishing of the costumes, fixtures, etc., for a film of from 100 to 1000 feet in length has cost as high as $1000 to $1500. Unscrupulous manufacturers and dealers have taken advantage of this condition, some by making a poorly executed imitation of the original, and others by actually copying the original film, by making a negative from one of the original positives. In either instance, the merit of the original film is largely sacrificed, or almost entirely lost, which makes it absolutely essential that the purchase of films should be made through a dealer that is known to be thoroughly reliable. In some instances, films produced from what was once a good original negative, are of little value, owing to the fact that the excessive use of the negative has rendered it incapable of producing a good positive film.

To practice economy by the sacrifice of quality in the purchase of motion picture films is a most reckless and extravagant policy, which sooner or later is sure to be abandoned by those who are destined to make a success of the business.

The price of motion picture films ranges from eleven to fifteen cents per foot, depending usually upon the cost of the production, and the length of time required to run is about two minutes per hundred feet, but, like the running of a horse race, it seems very much longer. A hundred feet of film shows about sixteen hundred individual pictures, each of which is replaced by the next succeeding one, at the rate of about fifteen to twenty pictures per second. The picture herewith shows a reproduction, exact size from a piece of motion picture film. Even though the picture on the film measures only about one inch by 3/4 of an inch, they may be enlarged when projected on a screen to any size up to thirty feet or more, depending upon the intensity of the illuminant (light) used, the distance between the machine and the screen, and the angle or focus of the lens used.

Among the first questions that come to the mind of the prospective purchaser is the number of subjects required, and the length of each, and in answer to these questions will say that it depends to a great extent on the nature and class of the entertainment to be given.

The Traveling Exhibitor who shows in churches, halls, opera houses, etc., usually makes a good set of stereopticon views the basis or forte, etc., of his entertainment, in which case, a few short to medium length subjects in Motion Pictures, say from five to a dozen, interspersed throughout the entertainment, is sufficient, but more may as a rule be used to advantage.

Where a number of short films are used, it is customary to cement them together, using a short piece of blank film between each, and by so doing it is necessary to change reels and thread the machine but once for several hundred or even a thousand feet of film.

For the Vaudeville Theatre, Summer Parks and fairs, and in theatres, or store rooms, the requirements are usually different, in that, as a rule, from five hundred to a thousand feet are used at each entertainment.

The lengths of films as given by the film manufacturers are not intended to be exact, but are only approximate, and the price quoted is for the subject. As a rule, however, the variation is very slight, and is of no practical importance. The later subjects usually run closer to the estimated length than the older ones.

EDUCATED CHIMPANZEE. (G) This chimpanzee was brought here from Western Africa, and is the most unlike animal of the ape family. In disposition it is lively and intelligent, and has been considered as the missing link. The picture starts in with the chimpanzee ringing a call bell for something to eat, and then in the act of eating, next changing to an Irishman smoking a pipe, then taking a drink from a bottle, after which Carrie Nation and her little hatchet is portrayed to perfection; he then represents an Irish sportsman, and is without doubt one of the most expert typewriters in the country. Length, 350 Feet. (M) Price, $38.50

Last night I lay a sleeping,
There came a dream so fair;
I stood in old Jerusalem
Beside the Temple there;
I heard the children singing,
And ever as they sang
Methought the voice of Angels
From heav'n in answer rang;
Methought the voice of Angels
From heav'n in answer rang!

Jerusalem, Jerusalem,
Lift up your gates and sing,
Hosanna in the highest,
Hosanna to your King!

And then methought my dream
Was changed,
The streets no longer rang;
Hush'd were the glad Hosannas
The little children sang.
The sun grew dark with mystery,
The moon was cold and chill,
As the shadow of a cross arose,
Upon a lonely hill,
Upon a lonely hill.

Jerusalem, Jerusalem,
Hark! how the Angels sing,
Hosanna in the highest,
Hosanna to your King!

Religious.

Films of the Passion Play, or Life of Christ.

Moving Pictures of the Scenes and Incidents in the Life of our Lord, Jesus Christ.

The Passion Play has become so well known as a reproduction of the life of Christ, and has taken such a prominent place for the education and entertainment of the public, that its value from that standpoint cannot be compared with any other motion picture film that has ever been produced. Several attempts have been made to render a satisfactory reproduction of this sacred drama, but with most of them numerous inaccuracies and lack of dignity subjects them to more or less criticism which detracts much from their value, and is a source of considerable annoyance, both to the audience and the lecturer.

We have selected the only set that we believe to be entirely satisfactory, and are able to submit a complete list covering the entire series of Passion Play films. This reproduction is based on strictly authentic sources, showing the birth, life, sufferings and death of the "Savior." The parts taken by the disciples, the soldiers, and the multitudes, are exceedingly well portrayed.

Without doubt these films represent the highest point of art in photography and the finest ever placed on the market.

To those who are not prepared to purchase the complete set of films, we can furnish as many as they want, as all subjects are sold separately.

Any of the Passion Play Films can be had in 50-foot lengths.

Suddenly a quarrel arises, and one of them attacks another with a chair, and is shot down by a revolver in the hands of his friend. The others leave the room, and the murderer is left alone with his victim. Filled with remorse at his rash act, he seizes a decanter of whisky, and after drinking deeply, conceals the body under a lounge and then, exhausted, throws himself upon the lounge and falls asleep. During his sleep, he dreams the whole scene over again, and the dream is shown with marvelous ingenuity in a smaller moving picture on the wall over his head. Awakening suddenly he draws the body from its place of concealment, and hides it in the garden. He is then shown asleep again, when he has another dream, showing the supposed corpse coming to life in the garden. He jumps from the couch, and is delighted to find his friend only stunned, and helps him into the house. A thrilling picture carrying a fine moral lesson. Length 255 feet. Class B. Price $30.60

A bottle on the table changes into a little black dog, which springs to the floor as he reaches to take a drink; he rings for the chambermaid, but immediately kicks her out. She returns reinforced with the landlord and the bell boy. All four now engage in a most furious fight, in which bedclothes, chairs, water pitcher, etc., takes an active part. The drummer wraps a towel around his head, and pouring the contents of the ice water pitcher upon it, wearily lies down again. After seeing the picture it is easy to see why we give it the title, "Such a Headache." Code word, UNDERSCORE. 130 feet. Price.....$15.60 him. He comes; is induced to go to the gambling house; submits, and is next seen entering the card room. He sits at one of the tables and plays a few hands. He loses all he has. The usurer appears and lends him money on his note. He still loses. After getting rid of all, he jumps madly from the table, and tossing the cards in the air, leaves the place. Scene now changes to the usurer's office, where the gambler enters. The usurer demands payment of the note and the gambler refuses to pay, saying he knew nothing of having given a note to him. At this, the usurer goes to his desk to get the note and the gambler, now seeing his chance to rid himself of the show it. The gambler, now seeing his chance to rid himself of the old money lender, picks up a knife from the table and stepping up behind the old man plunges it into him. He then scatters the papers all over the room in an attempt to find the note, but fails, and before leaving stabs the old fellow again. Next scene shows the murderer at home with his wife and child. Judging from the expressions on their faces, his wife is endeavoring to persuade him to give sons on their faces, his wife is endeavoring to persuade him to give sons on their faces. Suddenly there is a knock at the door, which is answered by the child. The police arrive and arrest the murderer.

A very pathetic scene is here shown as the gambler parts with his little girl. Next the courtroom is seen. The judge and jury are seated in their places, and the prisoner is brought before them. His wife and child appear, and he endeavors to reach them, but is held back, and they are induced to leave the room. The case proceeds; the prisoner is found guilty, and the death sentence imposed. Here he falls in a faint. Next scene shows the murderer in his prison cell. He is dreaming. A vision of his sick wife and child appears to him. He rises, gasps, and falls exhausted to the floor. Next is shown the death chamber. The rope is placed around the prisoner's neck, the trap sprung and a wretched life is ended. This film depicts a very strong moral. Length, 557 feet. THIS NEW HARVARD JR. TALKING MACHINE, LATEST 1907 MODEL, is a strictly high class talking machine, a machine using any standard wax cylinder record. It is a thoroughly well made machine, a machine that cannot be compared in any way with the cheap talking machines which have been so extensively advertised lately. It is a high class machine, made in America, made by expert and experienced workmen in one of the largest and most successful talking machine factories in the world. It is made of good material throughout, fitted with a high class spring motor, with machine cut gears, everything about it strong and substantial.

AUTOMATIC FEED DEVICE

The Harvard Jr. Talking Machine is made with Automatic Feed Device which holds the reproducer firmly in place as it travels along over the surface of the record without being automatically held in place—and in such machines the reproducer is supposed to follow the groove in the record resulting in very poor reproduction, and in a short time damaging the record to such an extent as to render it useless. This trouble is prevented entirely in the Harvard Jr. Talking Machine, as the reproducer is held firmly in place and guided in its course over the record by this new patent feed device, exactly the same as in the highest priced talking machines. The Harvard Jr. Talking Machine is made with heavy, solid and substantial iron base, finished in black enamel and decorated with gold stripes. It is made with standard size tapered mandrel, and will use any standard size wax cylinder record, Columbia, Edison or any other standard make.

THE REPRODUCTION OF THE HUMAN VOICE OR INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC, as rendered by the Harvard Jr. Talking Machine is just exactly as good as with machines costing ten and fifteen times the price we ask for these machines. It is made with a high grade aluminum style D1 reproducer, with mica diaphragm and Brazilian sapphire reproducing point. This machine is fitted with a fine black and gold horn, with large extra wide bell, the body of the horn made from the best sheet steel with fine black enamel finish, the bell made of solid brass, highly polished, giving the machine a most handsome and ornamental appearance. The tone qualities of this large black and gold horn are unexcelled, adding greatly to the volume of sound and naturalness and sweetness of tone.

UNDERSTAND, THE HARVARD JR. TALKING MACHINE IS NOT A TOY; it is a high class talking machine, a machine that cannot be purchased in the ordinary market at less than two or three times our price. It is made of good materials all the way through; it is strong and substantial and easy to operate; made with fine spring motor, automatic feed device, and extra large black and gold horn.
